What we have said so far applies just as much to one denomination as it does to another. But we Methodist Protestants must do something else if we would expand our business. That one thing is to raise more money for Church Extension. There are many places where we could soon have good, strong churches if we just had the money to help the people get started. Several years ago we did give aid to a number of churches and now some of those churches that were aided are among our most progressive churches. But a few years ago our Board of Church Extension borrowed several thousand dollars to help some struggling churches and the depression came along, money became scarce and hard to get hold of, and about all we have been able to do for the past five years is to pay interest on the indebtedness. We can never expand by paying interest. The interest must be paid and so must the principal, but we must get some money over and above these amounts so we can again begin to help the struggling new churches to get on their feet. We think it is safe to say that no denomination ever need expect to grow that cannot help the weak ones. The church that is missionary in spirit lives, and Church Extension or Home Missions is the answer to the missionary spirit.

Bulla Brothers Bereaved

Brothers Earl F. and Jack Bulla, of our church in Asheboro, are bereaved on account of the sudden death of their sister, Mrs. Julian C. Woolard, which occurred at her home in upper Randolph Tuesday morning. Mrs. Woolard was a daughter of Dr. J. D. Bulla of near Trinity, N. C.

"BELSHAZZAR'S FEAST" (Temperance Lesson)

The International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, October 27, 1935

By Rev. J. Elwood Carroll

Scripture Lesson—Daniel 5.

Golden Text—"Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging: and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise."—Prov. 20:1.

Our lesson for today will be understood only as we grasp the meaning of the book of Daniel as a whole. This is no easy book to understand. It was written during days of persecution, therefore is much like "Revelation" in imagery and allegory. Such imagery and allegory was clear to the faithful Jew, but not to the Gentile who desired to persecute him. In the hour of persecution and strict discipline people re-name things, persons, and ideas, so as not to be arrested by the enemy. Many tourists in Italy today never speak of "Mussolini" but call him "Mr. Smith," "Mr. Jones," etc.

The book of Daniel became well known in the second century before Christ, but the story is of a boy who lived in the seventh century. The book could have been written in that earlier period during the captivity of Judah and not widely disseminated until a similar period of persecution during the Age of the Maccabees; or, it could have been written during the latter period about a boy of the earlier period as a great moral challenge to the youth of that second century. Regardless of when it was written, it remains a book born in the days of persecution.

The author told his story to inspire the Jews in their hour of trial and temptation. Daniel, as a mere boy, had been carried from a noble family into captivity in 586. Through his wisdom he had risen to a favored place in the royal government (ch. 2); by his faith in God he had been delivered from the den (ch. 6); and by his sensible diet he had been victorious over strong drink (ch. 1). So in the midst of severe trials and temptations, by his faith and trust in God, he remained true to the God of his fathers.

The incident taken for our lesson—"the handwriting on the wall"—takes us back to the remote ages (538 B. C.), when Babylon fell. Babylon (or Chaldean dynasty) was succeeded by the Persian rulers. The picture of the feast has been frequently the interest of the author or the artist. But the realism of the incident requires neither the color of the brush nor the ink of the pen to make it live as a great truth in teaching the value of temperance.

I. The Revel (vs. 1-4). Daniel was now an old man. He had been brought as a youth from Jerusalem way back in 586 and it is now 538. His captor, King Nebuchadnezzar, has passed away and his fourth successor, Belshazzar, sits upon the throne in Babylon. For more than ten years the king of the Persians, Cyrus, has been battering successfully upon eastern provinces, but now he demands surrender of Babylon.

The reckless character of Belshazzar may be inferred from the fact that the very night on which Cyrus made his attack upon Babylon the former was carousing. At such a perilous time, true men turn to sober thoughts and even prayer to Almighty God. What a knave was Belshazzar! Notice, please, the order of his sins—the drinking of wine, acts of immorality, and finally idolatry! These are all too frequently the three downward steps to utter degeneration. Wine—with its alcoholic content that destroys the most sensitive part of the brain so that the drinker loses self-control, self-respect, and respect for others; women—in the meaning here spoken of as "concubines," are only prostitutes used for the gratification of sex and Belshazzar steps from drunkenness down to licentiousness; and idolatry—the absolute disregard for the true God by calling for the altar vessels stolen from the Temple back in Jerusalem in 597, now to be used as wine jars. What sins! What low state a man can fall once he surrenders to alcoholic drink!

The modern tragedy is that we do not learn. "The world's annual drink-bill," says one writer, "even in hard times, staggers belief. More fearful still are the results of intemperance in debased manhood, degraded womanhood, and profaned religion. Men are made in God's image, and called to be kings that control their animal instincts. But, through intemperance, they lose sceptre and crown. Their thrones totter and fall, while they carouse, and descend to the level of beasts. Every community has its fallen kings, whose character is wrecked, whose home is disrupted, whose business is ruined by strong drink."

II. The Warning (vs. 5-9). Suddenly the sacrilegious revelers at Belshazzar's feast were startled. Right before their drunken eyes a hand wrote some words upon the wall. That sight sobered them. That mystic handwriting has become proverbial to mean doom. It expresses the conviction that divine warnings have been given to evil-doers. It is true that we may not any longer look to the sky for oracles, nor into the vitals of slain animals for messages from God; but we do look at the terrible lessons written across broken lives. The Bible and history are full of such great truths. To the sufferings of life from intemperance, science and industry add their endorsements of God's verdict.

III. The Interpretation (vs. 10-29). The appearance of the hand and its writing turned revelry to fear. "What does this mean?" Long had faithful Daniel been forgotten during the periods of gaiety, but immediately he was remembered and called in to interpret the sign. How true this is of human nature—forget God and forget friends until the hour of need, then we cry for help.

Daniel refused Belshazzar's gifts and proceeded to interpret the sign. He reminded the king of the fall of Nebuchadrezzar due to his folly. "But you, Belshazzar," he said in substance, "have not only forgotten the lesson of Nebuchadrezzar's fall, but to his wanton sacrilege you have added sinful pride. God has written your doom upon the wall."

The mystic words which appeared on the wall are names of coins. "Mene, mene, tekel, upharsin" mean, in the realm of money, "a mina, a shekel, and a half-shekel." But those words used as verbs meant, "Numbered, weighed, and divided." In this latter sense they applied to Belshazzar and referred to his kingdom. It had been numbered—brought to an end, it had been judged and found lacking, and it would be punished by divisions. It is to be divided between the Medes and Persians.

IV. The Doom (vs. 30, 31). The story ends in gloom. Only two verses are required to depict the tragic end. The kingdom falls, the king is slain. Such is the finale to every sinful life that refuses to repent. It is the story of the debauched soul. It is the story of any man who tries to buy the pleasures of this world with the price of his own soul.

Questions for Discussion

1. Do you think we have interpreted aright the depression?
2. Do you see any parallel between Belshazzar's request of advice from Daniel and President Roosevelt's request for the ministers' interpretation of our "signs of the time"?
3. Do you believe Daniel was sufficiently rewarded for his patient waiting before getting an opportunity to speak for God?
4. What do you think would have been the results had Daniel "compromised" the truth in making his interpretation of the handwriting on the wall? Suppose he had told the king that everything was to be all right?
5. Have "the wets" kept their promises about repeal?
6. Can you teach true temperance aside from the issue of liquor control?

A NEW SPIRITUAL AWAKENING NEEDED

One of the great needs of the present time is a new spiritual awakening in our churches. Evangelism is not being stressed as it was some years ago. A new spiritual awakening in our conference would go far toward solving our financial problems. Attendance in our churches has fallen off. People have become careless and indifferent about their spiritual welfare. The Lord's day is being desecrated with baseball and movies. It is the writer's hope that our coming Annual Conference will inaugurate a program of evangelism covering our entire conference, and that group meetings can be held in every district to stimulate interest in this phase of our church work. The committee on evangelism will, perhaps, have some definite plans to present to the conference.

Captain A. M. Rankin in Hospital

Several days ago we had a letter from Mrs. A. M. Rankin telling us that our good friend, Captain A. M. Rankin, was in the Presbyterian hospital in New York City where he had undergone an operation on his eyes in the hope of having his sight restored. Mrs. Rankin stated that it would be at least two weeks before they would know whether the operation was a success or not. She also stated that he was regretting exceedingly his inability to attend the approaching session of our annual conference. If he could have gone to this conference it would have made his 37th to attend either as a delegate or a visitor. For a long period of years Captain Rankin, whose home is High Point, has been one of our outstanding laymen, and we are sure that his many friends will remember him while he is in the hospital. His address is: Mr. A. M. Rankin, Presbyterian Hospital, 635 West 165th St., New York, N. Y.

McCULLOCH MEMORIAL FUND

Honor Roll

73. Friendship, Shiloh
74. Shiloh, Shiloh

"WHERE ARE THE NINE?"

There must have been in the voice of Jesus something of the disappointment that was in his heart, when, of the ten lepers whom he cleansed, only one returned to give thanks. Seventy-four churches have paid the McCulloch Memorial Fund apportionment in full. Where are the one hundred and fifty-eight that haven't paid it? Are the 78 more grateful for what Dr. McCulloch did, are they more responsive to an obligation, than the 158? Well, I don't know. All I do know is, 74 churches have met this obligation in full. Some others have paid a little, others are almost out. Perhaps these ought to be omitted from the 158, since they have a measure, although not a full measure, of gratitude and obligation. Well, I'm not going to despair of them, or, for that matter, of the others. Maybe, in time, they will all return.

Congratulations and thanks to the good women on the Shiloh charge, who, I understand, voted to put some money they had left over on the McCulloch fund so their charge could be on the Honor Roll. Good for these Marthas or Lydias, or whatever their names may be in the catalog of the saints. Hope there are some more like them in some of the other churches.

The fund stands to date as follows:

Previously reported	$1,941.89
Shiloh, Shiloh (additional)	39.75
Friendship, Shiloh (additional)	14.00
Total to date	$1,995.64

I lack just $4.36 of having received $2,000. I had hoped some church would send me that amount, or more, today, so I could report at least $2,000 raised. But it didn't come. Please send it along next week and let us get just as much of this in hand before Conference as possible.

Calvary Church and the Editorship of the Herald

On a recent Sunday morning the official members of Calvary church and any others who were interested were asked to remain in order to determine the church's attitude toward continuing the plan of letting Calvary's pastor edit the HERALD in case the annual conference should find it necessary to ask for this to be done. Those present, with the exception of one who asked to be excused from voting, voted to permit their pastor to give his time to this work. In making this statement the present editor is not committing himself as to whether he would be willing to do the work or not, but the statement is made to pay tribute to a church that appreciates the HERALD to that extent that it is willing for its pastor to give his time to this work.

LIQUOR LAWS DISAPPOINTING

A few short months ago the wets in North Carolina were arguing that if the state would repeal its prohibition laws and allow liquor to be sold legally, the bootlegger would be forced out of business and there would be far less liquor used than under prohibition. Sixteen counties in the eastern part of the state asked the last legislature to repeal the prohibition laws so far as they applied to them and allow them to sell liquor at certain hours during the day and under certain prescribed regulations. The request was granted, and for some weeks, judging by the reports in the papers, it was a perfect paradise in these counties. But now it seems that things are not going so well. Last week that eagle-eyed reporter, W. T. Bost, writing to the Greensboro News from Raleigh, intimates that the paradise has disappeared and in its place something has come that is worse than what the people formerly had. Read what Mr. Bost has to say in the article, which follows:

Liquor Law Repeal by State Assembly Being Predicted

North Carolina's reputed mandatory session of the general assembly, forced by social security national legislation and by a badly scrambled liquor situation, may come, but good drys are beginning to believe that if there is a call for liquor treatment the occasion will be used to repeal what the state now has.

There is no hiding the fact that the wets are getting into a mess. They had 30 to 90 days of fine luck. The drunks appeared to be staying off the streets and outside their automobiles. So suspiciously good was the behavior of the counties in which liquor is being sold that the drys said the wets were being good for pure meanness. It amused the wets very much, this backhanded boost to the behavior of the counties.

GOOD FOR SHORT TIME

Evidently that conduct was good for these two-three months, but the police and Superior court records of late do not support the hope. Craven, Nash, Wilson, Lenoir and New Hanover seemed to be getting along grandly. Even Pasquotank did so well that good Herbert Steele, while lamenting the liquor stores, saw no reproach as expressed in drinking. There were some blind-tigers who patronized the liquor store and sold their product at higher prices after regular selling hours had ended.

That bothered Webb Williams, daddy of the Pasquotank bill, which is the statute for 16 other counties.

The wets have plausible retorts to the drys. It is a very well known fact that the drinking in dry counties has increased and the police records show big additions to their already imposing list of drunks and disorderlies. In some counties protracted terms of Superior court have resulted in delayed dockets and piled up offenses. But the drys do not have to analyze the figures. They will let the wets do that. The dry thesis is that legal selling is an abomination and that making liquor semi-respectable enlarges rather than diminishes the evil.

DRYS GET PUBLICITY

The drys are getting a lot of fine publicity now. Tobacco has put money in the east and increased the liquor trade. The stores have done well in profits, the one attractive feature of them now. But the drys not only charge all the drunks in the wet counties to the liquor stores, but the drunks in the dry areas are also imposed upon these stores. The promised policing does not seem to be working out. The wets are not transporting the liquor on the inside of them with becoming grace. The half repeal of the Turlington act has not improved things this fall, the drys say.

So, if there is a special session the drys believe the state would be more inclined to repeal what is now on the books than to add any dry territory to the wet. It is known that Governor Ehringhaus was opposed to these local acts and that he very greatly doubts their constitutionality. He never has said so publicly. How he would vote nobody knows. But there is an increasing belief that the courts will uphold the legislation.

Meanwhile, the wet counties can become a very great affront to the state by showing the impossibility of controlling liquor by legal selling. That is exactly what the drys believe and on that rock they take their stand. They always have said that things will happen exactly as they have begun to happen recently.

The controllers undoubtedly can minimize the effects of the bad propaganda going out from these counties, but it is not going to be anybody's pleasant job to do that explaining. The 16 counties which have undertaken to set up a system of control will be in a bad way when it develops that they cannot control.

Many converts to the county stores have been made, some of them among prominent North Carolinians. There are members of the judiciary who have had to change their minds on the subject. The number of modernists who will praise the prohibition regime has suffered a terrible slump, but the counties show signs of being unable to control and control was what they were reputed to have.

Methodist Protestants at C. E. Meeting

It looked somewhat like a Methodist Protestant convention at the meeting of the Central District of Christian Endeavor held at Mt. Pleasant church in Guilford county last Sunday afternoon. Rev. J. W. Braxton, the pastor of the church, led in prayer. The scripture was read by an Intermediate (we did not get her name) from Lebanon church in High Point. Rev. Clay Madison, the pastor of our First church at High Point, led the congregational singing. The Young People's Choir from West End church, Greensboro, sang several numbers. A children's quartet from First church, High Point, sang a selection. Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, the pastor of Grace church in Greensboro, spoke in one of the group conferences, while Mrs. Glenn Lambert, of Lebanon church, High Point, who is the state president of Christian Endeavor, addressed the assembly. The Welch Memorial Methodist Protestant society of High Point carried off the attendance honors, while the First church at High Point was given one dollar for having the second best attendance record. All of this took place while we were present. But we could not remain until the finish and we do not know what took place after we left.

Mrs. Surratt Soon to Leave Hospital

We are informed that Mrs. H. F. Surratt, wife of the pastor of the Community church, Thomasville, who has been in St. Elizabeth Hospital in Richmond, Va., for the past three weeks, is improving, and that she hopes to return home the last of this week. We trust she may be completely restored soon.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Denton Charge, Rev. J. T. Bowman, Pastor

I held the fourth quarterly conference of this charge October 15. The session was held in the Denton church. There was a goodly number of the officials present and a most harmonious session was held. The salary for next year was increased $100; the delegate was instructed for the return of the present pastor, and Denton and Canaan will go on the Annual Conference honor roll as paying all these claims with pastor's salary in full. Good for Denton.

Guilford Charge, Rev. T. A. Williams, Pastor

The fourth quarterly conference was held at Hickory Grove church October 19. The conference voted to increase pastor's salary for next year $50; instructed delegate for return of present pastor. Hickory Grove paid pastor in full to date, also all Annual Conference claims. Fairfield had paid pastor in full for year and had paid some of the A. C. claims. All churches expected to pay pastor in full and conference claims.

What Others Say

Bro. Easter reports that Brown Summit has paid amount accepted for W. S. and has had more than a 10 per cent net gain in membership and paid the A. C. claims in full.

Bro. F. R. Love reports that all claims on Liberty charge will be met in full this year. Hurrah for Liberty.

Bro. J. P. Pegg reports all churches paid all A. C. claims; Fairview and Haw River paid pastor in full.

The Honor Rolls

The reports to Dr. Bates should give all the churches paying all claims. This list will doubtless be used in making up the completed list for the Journal. I want you to report to me the churches which have paid these claims that I may use the information in my report to the Annual Conference; so please be specific, giving the churches and items paid in full.

There Still May Be Time

After you read this there still will be two Sundays and some 10 or 12 days to work in. In these days under high pressure you can accomplish a great deal. If pastor and people will give themselves zealously and faithfully to the task, they will have much to reward them for their labors in results, because some of our people are trained to do this very thing. They wait until a few days before the pastor starts to the Annual Conference, then they take to the work as if to the manner born and behold how much they do in so short a time. So, beloved, if you are yet in the "red," spare no pains, rest not, until you have the funds necessary to put your churches on the conference honor rolls.

Get Ready for Conference

In the mind of some all the Annual Conference meets for is to assign pastors to churches. They go there with that in mind. If a delegate, they are much interested in this phase of the work until they get what they went for, then they return home. So far as they are concerned, conference is over. They will have their same preacher, or a new preacher next year. The real purpose of the conference, to hear reports, to consider them and find better methods, better ways of carrying the work forward, is left to those who remain. Those who have such pressing business back home have but little, if any, share in this part of the work. And yet this is most vital to the interest, to the progress, of the kingdom. So, beloved, when you pack your suitcase, put in enough collars, shirts, etc., to last until Monday, and come to stay with us. Have a share in what is done for the extension of the Master's kingdom and you will think more of the conference, think more of the church, and think more of yourself for having done it.

A conference will be "good" or "poor" according to us. We may have done well our part during the year; in fact, the reports may be above the average, the attendance good, etc., and yet the spirit of those who direct its activities or participate in the discussions may be such as to destroy its spiritual value. Really—make us wish we had not gone to it. We want to escape this. We CAN escape it, too. The door of escape is offered through each of us. If we shall have due consideration for all, if we shall be courteous to every one, if we shall faithfully perform our tasks while there, then we surely will have a good conference. It will be good even though the reports be a little below par. I am greatly concerned that we shall make it the BEST of all conferences. WE CAN DO IT. So come along with that determination and God will enable us to do that very thing.

Plan of Appointments

Paul Hine in Arizona

Word comes to us that Brother Paul Hine, son of Mrs. C. L. Hine, of the Old Town community in Forsyth county and the late Mr. Hine, has been removed from the Forsyth County Sanatorium to the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hospital, Tucson, Arizona. We are glad to know that the Herald is to follow him there, and here's hoping he is going to be restored to health again.

Herbert Coe Visits Parents

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Coe, of Steubenville, Ohio, recently visited Mr. Coe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Coe, of Calvary church in Greensboro. All of the Coe boys have been home this summer except J. C., Jr., who lives in California.

COULD THIS BE TRUE?

Some time ago there was a minister of another denomination who spent quite a lot of time in the home of a member of another denomination from his own, and there was quite an attachment formed that caused the man of the house to follow that minister, in his interest, to another field where he had been placed by the authorities of his church.

Just six months after this young man was sent to a field that was new and where there was a big church debt, considered hard. This layman friend complained about this removal when the congregation wanted the young man to stay. The authorities placed an older man who had served the church well and long in this easier field. This layman said something like this: "I just don't like this kind of authority that picks a fellow up and places him in a hard place and puts an old man in the good place when the folks wanted the young man."

Of course they wanted the young man, they always do whether they know what they need or not, or at least in most cases this is the way the call is made.

That church that has made a practice of taking care of its men who have borne the burden and heat of the day has become a great church. I have been made to wonder this way: Does this have any connection with this scripture, "Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm"? Have we prospered as much as we might had we had more consideration for those who have accomplished so much for the Kingdom? Have we always treated our men, I mean our ministers, as we should have done? Have not works suffered because pastoral supply sometimes, both young and old, have been mistreated to humor the whims of some who cared nothing for the privations and discomforts they have had to endure, just so they got what they wanted, whether it was what was needed or not?

Now I have told this incident to lead up to a thing that needs to be said about our superannuates. And this is one thing that I would like to see undertaken at our Annual Conference: That is, a plan by which we may raise a larger fund for our superannuates.

I am making this suggestion that the committee who has this in charge may ask for a larger appropriation for our superannuates. These men, many of them, have not taken the time from their work to accumulate property, but have given their best to the work, and they certainly deserve the best that it is possible for the church to give.

Someone may say, "Let's wait till we see what the union question will amount to before we make any changes." We have waited on this question to our hurt in too many instances already. A thing that needs to be done should not be contingent upon what we or others do when it is a plain duty. I have always contended that even if union comes we could go into it with higher heads and without any feeling of compromise if we do our best for the interests of the Kingdom first.

This is one thing that I would like to see our Annual Conference do. Take a forward step towards taking care of the men who need our help today. For had it not been for their work, no one would care enough for us to even flirt with us, much less want a union that will mean the furtherance of Christ's cause in the world. N. G. Bethea.

WHISKY AT THE STEERING WHEEL

Severe as the drunken-driver problem was during prohibition, it has become doubly severe now. The best statistics obtainable indicate that 5 to 10 per cent of both drivers and pedestrians involved in traffic accidents are under the influence of liquor.

These statistics understate matters, since a multitude of accidents occur in which drinking is a factor but is not reported for one reason or another. A short time ago a thorough survey was made of 119 accidents involving 116 injuries and fatalities—and it showed that in 60 per cent of the accidents alcohol was involved.

Here is a problem that involves the health, life and property of every citizen. It is a problem that must be fought by us all, drys and wets alike. Under the best conditions, highways and streets are potentially dangerous—and they become slaughter houses when whisky takes the steering wheel.—Kentucky Citizen.

FACULTY MEETING

By mutual consent of several members of the faculty who were in the Greensboro meeting Monday, October 21, it was agreed to call the meeting for Tuesday, November 5, at 2 p. m. instead of 10 a. m. as last year. The main reason for this is that the distance would keep some of our members from reaching there on time.

So all who have any business with the conference faculty are hereby notified that this meeting will be in the Henderson Methodist Protestant church at the time stated above. All members of the faculty are required to be present unless providentially hindered.

Dr. and Mrs. Spahr Return Home

Dr. S. K. Spahr, the pastor emeritus of Grace church, Greensboro, and Mrs. Spahr have recently returned from their annual pilgrimage to Pennsylvania. Dr. Spahr is a member of the Pittsburgh Annual Conference, even though he has lived in North Carolina for several years. He reports that during the sessions of the Pittsburgh Conference all referencese to the proposed union of the Methodist Protestant church, the M. E. Church, South, and the M. E. church were enthusiastically applauded.

Rev. W. M. Loy in Hospital

Word reaches us that Rev. W. M. Loy, the pastor of Saxapahaw charge, was operated on for appendicitis last Friday at Duke University hospital in Durham. Our latest information is that he is doing nicely and will be able to return home the last of this week. His home address is Burlington, R. F. D. 1.

OUR STORY PAGE

A TRUTHFUL AND TOUCHING INCIDENT

In traveling, we often meet persons of different nationalities and languages. We also meet with incidents of various character, some sorrowful and others joyful and instructive. One of the latter character I witnessed recently while traveling upon the cars. The train was going west, and the time was evening. At a station, a little girl about eight years old came abroad, carrying a little budget under her arm. She came into the car and deliberately took a seat. She then commenced an eager scrutiny of faces, but all were strangers to her. She appeared weary, and placing her budget for a pillow, she prepared to try to secure a little sleep. Soon the conductor came along, collecting tickets and fares. Observing him, she asked if she might lie there. The gentlemanly conductor replied she might, and then kindly asked her for her ticket. She informed him that she had none, when the following conversation ensued:

Said the conductor: "Where are you going?"

She answered: "I am going to Heaven."

He asked again: "Who pays your fare?"

She then said: "Mister, does this railroad lead to Heaven, and does Jesus travel on it?"

He answered: "I think not. Why did you think so?"

"Why, sir, before my mamma died, she used to sing to me of a Heavenly railroad, and you looked so nice and kind I thought this was the road. My mother used to sing of Jesus and the Heavenly railway, and that He paid the fare for everybody, and that the train stopped at every station to take people on board; but my mamma don't sing to me any more. Nobody sings to me now, and I thought I'd take cars and go to mamma. Mister, do you sing to your little girl about the railroad that goes to Heaven? You have a little girl, haven't you?"

He replied, weeping, "No, my little dear, I have no little girl now. I had one once, but she died some time ago, and went to Heaven."

Again, she asked: "Did she go over this railroad; and are you going to see her now?"

By this time, all the persons in the coach were upon their feet, and most of them were weeping. An attempt to describe what I witnessed is almost futile. Some said, "God bless the little girl." Hearing some one say that she was an angel, the little girl earnestly replied, "Yes, my mamma used to say I would be an angel sometime."

Addressing herself once more to the conductor, she asked him:

"Do you love Jesus? I do, and if you love Him He will let you ride to Heaven on this railroad. I am going there, and I wish you would go with me. I know Jesus will let me into Heaven when I get there, and He will let you in too, and everybody that will ride on His railroad—yes, all these people. Would you like to see Heaven, and Jesus, and your little girl?"

These words, so innocently and pathetically uttered, brought a great gush of tears from all eyes, but most profusely from the eyes of the conductor. Some who were traveling on our Heavenly railroad shouted aloud for joy. She now asked the conductor: "Mister, may I lie here until we get to Heaven?"

He answered: "Yes, dear, yes."

She then asked: "Will you wake me up then, so that I may see my mamma, your little girl, and Jesus? For I do want to see them all."

The answer came in broken accents, but in words very tenderly spoken: "Yes, dear angel, yes."

"God bless you!" "Amen!" was sobbed by more than a score of voices.

Turning her eyes upon the conductor, she interrogated him: "What shall I tell your little girl when I see her? Shall I say to her that I saw her papa on Jesus' railroad? Shall I?"

This brought a fresh flood of tears from all present; and the conductor knelt by her side, and, embracing her, wept the reply he could not utter.

At this junction the brakeman called out.

The conductor arose, and requested him to attend to his (the conductor's) duty at the station for he was engaged. That was a precious place. I thank God that I was a witness to this scene, but I was sorry that at this point I was obliged to leave the train.

We learn from this incident that even out of the mouths of babes God hath ordained strength; and that we ought to be willing to represent the cause of our blessed Jesus, even in a railroad coach.

A few months after the above occurrence I received the following from the conductor:

Rev. ——: I wish to relieve my heart by writing to you, and saying to you that angel visit on the cars was a blessing to me, although I did not realize it in its fullness until some hours later. But blessed be the Redeemer, I know I am His, and He is mine. I no longer wonder why Christians are happy. Oh, my joy, my joy! I had purposed adopting her in place of my little daughter, who is now with the Lord. With this intention, I took her to —C - B., on my return trip to S - N, where she left the cars. In consultation with my wife in regard to adopting her, she replied, "Yes, certainly, and immediately, too, for there is a Divine Providence in this." "Oh," said she, "I never could refuse to take under my charge the instrument of my husband's salvation." I made inquiry for the child at S - N, and learned that in three days after her return she died suddenly, without any apparent cause, and her spirit had gone to dwell with the Lord. I was sorry to hear of her death, but my sorrow was turned into joy when I think that I too am on the Heavenly railway. Oh, sir, methinks I see my daughter near the Redeemer. I think I hear her sing, "I'm safe at Home, and papa and mamma are coming." And I find myself sending back the reply, "Yes, my darling, we are coming, and will soon be there."

Oh, by dear sir, I am glad that I ever formed your acquaintance; may the blessings of the great God rest upon you.—A Reprint from a Tract a Half Century Ago.

CONFERENCE COUNCIL OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

T. J. WHITEHEAD, President
Burlington, N. C., R. 4

THE CONFERENCE COUNCIL PROGRAM AT CONFERENCE

The Conference Council of Religious Education will have its program on Sunday night, November 10, at Annual Conference in Henderson this year. Music is to be furnished by young people's choirs in that section under the supervision of Rev. E. Lester Ballard, director of church music for the Conference Council. Dr. H. Shelton Smith will deliver the address. At one time Dr. Smith was connected with the International Council of Religious Education. Later he was a teacher in Yale Divinity School. At the present time he is head of the Department of Religious Education in the School of Religion at Duke University.

Leaders in young people's activities, Sunday school teachers and superintendents, and church leaders are urged to attend this program. We are expecting it to prove a real inspiration.

Brother Pastor, please do not forget the apportionment for the Conference Council of Religious Education.

T. J. WHITEHEAD,
President of the Conference Council.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

"WHAT CHRIST MEANS TO ME"

Phil. 3:7-11

Topic for November 3

By E. LESTER BALLARD

Preparation

This is the monthly consecration meeting Officers, leader, participants should be urged to prepare for it with daily prayer during the week previous, and a pre-prayer service before the meeting.

Hardly any topic could lend itself so well as this for a real testimony meeting. Let the leader have the meeting well planned but with only a brief message for himself—a personal testimony. He may begin the series of testimonies or close them. In the latter case he should have a dependable devout member to start. Insist that they be brief, earnest and to the point, especially if the society is large, and quite a number usually respond.

Some, not given to extemporaneous talks. may be requested to find a poem, a quotation, or a hymn that expresses their experience, and at a suitable time present the poem or quotation or call for the hymn to be sung. Try not, however, to permit those whose personal testimonies would be more effective to read, when they ought to talk.

Program

A suggestive program follows. Since all of us do not use the same hymn book, it is probably wise to give several hymns from which to select.

Quiet music.

Declaration of Faith: The Apostles' Creed. through the phrase "from thence to judge the quick and the dead."

Prayer for strengthening of belief in Christ.

Hymn: "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," "O Could I Speak the Matchless Worth," "Shepherd of Tender Youth."

Scripture: Phil. 3:7-11.

Silent prayer, while hymn, "I Love to Tell the Story" or "I Need Thee Every Hour" or "We May Not Climb the Heavenly Steeps," is being played.

Leader's remarks: A personal testimony or the development of one of the paragraphs under Participation (below).

Hymn: One of those above not used.

Participation: Personal testimonies, or as follows:

1. Jesus, My Leader. Hymn: "Anywhere With Jesus," "Down in the Valley," "He Leadeth Me."
2. Jesus, My Companion. Hymn: "I've Found a Friend," "Jesus Is All the World to Me," "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee."
3. Jesus, My Strength. Hymn: "A Chargo to Keep I Have," "I Would Be True," "O Jesus, I Have Promised."
4. Jesus, My Example. Hymn: "I Would Be Like Jesus," "More Like the Master," "My Dear Redeemer and My Lord."
5. Jesus, My Saviour. Hymn: "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," "Saviour, Thy Dying Love."

Special music: Several of the above hymns are suitable for solos, duets or quartets.

Sentence prayers.

Summarizing remarks by pastor, older Endeavorer, or church official.

Hymn: One of the above not used.

Benediction: Psalm 19:14.

Participation

1. Jesus, My Leader. No leader, however great, has ever excelled—nay, has ever equalled—my Christ. When on earth, He was the greatest leader. Since reigning on high He is the greatest lealer. Religious leaders have come and gone, but my Christ abides. The keen intellect and sensitive spirit of the Jewish scholar, Gamaliel, apprehended it (Read Acts 5:34-39.) He has been, is, and will be my Leader.

2. Jesus, My Companion. Many times in life I feel the need of a closer companion than even my parents, my favorite sister or brother, my best friend. They are of inestimable blessing to me, but my soul has craved a divine companion, and I have found him in Christ. He is the "On-going Companion." As He walked with and inspired the two disciples, as they trudged their weary way to Emmaus (Luke 24:13-35), so He "walks with me, and He talks with me, and He tells me I am His own."

3. Jesus, My Strength. O how weak I am! Not necessarily in physical ability; not particularly in mental attainment; but in power to do effectively His work. Day by day I am learning more convincingly that it is "not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of hosts. (Zech. 4:6b). Furthermore I have learned that "when I am weak, then am I strong" (II Cor. 12:10b); for in my weakness I depend upon His strength. "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." Phil. 4:13.)

4. Jesus, My Example. Many who will not accept Christ as the world's Redeemer will acknowledge Him to be a good and wise man. As such, I can accept Him as my great Example. He was one person who followed his own teachings. He not only lived what is commonly called the good life, meaning self-restraint from evil, but He "went about doing good." (Acts 10:38.) He loved righteousness. but hated evil. He loved the sinner for his soul's sake. He loved His enemies, and prayed for them in His dying hour. (Luke 23:34). His whole life was exemplary. I can make him my Hero, my Captain, my Example, through all of my life.

5. Jesus, My Saviour. First of all, most of all, and last of all, Jesus is my Saviour! I have been reared in Sunday school and church, and have not fallen into the mire of sin as some unfortunates have; so He has saved me from sin. Or, since I have yielded to the enticements of the enemy of my soul. and have sincerely repented, He has saved me out of my sins. Any way it is taken, He is my Saviour. That means that salvation is mine for time and eternity, since I have surrendered the keeping of my soul to Him. (II Tim. 1:12b). "I will never forsake him. who has never and will never forsake his own."

MEN AND MISSIONS SUNDAY

November 17, 1935

Theme: Jesus Christ and the World Today.

The Laymen's Missionary Movement was launched November 15, 1906, and the observance of Men and Missions Sunday was introduced on the 25th anniversary of that day. The fifth annual observance of Men and Missions Sunday will occur on November 17, 1935. when the thought of churchmen everywhere will be focused upon their missionary obligations. The Laymen's Missionary Movement seeks by this observance and its other activities to enlist the interest of men in the missionary work of the churches to which they belong.

This day offers a real opportunity on the part of every pastor of the Methodist Protestant church to mobilize the men of his church to consider seriously their part in bringing Christ to the world.

Programs may be secured from The Laymen's Missionary Movement, 19 LaSalle Street, Chicago, Illinois, or 156 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Price $.05 each; $2.50 per 100, or $7.70 per 1,000.

FROM SECRETARY OF STEWARDSHIP AND BENEVOLENCES

Wish it were possible for every Auxiliary to send at least three or four pairs of pillow cases and as many aprons to Pine Ridge for the new store. Have an all-day sewing bee. Take Father George unbleached muslin, trim with print of various colors, and get them to Pine Ridge before Thanksgiving.

The first of the year I have another project for Pine Ridge.

Get up your packages of used clothing, those who have not done so, for this stewardship of service.

DR. GLASCOCK,
Sec. of Stewardship and Benevolences.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Moriah, 3 waists, 2 skirts, and 1 pair pants. Circle No. 3, Woman's Auxiliary, Grace church, 1 bunch of bananas for lunches. The Woman's Auxiliary, Community church, Thomasville, cakes for lunches, and several articles of clothing. A Friend left about a peck of bulbs on the porch.

Clothing for Boys

Mr. Britt Armfield, of High Point and New York, came along on Saturday and took one of our boys uptown and dressed him out splendidly for the winter. A few mothers are clothing their boys, and a few Sunday school classes are clothing boys. But we need about 38 or 40 men, or men's classes, to do as Mr. Armfield did. Or better still, send us about $10 to clothe a boy for the winter. In addition to what they have, we can get a boy a suit, some shirts, some shoes and other articles for about $10 per boy, and there are still about 40 unprovided for.

Produce

We have a call to send at once for eight dozen half-gallon cans filled with fruits and vegetables, and other produce. We know of several other donations of produce being rounded up.

We were told this morning that the Mills Home had to build more room to put the corn and other produce the Baptist people are bringing in. Methodist Protestant corn and wheat and other produce will help to feed Methodist Protestant children just as well as Baptist corn and other produce will feed Baptist children. Get it together and let us know when and where. Thank you and God bless you.

Yours in His blessed service,

A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

A DELAYED WORD OF APPRECIATION

The folks in the mountains were so kind to us during our vacation, and we have delayed saying anything about it so long we fear they think all has been forgotten. But not so.

On arriving in Asheville we found a restful place in the home of Mrs. Jarvis Eller, Bro. Minnis having made the arrangements before our arrival. Here we were quartered during the entire stay. And let me say this, that no bunch of people were ever treated more royally than we were. Mrs. Eller made us feel at home from the start. We were supposed to do our own cooking, etc., but she looked after us so carefully and did so many things for us that we felt like we were being entertained rather than taking care of ourselves.

Our first experience of any note publicly was at the Eller reunion on the third Sunday morning in August, Clark's Chapel. The writer had the privilege of preaching to these folks at 11 o'clock and enjoying with them a bountiful repast at noon. This included his family, wife and daughter, Mrs. Wilcox, Miss Blanche Hardee, of Enfield, and Miss Edna Hughes, Ware Shoals, S. C.

Anyone who has ever attended one of these reunions knows something about Uncle Lucius Eller and his way of making you feel at home. Well, it seems like it makes no difference with him, if they go with me they are a part of it. I can hardly understand why I have been adopted into this Eller family, but somehow for a number of years I have had this opportunity of joining in with them in this festive occasion. And this year, while many were kept away on account of the infantile paralysis scare, seemed to me I enjoyed it more than ever.

Uncle Lucius is the life of the occasion, and we are hoping and praying that he may be spared to enjoy many more of these days with his kindred and friends. My company of vacationists came away singing his praises for the very generous way he treated them.

The third Sunday night the special meeting began in Asheville. The weather man seemed to be against us, for it rained every night that week. But the faithful ones were there, and while there were only three converts during the meeting, there was a fine spirit all the way through. And one Sunday morning, the last Sunday of the meeting, one of the best services it has been my privilege to be in for some time.

Bro. Minnis, that prince of a man, worked heroically all the way through, and I am sure that his people, who are appreciative, realize that in him they have one of the best of men and one who is really interested in the spiritual welfare of his flock. He and his good wife are putting their best into the church there.

Then we had the privilege of being associated with that tireless Good Samaritan and his good wife, Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Williams, in their home, at meals, in the church services, at Casto's "preacher picnic," everywhere to be with them was a benediction. Always look forward to seeing you good folks when we go on our vacation.

Then Casto and Bates. They certainly do their part to help a fellow feel at home when he is around Weaverville. In fact we have gotten so accustomed to being up there in the summer it would hardly seem that we had had our refreshing did we not have the opportunity of seeing these men and their wives. I came very near saying, but we all know about Casto. Ha! And "Sunshine" Altman, God bless him.

We wish we could mention all the good things that were said to us and the many favors shown us by all these good people, some of whose names we would like to mention but will not for lack of space; but suffice to say this: God bless you every one, for while the writer worked through his vacation it was one of the most enjoyable and never-to-be-forgotten experiences that refreshed in more ways than one.

N. G. BETHEA.

Dear Friends of the Children's Home:

Dr. and Mrs. Dixon are counting on you to send in all the coupons you possibly can by the end of this year. Coupons from Octagon soap chips, Octagon cleanser, Octagon toilet soap, Octagon floating soap, also Kirkman's floating soap, granulated soap, soap chips, and cleanser have double value until December 31. If you get up your quota, the Home will get a large amount of cash which it needs very, very badly.

At this time I want to thank each and every one of you who helped with the 25th anniversary celebration. And please keep before the members of your Sunday school and church that one Sunday in each month is Children's Home Sunday and to give freely to this cause on that particular day.

Any time you folks can give something to the Home, please notify the secretary of Children's Home in your church. She will be responsible for collecting your gifts and getting them to the Home. Perhaps you can give cakes, cookies, fruits, or sandwich spread for the school lunches, potatoes, peanuts, molasses, canned fruit, canned vegetables, old magazines, clothing, and linens.

Now, please do your best in getting up the coupons.

Thanking you for anything you do to help along this line, I am

Most sincerely yours,

LELA MAUDE BOYLES.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

First Church, Charlotte.—The Young People's Fellowship Club of the First Methodist Protestant church, Charlotte, N. C., was organized on August 18, 1935, and the following officers were appointed and installed on that date: Miss Sally Hollifield, president; Mr. Lewis Garmon, vice president; Mrs. Iberia Womack, secretary; Mrs. Gladys Croft, treasurer; Miss Mary Sykes, pianist.

The zeal of the club members in our activities is shown by full attendance and growing membership. Since the date the club was organized we have had approximately 30 new members to be accepted into the club.

The Fellowship Club creed appeals to the new members and through their example in adhering to the creed it is hoped that many more young people will wish to join the club

That our meetings are inspirational is evidenced by the fact that each member takes part in the prayers and testimonials in our regular meetings. Much interest is also shown by the club members in our intermittent meetings when the business of the club is conferred upon.

Each member is expected to further the work of the club in interesting other persons in the salvation of their souls. A member cannot do too much for the glory of God. We are working for Him, but we can never do enough for Him who died on the cross to save us from sin. What we do is so little. Jesus paid it all. All to Him we owe.

Pinnacle-Mt. Zion Charge.—The fourth Sunday in September we began our revival services at Pinnacle church with home-coming day. There were many friends and kindred from a distance to worship with us for the day. The pastor preached at the 11 o'clock hour. Dinner served picnic style. In the afternoon there were several short talks interspersed with good music. Rev. A. L. Hunter had charge of the music program and was master of ceremonies. Bro. Hunter still retains his ability to direct and lead a choir with great effect.

Rev. C. E. Ridge came to us on Monday and did the preaching till Friday night. Our congregations continued to grow from the beginning. Interest was exceptionally good But being in the midst of gathering and curing tobacco naturally kept some from the services, and the school having just started interfered some also. The more the people heard Bro. Ridge preach, the more they appreciated his preaching. The pastor closed the meeting with services the following Sunday morning and night with five accessions on confession of faith and two by transfer. Bro. Ridge so endeared himself to the people they will be glad for his return any time. This closed our revival meetings on this charge with 35 additions. I am here thanking our own people for the fine offerings they gave to the pulpit help at every church. The pastor feels that he has never had better co-operation from the people anywhere during his ministry. This charge has a live wide-awake Ladies' Auxiliary at Pinnacle, Mt. Zion and Shoals. The Auxiliary at Pinnacle has purchased a nice, up-to-date bulletin board and placed it in front of the church near the highway, which is very greatly appreciated by pastor and entire membership. They will soon install a nice Heatrola in the church.

J. D. MORRIS, Pastor.

Davidson Charge.—As pastor of Davidson charge I have not reported until I hardly know where to begin. There are six churches on this charge. The following pastors have helped me in the meetings: Rev. J. T. Bowman at Pine Hill, Rev. D. I. Garner at Alleghany, Rev. T. G. Madison at Liberty, Rev C. L. Grant at Pleasant Grove, Dr. S. W. Taylor at Lineberry, and Rev. R. L. Hethcox at Chapel Hill. All these pastors did some good gospel preaching that we feel will be worth a great deal to the people on Davidson charge. We had very good meetings at the different churches with several additions. It was a pleasure to have these men of God with us. We feel that they have been a great blessing to our home. We hope they can be with us again.

We have had two great surprises recently. During the Pleasant Grove meeting they gave us a surprise pounding. Quite a number took part in giving us a very much appreciated pounding. During the meeting at the Chapel Hill camp grounds we sold a name quilt that had been made to make money for the new church at this place. To my surprise some of the members had made up money among themselves to bid it off for their pastor. We value this quilt very highly. It will help us remember the great experiences we have had with these good people. Others have remembered us thoughtfully in our visitation among them. We thank every one of them.

The fourth quarterly conference will be at Chapel Hill church Saturday, October 26, at 2 p. m. All members are urged to be present with good reports and to transact the business of the conference.

E. A. BINGHAM, Pastor.

Flat Rock Charge.—We were at Palestine church last Sunday morning for the last service of this conference year. The attendance was about as usual. We held the election of officers, revised the church register, and administered the ordinance of the Lord's Supper.

The writer and family attended the homecoming program at Pleasant Hill church, on West Forsyth charge, in the afternoon. Doris Lemmons and Geneva Pearman accompanied us. We enjoyed the fellowship of the good people of Pleasant Hill church and the program of music and very impressive talk by Rev. T. F. McCulloch, one of the former pastors.

Our fourth quarterly conference will be held at Bethany church Saturday afternoon of this week, beginning at 2 o'clock. We are hoping for a good attendance and splendid financial reports. Every official member please be present if possible.

We have been remembered with suitable gifts since our last report, for which we are thankful. The following persons presented the gifts: Mrs. Robert Angel, Mrs. J. J. White J. Wirt Angel (a young chicken), Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Pegram, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Parrish, Mrs. Fannie Cummings, Houston Landreth (supply of corn for our hog).

Flat Rock charge will have a very creditable report to make to the approaching Annual Conference. We will have four more services of this conference year, as follows: Next Sunday, Flat Rock church, 11 a. m.; Bethany church, 3 p. m.; first Sunday in November, Bethel church, 11 a. m.; Gideon's Grove church, 3 p. m.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Lebanon Church, High Point.—Next Sunday morning will be Rally Day and installation service in our church. We desire to have the largest attendance of the year. Reader, please take note, and be there. The following church officials will be installed at the morning service: Church treasurer, Mr. R. E. L. Hayworth; class leaders, Messrs. J. A. Jones and F. F. Briggs; trustees, A. J. Payne, C. B. Welch, W. C. Montgomery, N. N. Briggs. V. L. Cook, H. E. Pitts, J. A. Gallimore, W. L. Lee, J. W. Montgomery; stewards, D. S. Hedgecock, D. C. Montgomery, F. S. Pritchard, C. A. King, E. C. Blair, S. E. Montgomery, J. A. Jones, V. I. Williard, Dallas Ring, Robert Briggs, Manley Craven, F. W. Easter. Howard Lambe, Mrs. Fay Cook, Miss Emma Wray, Miss Lucille Payne; ushers, Robert Briggs, John Wimberly, Staley Montgomery, Everett Lee, Lewis Huff, Manley Craven, Dale Montgomery, Herman Yokeley, William Brinson; church pianist, Mrs. V. L. Smith; assistant pianist, Ruth King; Sunday school superintendent, Herman Yokeley; assistant superintendent, C. A. King; secretary, Jewell Welch; assistant secretary, Lake Montgomery; Sunday school treasurer, D. C. Montgomery; pianist, Ruth King. The present reporter having tendered her resignation, to be in effect November 1, causes a vacancy here. A successor will be elected at an early date and announced later.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held on Monday, October 28. at 7:30 p. m. The Woman's Auxiliary will serve a chicken supper next Saturday on Commerce street (across from the public library) from 5 to 8 o'clock. They serve good food. Patronize them.

LENA H. THACKER. Reporter.

Flat Rock Church, Flat Rock Charge.—The Ladies' Aid of Flat Rock church held their monthly meeting with Miss Ida Wray. During the session various projects for making money were discussed and several were definitely decided upon. At the close of the program the hostess served cake and coffee The November meeting will be with Mrs. M. W. Thomas. We are hoping all the old members will be present and a number of new ones to join. The Aid seems to be making excellent progress since being organized for two years.

We were very pleased to have Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Dixon and a group of the children from our Children's Home with us last Sunday An interested and appreciative audience enjoyed their singing very much. Mrs. Dixon gave us a brief sketch of the work done by the children, after which Mr. Dixon narrated incidents occurring at the home since he has been in charge. Following this he made a stirring plea for more liberal contributions for increased activity and loyal devotion to our children at the Home who are under his splendid leadership.

The children's society of our church held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs.

John Wray Saturday afternoon with Miss Treva Wray acting hostess. A large number of members were present. As an outside project the society is planning a Hallowe'en party on October 30 at Mrs. John Wray's home at 7:30 o'clock. A small admission will be charged for the benefit of the church. Everyone is invited to come and enjoy the fun together.

We are very sorry to learn of the illness of Mrs. Nannie Wilson and hope she may recuperate rapidly.

Two young members of our church, Miss Iver Dell Ellison and Mr. Harvey Thacker. were united in marriage October 11, 1935, in Chatham, Va. We all wish Mr. and Mrs. Thacker many years of happiness together

We have had a very successful year under the guidance of our pastor, Rev. C. B. Way. We only hope we may continue to have him with us. FRANCES THOMAS, Reporter.

Denton Charge.—During this year the work on Denton charge has been going very nicely. Everyone has co-operated in the efforts put forth for the work of the charge and the advancement of the Kingdom. Much interest has been manifested in making progress spiritually as well as materially. During the year many improvements have been made at Denton church—among these the purchase of a new curtain for the choir loft and new kneeling pads for the altar. The Canaan church has been painted inside and outside

The officers of the churches for the coming year have been elected and will be installed before Annual Conference meets.

Dr. R. M. Andrews was with us October 15 for our fourth quarterly conference. We were glad to have Dr. and Mrs. Andrews in our home at this time and to have supper with us.

We were delighted to have Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Lamb worship with us at Denton church Sunday, October 20, and Rev. Mr. Lamb to bring us the morning message.

J. T. BOWMAN, Pastor.

Concord.—We were glad to have Rev. N. G. Bethea, D. D., with us in our fall revival meeting which started September 30 and closed October 10. Dr. Bethea brought good messages at every service and the people heard him with interest throughout the meeting. There were several professions and reclamations and eight united with the church. Rev. Wayne Curtis, of Burlington, led our song services during the revival. Bro. Curtis is a splendid evangelistic singer and leader and was a great help to the meeting. Both these men endeared themselves to our people and we hope they can be with us again sometime.

As we look back over the conference year which is drawing to a close we realize that we have not accomplished what we had hoped to. But we are grateful to our Heavenly Father for the success we have had in the service of our Master. We have had 40 professions and reclamations on our charge this year and 26 have united with the church. All conference claims are paid in full for the conference year. So you see the board of stewards can start making plans for the new conference year. The street assessment has been paid in full. Three pianos have been bought and paid for by the Sunday school. The Ladies' Aid Society has made several improvements in and around the parsonage. They now have committee appointed to secure somebody to cover the parsonage porch.

Thirty-eight young people met together Sunday evening at 6 o'clock for the purpose of organizing a youth movement in our church. The organizing was consummated and we are expecting it to be a great help to the young people and to the church.

Our fourth quarterly conference will be held Monday night at 7 o'clock October 28.

D. I. GARNER, Pastor.

Corinth, Littleton Circuit.—Our pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery, filled his regular appointment here last night. He preached a very inspiring sermon. We have just one more preaching service here before conference.

Our Sunday school is being held at Bobbitt's Chapel this quarter. We are sorry to report Mr. A. G. Bobbitt is sick.

The fourth quarterly conference will meet at Littleton M. P. church Saturday, October 26, at 2 p. m. Dr. Andrews will be present for the meeting and we hope to have a large crowd present, as there will be lots of business to attend to.

Friday night, October 4, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Morris and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Morris entertained the members of the Sunday school at Mr. M. J. Morris' home. After many games were played, ice cream and cake were served, then all were invited out to a nice bonfire and weiner roast.

The officers of the church were elected last night. They are as follows: Treasurer, M. J. Morris; stewards, Mrs. W. R. Carter, B. F. Morris, G. D. Insco, W. I. Porter, Earl Harper; trustees, D. A. Insco, M. J. Morris, W. R. Carter, R. W. M. Harper; class leader, Sol Insco; church reporter, Mrs. B. F. Morris.

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge.—Since our last report we have had several good, inspiring sermons from our pastor, Rev. Robert Short. Next Sunday will be our last preaching day this conference year. The new officials will be elected Sunday morning. The nominating committee was appointed two weeks ago.

First Sunday in October the officers for the Sunday school were elected as follows: Superintendent, Mr. W. M. Compton; assistant, Mr. H. B. McClimon; secretary and treasurer, Mr. Marvin Smith; assistant, Mr. W. R Harrison; pianist, Miss Lucille Davis; assistant, Mrs. A. A. Foster; chorister, Mr. N. N. Smith; assistant, Mr. N. G. McClimon. Teachers elected were: Men's Bible Class, Mr. N. G. McClimon; assistant, Mr. Joe Leonard; Ladies' Bible Class, Mrs. W. M. Compton; assistant, Mrs. M. M. Westmoreland; Willing Workers' Class, Mrs. Cecil W. McClimon; assistant, Mrs. R. T. Bennette; Boys' Senior Class, Mr. Mack Compton; assistant, Mr Cecil W. McClimon; Intermediate Boys' Class, Mrs. W. R. Harrison; assistant, Mr. John D. McClimon; Intermediate Girls' Class, Mrs. N. N. Smith; assistant, Miss Lottie Harrison; Junior Class, Miss Lula Pearson; assistant. Mrs. A. A. Foster; Primary Class, Mrs. John D. McClimon; assistant, Miss Esther Compton; Beginners' Class, Miss Kate Poole; assistant, Miss Hortense Foster. As the new officers and teachers have taken their places there seems to be a greater zeal to press forward. It seems, too, nearly every class has determined to work harder to secure funds for our long hoped for Sunday school rooms.

Since our last report the Ladies' Aid have bought a new piano, desk, and table runners. They have elected their officers for the new conference year. They are: President, Mrs. N. G. McClimon; vice president, Mrs. W. R. Harrison; secretary and treasurer, Miss Romaine Poole; assistant, Mrs. R. T. Bennette; pianist, Mrs. A. A. Foster. Committees were also appointed.

Quarterly conference will meet here Saturday, October 26, at 2:30 o'clock.

The C. E. Society met Sunday night for the purpose of electing their officers for the coming year. Meeting was opened by the president, Miss Hortense Foster, and after song, scripture and prayer, Miss Lottie Harrison was appointed chairman and the following officers were elected: President, Miss Lottie Harrison; vice president, Miss Hortense Foster; secretary, Miss Esther Compton; assistant, Miss Kate Poole; treasurer Mr. Eddie Waddell; pianist, Miss Lucille Davis; assistant, Miss Hazel Masengale; song leader, Mr. Mack Compton; assistant, Mr Theron Davis; usher, Mr. Wilson Harrison; junior superintendent, Miss Romaine Poole; assistant, Miss Lucille Davis; junior secretary, Elaine Foster; assistant, Myles Compton. The president will appoint the committees by next Sunday night, when the new officers will take their places.

Our prayer meeting is still alive, and we aren't discouraged; but we do wish more could see the help of prayer service together and come out. Mrs. H. B. McClimon will lead the meeting Wednesday night.

One of our boys who has been working at Pelzer for some time, Mr. Fred Compton, was married to Miss Ruth Batts, of Piedmont. Friday, October 11. Mr. Compton is a fine young man and has many friends here who wish for them a happy, successful voyage on the sea of life. May God bless them.

We ask your prayers that we may ever keep true to our Savior and may grow in church, Sunday school and our organizations for Him.

Henderson.—Our conference year is drawing to a close, and the official board of the church hopes to collect all pledges and pay all claims as usual by the time conference convenes. We are busily preparing for the entertainment of the 200 delegates and preachers who are expected. There are still a number of homes to be provided, but the committee on homes is still at work. Mr. L. R. Gooch is to be our delegate this year: it would be interesting to know just how many times he has been chosen to serve as delegate from this church.

The Sunday school attendance is still very small; many of the parents and children have never started coming to Sunday school and church since the summer when they were warned to stay at home on account of the polio epidemic. It is to be hoped that something will arouse them from their seeming lethargy, so that they will again take their places in the classrooms on the Sabbath day The Junior Christian Endeavor Society was disbanded also, but it will soon be reorganized for the winter months.

Yesterday was the communion service, and afterwards Mr. Gene Kelly was added to our membership. Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Daniel were to have joined by letter, but they were prevented on account of family bereavement. The mother of Mrs. Claude Harris was buried in Farmville yesterday afternoon.

Friends are glad that Mrs. Tom Hight and Mrs. Dixie Bobbitt are able to attend church again after long absence. Mrs. Hight had the misfortune to break several bones in her foot, but she is able to walk with the aid of a crutch and will soon be able to discard the crutch, we are glad to say. Mrs. J. R. Tompkins also had a serious accident, having fallen and broken two bones in her arm. She was confined in the hospital for three weeks and is not yet able to care for herself. However, her elbow will not be stiff, as the doctors at first feared. She has been greatly missed from her place in the choir.

Election of officers yesterday resulted as follows: Trustees, G. B. Harris, L. R. Gooch, S. R. Harris, S. R. Harris, Jr., J. B. Hicks. W. H. Grissom, J. B. Fox, E. C. Kittrell, W. R. Vaughn, C. L. Finch, Eugene Faulkner; stewards, C. M. Hight, J. M. Baity, Henry Powell, W. B. Hight, R. W. Dixon, G. G. Wilson, E. O. Falkner, W. R. Trogden; class leaders, Mrs. L. R. Gooch, C. N. Kalstrom, J. B. Burchett. Miss Lucy Y. Taylor; ushers, Henry Hight W. R. Trogden, E. O. Falkner, Melton Hight, C. F. Tankersly, Maurice Allen, Lueco Harris, J. B. Burchett, T. T. Powell; reporter, Mrs. S. R. Watson; treasurer, J. B. Hicks; assistant treasurer, E. C. Kittrell; choir director. Miss Elizabeth Fox; organist, Miss Hallie Mills; Sunday school officers: Superintendent, E. O. Falkner; assistant superintendent, J. M. Baity; secretary, R. W. Dixon; treasurer, J. B. Hicks; pianist, Henry Hight; superintendent Primary Department, Florence Falkner.

Graham.—The fourth quarterly conference convenes on Friday night of this week at 7:30. The matter of a parsonage for Graham will be definitely laid before this conference by the trustees. A full attendance of not only officials but of the members of the church in general is urged.

Next Sunday has been set aside as membership Sunday, when we desire every member of the church to be in attendance. At this time the church officials for the ensuing year will be elected. Following the service. which will be at 10:30, a fellowship lunch will be served in the hut, every family being asked to bring a basket and join in this family reunion of the church. We must conserve our unity and this is one way that we can do it. Be sure to go. Remember it is this coming Sunday, October 27.

Mrs. Heenan Hughes is in the hospital and has recently undergone a rather serious operation. We are praying for her early recovery

Mrs. John L. Amick, who has not been well for a number of years, has been confined to her room. Let us pray that she also may be restored to her usual health.

The annual thank-offering service will be held next Sunday evening at 7:30. Mrs. R M. Andrews, of High Point, will be the speaker. The people and the pastor are looking forward to having Mrs. Andrews.

Immediately following our revival service here, in which Brother Troxler assisted, the pastor hurried away to assist in a meeting in South Carolina and has not had the opportunity to refer to the splendid services which we had under Brother Troxler's leadership and splendid preaching. Every one, and especially those who knew him when he was here as pastor some 15 years ago, enjoyed having him. While there were little visible results, as far as converts were concerned, yet I am sure that the splendid work which Brother Troxler did will in the years to come bring forth abundant fruit.

Enfield.—With the infantile paralysis scare over, the attendance at Sunday school and church is back to normal and we are happy to have the young folk back.

Things look favorable for a successful ending of the conference year with us. Reports show our financial obligations just a little behind, but special efforts are being put forth and we expect to reach the goal. We hope with this report our Herald quota will be reached—if not, it will be at an early date. We want both our pastor, Rev. E. O. Peeler, and our delegate, Mrs. E. I. Bellamy, to go to Annual Conference with a good report. We trust the conference will see fit to return our pastor and his family to us. They have served us so faithfully during their stay with us and all have learned to love them.

Our Woman's Auxiliary is doing very fine work now with Mrs. R. A. Jordan president. They have just sponsored a flower show which gave to Enfield a beautiful display of fall flowers and much interest was manifested, not only among our church people but also among the other local and community churches, and we appreciated their cooperation. Prizes were awarded the different entries, but the list is too long to give. However, Mrs. George Parker, with her first-year growing dahlias, won first prize for the best one variety with Dwight Morrow variety. The Auxiliary is planning a colonial carnival at an early date.

We are glad to report George Earl Sykes is home and doing nicely after several months' treatment at Sanatorium, N. C. We are glad that all on the sick list seem to be improving.

Weaverville Charge.—It is just two weeks until our Annual Conference and the pastor has made no general report to the Herald of the Weaverville charge this year. May I say the charge has made wonderful progress along all lines of church activities this year. One outstanding thing accomplished is the remodeling of the church at Weaverville. This has been one of the greatest needs at this place, and there seems to be a renewed interest among our people since the church has been rebuilt.

We have one Ladies' Auxiliary and two Ladies' Aid societies, all of which have shown a fine spirit of co-operation with their pastor. Another growth of the year has been the young people's work in the Christian Endeavor societies at two churches and a young people's circle under the leadership of Miss Mary Potter, of the Weaverville church.

Our charge is making special effort to pay all Annual Conference claims and pastor's salary this year. The revivals on the Weaverville charge have been very successful. Our first two meetings were held in August, with the Rev. C. B. Way, pastor of Flat Rock charge, as our helper. It was a pleasure for us to have Bro. Way and his wife with us The friendship which they made among our people will not be forgotten. Our meeting was held at Weaverville the first Sunday in October, continuing through the second Sunday, with the Rev. J. F. Minnis assisting. His strong gospel sermons were very helpful to our people and the community. There will be six accessions to our church as the result of this meeting. There is an increase of 18 members to our churches this year. For this we give the dear Lord all the praise.

Graham.—We are planning to make next Sunday "Membership Sunday." Church officials for next year will be elected at the morning service. Following the service there will be a basket lunch served in the hut. We are hoping to have good attendance. Come and enjoy this fellowship. The fall thank-offering service will be held next Sunday evening at 7:30. Mrs. R. M. Andrews, of High Point, is the speaker.

We welcomed into our membership last Sunday Mr. Aubrey Clark. Mr. Clark just recently married one of our members, Dona Parks. We are glad to have him in the church.

The fourth quarterly conference will convene Friday evening, October 25, at 7:30 in the hut. All members are urged to be present. Some very important matters are to be decided at this meeting.

Mrs. Heenan Hughes is in Rainey hospital, Burlington, where she underwent an operation last week. She was reported better yesterday afternoon.

The Friendly Helpers' Class will meet Friday evening, October 25, with Mrs. W. A. Morrison.

West End, Greensboro.—The new year has started in the Sunday school with the following leaders elected last Sunday: L. W. Routh, general superintendent; L. M. Foust, assistant; S. E. Ratledge, secretary; F. S. Stockard, treasurer; Mrs. V. C. Stockard. pianist; Rosa Mann, assistant. Our attendance for Sunday school climbed to 236, which was very gratifying.

A church business meeting was held last Wednesday evening, following a short prayer service. We learned through the committee handling the matter that our proposition, presented to the mortgage company for reducing our church debt, had been accepted, and it is hoped that before many more years pass it will be paid off entirely.

The Ladies' Auxiliary accepted an invitation to meet with Grace church Auxiliary Thursday, October 24, to hear the two missionary study books reviewed. Miss Mary Young will give one and Miss Lily Hunter the other. Everyone knows Miss Young, and we are looking forward to enjoying the good fellowship together. Miss Hunter is a student at High Point College. Everyone will bring sandwiches and supper will be served in the hut.

About 30 of our young people attended the C. E. district meeting at Mt. Pleasant church last Sunday. The sessions were inspiring and the church was literally filled to overflowing with Endeavorers from the 10 counties comprising this district.

Dr. Bethea has been giving us good sermons, as usual, and has started a series of services on "Friendship" which are proving to be helpful and enlightening.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held on Wednesday evening, October 30. It is important that church officials and members be present.

Lincolnton.—As you know, I once sang a lot. And when I was called on for help I was always ready. Well, I got quite a few kicks for being so. But I felt this way about it. I felt like if I was serving my Lord I wanted to brag about Him, so I was ready to do so whenever called upon. And I am ready to brag about Lincolnton today.

Lincolnton is doing fine. Reporting over $32 Sunday school collection for past two weeks and less than 170 present. Now isn't that good? The smallest class in the Sunday school had over $1 from 1 to 6 years. The second smallest had over $2. One class of boys 10 to 16 years had over $4 this last Sunday. And this quite often happens. Now don't you think we have something to brag about? I do.

We also have two good Christian Endeavor societies, Seniors and Juniors, which are doing fine.

Our Ladies' Aid is doing splendid. We want them to keep it up.

Rev. J. R. Anderson just closed a series of services. The messages he brought to the people were good, and we felt like it was inspiring to those who were present. We received a blessing for having attended, and we believe others did.

Well, we will discontinue our bragging until some future day. REPORTER.

Yarborough's Chapel, Yarborough's Charge. Although we have not had a report from this church in several weeks, I am sure that we have not been idle. Our Sunday school attendance continues to increase and our church also.

Our pastor preached an impressive sermon Sunday, October 20, on "Jesus, the Ideal Man." The church and Sunday school officers were also elected. They are as follows: Superintendent, E. M. Hipps; secretary and treasurer, R. K. Wilson; organist, Miss Lily Yarborough; stewards, L. Yarborough, E. M. Hipps, R. K. Wilson; church reporter, Miss Lizzie Belle Gossett.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held at Yarborough's Chapel November 3 at 2:30 o'clock.

As our conference year is coming to a close we are working and praying for a very successful ending of this year's work.

It has been such a blessing and privilege to us to have had Brother K. G. Holt with us this past year, and we hope to have him with us many more years to come.

Efland, Orange Charge.—As the conference year draws near the close we have much for which to be thankful, but as in all life there are times when we can look back and feel that we could have done better.

A large and appreciative audience heard another good sermon Sunday morning. Pastor Williams always gives us a good sermon and much to think about. He is indeed a pastor with modern ideas combined with real Christianity—the old-fashioned kind.

After the service the church met in a business session to elect officers for the coming year and to discuss other matters of business. Very few changes were made in the church officers. Our secretary-treasurer, Mr. S. C. Forrest, made a very encouraging report in which he said we raised $3,600 this year. This includes balance on church and parsonage. so that now our church property is free of debt. He also stated that all claims for the year were practically assured. With a membership of 185 we feel that quite a big task has been completed this year. We might say here that our enrollment in Sunday school is the same as our church membership.

The evening service was well attended also. We were very glad to have Bro. Willard Clark with us for this service, and were inspired to try harder to be of service by the short but splendid talk he made. Bro. Clark is one of our members, but as a number of others are, is not permitted to be with us often.

The pageant, "The Lost Church," was presented by the Williams circle on the second Sunday evening. The circle appreciates the efforts of all who made this possible and the offering which will go on our budget. Miss Mable Sykes, our thank-offering secretary, had charge of the pageant.

Circle No. 2 is having a quilting party Wednesday morning and the Auxiliary meets in the afternoon of this week.

We hope to have a large delegation at Chestnut Ridge Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock for the fourth quarterly conference.

Gideon's Grove, Flat Rock Charge.—On the second Sunday morning at 11 o'clock Rev. C. B. Way filled his regular appointment with an interesting and inspiring message to the congregation. A business session was held for the election of officers for the church for the coming year. We will have one more regular appointment before the Annual Conference—the first Sunday in November at 3 p. m. Our Rally Day service was held last Sunday morning. Misses Virginia Lemons, Mildred Way, Mrs. S. G. Lemons and Mrs. Howard Angel trained the children. The program was good and well rendered. Much credit was due both the children and the committee.

The next meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held at the home of Mrs. J. J White on November 5.

We are sorry to note at this time the illness of Mr. John Lemons, one of our oldest and most faithful members. We wish for him a speedy recovery.

Matthews Chapel, Greensville Charge.—We held our revival services during the third week in September. Pastor Lamb had as his pulpit help Rev. Wm. Neese, of Spring Church charge. It was a pleasure indeed to have him with us in these services and also in our homes.

Sunday school is doing well, but could be better. If the people in our community would take more interest, we would have a wonderful school.

The fourth quarterly conference will convene at Wesley's Chapel on Monday evening next.

The ladies of our church met recently and organized a Ladies' Auxiliary with Mrs. Givens Clary, president; Mrs. Nellie Lynch. vice president; Mrs. C. E. Ellis, secretary and treasurer; Miss Lottie Edwards, corresponding secretary. They went to work at once and gave a weiner roast and ice cream supper on Saturday evening, October 12. A nice sum was realized. They are also crocheting a bed spread, which will be disposed of as soon as completed.

We did not have any preaching services last Sunday (third Sunday), since Pastor Lamb was away on his honeymoon, but we are looking forward to the services on the first Sunday in November.

We have had a very successful half year under the leadership of Pastor Lamb, and we hope conference will see fit to return him to us for the coming year. We feel we can accomplish much with him as leader, and in behalf of our church we extend to Pastor and Mrs. Lamb our very best wishes as they journey together down the pathway of life.

Fallston Charge.—If this report is to speak the whole truth, it must say that we have had a profitable year on Fallston charge. Certainly, from a great many different angles, the most profitable year thus far given to me as a minister.

Never have I served a people more willing to discover and accept new approaches to the problems of the church. On every hand we have had fine co-operation and many unmistakable evidences of an overruling Providence. Truly, God has been good to us.

The need at Fallston for a new church was self-evident, but I wondered what would happen to our church program in the meantime. The Christian Endeavor Society moved their services to the Baptist church, the services are up to or above par, with an attendance averaging 38 to 40. Our evening preaching services are also held at this church without any interruption in attendance or interest.

All of our morning services are now being held in the local school auditorium. Our attendance at Sunday school and church yesterday morning revealed no sag either in interest or attendance. The Ladies' Auxiliary has recently taken on additional work, preparing clothes for one of the children at the Home, and a meal recently served to the postal employés of Cleveland county, realizing a neat profit, $40.

The new building is brick-veneer, beautiful, and fully adequate for every need. All bills are being paid as we go. The building should be completed around the first of the year. If someone at a distance wishes to see it, send us five "plunks" and a cut will appear in the Herald forthwith. I see Dr. Pritchard as he nods his approval. Behind the building stands the love, devotion and sacrifice of the people.

While the outstanding work of the year has been at Fallston, the other churches on the charge have by no means been idle. Slightly more than $300 has been spent on improvements at Laurel Hill church during the year. Within the last few days suggestions have been put forward which may mean still larger improvements. The suggestion will be taken up at our next regular appointment.

Minor improvements have been recently made at Hebron church. Knob Creek is setting aside a fund for new pews. Macedonia has plans on foot which will soon mean a new coat of paint for the interior of their church.

To group our endeavors together: All collections are running ahead of last year, approximately $5,000 will be raised by the churches during the year, 46 new members have been added to the churches, thanks to the fine efforts of Revs. E. A. Bingham and Robert Short who helped in revival services.

Our circuit Auxiliary, organized a year ago with a circle in each of the five churches, is no longer an experiment. Thus far the organizations have been responsible for raising some $400. Within the month, three of the circles, Macedonia, Laurel Hill and Friendship, have promoted special endeavors.

Our fourth quarterly conference will be held at Knob Creek church this Saturday October 26. Rev. J. D. Morris will preach for us at 11 o'clock. The quarterly conference proper will be held at 1:30 in the afternoon.

This word about our district rallies. In every case the attendance has been fine, especially on the part of the ministers. At our last rally, held at Knob Creek church, every minister in the district was present. I, as chairman, appreciate this more than words can tell.

All of our meetings have been in the nature of joint meetings with the missionary work in the district. Through the fine co-operation of Mrs. B. L. Heavner, chairman of missionary work, this type of rally has proved unusually successful. H. F. FOGLEMAN.

First Church, Lexington.—As I am the successor of Paul Wallace, reporter for the past conference year, I will endeavor to keep the readers of the Herald posted as to the business of our church.

Last Sunday was a good day at our church. There was an increase of 46 in Sunday school from a year ago. We had a large congregation at the 11 o'clock hour. Our pastor, Rev. C. G. Isley, spoke on the duties of our church officials. Following the sermon, officers were installed for the coming year, followed by communion service. Our good and faithful superintendent, Mr. H. C. Koonts, was re-elected for his 16th year as superintendent of the Sunday school. When he took charge of Sunday school 16 years ago there was only about 50 enrollment. Now we have an average enrollment of around 500. Mr. J. J. Mallard was re-elected as treasurer for the coming year, in which he is ending his fourth year. We are glad to state since he has been treasurer all claims have been paid up to date. He puts his whole heart and soul into the work. Mr. Phonse Bean was also re-elected as the chairman of the board of stewards in which he has served very faithfully.

There was a good crowd to assemble for the evening worship. We have something to be very thankful for, our evening worship, as we have an average attendance of 200.

Our fourth quqarterly conference will be held Tuesday, October 22, at Mt. Carmel church, at which time we will instruct our delegate to bring our present pastor back for the eighth year. We hope our president will see fit to send him back to us, as we are planning to build a new church and we will need his assistance.

We are very glad to state that we have secured 150 new Cokesbury hymnals for our church.

The Men's Baraca Class will have a supper Thursday night. We're hoping all members will be present for the occasion.

We were very glad to have Mr. Glen Hendricks back with us Sunday, as he has been in the Statesville hospital.

We sincerely hope all churches will end up with a good conference year.

Hawkins Chapel, Littleton Charge.—Rev. R. L. Vickery preached second Sunday morning on "The Vows of the Church." If we would think more sincerely of this matter, our church work would grow more for the kingdom of heaven.

Our church officers were also elected for the coming year. You can hardly find this to happen—not a one gave up their places.

Mr. E. B. Pair held prayer service last Sunday morning.

Our president, Rev. R. M. Andrews, will be with us the fourth Sunday evening at the 8 o'clock service. Our Auxiliary also will have a thank-offering service.

Woman's Auxiliary will meet fourth Sunday at the church, right after Sunday school. Mrs. H. L. Glasgow is leader.

Our fourth quarterly conference will be held at Littleton Saturday evening, October 26, 1935.

In my last report I overlooked something I should have reported. Second Sunday morning Miss Sadie Shaw joined our church by faith and baptism. Her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shaw; two sisters, Misses Iona and Bettie Mae, and one brother, Mr. Woodrow Shaw, came to us from New Hope M. E. church by letter. We were indeed glad to welcome them.

We are missing Mr. Leo Pittard and Misses Mary Green and Alice Mae Glasgow since they returned to college.

Mr. Vickery was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Howell Hawkins second Sunday. Mrs. J. W. Hale and two daughters, Fannie Mae and Mrs. Woodrow Shaw, and Mr. Woodrow Shaw were also the guests of Mrs. Hale's sister, Mrs. B. S. Hawkins, of Roanoke Rapids.

Mrs. Martha Snipes was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Baldy Green Sunday.

Mrs. C. M. Hawkins is expecting her son, Mr. Raymond Hawkins, of Richmond, Va., to spend the week-end with her.

Mr. Arthur Hawkins spent Monday night with his brother, Claude.

Mr. Zeb Hawkins was the guest of Mr. Dave Medlin Sunday.

Our conference year is almost come to an end. May God bless all the ministers. I am quite sure we all love our pastors and hate to see them go. But let's pray that each and every one may be sent where God sees best.

GREENSBORO MINISTERS HOLD MEETING

Dr. R. M. Andrews, president of the Annual Conference, was the principal speaker at the Greensboro Methodist Protestant ministers' meeting at Grace church Monday morning.

OUR ERROR OF LAST WEEK

Last week we made the statement that Miss Imogine Boyles, of Thomasville, was the Children's Home secretary, but as a matter of fact her sister, Miss Lela Maude Boyles, is the secretary for the Children's Home in the N. C. Branch. We are sorry for the error.

MARRIED

Best-Gooch

Henderson, Oct. 19.—Today, at noon, in the Methodist Protestant church, Miss Martha Willis Gooch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Lueco Richard Gooch, was married to Farquhard Smith Best, of New York City.

The pulpit and choir loft were banked with long-leaf pine and southern smilax. Two tall baskets of white dahlias stood on each side of the altar, and the beauty of the decorations was enhanced by the soft glow of burning tapers in branched candlestands.

Miss Dorothy Jones gave a beautiful program of music on the organ. The first number was the "Meditation" from "Thais," which was followed by "Chanson," by Friml; "Calm as the Night," "Fragments," from the "Unfinished Symphony," and Liszt's "Liebestraum." The bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" was played as the bridal party entered the church.

Ushers were Richard Gooch, brother of the bride; Julian Connelly, of New York City; William Graves, of Wilson, and Gene Smith, of Dunn.

Miss Page Gooch, only sister of the bride was maid of honor, and the only attendant. She was gowned beautifully in Botticelli green velvet with a tiny veil. She carried an arm bouquet of bronze dahlias.

The bride wore a Patou model white transparent velvet gown, with an off-the-face white velvet hat. She entered with her father. Her bouquet was a sheath of white roses and valley lilies. She was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Edwin Yarborough, of New York City.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. L R. Medlin, pastor of the bride. "O Perfect Love" was played as the vows were spoken. The recessional march was from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Immediately after the ceremony a delightful luncheon was served to the bridal party and about 50 out-of-town guests.

The young couple left by motor for an extended bridal trip, the bride's going-away costume being olive green with black accessories. After November 1 they will be at home at 333 East 53d Street, New York City.

Miss Gooch comes of distinguished ancestry on both sides. Her maternal forebears were the Pages, Careys, and Whitakers, of Virginia, her grandfather the seventh generation back being the Rev. John Whitaker, who baptized Pocahontas upon her accepting the Christian faith. On her paternal side, she is a lineal descendant of the second rector of the old church at Jamestown, and a collateral descendant of one of the royal governers of Virginia. She is a graduate of Converse College.

Mr. Best is a graduate of Duke University, being a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity, and has held a responsible position with the Reynolds Tobacco Company in New York since his graduation.

MT. PLEASANT S. S. BUILDING

While at Mt. Pleasant church, Mt. Pleasant charge, last Sunday afternoon we observed that the new Sunday school building is practically complete and is in use,

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

King

Mr. George M. King was born in Alamance county on July 24, 1872. He was the son of the late James and Mattie Graham King. He was married to Miss Luella Kernodle and to this union were born three children. The wife and three children survive. The soul of Mr. King departed this life on the 26th of September, 1935. Mr. King had been in ill health for several months. Last May he underwent a rather serious operation. Yet the day prior to his death he was about as well as usual and his death came as a shock.

In 1925 the Ham-Ramsey revival moved in mighty power within the hearts of the people of Alamance county. It was during this revival meeting that Mr. King made a confession of Christ. He then united with the First Methodist Protestant church of Burlington.

Dr. S. W. Taylor assisted the writer in the funeral service. May the bereaved be comforted and sustained by the peace and strength of the Heavenly Father.

FRED W. PASCHALL.

Sutton

The soul of Mrs. Jeanette Sutton departed this life on October 5, 1935. Mrs. Sutton was born in Caswell county, but had made her home in Burlington for a number of years. She had been in ill health for several months and physical death brought relief to her suffering.

Mrs. Sutton loved the church, but ill health and the care of two grandchildren kept her from the services. She invested her life in these children. She did her best to train them right. She did what she could for their good, growth and development. What a marvelous investment of life!

May the bereaved be comforted, especially the son and daughter, with the unfailing and all-sufficient peace and comfort of the Heavenly Father.

FRED W. PASCHALL.

Buck

Ernest Robert Buck first saw the light of day the 11th of February, 1895, at Rigsby, Tenn., the son of Landron A. Buck and Jane Bow Buck. Moved with his parents to Cooper, Texas, while a boy and grew to manhood there. Three sisters survive, Mrs. Allen Campbell, Tyler, Texas; Mrs. Carol DeBoe, Logansport, Ind., and Miss Pearlie Buck, Cooper, Texas.

Married to Florence Thompson at Norfolk. Va., October 3, 1918. Six children were born to the union: Robert Lankford, Ernest, Jr., Lewis, Earl, Ronalee and Marion.

Converted November 28, 1935, and united with First Methodist Protestant church of Charlotte, N. C.

He was present at the services on Fellowship Sunday, October 6, and went home and never left the room again. Sunday night pneumonia set up and on Sunday evening, October 13, at 10 o'clock he passed from labor to reward.

A short service was held at the chapel of Douglas and Sing Monday evening, October 14, at 7 o'clock, conducted by Rev. G. H. Hendry, after which the body was shipped to Norfolk, Va., where the funeral proper was conducted on Wednesday by Rev. G. H Hendry from the chapel of Hollomon and Brown Funeral Home. Interment followed on a beautiful mound in Forest Lawn cemetery, Norfolk, Va. The American Legion of which he was a member concluded the rites at the grave, firing a salute over their fallen comrade, blasted taps, and placed the flag in the hands of the widow and the work was done.

Brother Buck was a good man, faithful to all responsibilities, much loved by those who were associated with him in business, and is greatly mourned by the church he loved so well.

"Rest in the Lord and wait patiently for him and he shall give the desires of thine heart."

"Weeping may endure for a night but joy cometh in the morning."

Ever in Him, G. H. HENDRY.

Holt

Mrs. Mary Jane Holt, the wife of J. H. B. Holt, passed from this life to the immortal life on September 26 at 7:30 o'clock in the morning. She had been in ill health for several years. During the past three years she had been confined to her home most of the time.

She is survived by her husband and six children, Mrs. J. L. Isley, Miss Dorothy Holt, L. P. Holt, C. C. Holt, W. G. Holt, and T. C. Holt. One sister, 14 grandchildren and a host of other relatives and friends mourn the loss of this good woman, also.

Mrs. Holt had been a citizen of the Mt. Hermon section all of her life. When she was still a young woman she united with Mt. Hermon church. As long as her health was good enough to allow her to go to church, she attended her church regularly. She was a faithful Christian woman in her church, community, and home.

Funeral services were conducted at Mt. Hermon church on Friday, September 27, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, Rev. D. I. Offman, and the writer had charge of these services. The body was laid to rest under a large and beautiful mound of flowers in the church cemetery.

T. J. WHITEHEAD.

Hardee

Whereas, it has pleased our Heavenly Father to call from earth to heaven our beloved friend and president, Mrs. Z. A. Hardee of the Eden Auxiliary;

Be it resolved: First, that we as individual members of the Auxiliary ever remember Mrs. Hardee's beautiful character, her kind and gentle manners and smiling face, and ever thank God for the wonderful privilege of having known her and worked with her in our church and Auxiliary.

Second, that her life and loyalty and faithfulness to her church and her Christ has been an inspiration to our Auxiliary, and although gone beyond, her life has left its imprint upon us. To know her was to love her and we shall cherish her memory as an example of Christ in humanity. She was thoughtful in little things, generous and giving to many good deeds and words of love. In her passing her friends and loved ones have lost a loyal loving companion, the church and Auxiliary a devoted laborer in God's vineyard, a wise and efficient worker.

Third, that we express our heartfelt sympathy to the families and commend them to the Heavenly Father who doeth all things well.

Be it further resolved that a copy of this tribute be given to the families and be recorded in the minutes of the Auxiliary, and that it be published in the Methodist Protestant Herald, Missionary Record, and the Enfield Progress.

ON GOING TO CHURCH

(From West End Church, Greensboro, Bulletin)

"Go to church. Not only be punctual, but be in your place before the hour for the service is announced to begin. Then you will not disturb other worshipers. Go in a reverent spirit. On the way remember whither you go. Avoid lightness of manner and conversation on worldly topics. Before you enter and as you enter the church, breathe a silent prayer of invocation for the influence of the Holy Spirit. As you take your place, bow your head reverently in prayer for yourself and for all others who enter the sanctuary for the services about to begin. Resolve that you will foster no thought, fix your eyes on no object, utter no word, that will tend to divert your mind from the holy purpose for which you have come into this place. As the minister enters the pulpit, offer an earnest, silent prayer in his behalf. In all the service take an active part as hearer, as worshiper. At the close of the service, after a moment of prayerful silence, greet with cheerfulness all whom you happen to meet, remembering that Christian fellowship is a part of Christian worship."—Bishop Vincent.

PAGEANT-PLAY TO BE GIVEN AT CHESTNUT RIDGE

"The Lost Church," a four-scene pageant-play, will be presented at Chestnut Ridge Methodist Protestant church Sunday night, October 27, at 7:30 o'clock (changed from Saturday, October 26).

This play is very impressive and beautiful. The characters are well selected and will be able to present the play very effectively. Special music will follow each scene.

This program is sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary of the church. All are cordially invited. A silver free-will offering will be taken for home benevolences.

Cast of characters: Mr. Sam Hayes, Mrs. Addie Sykes, Mr. Marion Hobbs, little Miss Dorothy Thompson, Mr. G. P. Sykes.

A NOTE OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our friends for the many beautiful flowers, expressions of sympathy, and the many kind deeds shown to us in the loss of our husband, son and brother.

Well, well, just look at the top of this column! Who ever saw anything like it! Three charges go over the top the same week. And two of these charges are served by the same pastor, although they are separate and distinct charges. Congratulations to Rev. R. C. Stubbins, the pastor, and Mrs. Amick, the agent at Fountain Place. And congratulations to the same pastor and the agent, Mrs. Waynick, at Gibsonville. Also let us extend our congratulations to Rev. J. R. Hutton, the pastor at Midway, and to all the members who in any way have helped to put the charge over the top. If we could have charges to do like these three every week, it would not take long to get all of them across. Several other places are very near the goal and it is a question who will occupy this column of honor next week.

NOW FOR THE BIG NEWS OF THE WEEK! Look in the receipts column and see if your eyes deceive you. Can you believe it? Why, sure it is true. No, those figures were meant to be there. What charge is it? IT IS SHILOH! And it is the SHILOH church on the Shiloh charge that sent in such a tremendous sum. In so far as we remember, this takes the cake for the year so far as the amount is concerned. Others, perhaps, have sent in as good money, what there was of it, but there was not as much of it. We sure do extend our congratulations to that Herald agent over at Shiloh, Ray Leatherman He is certainly setting the pace for other charges right here at the end of the conference year. We just wish that we could put Shiloh in capital letters, but we cannot just yet.

Charlotte, Mt. Hermon, First church Burlington, Tabernacle and Calvary all send in more than one subscription. Thanks, thanks thanks.

And did you see that subsidy? Kannapolis is over and Creswell makes a good showing Our receipts are $107.69, $98.36 being on subscriptions and $9.33 being on subsidy.

Methodist Union

Since some people seem to be wondering about our silence on the question of union of the Methodist Protestant church, the Methodist Episcopal church, and the Methodist Episcopal church, South, it seems wise that we make some statement concerning our attitude. Up to the present time we have not said much because there has not been much to say that was definite enough to warrant an assumption. While the three commissions were working on a basis of union at Evanston, Illinois, last August, certain information was given to the daily press; but in this there were conflicting opinions expressed from day to day, indicating that the commissions had not definitely settled upon some of the major issues. After the adjournment of the meeting of the three commissions we were told that an editorial committee had been appointed that would release its findings about October 1. Later it was said the report of the committee would not be released until some time in December. Until that release is made it does not seem wise to say much about the question. What we want is some official news rather than hearsay. But, looked at in general, without knowing definitely the particulars, we could see both advantages and disadvantages in union from the standpoint of our own denomination. When the time comes for our General Conference to pass upon the question the members of that body will have to make up their minds which outweigh, the arguments for or the arguments against the proposed union.

But one reason we have not said more about the union is that until the time comes when we shall know what the basis of union is, we have work to do and we ought not to weaken our efforts in our work by any division of sentiment in regard to union. In any union that might be proposed, not all of our people will see it in the same light. People seldom ever see things just in the same way. And the thing that we most dread is the long-drawn-out period of discussion that must be endured before it can be settled. For unless the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, is called in extraordinary session the matter cannot be finally settled until 1939. If our efforts should be dissipated by any serious division of sentiment, a great deal of damage could be done to our church.

But while there are some things that are uncertain, there are also other things that are certain. One of these is that we have church debts that must be paid. We cannot afford to wait in the hope that if we unite, somebody will pay our debts for us. We also have institutions that must be supported, and by no stretch of the imagination can we make ourselves believe that we can fold our hands and wait without our institutions suffering. The very nature of the case makes it necessary that the Methodist Protestant church should be affected more by union than would either of the two larger denominations. This is always true, because it would be unreasonable for the larger denominations to change their entire system simply to accommodate a smaller denomination. But until the time comes when we have the official basis, the thing for us to do is to go right on with our own work and use every ounce of strength in helping our church to measure up to its present opportunity.

"JUDAH TAKEN CAPTIVE"

The International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, November 3, 1935

By Rev. J. Elwood Carroll

Scripture Lesson—2 Kings 25:1-12.

Golden Text—"Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people."—Proverbs 14:34.

Our lesson for today is a sermon written from the experiences of a nation demonstrating the truth of the Golden Text, "Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people." Ordinarily we hear sermons carved with the words of a speaker, but for today we have our sermon in the form of historical facts recorded about the experiences of the people of a nation. We are interested in these facts as challenges and warnings to us.

A review of our lessons for this quarter up to the present will help us greatly to clarify our minds on the background of the facts. Written across all progress are the words "sacrificial suffering." This fact we studied at length in our first lesson about "The Suffering Servant" as portrayed by Isaiah. Jeremiah attracted our attention as the great prophet of the latter days of Judah (621-586 B.C.) We spent two weeks studying him and his message. Then for our fourth lesson we omitted much and moved to the fall of Babylon (538 B.C.) For many of the facts of our sermon of today, we need to go back about fifty to sixty years before the fall of Babylon,—go back to the time of Jeremiah (621-586 B.C.) Having placed ourselves, therefore, at the opening of the seventh century before Christ, we proceed to discuss the facts of our text.

"Righteousness exalteth a nation." These words can be added to every story of progress in the history of the Hebrew race from Abraham to Jeremiah. Every backset was the offshoot of sin; every progressive move was the reward of righteousness. The high marks may be noticed in the faith of Abraham, the devotion of Joseph, the courage of Moses, the refinement of David, the wisdom of Solomon, and the high ethical ideals of Jeremiah. The Golden Age of Israel was not the product of a single person, nor a single generation, but the crystallization of the dreams, ambitions, sacrifices of tens of thousands of peoples and hundreds of years of time. "Righteousness exalteth."

The Golden Age of Israel was reached under the reign of David and Solomon. The twelve tribes had become thoroughly united into a great nation, the palace and temple had been constructed, many of the Psalms had been written, and Israel was a commercial nation of no mean standing. The Golden Age had been attained by righteousuness. Shortly after the day of Solomon the prophets arose to decry the sins of the people and the inevitable doom if repentance were not speedy and thorough. Despite the warning of the prophets, who lived before that day, the ten tribes of the north (sometimes called Israel in contrast with the two southern tribes which are called Judah) were carried captive and are henceforth known as "The Lost Tribes of Israel." The reproach of sin in this case was captivity.

Jeremiah arose to warn Judah of a like fate unless she trusted in God. He did not use the words of our Golden Text, but the gist of his preaching is the identical thought. Jeremiah had seen good King Josiah laid to rest. Jehoahaz ruled for three months as his successor, then Jehoiakim became king (608-597). Jeremiah knew the power of the great and ancient Egypt. He saw the threat from the East in the rapidly rising Babylonia. This new empire centered about the city of Babylon and had been forming since 625 B.C. Nebuchadrezzar became king of Babylonia in 605 and henceforth was a power to be reckoned with, both by Egypt and Judah. In fact, the following year Nebuchadrezzar met the Egyptian king and defeated him in the battle of Carchemish. Now Babylon was the stronger of the two enemies of Judah, hence for three years after 600 Judah paid an annual tribute to Babylon for her friendship and protection against Egypt. Shortly before his death, King Jehoiakim reverted to his former loyalty to Egypt. Before Babylon could demand allegiance, Jehoiachin became king, who ruled for only three months. For at this time Nebuchadrezzar made an attack upon Jerusalem (2 Kings 25:1). The date is 597. Instead of Jehoiachin, Nebuchadrezzar placed on the throne of Judah the third son of Josiah, Zedekiah. The new king vacillated between Babylon and Egypt as did Jehoiakim, hence in 586 Nebuchadrezzar dealt a final and crushing blow to Judah. The story of Judah's disgraceful defeat is told in our printed text for today.

The sin of Judah, as manifested in her rulers, her citizenry in general, and her national policy, was to forget God. It seems that everyone was concerned about loyalty to Babylon, or loyalty to Egypt, as a possible means of protection. But what of God? The kings, the people, the priests had forgotten God—the true Leader of their empire.

Questions for Discussion

1. Was it sin for Judah to enter into a covenant with a foreign power? Would you consider it a sin for the United States to enter into agreements with other nations?

2. Was the root cause of the fall of Judah a foreign foe or was it inward corruption? Do you consider our American policy of a larger army and navy the proper proceedure for our protection?

3. Do you believe that our recovery program is adequately based upon a trust in God or is it merely man's ideas of reform?

4. Do you believe that God is going to prosper a nation which openly permits gambling, drinking, commercialized Sunday sports, and the general slaughter of humanity by our autos?

5. What are you doing as an individual to make America a Christian nation?

6. What is your church doing to exalt America in righteousness?

7. Can we build a Christian America without being concerned with all other nations of the world? In this particular, are missions a help?

McCULLOCH MEMORIAL FUND

Honor Roll

75. Thomasville, First

I'M HAPPY

I haven't disturbed the neighbors with my shouts, nevertheless I am happy. I am rejoicing greatly, with joy unspeakable. And the cause? Why, the McCulloch Fund has reached, and passed, the $2,000 mark! That, I hasten to remark, is $1,300 short of the full amount—which I had hoped we might get it by Conference so we could discharge this obligation. Nevertheless, $2,000 is a long way from where we started last February. And there will be some more come in, I am certain, at Conference. Perhaps we shall be able to report the amount needed to finish the job is less than $1,000. If so, I shall rejoice some more. And I shall rejoice with those who do rejoice. And we shall all have a good time together. But what shall I say, brethren beloved, about those churches, delegates, pastors, who have done nothing to help us rejoice? Maybe they will stand around and say, "We killed a bear." (You know that story?)

It was First church, Thomasville, that made it possible for me to rejoice. Brother Madison—who evidently reads these Memorial Fund articles—said in his letter that he saw I just lacked $4.36; but he was sending me $4.50. That put him and his church over—and me, too.

And while I'm in this business of rejoicing, I want to do a little raving—begging the Editor's pardon and permission—about the $2.00 that is reported this week from Pensacola. The one sending me the money said they would have the balance of their apportionment—$3.00—by conference. Pensacola? Do you folks know anything about that church? Well, it's as far removed from the Atlantic ocean as it is possible for a church in our conference to be. It is at the foot of Mt. Mitchell, in Yancey county. There was a time when the town and the church were pretty prosperous. But the timber has been cut out, and many of the members have moved away. The town is largely Baptist in sentiment and denominational affiliation, and the church is cut off from the rest of our Methodist Protestant churches, even in that section where there are not so many of them to start with. But here is that $2.00! It's bigger than any other $2.00 that has come from anywhere else in the conference! I take my hat off to these folks, and rave.

I don't dare take up much more space with this report. Here's how we stand to date:

Previously reported	$1,995.64
Pensacola	2.00
Thomasville, First (final payment)	4.50
Total to date	$2,002.14

I am expecting to sit at the seat of custom, as is my custom, at Conference. Bring or send your money for the McCulloch Fund. If you can't do either, mail it to me in care of the Conference church, the Henderson M. P. church. The Certificates will be awarded to the churches entitled to them some time during the session. C. W. Bates, Chairman.

A NOTE FROM THE HERALD PUBLISHERS

As the conference year draws to a close, we wish to be allowed sufficient space in the Herald columns to extend our appreciation to the Memorial Fund Committee and to those churches, pastors and individuals who have expressed their devotion and loyalty to the Herald, and to the church whose interests it seeks to advance, through their contributions to the McCulloch Memorial Fund. While the Memorial Fund Committee had as their purpose to so apportion this debt among the churches as to impose no hardships anywhere, nevertheless we know that many churches which were already struggling under financial burdens, but which have shouldered this added load and successfully gained places on the Honor Roll, have done so only because they were willing to give to the point of sacrifice.

Oftentimes those who know nothing of the meaning of sacrifice cannot recognize or appreciate that virtue in others. Because the work of the Herald has meant to us, the printers, a definite sacrifice, we feel especially capable of appreciating the spirit that has prompted those who have so splendidly come to our rescue this year. Many of the members of our churches who have been engaged in business enterprise of one kind or another through these lean years know how extremely difficult it has been to keep the sheriff away from their doors. With us the task has been doubly difficult because the loss we have taken on the Herald each week has been a constantly increasing drain on our resources. Only those who have had intimate contact with us can know how valuable has been the aid that we have received from the Memorial Fund, and how essential it has been that this aid be forthcoming.

To all those who have given themselves sincerely and faithfully to the discharge of this task, we again say, Thank you.

McCulloch & Swain,
Printers of the Herald.

Mail Early Next Week

Again we say, please mail your letters early next week, as TUESDAY AFTERNOON will be the deadline for turning in matter for publication, as well as money. This is made necessary by the fact that the editor wants to be at Conference the first day.

If you have any money for the Herald, send it to us by mail on Monday instead of taking it to Conference.

David Glass' Brother Passes

Brother David Glass of Calvary church suffered the loss of his brother, C. M. Glass, of Bessemer, near Greensboro, on Tuesday night of this week. Mr. Glass was injured in an automobile accident in Greensboro Tuesday afternoon. The funeral is being held in the Bessemer M. E. church, South, this afternoon.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

What Some Pastors Say

Brother Grant reports that Canaan church has paid pastor in full, A. C. items in full, and World Service in full.

Bro. T. G. Madison reports that First church, Thomasville, has paid both A. C. budget and W. S. budget in full.

Bro. O. C. Loy reports that Eden and Bethesda churches have paid A. C. budget and pastor in full.

Brother Peeler reports that Whitakers has paid A. C. budget in full.

Bro. B. M. Williams reports that Efland has paid A. C. budget in full.

Bro. D. R. Williams reports pastor paid in full.

Brother Mabry reports that Creswell church has paid A.C. budget in full.

Bro. F. W. Paschall reports all claims paid in full: pastor, W. S. and A. C. budgets; increase of $250 for pastor next year, and has several hundred dollars in hand for new church.

Brother Medlin reports that Henderson will pay A. C. budget in full and pastor's salary.

Brother Cook reports all A. C. budget paid except College.

Bro. H. L. Isley reports Center church paid out on A. C. budget.

Bro. J. C. Madison reports that First church, High Point, will pay all claims.

Bro. O. B. Williams reports South Winston church has paid pastor in full, also paid A. C. claims. The charge has increased pastor's salary $100 for next year.

First church, Concord, Brother Garner reports all claims paid in full for year.

Brother Helms reports Draper has paid A. C. budget in full, also pastor in full.

Grace church, paid pastor in full.

Bro. C. P. Morris, Danville, reports pastor paid in full.

Some Churches Visited Since Last Report

Midland Charge, Rev. J. H. Trolinger, Pastor.—The fourth quarterly conference was held the 22nd of October at night in Pine Bluff church. There was a splendid attendance and a good conference. However, it was found necessary to hold an adjourned session of the conference. This charge was the first to pay all A. C. claims. Pastor Trolinger has done a fine work here, and we expect him to bring a good report to the annual conference.

Mt. Hermon Charge, Rev. T. J. Whitehead, Pastor.—Brother Whitehead has the honor and privilege of serving the largest pastoral charge, numerically, in the annual conference. The churches appeared to be in good shape and the people are expecting the pastor to return.

Spring Church Charge, Rev. W. H. Neese, Pastor.—He expects to change. This conference was held in Spring church with a good attendance and a harmonious conference. This is Pastor Neese's fourth year on this work and he has done very good work at all churches. Finances were not yet up, but we believe will be by the time he starts to the annual conference.

Littleton Charge, Rev. R. L. Vickery, Pastor.—The fourth quarterly conference was held at Littleton. There was present an unusually large attendance for this charge. Here is a work that has slumped for several years, but some of the churches are now aware of their decline and are eager to climb back up the scale of achievement; we believe Littleton charge will do this very thing. Hawkins has pastor paid in full and was working on the budgets. I visited Vaughn and Hawkins churches on Sunday. Had present very good congregations who listened attentively to my messages. This is Brother Vickery's second year on Littleton.

Plan of Appointments

November 1—Bess Chapel at 11 a. m.

November 3—Moriah, 11 a. m.; quarterly conference in afternoon.

November 6—Henderson, Annual Conference meets at 10 a. m.

R. M. Andrews.

Mailing List to Be Cut Next Week

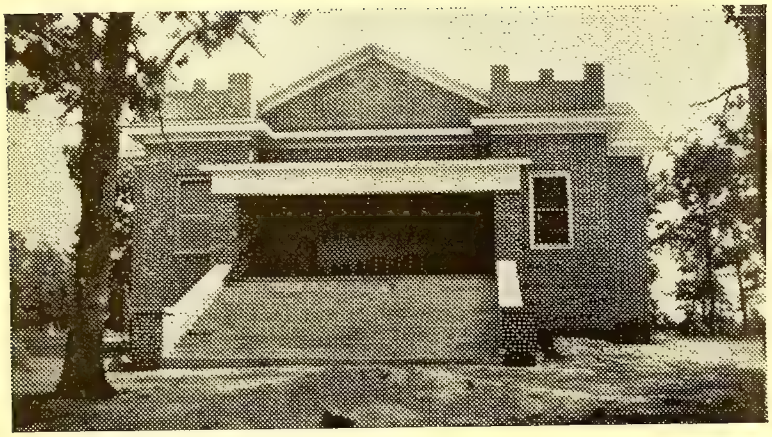
During this year we have experimented from time to time with various methods of getting people to renew their subscription to the Herald. For the past two months we have been very lenient with the delinquent subscriber, and have not only sent the usual notification postal before the subscription expired, but have followed this up with a card informing him or her that the subscription had already expired. This has meant a great deal of extra work to the editor, but he did not want to lose any subscriber. But next week we must use the knife. The end of the conference year is close at hand, and this problem belongs to the present management of the Herald. So, if a lot of people do not get any Herald next week, just let them remember that we have been patient and have done our best to get them to renew. Any money that reaches us by Tuesday afternoon of next week will keep that subscriber from being cut off the mailing list. The problem of what to do with the delinquent subscriber is a big one. We confess that we do not know what is the best method to pursue. Herald agents tell us that it is hard to get some people to renew while they are getting the paper.

Calvary Invites Its Pastor to Return

Since others are reporting that quarterly conferences are asking for the return of the present pastor, we will fall in line also and say that Calvary church has asked for the return of its pastor, who also happens to be editor of the Herald.

Henry Floyd Claimed by Death

The daily preses on yesterday carried the news of the passing of Brother Henry Floyd of the Granville charge. Brother Floyd was the father of Mrs. A. C. Bergeron of near High Point. He was a good man.



THE NEW OAK GROVE M. P. CHURCH, CLEVELAND CHARGE
Built 1934 and 1935. Rev. R. S. Troxler, Pastor.

"OUR SUPERANNUATES"

I read with much interest the article by Dr. N. G. Bethea in last week's Herald about the interest of our Superannuates. I have been thinking for several months that I would try to get something before our next Annual Conference through the Committee on Superannuates, or in the form of a resolution.

We have got to do more for our Superannuates, one way or another, and we had just as well face the task squarely.

In the first place, the apportionment to the charges should be at least three times what it is. You will find that there is less than $2,000 apportioned for this purpose. That is less than some of our pastors get as salary. Counting the Superannuates, their wives and widows of Superannuates, you have about 33 persons, who would receive about $60 each if divided among them.

The goal for our Children's Home for this, the 25th year, is set for $25,000. That is not too much—I wish we could raise more. But if we raise this it will be about $227 for each child in the Home. I feel that each beneficiary of the Superannuate fund should receive this much—I mean a Superannuate and his wife should each receive this amount. In the Conference Journal of November, 1920, I notice that some of our Superannuates received as much as $420; that was $210 each for Superannuate and his wife. I do not think any Superannuate and his wife who have rendered service to this conference should receive less.

In our institutions we have a president or superintendent, and in our different boards we have a chairman, who always keep us informed of the needs of the same. But our Superannuates have neither president, superintendent, or chairman to present their needs.

Probably it would be well for us to elect a board of Superannuates whose duty it would be to present their interests to the people, and look after their needs in case of sickness or misfortune.

Let us think and pray over this until our next conference.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH, WEAVERVILLE, N. C.
Rev. W. L. Harkey, Pastor
This church has recently undergone extensive repairs.

NEW KISTLER'S UNION M. P. CHURCH, CLEVELAND CHARGE
Rev. R. S. Troxler, Pastor
This building was erected in 1934 and 1935 and is a consolidation of Pleasant Hill and Kistler's Churches.

Subsidy and the McCulloch Memorial Fund

So many people have asked us the meaning of Subsidy and the McCulloch Memorial Fund that we are again repeating what we have said lots of times before. By Subsidy we mean an assessment over and above the receipts from subscriptions which helps to pay the present expenses of the Herald. The amount is $2.50 for each one hundred members of the church, or fraction thereof. By the McCulloch Memorial Fund we mean the fund that was established by the last Annual Conference to pay the printers for printing the Herald during the last years of Dr. J. F. McCulloch, when the resources from subscriptions were not sufficient to pay expenses. The Subsidy is handled by the editor of the Herald, while the McCulloch Memorial Fund is handled by Dr. C. W. Bates, 906 Carolina Avenue, Winston-Salem.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

WHAT WARS DO TO THE WORLD

Isa. 13:6, 7, 17-22

Topic for November 10

By E. LESTER BALLARD

Preparation

This is a service in commemoration of Armistice Day, and the theme is appropriately Peace. Advertise the meeting with peace posters, home-made, if you have the talent among your Endeavorers; or write to the National Council for Prevention of War, 532 17th St., N. W., Washington, D. C., for information concerning the procuring of posters as well as for other anti-war data.

Decorate the room with one or more U. S. and Christian flags. If you have to make the Christian flag out of paper, be sure to have it. Remember, we are first citizens of the Kingdom of Christ, then of the republic of the U. S. A. If possible to obtain it, have an adult picture of the Christ on the front wall of the room.

Material aplenty is available on this topic. Several articles in our own M. P. Herald for October 17 give facts, as well as suggestions of sources of literature. The Christian Herald for February and May, 1935, contain articles by Smedley D. Butler, Daniel A. Poling Beverly Nichols, and others; also in the February issue, a poem, "Never Again," by Grace Noll Crowell.

The International Journal of Religious Education, 203 N. Wabash Avenue, Chicago. Ill., will furnish needed data. The November issue of this magazine contains several worthwhile 'articles. And don't forget our official church organ, the Methodist Protestant-Recorder, 516 N. Charles St., Baltimore Md. Rev. Raymond W. White gives a splendid supply of material on the C. E. topic each week. The one under discussion here appears in the October 25 edition.

Program

Why not have a report on one or two magazine articles, followed by a general discussion? Or, divide your society into several groups, with a competent leader of each, to take up phases of the war question and report findings to the whole group. Committee meetings could be held during next week in preparation. Suggested subjects: The Financial Cost of War; Taking the Profit Out of War; The Human Cost of War; Ways to Promote Peace; Who Pays?; Who Wins?; Mars or Messiah? Some of these topics are suitable for brief talks, if this is preferable.

A suggested program, which we would not advise to be used "as is," follows. Adapt it to your own needs.

Prelude: "Sweet Peace, the Gift of God's Love," played quietly. (Note: God's peace in the heart is necessary before genuine peace among nations can be established permanently.)

Call for Peace: Psalm 34:12-14, by the leader.

Prayer for peace among individuals.

Hymn: "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind."

Poem: "O Brother Man, Fold to Thy Heart Thy Brother," John G. Whittier.

Connecting Link—Remarks: Peace Without, the Outgrowth of Peace Within; by the leader or selected person.

Meditation: "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," played quietly.

Voice from Without: Luke 2:14, spoken clearly and hopefully.

Hymn: "We've a Story to Tell to the Nations," stanzas 1 and 2.

Prayer for peace among nations.

Participation: (a) Talks or reports on assigned subjects; (b) poem, "Who Goes There?" Thos. G. Clark, or "God the Omnipotent," Henry F. Chorley; (c) open forum for others.

Hymn: "Hail to the Lord's Anointed," M. P. Hymnal, No. 137.

Aaronic Benediction: Numbers 6:24-26; responsively: leader, vs. 24; group, vs. 25; leader, vs. 26; all, Amen.

Pointers

"War is one of the greatest plagues that can afflict humanity: it destroys religion, it destroys states, it destroys families. Any scourge, in fact, is preferable to it. Famine and pestilence become as nothing in comparison with it."—Martin Luther.

"The church is opposed to war. It is opposed to war because Christianity, which is the reason for the church's existence, is opposed to war. Christianity is opposed to war because her Founder, Jesus Christ, taught that love, which is far more powerful than hatred, the cause of war, could satisfactorily adjust the affairs of human relationships on earth. There may be given many reasons for not believing in war. But the Christian's reason is this: Because he believes in the gospel of Jesus Christ."—Raymond W. White.

"The World War cost us 39 billion dollars. Sixteen years have passed. These bills are not paid yet. We will go on paying them all our lives . . . in taxes, and our children after us.

"We already pay taxes, direct and indirect. of about 30 cents out of every dollar we earn. Taxes are bound to increase. Our country spends $83,355 per hour on its army and navy.

"Somebody made money out of the last war . . . or else we wouldn't have had any! Who did? 21,000 millionaires and billionaires emerged from the war profits.

"Is it any wonder that one of the chief means of doing away with war is to take the profit out of war? Limit companies to their average percentage of yield as a profit . . and see whether or not they yell for war!" —C. E. World Quarterly.

Briefs from Dr. Harry Thos. Stock, in the C E. World Quarterly:

1. Wars make liars of the people of the world.
2. Wars make wholesale murderers of the people of the nations.
3. Wars destroy our civilization.
4. Wars make wars.
5. Wars interfere with the future prospects of millions of men.
6. Wars pile up tremendous debts for the next generation to pay.
7. Wars halt progress.

Topic for November 17: Investments in Health — Physical, Mental, and Spiritual. Prov. 4:20-27.

MISS MARY MITCHELL BAITY VICE PRESIDENT

Miss Mary Mitchell Baity, a member of Henderson church, was elected vice president of the freshman class of High Point College last week when the class met for organization.

Miss Baity, a graduate of Henderson high school, entered High Point College this year as a freshman and is already taking part in various extra-curricular activities on the campus. She is a member of the Artemesian Literary Society, the Christian Endeavor Society, and will as soon as she has gained the required number of points join the Women's Sport Association.

M. P. CHILDREN'S HOME SPECIAL

We are making up our honor roll of the churches which have made regular monthly offerings to the Home, or more. If you hold any money for the Home which you wish to have counted in this year's report, please get it to us at the earliest possible moment. Because of the conference faculty meeting in Henderson at 2 o'clock next Tuesday we must leave Tuesday. We plan to remain here for the morning mail on Tuesday, so mail your Sunday collections on Monday and they should reach us Tuesday. Thank you.

Yours in His service,

A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

Special on Anniversary Gift

At the last minute a birthday offering came of $1.20, addition from First church, Thomasville. With that amount we lack just $10.25 of reaching $3,000 on the anniversary gift

Note that the harvest home offerings are beginning to come in, and we appreciate them very greatly. Those coming in so far have been good. We call special attention to the one from Level Cross on Randleman. That church is among the smaller churches of the conference and yet they sent us eight dozen half-gallon cans filled with fruits and vegetables. The one from North Davidson, just brought in today, was fine also. The pastor kindly brought it to us himself. Send them or bring them if you can, but if not, let us know where to send for them. Thank you and God bless you every one.

Yours in His service,

A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

MISSES MARY MARGARET AND HELEN BATES HONORED

High Point, N. C., Oct. 26.—Among the students honored at High Point College in recent elections were Mary Margaret Bates and Helen Bates, of Winston-Salem, junior and freshman at the Methodist Protestant institution.

Mary Margaret, who is president of the Christian Endeavor Society, vice president of the Modern Priscilla Club, and a member of various organizations on the campus, was chosen last night as one of the college marshals for the ensuing year. Marshals at High Point College are selected from the junior class by the faculty with regard to scholarship, dependability, leadership, and personal appearance.

Helen, a graduate of R. J. Reynolds high school, was elected representative of the freshmen to the Women's Dormitory Student Government. She has, since she entered High Point College this fall as a freshman, joined various organizations. She is a member of the Nikanthan Literary Society, the Christian Endeavor Society, the Y. W. C. A., and the Woman's Sports Association. She was recently one of the three members of the freshman class to be added to the staff of the college newspaper, the Hi-Po.

Mary Margaret and Helen are the daughters of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Bates.

MAX ROGERS CLASS PRESIDENT

High Point, N. C., Oct. 26.—Mr. Max Rogers, of Denton, N. C., son of Mr. J. G. Rogers, was elected president of the freshman class of High Point College this week when the class met for organization.

Mr. Rogers, a graduate of Denton high school, attended school at Burlington, N. C., until his junior year, when he moved to Denton. He entered the freshman class at High Point College this fall as a pre-medical student, but began his medical course in summer school this past session. He is a popular member of the freshman class, and has recently been chosen to play the part of Donald, the love-sick would-be artist in the dramatic performance, "Three-Cornered Moon," which will be presented by the college's Little Theatre in November.

He is also a member of the A Capella Choir, the Akrothinian Literary Society, and the Christian Endeavor Society.

MISS INZA HILL ELECTED COLLEGE MARSHAL

High Point, N. C.—Miss Inza Hill, of our Denton church, was elected college marshal by the faculty last Friday.

She was selected along with six other members of the junior class for her high scholastic standing, appearance, dependability, and leadership.

Miss Hill, one of the most popular co-eds on the campus, has been prominent in many of the extra-curricular activities of the college since she entered as a freshman. She is vice president of the Nikanthan Literary Society, treasurer of the C. E. Society, member of the Y. W. C. A., Art Club, Woman's Sports Council and Association, and on the Hi-Po, weekly newspaper, staff. She was treasurer of the Woman's Student Government Association in her sophomore year, and a member of the Little Theatre of College Play Production group.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE NEWS

The faculty of High Point College Friday elected the college marshals for the coming year. They had to come from the junior class and had to be scholastically in the upper third of the group. Appearance, dependability, and leadership were determining factors in the selection. Those chosen were: Chief marshal, Paul Owen, Shoals, N. C.; Miss Mary Margaret Bates, Winston-Salem; Miss Inza Hill, Denton; Alton Hartman, Mocksville; Miss Margaret Dixon, Miss Frances Gueth, and William Weisner, High Point.

The above named students will marshal at all formal college programs such as lyceum programs and commencement.

For the first time since the organization of the four literary societies on the campus the joint memberships will meet together every fifth Thursday during the coming year. There will be only two such gatherings this year. The first falls on All-Hallow's eve and the last in April.

In the past the brother and sister societies have held joint meetings and socials, as have also the two women's and the two men's organizations, but they have never come together in one large group. The heads of these organizations hope that this venture will result in more good-will and co-operation among the entire group. There has always been a friendly rivalry and keen competition between the four societies.

Fall rush week for the six campus Greek letter social clubs has been on the campus during the past week. Only upperclassmen who have attended the college for a previous semester are eligible to receive bids at the end of this period. Rushing will continue through Monday, at which time official bids will be issued through the office of Dean Lindley.

The High Point soccer team took the first step last Saturday in their desperate attempt to lengthen their winning streak to six consecutive years, when they mastered the Catawba College Indians by the count of 5-0 at Salisbury. The strong defense displayed by Coach Culler's team and the wonderful showing of the new men and reserves were the outstanding features of the game.

The freshmen started their cage drills last Wednesday afternoon, with a large group reporting. However, more are expected later. These drills are held early in the fall and enable the coach to determine those freshmen with varsity ability. The players showing exceptional ability on the court will later be shifted to the Panther varsity.

With the soccer season now in full swing, Coach Yow has called a halt in the fall baseball practice. After three weeks of drills, the candidates out for positions on the Panther nine next spring showed much improvement. Due to the fact that many of the players are on the soccer squad, Yow decided to stop drills until the Pointers enter the North State conference race next spring.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Love Joy, Seagrove-Love Joy Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. E. G. Cowan, filled his last appointment today, giving us a fine sermon, taking his text from Matthew, 10th chapter, 32nd and 33rd verses.

The second Sunday in October at the close of the preaching service our pastor had the church officers elected and installed, as follows: Sunday school superintendent, D. F. Hulin; assistant S. S. superintendent, Clyde Green; S. S. secretary, Gatha Hamilton; church officers: class leaders, Hobart Reynolds, Paul Hamilton, Winborn Hulin, Charles Russell, Coie Moore, J. G. Strickland, and Att Russell; trustees for church, Garfield Hamilton, Clyde Green, D. F. Hulin, W. L. Atkins, and D. F. Suggs; stewards, J. G. Strickland, Clyde Green, Charles Russell, D. F. Suggs, Coie Moore, Theodore Hulin, Thomas Russell, and D. W. Hamilton; church treasurer, Hobart Reynolds; church reporter and Herald agent, Mrs. Charles Russell; pianist, Miss Gatha Hamilton; church clerk, Hobart Reynolds; Sunday school teachers: Men's Bible Class, H. F. Hulin; Ladies' Bible Class, Mrs. Clara Hoffman; Young People's Class, Mr R. J. Elliott; Intermediate Class, Mr. Kenneth Galloway; Junior Class, Mrs. Garfield Hamilton; Primary Class, Mrs. Charles Russell; Beginners, Mrs. Hazel Atkins. We elected assistant teachers for all classes.

The third Sunday in October the Billie Sunday Club No. 15, from Winston-Salem, was with us in the afternoon at 2 o'clock. They had a fine service and a large crowd of people. We are hoping Bro. Cowan and wife will come back to us for another year. We have learned to love these good people and love to work with them. We are looking forward to a good year's work next year. Hope our Sunday school attendance will increase.

MRS. C. T. RUSSELL, Reporter.

Knob Creek, Fallston Charge.—The auxiliary met last Wednesday with Mrs. Jessie Willis. Miss Zella Willis and Mrs. Lovie Chapman acted as joint hostesses. The president, Mrs. A. J. Jeffers, presided at the meeting. The memory quilt, just finished, has added $26.65 to the treasury.

On September 11 we entertained all the circles on the charge in a joint meeting held at the church. Mrs. A. J. Jeffers had charge of the program. Mrs. F. B. Toney presided over the business meeting. Mrs. B. L. Heavner, district chairman, made a short talk and presented a mission study book to the society. All the circles on the charge were represented at the meeting. The next joint meeting will be held at Laurel Hill church November 14.

We had 99 present at Sunday school yesterday morning. Mr. Fogleman preached at 11 o'clock. Church and Sunday school officers were elected at this service.

The fifth Sunday rally met with us September 29. Rev. R. S. Troxler preached in the morning. Bess Chapel Missionary Auxiliary gave a missionary pageant in the afternoon. A number of preachers and laymen made short talks.

The fourth quarterly conference was held here Saturday. Our church was able to report pastor's salary, A. C. B. and G. C. B. paid in full. This is the best work done any time recently by the church. The quarterly conference voted unanimously for Mr. Fogleman to return. B. A. Sain was elected alternate.

Our Sunday school and church misses the presence of Mrs. W. W. Richard, who is now confined in the hospital at Pinehurst. We hope she may return to us soon.

MAGGIE MYRR CHAPMAN, Reporter.

Harmony Church, Yarborough Charge.—We all hate to see the conference year come to a close but we are all 100 per cent for our present pastor coming back. He has been very faithful in his work and visiting in our homes and he has put the church paper in lots of homes where it has never been before. We sincerely hope he will be sent back to be with us another year.

The ladies of the community have raised enough money to put a new heater in church and buy new curtains for the Sunday school classes, and are planning on painting the church.

May the new year be more prosperous.

REPORTER.

Halifax Charge.—We are glad to report to the readers of the Herald that Halifax charge is not dead, even though we have not been doing very much reporting through the church paper for some time. Our spirits are high and we are working faithfully to have one of the best reports to take to conference that the circuit has had for several years. Our spirits have never been dead but our hands have been crippled by the hard times and we have been unable to do that which we were anxious to do. The people of eastern Carolina are beginning to get back on their feet again financially, and I do not hesitate to say that you are going to see a marked improvement in the reports to the Annual Conference from this section as they reach normal financial conditions again.

We are glad to report that some of our churches are going to pay pastor's salary and all conference claims in full, which has not been done for several years. Our charge is clothing three children at our Children's Home, one each being clothed by the Eden, Hollister and Union-Ringwood Auxiliaries Bethesda Auxiliary has also been sending clothing to the Home, though they have not assumed responsibility for clothing any one child. These auxiliaries are keeping their budgets paid up to date or in advance. The Union-Ringwood Auxiliary is having a new roof put on Union church. We are very proud of the splendid work the women of our churches are doing.

At the last meeting of the Union-Ringwood Auxiliary the pastor was called from the room in which we were having our meeting to meet an unexpected caller at the front door. On stepping from the living room into the hall of Miss Mattie Anderson's home, he saw a wagon loaded with all kinds of good things to go in a pantry, then he began to hear laughing and giggling in the room he had just stepped from. Of course a trick had been played on him, and a very clever one, but he was not offended in the least even though the trick was pulled on him, but to the contrary he was made very glad. Because all the gifts were useful and much needed at the parsonage. The pastor and family appreciate more than words can tell the spirit of good will and love that prompted this pounding, and to each donor they feel very grateful.

Since our last report Mrs. J. R. Dickens donated to the parsonage of our charge a large and expensive refrigerator. It has been quite a while since she made this splendid gift, but it has been even longer since our last report. The pastor and family appreciate this gift very much and we feel that the entire charge is indebted to her for this donation.

We have not accomplished all we wished to during this conference year, but our work, though hard, has been pleasant. We have a people on this charge to be appreciated, and they were kind enough to vote to allow the return of the present pastor for another year if he so chooses. This we appreciate and hope that next year will be a greater one for them than they have ever had before.

O. C. LOY.

Fountain Place and Gibsonville.—Fountain Place has made a financial record this year. Mr. A. V. Amick and Mr. Lednum Amick deserve much credit for this faithful work. Mr. V. A. Amick has worked to make the Herald quota go over.

Pastor's salary at this church was paid ten days before Annual Conference. Mr. Talton Johnson, Jr., son of Rev. T. M. Johnson, D. D., has been elected Sunday school superintendent to take the place of Mr. G. L. Amick, who has served so faithfully for many years. Other good things will be reported from this church at the Annual Conference.

Gibsonville church has made a fine showing this year. Has paid Annual Conference budget and pastor's salary in full more than a week before conference. Will raise good part on World Service and college, etc. The church hut has been improved, the parsonage has been furnished bedroom suites, the kitchen with electric stove and refrigerator and kitchen cabinet, and the people have been very liberal with poundings and gifts.

Thanks to Mesdames J. T. Roundtree, W. S. Jennings and D. M. Davidson for truckload of kindling wood, and to D. M. Davidson for set of automobile tires. Many other donors have been good to us and we cannot forget.

Our new Sunday school superintendent is Mr. F. R. Owen.

Looking forward for a good conference among the Henderson people, I am

R. C. STUBBINS.

Rankin Memorial Church.—On the past Sunday our first communion service was held in the new church. It was a very impressive service, with a large number taking part. Our pastor, Rev. Edw. Suits, brought us an inspiring sermon at the 11 o'clock hour also. Interest and attendance have been increasing each Sunday since coming into the new church building.

Joash Day was observed on the past Sunday and proved to be quite a success.

New officers of the church were elected recently, with the following being elected: Superintendent of the Sunday school, A. L. McBride; assistant, J. A. Lee; trustees, W. T. Kennedy, P. L. Pegram, J. S. Loflin, and C. J. Burton; stewards, Dewey Cates, J. A.

Bowers, M. J. Setzer, C. M. Queen, A. L. McBride, Charlie Loflin, and Kathleen Embler; church reporter, Mrs. M. J. Setzer; ushers, Charles Loflin, P. M. Daily, and C. M. Queen; treasurer, Dewey Cates; and class leader, Mrs. A. N. Lineback.

The fourth quarterly conference of this charge will be held on Monday evening of this week at the West Thomasville church.

We are very sorry to report that one of our most faithful members, Mrs. J. C. Johnson, has been ill for some time and unable to attend services. We wish for her a very speedy recovery.

Chapel Hill, Davidson Charge.—Rev. E. A. Bingham preached a good sermon for us today. We are expecting him with us for another year and shall be disappointed if he is not returned to us. We have preaching the third and fourth Sundays. The Lord's Supper was observed the third Sunday with a large number partaking. We were glad to see so many take that much interest.

Our Sunday school attendance is fairly good. We cannot get people to come out in large numbers. I sometimes wonder why people do not like to go to Sunday school. We have enough people in the community to make a large Sunday school if they would come out.

Our pastor's salary has not all been paid yet. There are so many that do not pay that it makes it hard on the faithful few. We must all work together. We must pay Bro. Bingham what was promised him at Chapel Hill. We must get it up before he goes to conference, and I think we will. We ask all Christian people to pray for us.

MRS. LIZZIE CRANFORD.

Alamance Charge.—It is somewhat unusual for a pastor to be pounded at the close of the conference year. On the third Sunday in this month the members of Bethel church gave this pastor a generous pounding, completely filling the Ford, consisting of almost everything needed for the pantry, a large per cent of the membership participating. Since some names were not given, and to save space, we will not give any names. The Lord knows who they are. May the blessings of heaven rest upon each one.

Just recently Mrs. Clyde Thompson united with Bethel church, coming from Saxapahaw M. E. church, South. We were glad to receive this splendid Christian woman into our fellowship. Her two children joined this church during the revival on profession of faith. We are gratified to report that 55 members have been added to the churches this year.

First Church, Burlington.—Our fourth quarterly conference met on Wednesday night, October 23. A large crowd was present and much business was transacted. God's great goodness and love were manifested in the splendid reports of this year's work.

Financially this has been the best year in the history of our church. The treasurer's books were closed at the conference. There is money in the treasury to pay all bills and a balance with which to start the new year. Our stewards and preacher have not talked money this year. We had a three-month tithing campaign and many continued tithing. The people gave for the joy of giving.

Our Sunday school superintendent reported that over 16,000 people attended Sunday school during the past year. All Sunday school bills are paid and there is a balance in the treasury.

Our church officers were installed last Sunday morning. We pray for God's blessing on each officer. May each officer strive to do his work well so that the Master may say, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

Our members voted last Sunday morning to cover the main auditorium and hut.

We pray for the work and workers of our Annual Conference, and we hope that every preacher and delegate will carry good reports to the conference.

Hobbs Chapel, Greensville Charge.—After two weeks of "honeymooning" in Maryland, West Virginia, and North Carolina, our pastor, Rev. Eugene Lamb, accompanied by Mrs. Lamb, met the appointment at Hobbs last Sunday. Bro. Lamb brought us a very interesting and timely message, using for his subject "Mountain Top Experiences in Religion." He said some sects as well as some people believed that one should have mountain-top experiences all the time: that is, experience the emotional side of religion. However, he believed that there were three sides to be developed to be truly religious: the mental, the emotional, and the practical, and without these three one became unbalanced.

Bro. Lamb came to us when religion was questioned, faith shaken, and the work almost at a standstill; he came here from the seminary, young and inexperienced; he has visited his folks, preached a practical doctrine, and has gone about doing good. With his companion to help him, we believe he can accomplish greater things here next year. We trust that the coming Annual Conference will see fit to return them to this work for the coming year. And we warn you other folks to not ask for them, please!

Flat Rock Charge.—The fourth quarterly conference for Flat Rock charge was held at Bethany church last Saturday afternoon with a fairly good attendance of official members from all the churches. The business was transacted in a spirit of harmony. Reports made by the pastor, Sunday school superintendents and other officials indicated much progress was made during the past quarter. The pastor reported a net increase in membership of approximately 30 during the year. The license of Rev. G. A. Middleton, of Gideon's Grove church, was renewed for another year. Bro. H. M. Combs, of Bethel church, was elected alternate delegate to the Annual Conference. The pastor's salary was fixed at $1,100 for next year and the conference voted unanimously for the return of the present pastor for the third year. Palestine church was the only church paying the pastor's salary in full for the year. Two other churches were nearly paid in full, these being Gideon's Grove and Bethel.

At Flat Rock church last Sunday morning the election of church officers was held, the church register was revised, and the ordinance of the Lord's Supper was observed. Mrs. Ira N. Johnson was elected reporter to the Methodist Protestant Herald, and we presume she will send a report of the service.

We were at Bethany church at 3 o'clock and held the election of officers and revised the church register. Mrs. T. F. Humphreys was elected reporter to the Herald and will write a report soon.

Since our last report we have received a number of gifts from our people on Flat Rock charge. We appreciate the gift of more than a bushel of corn from Bro. W. E. Johnson. (The corn is for our hog.) Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. C Tucker, and Mrs. W. E. Johnson have made appropriate gifts also.

This pastor has received poundings at church and at the parsonage and at various times and places, but a nice pounding was given for the first time at a quarterly conference. Last Saturday the people of Bethany church brought a nice assortment of gifts and placed them in our car. We appreciate very much these gifts as tokens of the love and esteem of Bethany church. We did not secure the names of all who had a part in the pounding, but among the names found on packages were McCollums, Simpsons, Lesters Baynes. We thank each one for the gifts.

We will complete our second year as pastor of Flat Rock charge with the services at Bethel and Gideon's Grove churches next Sunday. We trust to have a good report to take to the Annual Conference next week. May we have a most successful and harmonious conference.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Lexington, Mt. Carmel.—The fourth quarterly conference of First church, Lexington, and Mt. Carmel met Tuesday night, October 22, at Mt. Carmel with a large attendance from both churches. Both churches had good reports. Pastor's salary paid to date at both churches. First church had paid several claims. Both auxiliaries had good reports. Mt. Carmel reported they had raised $379.79 the past year. Mr. R. M. Rowe, the delegate to Annual Conference, and Rev. O. C. Loy were asked to come to the front after all business had been transacted and take a vote as to whom we wanted for our pastor next year. The vote was unanimous for the return of our present pastor for his eighth year. Rev. Mr. Isley and mother have been very faithful the past seven years, putting their whole heart and soul into the work. Rev. O. C. Loy made a short talk before they adjourned. Rev. Mr. Loy is not a stranger at Mt. Carmel, as he has helped in two revivals. We were very glad to have him and Mrs. Loy and son with us on this occasion.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Mt. Carmel met with Mrs. H. V. Swicegood on West Eighth avenue, Lexington, Friday night, October 25 The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Hattie Isley. Rev. C. G. Isley led in prayer. Mr. H. V. Swicegood read the Scripture lesson. Short readings were given by Miss Beautus Waitmon, Mrs. Clifton Rowe and Zula Fritts.

The following officials were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. Hattie Isley, president; Miss Beautus Waitmon, vice president; Miss Vada Swicegood, secretary; Zula Fritts treasurer devotional leader, Mrs. W. W Swicegood; pastor's aid, Mrs. Clifton Rowe. Mrs. Oscar Coppley, Mrs. R. M. Fritts; social committee, Mrs. Paul Tysinger, Mrs. H. G Swicegood, and Mrs. Early Hedrick.

The ladies were very successful in serving meals at the Davidson county fair under the leadership of Mr. R. M. Rowe; $145 was received from these sales after all expenses were paid.

A heating system of some kind will be put in the Sunday school rooms shortly.

Next Sunday, November 3, will be the last appointment for this year. The stewards have asked that we tithe at this time. Also all officials are urged to be present for the installation service at that time. The communion service will be held at this time too.

Mebane.—We are closing up the year's work well. We expect to pay all claims in full and expect the return of our pastor and wife. Church officers were elected yesterday at the morning service. The evening service was a picture service, showing pictures of the development of Methodism. One of the interesting things of the day was having J. L Amick, of Graham, to teach the Baraca Class. Mr. Amick was a member of our church several years ago and we always enjoy having him with us. We have not forgotten how he labored shoulder to shoulder with those of us who were here in the earlier days of our church, thus doing his part to promote the Kingdom through this church. We hope he will come again.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Smith, the oldest members of our church, have been too feeble to attend church regularly for some time. We miss them and hope they may soon be at their accustomed places. Mrs. Julius Cheek and daughter, Elevene, have been sick for several weeks but are improving, we are glad. Mrs. J. W. Nicholson has been put to bed for a rest. We hope this much needed rest will soon bring her back to her normal strength.

The Sunday school is planning a fish fry and general good time Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Terrell. We hope every member will be present.

Mrs. J. R. Boone, of Hebron, is in Rainey hospital, Burlington, having undergone a major operation last Monday. She is a sister of J. W. and H. C. Nicholson. Our prayers are for her speedy recovery.

The Woman's Auxiliary held their monthly meeting Monday night at the church. Circle No. 2, Mrs. J. E. Barnette, chairman, gave a very interesting program.

MRS. H. C. NICHOLSON.

Kernersville.—The Ladies' Aid Society recently held a very interesting meeting with Mrs. Clint Dillon as November hostess. The treasurer, Mrs. A. N. Linville, reported $106 in the treasury. This organization plans to repaint the church soon.

Our church is making good, according to the reports heard at the fourth quarterly conference which was held last Saturday afternoon.

We have paid the pastor's salary and are now raising the balance on the Annual Conference budget. The quarterly conference instructed our delegate, Miss Hazel Hendrix. to request the stationing committee to return our pastor for another year.

Our pastor preached Sunday night. His subject was "Wandering Thoughts."

We have elected our church officers for the new conference year. They are: Board of stewards, A. N. Linville, Paul Butner, Mrs. Clay Parrish, and Mrs. Pink Linville; trustees, A. N. Linville, Seymour Albert, and Charles Cooke.

The men of our church and Sunday school have organized a "Fellowship Club" which meets monthly. You will hear from their reporter soon.

Our parsonage trustees expect to have the parsonage repainted before conference meets

A very sad death occurred in our midst about six weeks ago. On September 18, 1935 Mrs. C. R. Ragland, age 60 years, slipped quickly from this life into the beyond. She had been in declining health for the past five years, but her death came as a complete shock to her family and friends. Former pastors of this charge, their families and all who were privileged to know her will remember Mrs. Ragland as one devoted to her family, interested in religious and civic affairs, and never too busy to search for and aid suffering humanity. She will be greatly missed in the community which she served, but her kind, loving disposition and influence will live always in the minds of her family and all who knew her. Those surviving are her husband, C. R. Ragland; six children, Misses Meta and Fleta Ragland Mrs. Fay Ragland Butner, Messrs. Joseph, Kemp, and Vinson Ragland; also three grandchildren, Sue Butner, Jimmie and Barbara Anne Ragland. The family wishes to thank all the Herald readers who have so lovingly extended their sympathy during these sad days. FAY RAGLAND BUTNER, Reporter.

First Church, Burlington.—Our church is closing one of its best years in many respects, as evidenced by the reports submitted at the fourth quarterly conference held on October 23. The treasurer reported that funds were in hand to pay every claim for the year, and that a balance of $200 or more remained in hand. Previously $575 had been placed in a reserve fund for a new church building at some future time, as a result of our tithing campaign last spring.

The Sunday school superintendent, H. W. Wade, reported that an average attendance of more than 320 for the year had been maintained, despite the request that children not attend the school during the infantile paralysis epidemic last summer. An average offering of $17.50 per Sunday was contributed for the expense of the school, and monthly offerings averaging around $20 have been sent to the Children's Home. All bills for the school have been paid, with a nice balance in treasury.

The Woman's Auxiliary has also had a good year, and reported through the president Miss Bettie Thompson, that all budgets of the auxiliary were paid to date

Without a dissenting vote the delegate to conference, W. W. Wiles, was instructed to ask for the return of our pastor, Dr. F. W Paschall, for his sixth year, and salary was fixed at $2,250, an increase of $250. James Crutchfield was elected alternate delegate,

In addition to paying pastor and all local expenses in full, all Annual and General Conference claims are met, the Herald quota has been more than secured, Herald subsidy paid and McCulloch Memorial Fund of $150 paid in full.

Many other worthwhile accomplishments for the year are in evidence, and our only regret is that we cannot report an ingathering of souls such as we should have had. While the efforts along this line have been productive of some results, they are not what a church of this size should have had; for this is the supreme mission of the church.

The new officers were elected on October 20 and installed yesterday morning, and First church is now ready to begin the new conference year. Envelopes will probably be furnished the membership this week so that we may begin using them the first Sunday in November. Included in the many officers who were installed are W. E. Smith, who becomes superintendent of the Sunday school; H. B. Cole, chairman of board of stewards; John C. Jones, church treasurer; Miss Mabel Thornburg, reporter; and H. W. Wade, chairman of board of trustees. The list is too long to give in full, but we feel sure all will be right on the job that we may have an equally good report for 1936. S. Q. C.

Albemarle.—Just one more appointment before we start to the Annual Conference. We are closing our first year with the Albemarle church, and we feel we have made some very dear friends during this year. In fact they have proved their loyalty to their pastor. And as I have a birthday every year, of course I had one this year, and the people remembered me with many nice things. Later the men of the church handed me a purse of $11.20 to purchase a pair of shoes. And the Ladies' Aid wanted Mrs. Williams to look nice at conference, so they gave her $10 to buy a new dress. We appreciate all the good people have done for us, and if it were not for our heavy church debt we could and would pay all conference claims, for the people here are loyal. D. R. WILLIAMS.

Bethesda-State Street-Yadkin College. — A full attendance and a spirit of worship were pronounced during the special meeting in each of the three churches. The spirit of revival was present. At Yadkin College, one profession, one accession. At Bethesda, ten professions, ten accessions. At State Street. four professions, four accessions during the meeting. Two joined later on profession of faith, and twelve have joined during the year by letter, seven adults and five young people making eighteen in all for State Street.

Rev. Edw. Suits did the preaching at Bethesda and Rev. H. Freo Surratt at State Street.. Each did earnest, impressive preaching. It was interesting to note during those meetings how the plain gospel, clearly and forcefully presented, attracts and impresses people, though presented through personalities wholly differing from each other, and in style of preaching not at all alike—but it's the same gospel.

Both Bethesda and State Street will pay accepted amount for World Service in full. State Street will pay all claims in full and by the generous offer of J. A. Walser will reduce the debt in the sum of $1,000. Bethesda is near enough out that it would be a pity not to finish and report all claims paid in full Twelve members of Bethesda Women's Bible Class read, each, through the New Testament recently.

The Lord's Acre plan is being worked successfully by the Bethesda Christian Endeavor Society and the auxiliary. The C. E. Society cultivated a patch of cotton which is making an encouraging yield. The auxiliary cultivated garden plots mainly, some members are turning in proceeds from the poultry yard or the dairy lot. The auxiliary has 60 half-gallon jars filled for the Children's Home and netted $25 for the India hospital by working a quilt square.

Bethesda Sunday school has given a Bible or Testament to every member of the Sunday school, including teachers and superintendent.

Third Sunday in October was Joash Day for Bethesda. The amount needed to finish paying all claims, $232, was the goal; $179 was put into the Joash Box.

When Bethesda holds Rally Day on first Sunday in November, both churches will have held all the special day services planned by the general church. Officers have been elected and installed for the coming year at both churches.

It has been suggested, but not definitely decided, to make second Sunday in November "Planning and Pledging Day" for the coming year, using the "honor system."

State Street Christian Endeavor Society puts a temperance fact or thought into the program the last Sunday in each month Thirteen members of the society reported 546 chapters read in the Bible during last month.

Two suppers served by State Street Auxiliary recently netted $46.50 and $57, respectively. The auxiliary has a quilt in the process of making, with names of contributors stamped on it. Thirty-six dollars has been received and $10 or more is expected by the sale of the quilt when finished.

First Sunday in October was a good day for State Street. Interesting Rally Day program by young people and children during the Sunday school hour, directed, of course by older heads. The offering was not so large but gratifying. Joash Day activities followed; the activities consisted of a steady stream of folks, of all ages, marching single file by the Joash Box, dropping in their Joash envelopes. One hundred and eighty-five dollars was the amount received, $150 having been set for the goal.

State Street Cradle Roll is being reorganized.

Mr. John Lee Foust, of Bethesda church, is delegate to the Annual Conference.

Shiloh, Shiloh Charge.—I don't know whether it is necessary for me to report much of our financial work or not. Most of it has been reported before; but briefly, some of our work is as follows: Pastor's salary paid in full, World Service paid in full, A. C. expense in full, superannuates in full, college in full, A. C. deficit in full, local church expenses paid, church floor painted, new carpeting put down and paid for, Sunday school building repaired, a $3,000 parsonage completed and over half paid for. Of course much of this is extra to what last year's work was. We hope that the remaining indebtedness shall be paid within a reasonable time.

On Sunday, October 20, the communion service was observed. Our pastor preached a very appropriate sermon, using Hebrews 2:9 as a text. Next Sunday will be the last appointment for this conference year, but the fourth quarterly conference which was held last Saturday voted unanimously for his return.

Our church has also shown much spiritual life in all organizations and among all ages. Our monthly prayer services, which are conducted by different Sunday school classes or organizations each time, have shown great spiritual life in the church and is a great help in the growth and spiritual progress. Our Woman's Auxiliary has done a wonderful work. The Sunday school has been good and shown great interest and good attendance. A new roll is made at the beginning of each quarter. The enrollment for the last quarter is 227 and last Sunday 217 were in attendance.

The pageant, "The Lost Church," will be presented by the Woman's Auxiliary next Sunday night. This was to have been given the third Sunday but Mrs. Kyle Sink, who was one of the leading characters, was taken to the Davidson hospital for an appendix operation. She has recovered nicely and was taken home last Monday. Miss Emma Berrier, who has been a patient at the Burrus Memorial hospital, High Point, from an operation, is at home and recovering nicely. There has been sickness among some other members of our church, among whom are Mrs. W. B Swicegood, Mrs. Mollie Waitman, Mrs. Vilas Swicegood, Miss Edith Lanning and probably others. We hope for all these a speedy recovery.

It was announced through last week's Herald that Shiloh church had reached the quota for Herald subscriptions. We hope that the paper will prove to be a great help to all the new readers. Pray for us in our work.

First Church, High Point.—Church Loyalty Day was observed Sunday, October 27, with splendid attendance upon both services. The stewards were served breakfast at the church and started on the every member canvass at 8:30 and worked until 9:45. In the afternoon the work was resumed and at the end of the day gratifying results had been achieved The pastor brought a splendid message at the morning service on "Victories of Faith." At the evening service Rev. J. Elwood Carroll brought the message on "Dividends from a Life Investment in the Church."

Monday was another busy day. The chairman of the board of ushers, Mr. J. H. Pritchard, arranged a supper meeting for the entire board at the church at 6:15 o'clock. If one may judge by the care the ladies who prepared the meal took to have everything just right, it would certainly be said that the ushers are an important set of men. And certainly no one doubts that the services the ushers of the church render Sunday after Sunday is of a great deal of importance in creating a reverential atmosphere and at the same time a feeling of cordial welcome.

The fourth quarterly conference met Monday evening also.

If ever a church was served by a man who gave himself unstintedly, this one was this year, in the person of Rev. J. C. Madison. He has spared no effort to build up the church along all lines, not forgetting that the Kingdom of God must be built by individuals. It was quite natural that such wholehearted endeavor should be met by the wholehearted unanimous request for his return to this church for the coming year.

Thirty-five of our Junior Christian Endeavorers attended the recent district C. E. rally at Mt. Pleasant church. The Young People's Society presented a pageant, "The War," and a quartet from our junior church rendered special music.

Several changes were made in the official personnel here in the recent church elections Mr. J. C. Whitesell succeeded Mr. A. J. Koonce as chairman of the board of stewards; Dr. L. H. Zimmerman succeeds Mr. C. C. Robbins as president of the Laymen's Fellowship; Mr. Ralph Vance succeeds Mr. J. H Jennings as superintendent of the Sunday school; Miss Myrtle Davis succeeds herself as superintendent of junior church; Miss Grace Koonce succeeds Mrs. R. M. Andrews as reporter.

Following the usual custom, the church invited the college faculty and student body to an evening of fun and fellowship. The committee in charge of the program planned a most unique one which seemed to meet the approval of the guests of the occasion.

We are sorry to report the grave illness of Mr. H. M. Sechrest, one of our oldest members, also that Mrs. T. C. Potts and Mrs. A W. Gibson are patients in a local hospital

We welcome to our cradle roll the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Gibson.

Our felicitations go to Sarah Louise Bundy infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Bundy, on being granddaughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. A. York.

As this reporter bows off the scene, she most heartily commends Miss Grace Koonce who will assume her new duties by next reporting time.

Gibsonville.—Sunday evening, October 20. at 7:30 p. m. the Young Ladies' Circle of the Woman's Auxiliary presented a very interesting play called "Let Mary Do It." It was well given and very helpful. The church was crowded and a splendid offering was received. Mrs. D. M. Davidson directed the play.

The Woman's Auxiliary met in the church hut Wednesday evening, October 16, at 5 o'clock for a review of their study book. This review was conducted by Mrs. F. R. Owen, Mrs. B. B. Greeson, and Mrs. W. L. Robinson. At the conclusion a covered dish supper was held. A business session followed. Later a social hour was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Jennings have returned from a visit to Winchester, Va.

Mrs. J. R. Apple is ill at her home here.

Bellemont, Mt. Hermon Charge.—Mr. Whitehead preached his last sermon of the conference year on Sunday morning, October 27 to a large audience. Sometimes we become discouraged and feel that people do not attend church as they should, but the increase in both the Sunday school and preaching services last Sunday was very encouraging.

Our new church officers were elected last Sunday morning. Mr. Whitehead reminded them of the great task that was before them, but that the co-operation of the entire membership was the first essential in carrying on the work.

Miss Carrie Nicholson will represent our church at the Annual Conference in Henderson.

Mr. V. B. Webster has been unable to attend church on account of sickness. He spent some time in the hospital, but last Sunday he was back at his regular place in church. We hope that he continues to improve.

There will be a Hallowe'en party at the hut next Saturday night, November 2. The Ladies' Auxiliary is sponsoring this party and they are urging everyone to be present to enjoy an evening of fun and at the same time to help a good cause.

A wedding of interest in our community occurred last Saturday when Miss Mattie Rich became the bride of Mr. Walter Cates. These young people are from our church and we wish for them much joy and happiness.

Union Grove Church, Mocksville Charge.—Rev. R. L. Hethcox filled his last appointment for this conference year last Sunday night, October 27. His sermon was beautiful. His text was taken from the 11th verse of the first chapter of St. John, "He came unto his own and his own received him not."

The Sunday school is getting a secretary's blackboard. This will be of much help to the secretary. The new officers for Sunday school are: Mr. Fleet Madison, superintendent; Flora Mae Wooten, secretary and treasurer.

The Christian Endeavor Society started off this quarter with more interest and better attendance than it has for several quarters. We're hoping this quarter will be the best in Union Grove Christian Endeavor history. The officers are as follows: Flora Mae Wooten, president; Sadie White, secretary and treasurer and C. E. reporter. Our contest for this quarter is having three groups instead of two. The captains look after their groups and see that they get all the points coming to them, including attendance, collection, sword drill points, and new members.

Asheville.—Conference just around the corner! Church members getting excited about the return of their particular preacher. I wonder if it would not be wiser to adopt a philosophical attitude and believe that "whichever way the wind doth blow, some one is glad to have it so!" 'Twould also be more to the point to make up our minds to continue doing our especial duties and co-operating gladly in any general project, whatever happens. Let's try that, for our church must go on whether Mr. Minnis is returned or not, and we need the co-operation of every member to make it go.

Our attendance is still splendid. Every effort possible is being made to put us "over the top" financially, and we believe, with every one doing his part, it can be done. A supper and Hallowe'en party is planned for Wednesday evening under the auspices of Mrs. Y. D. and D. J. Eller, Mrs. J. R. Moore Mrs. J. W. Gentry and Miss Nell Carter. A good attendance is expected. Another supper is scheduled for Monday night, November 4 before the pastor and our delegate, Mr. J. W Boling, leave for conference. This is also the night for the meeting of the fourth quartery conference.

Our sympathy is extended Miss Joan Capehart in the loss of her brother during the past week.

Mrs. Hale Thomas and Mrs. J. O. Barrett are on our sick list, We trust they may soon be well again,

Mr. Minnis brought us a splendid message on Sunday morning on the subject, "Be a Good Neighbor." At the evening hour the Woman's Auxiliary held its fall thank-offering program. Mrs. J. F. Minnis, president of the auxiliary, explained the reason for the program and introduced Mrs. J. S. Williams who had charge of the program. Interesting reports were given of the work of our church in both home and foreign missions by the following women: Mrs. E. A. Bolick, Mrs. H. O. Charnock, Mrs. J. F. Minnis, and Mrs. C. B. Baker.

At a recent meeting of the church the following members were elected to office:

Church trustees, J. R. Moore, chairman R. R. Hanner, E. H. Pratt, J. W. Boing; parsonage trustees, Mrs. L. M. Joyner, Mrs. J. S Williams, Mrs. D. J. Eller, Mrs. Hale Thomas Mrs. J. R. Moore; stewards, J. R. Moore chairman, C. C. McNeill, L. S. Neville, D. J. Eller, Hale Thomas, H. L. Hanner; secretary and treasurer, J. R. Moore; recorder, D. J. Eller; church reporter, Mrs. C. B. Baker; ushers, L. S. Neville, Hale Thomas, Sam Hendrickson, Dick Barrett, James Clouse; communion stewards, Mrs. H. L. Hanner, Mrs J. R. Moore, Mrs. L. M. Joyner, Miss Frances S. Cunningham; choir director, James H Bailey; pianist, Miss Nancy Clouse; auditors D. J. Eller, H. O. Charnock; Sunday school superintendent, J. A. Barrett; assistant, Mrs. C. B. Baker.

The above-named officers were installed at the 11 o'clock service at the church on Sunday morning last.

The following Sunday school officers were elected and will be installed by Mr. J. O. Barrett:

Children's superintendent, Mrs. Robey Wilson; assistant, Miss Estelle Swain; pianist Mrs. H. L. Waddell; assistant pianist, Miss Nancy Clouse; pianist, chidren's department Miss Floye Barrett; secretary and treasurer, Miss Nell Carter.

The following Sunday school teachers were re-elected: Mrs. J. S. Williams, Mrs. Robey Wilson, Miss Frances S. Cunningham, Mrs E. A. Bolick, Miss Floye Barrett, Miss Irene Miller, Mrs. C. B. Baker, Mr. J. A. Hornaday.

Roberta.—As reporter from Roberta I am going to try to give to you the outstanding things here as they happen.

The fourth quarterly conference was held October 13 with between 75 and 100 present. An unusual interest was shown in all activities of the conference.

The pastor's salary was raised to $900 for next year. This was unanimously favored by the entire conference. Mr. R. H. Love, father of Rev. Fred R. Love, the delegate to the Annual Conference, was unanimously instructed to ask for the return of the present pastor for next year.

The Christian Endeavor was reorganized some time ago. They have sponsored several suppers and raised $55 for local interests.

Mr. Z. D. Cochran, our superintendent, has just returned to his home after undergoing treatment at a Charlotte hospital. Rev. Mr. Cook, Raymond Carter and Mr. Cochran's son gave him blood.

The church officials were elected on last Sunday and will be installed next Sunday They are as follows: Church treasurer, Bettie Love; superinendent, Z. D. Cochran; assistant superintendent, J. C. Furr; trustees, R. H. Love, chairman, A. J. Backwelder, F. M. Motley; parsonage trustees, D. V. Furr, Mrs. Z. D. Cochran, Mrs. Roe Starnes; stewards, D. V. Furr, chairman, Arthur Lambert, Mrs. C. S. Cochran, J. W. Sutton, J. Ivy Cline R. H. Love, L. J. Foster, Rob Pennager; class leaders, Ralph Whitley, A. J. Blackwelder; choir leader, L. J. Foster; assistant, J. C. Furr; pianist, Lillian Blackwelder; assistant, Gertrude Furr; reporter, Ralph Whitley.

Cleveland Charge.—We hope we will get our pastor back. He is a good pastor. We had our last preaching day Sunday before conference. New officers were installed and will take their places soon. Oak Grove still owes our pastor some, but we hope to be out soon.

Mr. Troxler has done a lot of good work on this charge. He has built two new churches and done a lot of good preaching.

Our Sunday school is over 100 now and we have a good Christian Endeavor Society, which we owe to Mr. Troxler.

The people of Oak Grove are glad of their new church. It is nearly completed and is a pretty church. The members from other churches on this charge came to Oak Grove for preaching Sunday and the quarterly meeting Sunday afternoon.

Shiloh, Liberty Charge.—Sunday morning at 10 o'clock our pastor, Rev. F. R. Love, gave us an inspiring message, using the first 14 verses of the 10th chapter of John. Communion was observed and official members of the church were installed.

Official members met with the pastor at Mr. J. A. Crowson's Monday night, October 28, to revise the class book.

Ladies' Aid met with Mrs. F. R. Love Friday night, October 25.

Fourth quarterly conference was held at Flint Ridge Friday night, October 25. Miss Emma Dora Burrow, who has been sick for the last four weeks, is slowly improving.

Mrs. Cora Glasgo, who has been sick for several months, shows little signs of improvement. Mr. John Murphy, who has been sick for some time, went to Durham, N. C., last week for examination. Miss Pauline Whitaker is very much better.

Winston-Salem, First.—I forgot to ask our reporter if she expected to send in a report this week, but for fear she hasn't, I'll take my pen in hand to say a word or two.

First, about the booth at the fair. The women folks cleared $115. Which, everything considered, isn't bad. Anyway, they are well pleased with the effort.

Second, about the quarterly conference. It was held last Wednesday with a fine attendance, and a finer spirit. Financially we are a bit behind, without much likelihood of getting all the way out. But we look forward to a better year, on a sounder financial basis. The salary was set the same as this year. And the pastor was given a unanimous vote to return. Which same he greatly appreciates.

As has been said before, the Winston church has a good many problems, most of which are not financial, that are peculiar to it, and that are cause for a good deal of concern. But one of the hopeful signs is a much better spirit among the folks, and a much greater willingness to co-operate in the work. We have not made a great deal of progress during the past year—unless you take this as a sign of it.

The folks have been exceedingly kind to me and mine during the year, indeed during the two years I have been here. We appreciate every courtesy and kindness they have shown us. From that standpoint no pastor could ask to serve a finer group.

C. W. BATES, Pastor.

Orange Charge.—The fourth quarterly conference was held at Chestnut Ridge Saturday, October 26.

The business of the conference was transacted harmoniously. Bro. G. G. Bivins was elected alternate delegate. Bro. Willard C. Clark was licensed to preach, and recommended to the committee on entrance at our Annual Conference.

We are hoping to wind up a successful year's work. B. M. WILLIAMS, Pastor.

Chestnut Ridge, Orange Charge.—Sunday the last preaching service for this conference year was held at Chestnut Ridge. Our pastor Rev. B. M. Williams, delivered to a fairly good congregation one of his fine sermons We feel that much has been accomplished in our church this year. Our church debt hasn't been paid up in full yet, but trust it will be on the honor roll before conference.

We were glad to have two of Mr. Andrew Williams' children to join our church Sunday afternoon.

At the close of the service a business meeting was held for the officers. Very little change was made.

The Ladies' Auxiliary had their pageant at this church Sunday night. Everyone present seemed to enjoy it. Trust it will be a wonderful help to the church. We were indeed glad when we learned that the fourth quarterly conference, which met with Chestnut Ridge church Saturday, October 26, voted unanimously for the return of our present pastor. We want our pastor to return to us. We would feel lost without him, but all we can say is His will, not ours, be done.

ANNIE SQUIRES, Reporter.

Asheboro.—The attendance at all services the past two Sundays has been fine. The third Sunday there were 314 present for Sunday school with an offering of $40. Last Sunday there were 319, an offering of $45. This the fourth Sunday, $30 of the amount went to the Children's Home and part of the offerings applied on the piano debt. With Mr. C. E. Bulla and his able staff of workers, the Sunday school is making progress. A large congregation was present last Sunday for "Go to Church and Membership Day." All pews were filled, with chairs in the aisles. Were very glad to have so many of the Methodist Episcopal church to worship with us their pastor being away at conference. Dr. Taylor, our pastor, made a most helpful talk on "The Significance of Church Membership." The choir rendered a suitable anthem, "Hear. O Israel," with Mrs. Robert Wood taking the soprano solo. Immediately following the sermon, 14 people presented themselves for church membership. These were Mr. W. P Stone and eight-year-old daughter, Juanita Phillips Stone, Mr. J. F. Lamb and Miss Ray Lamb, Joseph Pugh Henley, John Wesley Hill, Jr., Mrs. Lyndsay Kennedy, Katherine Elizabeth White, Mr. Howard Allred and Nat Mason Harrison, Jr., on profession of faith, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bulla and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. White by letter. The church extends to all these a hearty welcome.

On Sunday evening at 7:30 a large congregation enjoyed the pageant, "The Lost Church," with Mrs. W. F. Redding, Jr., thank-offering secretary, in charge. The characters were Mr. and Mrs. Earle Henley, S. W. Taylor, Jr., Josephine Pugh, Mr. Robert Wood Misses Ethel Lovett, Enolia Presnell, Beatrice Lowdermilk, Patty Cranford, Kate Hammer Mrs. N. M. Harrison and Mrs. L. F. Ross. Mrs. Robert Wood was soloist. This was splendidly given, each one rendering their part well, and made a deep impression upon all who saw it. The thank-offering amounted to $31.10.

The fourth quarterly conference is being held at the church on Thursday evening of this week. It is hoped that this may be well attended and that all the business and finances may be finished up for the year at this time.

Next Sunday's services will be the last of the year. In the morning Dr. Taylor will speak on "Causes for Praise," and in the evening on "The Place of Leadership in the Church." Then the installation of all officers of the Sunday school and church will follow the sermon. LOLLIE JONES.

Siler City Church.—"And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." John, 12th chapter and 32nd verse. This was the text used by our pastor the third Sunday at the 11 o'clock hour. Theme: "The Drawing Power of Jesus," or "The Gravity of Christ." This was just another one of his good sermons.

The fourth quarterly conference for this charge was held in the Siler City church on October 16 at 8 o'clock. Each church was well represented. The pastor's salary for the coming year was voted to remain the same as last year. Mr. W. E. Sharpe was elected delegate to the Annual Conference with Mr. Arthur Poe as alternate. The delegate was instructed to bring our present pastor back for another year by a rising vote of everyone present.

The Woman's Auxiliary and all circles are working hard to make this year a success in every way. Some good work is being accomplished.

Our Children's Day, which was held several weeks ago, was too good not to make mention of it, even if it is too late to talk about Children's Day. It was a success in every way. Mrs. T. L. Smith and Miss Flossie Siler directed the children and Miss Verda Shaw Fox had charge of the music. Each child did his or her part well and the collection was good.

The fourth Sunday we observed Rally Day at each service. The C. E. Society directed each program and the collections at all services were used for Rally Day funds. Mr L. L. Wrenn presented one of his very best talks on the subject, "Building a New Person," at the Sunday school hour, and Mr. W. E. Sharpe, our superintendent, made an excellent talk on "The Effects of Alcohol on Society" at the C. E. meeting. To close the services for the day, our pastor gave us another of his good sermons from the text, "He that refuseth instruction despiseth his own soul." Proverbs 15:32. Theme, "Despising Oneself." The officers for church and Sunday school were elected at this time. Mr. L. L. Wrenn was re-elected church treasurer; Mr. Sharpe, our present superintendent, was re-elected by a 100 per cent majority, also Mr. W. H. Andrew was re-elected secretary and treasurer for Sunday school. Mrs. Irvin Ellington was also re-elected pianist, with Miss Verda Shaw Fox assistant.

The first Sunday morning will be our last service for this conference year. This will also be communion day.

Here's hoping that we have the best conference in the history of our church.

Mt. Pleasant Business Girls' Circle.—Mrs. Coley Shoffner and Mrs. Carl Curtis were joint hostesses at the October meeting of the Business Girls' Circle of Mt. Pleasant church when they met Saturday night, October 26, at the home of Mrs. Shoffner.

Christian Education was the theme of the program for the evening and was carried out in talks by Mrs. W. A. Stafford, who discussed "The Meaning of Christian Education," and by Mrs. Carl Clapp, who discussed "Christian Education Colleges." Miss Ruby Roberson read the 123rd Psalm for the devotional service and Mrs. Ned Suits closed an impressive program by reading "Trees," by Joyce Kilmer, and "Home," by Edgar Guest.

The group decided to give a play, sell Christmas cards, and sell toys at the December meeting for money-making projects.

After the business session ice cream and cakes were served by waitresses in Hallowe'en costumes. Mrs. Carl Clapp and Mrs Curtis Shoffner will be hostesses in November at the home of Mrs. Clapp.

Pleasant Hill, Spring Church Charge.—The Christian Endeavor Society of Pleasant Hill held its regular Friday night meeting on Thursday night due to the quarterly meeting of the charge. After an interesting program, planned by Guy Crewe, the society elected officers for the coming year as follows: President, Cullen Barnes; vice president, Guy Crewe; secretary and treasurer, Georgie Mae Shaw, and reporter, Erlene Barnes. Several committees were also elected.

As the conference year nears the end the C. E. Society of Pleasant Hill has a record to be proud of. Through co-operation of its members and outsiders as well it has been possible for the society to pay its assessments in full, the superannuate and McCulloch funds, and has contributed to the Children's Home.

Wilson Garner, who was leaving for Sanatorium, N. C., where he will be a patient in the hospital there for an indefinite length of time, was given a shower on October 17 by the Christian Endeavor Society of Pleasant Hill church. He received many useful articles. Wilson was an active member of the C. E. Society here and will be greatly missed.

HEARTENING NEWS!

In a recent personal letter from a friend in Concord I got the very gratifying information that their new Secretary of Temperance had supervised a most effective and impressive temperance program. Among the things used by Mrs. R. H. Haupt on this program were passages from different books of the Bible on the subject of temperance, quotations from five eminent men giving their views about alcohol, and the play "The New Ideal." The songs were carefully selected and the tone of the whole meeting was reverential.

If you are a secretary of temperance and have not put on a program, here is a good example, and I do hope some friend at each place or the secretary of temperance herself will send along the good reports, they do help such a lot.

MRS. R. M. ANDREWS,
N. C. Branch Sec. of Temperance.

DISTRICT CHAIRWOMEN

Dear Chairwomen:

The Branch, through the Executive Committee, has asked that we put over the raising of the money for India Hospital. A quilt has been planned to do this. Each square represents $10 and each church is asked to take a square. Now, each of you are to be responsible for the squares for your district. Each square is accompanied by a letter of explanation. If you have 10 or 15 churches, then I send you that number of quilt squares and letters. You then put one in the hands of each auxiliary and some interested member. With the assistance of the pastors this should not be hard. Now this is the first big job that the Branch has asked of us. The results can be counted, so let's do our very best. We want to do it to prove our worth, but most of all we want to do it because of the great good it will do both in spreading the gospel and relieving the suffering of many—and least, but much talked about, help to raise our World Service budget.

I am counting on each of you.

MRS. H. C. NICHOLSON,
Chm. of Districts, N. C. Branch.

GRACE CHURCH AUXILIARY

The women of Grace Church Auxiliary and friends from West End and Midway churches met in the ladies' parlor of Grace church on Thursday afternoon, October 24, for a mission study course. (Calvary could not be present because of conflicting engagements.)

Words of welcome were given by the pastor of the church, Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, to our visitors. Then Miss Lena Hunter, of the High Point College student body, was presented. She gave the foreign study book on South America, entitled "Women Under the Southern Cross," by Margaret Ross Miller. Miss Hunter, of the Pleasant Hill church on the West Forsyth charge, handled her subject with marked ability. Her presentation was greatly enjoyed by all present. We highly recommend Miss Hunter for any auxiliary program. Mr. Carroll had closing prayer.

At 6 o'clock supper was served and all enjoyed a chat together.

At 7:30 we assembled in the parlor again for the evening session. Mrs. E. W. Teague, our very efficient president, presided. After song, "Living for Jesus," prayer was made by Mrs. E. S. Wills, then Mrs. D. S. Coltrane presented the speaker, Miss Mary Young, dean of women at High Point College. Again we had a rare treat; this was in the presentation of the home mission study book, "Toward a Christian America," by Herman B. Morse. Before the study, Miss Young made a suggestion that the auxiliaries keep in closer touch with their young people, have the children present at the auxiliary, have them do things, let them have responsibilities, and thereby grow up in their local church activities. Also Miss Young stressed the idea of unity in our efforts. She cited as example the various churches in closest proximity having its own Leadership Training School instead of going together in a united school and thus cut expenses.

In the book review Miss Young discussed the various problems toward a Christian America; the problem of discrimination, such as prejudice against the Jew and negro; another, the problem of sectionalism, which is the tragedy of America, where special groups work for their self interests; and another, social instability.

All present were glad to hear Miss Young and greatly appreciated her coming to us. We saw all through her most splendid presentation of her subject that sharing with others is the very heart of the gospel.

To other auxiliaries we folks at Grace say: Have Miss Young and Miss Hunter on your program whenever possible.

MRS. J. M. STONE.

WOMEN OF FIRST DISTRICT HOLD FALL MEETING

The women of the first district held their regular fall meeting on October 24 at Eden church on the Halifax charge.

The morning devotional service was conducted by Mrs. H. M. Mitchell, who used our November program topic as her theme. Following the devotional Mrs. M. C. Moon, of Eden Auxiliary, gave the welcome address, to which Rev. O. C. Loy responded, in the absence of Mrs. Austin.

After the reading and approval of the minutes, Miss Margie Pittman, of Whitakers Auxiliary, sang a solo.

The chairman had prepared a complete program, using as her theme the topic of our study book, "Toward a Christian America." Rev. W. H. Neese, pastor of Spring Church circuit, briefly reviewed the book. This was followed by talks which showed just what the Methodist Protestant church is trying to do "Toward a Christian America."

Miss Winnie Burt, of Eden Auxiliary, told of our work at Dillonvale, and Mrs. H. E. Vassar, of Spring Church circuit, gave an interesting account of the homes for the aged at West Lafayette, Ohio, and Westminster, Md. She also included interesting facts concerning our home for working girls in Baltimore. The history of Bethel Home and our Children's Home was given by Rev. O. C. Loy. At the conclusion an offering was taken for the Children's Home amounting to $13.90. The chairman appointed a committee to draw up resolutions for our deceased secretary, after which Rev. R. L. Vickery, of Littleton charge, dismissed us and we retired to the newly built hut for our lunch.

Ample lunch had been brought, which was supplemented with chicken salad and hot coffee furnished by the ladies of the Eden Auxiliary. The hut is a new addition since our last meeting at Eden, and I think I voice the sentiment of each auxiliary represented when I say I think we would all be pleased to have such a building for recreational purposes.

After an hour of fellowship together we reassembled in the church to be led in our afternoon devotion by Rev. R. L. Vickery, of Littleton charge. Roll was called, showing each charge represented. The pastors and their wives from all charges in the district were present, which was the first time such has happened since we began our district meetings. After the reports of the various auxiliaries, Mrs. Cecil Mathews, of Enfield Auxiliary, sang a solo.

The following phases of work were discussed: Literature of Methodist Protestant Church, by Miss Blanche Hardee; Alvin Drew School at Pine Ridge, Ky., by Mrs. J. H. Cutchin; Adrian College, Western Maryland College, by Rev. Eugene Lamb, of Greensville charge; Westminster Theological Seminary, by Rev. L. E. Mabry, of Creswell charge; High Point College and Westminster College in Texas, by Rev. E. O. Peeler, of Enfield, Whitakers charge.

Each auxiliary had prepared a gift for Rev. and Mrs. Lamb, recently married, which were presented.

Mrs. Grant, of Spring Church circuit, informed the women of the distributions of funds sent to Branch treasurer.

Most beautiful floral decorations were requested to be placed on the grave of our beloved secretary, Mrs. Z. A. Hardee, and one basket sent to Mrs. J. M. Cutchin. On invitation our next meeting will be held at Lebanon church on Spring Church circuit.

Eden is an outstanding church in our district, and we voiced our appreciation by a rising vote of thanks for their hospitality which we always enjoy.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Chairman, Mrs. R. M. Robinson; vice chairmen, Mrs. E. I. Bellamy, Miss Winnie Burt, Mrs. C. N. Davenport; secretary, Miss Margie Pittman; assistant secretary, Mrs. Egbert Barnhill.

MARGIE PITTMAN,
Secretary of First District.

MISS VIRGINIA CURRY CLASS SECRETARY

Miss Virginia Curry, daughter of Rev. G. L Curry, was elected secretary of the freshman class of High Point College at a meeting of that class last week for organization.

Miss Curry, a graduate of Pleasant Garden high school, entered the freshman class this fall, and has already taken part in various extra-curricular activities on the campus. She is a member of the A Capella Choir, the Nikanthan Literary Society, the Y. W. C. A., the Christian Endeavor Society, and is planning to join the Woman's Athletic Association as soon as she gets the required number of athletic points for membership. She was recently one of the three members of the freshman class to be added to the staff of the college newspaper, the Hi-Po.

Could yoo believe it? Believe what? That four charges would reach the goal in one single week. Well, it is so, whether you believe it or not. Just look at the one hundred per centers. And here we have an interesting coincidence. From Whitaker's Chapel church on the Enfield charge came the wherewithal to put Enfield on the map this week. Whitaker's Chapel is where the N. C. Conference was organized more than a hundred years ago. This church may not be the oldest church we have, but it is one of the oldest. But the same week in which the charge to which this old church belongs, Danville, Va. our youngest church, goes over the top. So. stand up there, Danville, by the side of Whitaker's Chapel and let us look at the oldest and the youngest. Well, both of them look good. Enfield and Whitaker's Chapel have retained their youthfulness and Danville looks very mature. And now, HATS OFF to CHARLOTTE and PENSACOLA. Both of these go over the top. How fine that is! Congratulations, everybody.

Now for the receipts this week. Flat Rock leads. Granville is a close second. Other charges do well. Thanks a lot.

Hurrah for Subsidy! First church, High Point, pays in full. Friendship pays in full Canaan on the North Davidson charge pays its subsidy in full but the charge is not out yet. Pleasant Grove pays in full. Lebanon church on the Spring Church charge pushes the Spring Church charge over for a touchdown. Good for all of these places.

Our receipts this week amount to $91.50 $53.50 being on subscriptions and $38 being on subsidy.

GET YOUR MONEY TO US NEXT WEEK BY TUESDAY AFTERNOON, AS THE ACCOUNT WILL CLOSE THEN.

Myles Coverdale's Gift to England

The Quatercentenary of the English Bible

THE appearance of the whole Bible as a printed book in English was an event to the importance of which 400 years of the history of English-speaking peoples, spiritually, literary, socially, have borne eloquent witness. It was the beginning of the greatest adventure and triumph in the printing and circulation of books. It is fitting that a National Memorial Committee, one of the most formidable and representative ever organized for any purpose, has been at work in America to assure adequate celebration and recognition on this side of the water of the greatest heritage that has come to English-speaking peoples throughout the world. It is from the splendid publications of this committee, as well as from other sources, that we gather here some evidences of what the Book of books has meant to England, to America, and to the world.

A Symbol of Liberty. It was the work of reformers on the Continent that made possible the translation and printing of the Bible in English when this was not possible in England itself. The struggle for the publication and circulation of the English Bible made it a symbol of the struggle of the English people for liberty to think, speak, and act. The "open Bible" has been for generations the symbol of liberty, and it is more than a coincidence that in every land where the Bible has been openly read and cherished there has been a higher order of religious and political liberty than has been known in countries where a closed Bible has symbolized a closed press and the dominance of political or ecclesiastical dictatorship over liberty of thought and expression. The "open Bible" and its open influences are needed in America today when conditions that confronted Tyndale and Coverdale, and compelled them to do their work in exile, would be repeated if reactionary and timid souls in the American democracy had their way. The printing of the English Bible began for the freedom of the press against which bigotry, prejudice and fascist tendencies in American life have raised new threats and perils. Let those who read and value the Bible emulate the vision and courage of the men who gave it to the common people of England!—Advance.

Going to the Annual Conference

As this is being written on Monday evening, Methodist Protestants all over North Carolina are getting ready to go to the Annual Conference which meets at Henderson on Wednesday morning. Last-minute plans for transportation have been made. The pieces of wearing apparel not already bought have been purchased today. Suitcases are being packed, and everything will be in readiness by tomorrow. Many will leave tomorrow and some will wait until Wednesday morning to make the journey. But about one-half of those who are preparing for this trip have something else on their minds except clothing, suitcases and things of that nature. That something else is weighty and it rests heavily on the hearts of a good many people who will go to conference. That something else is the pastor's report. For days he has been thinking about it. It has been on his mind, more or less, all the year. He has thought about it by day and by night, while he was making sermons and while he was making calls. While riding from one place to another, whether in the city, the town or the country, this thing called a report to conference has been on the preacher's mind. For his report is his record. The sum total of a minister's report in large measure is his life's work. For in this report he gives an account of his stewardship for the year. The number of conversions he has had, the amount of money he has raised, the increase or decrease in church membership, the pastoral calls he has made, all are a part of his work for the year.

To some, perhaps, it will be the last report they will ever carry up. Almost every year someone is superannuated. And it is very seldom that we go through the year without some minister passing into the Great Beyond. While some go with faltering step and slow, others will go with the buoyancy of youth. One is thinking about the end, while the other is thinking of a new day, a new year. Some are thinking about the accomplishments of other years when hundreds came flocking to the altar, while others are thinking in terms of the great things they are going to do in the years to come. And so we have a great cross-section of life. While the ministers are anxious about their reports, some laymen who will be going will be having some serious thoughts also. They will be wondering if the church to which they belong has done its best to help the pastor take a good report to conference. Have they stood by the pastor and the leaders of the church? Have they done all that it was possible for them to do, will haunt the honest and sincere layman as he goes to conference. And really, it is a pity that the laymen cannot share more largely in the pastor's report, for the laymen have a great deal to do with the kind of a report the pastor takes to conference. A minister with only ordinary ability can accomplish great things if properly backed up by a consecrated laity. But without this backing not much can be done by the minister.

But in our minds we are now ready to start to conference and we shall soon be off. As we leave and as we journey, this thought might come to everyone, "What am I going for and what do I expect to find when I get there?" While we cannot answer all the questions that might arise, we think we can answer at least one. We are going to try to advance the kingdom of God. It is doubtful whether we ever get a more serious-minded group of people together than at an Annual Conference. Not only are we going for the purpose of advancing the kingdom of God through the efforts of our church, but we are going there expecting to have the most delightful fellowship. It would be difficult to find the same kind of fellowship anywhere else in the world as is found at an Annual Conference. For it is the ordinary fellowship augmented by Christian fellowship. When the men in an Annual Conference clasp hands they do it as Christian comrades. They acknowledge one Master, even Christ, and all are brethren in Him. Is it any wonder then that people who go to an Annual Conference from year to year go with the feeling that they are going to have a good time in the highest sense of the word?

Not only do we expect delightful fellowship at conference but we look forward to singing the hymns of the church with an enthusiasm that is seldom ever found anywhere else. In the last article that that great preacher, Dr. T. H. Lewis, ever wrote, he made the statement that people have never heard singing unless they have heard an Annual Conference sing. These men, both ministers and laymen, as well as some women, come from the various fields of labor, some in the city, some in the small town, and some in the country, but when they come together they forget, in a sense, the hardships of the year and they sing themselves away to everlasting bliss. They exalt Jesus Christ. They praise Him in song whom they have served and who has brought them through the year.

Finally, ministers go to the Annual Conference to get a place in which to serve for another year, and the laymen go there to get someone to be a real minister in their church. The minister knows that whatever charge he receives there will be plenty of work there, and the laymen know that the men they are getting are only human and that they will need help. But it is a beautiful sight to behold the optimism that usually obtains on the part of the minister who goes to his new field and the layman who takes him there. We trust that beautiful relationship may last all next year and as long as the pastor remains on the charge.

But going to conference to get a charge or to get a pastor is not all of it. There is much work to be done. The conference must look carefully after every phase of the work. The best thought of the conference must be harnessed and put into the form of motions looking to the future efforts of the church. Boards and institutions must be provided for, for these are dependent on the conference for help. In fact, the work of the churches back home will be determined in large meaesure for the next year by what the Annual Conference does in its session of only a few days. For the conference makes the program by which the churches work. When looked at from this standpoint, then, it becomes a matter of great importance that every man, both minister and layman, be present at the first, at the last and all the time. No one should leave until the work is done and the conference will not finish its work until it adjourns. May this conference be the best ever, and may the will of the Lord be done.

YOU "OUGHTER" SEEN HIM GRIN

I went by the HERALD office last Friday to give McCulloch & Swain a check for $200. Jim Swain wasn't in; but Warren McCulloch was. When I went in he was busy examining some proof, and didn't look up from his work to see who had come in. So I slipped up, and laid the check on the paper he was looking at, and stood back to watch the reaction. (I believe that's the word the highbrows use.) It wasn't long coming. Warren's eyes bulged out, and a grin spread over his face. He looked up, saw me, grabbed my hand, and shook it like a pump handle. You'd a-thought I'd brought him a fortune. Well, $200 would look like a fortune to me just now, so I can appreciate how he felt.

I haven't charged any fee for my work on the McCulloch Fund. But I assure you I have been paid a handsome salary. No, not in $$ and cc, but in the kick I've gotten out of seeing hese boys' faces light up when I've taken them these checks. And, even though they haven't said so every time, I know omthing of the burden you and I have helped lift. "Life-avers," Jim calls them. And they don't have holes in them ither.

And you folks who haven't helped lift this load can come n for some of the joy if you'll just get busy and raise your pportionment.

Well, you want to know how far we've gone this week. Here's the report to date:

Previously reported	$2,002.14
Canaan, North Davidson (balance) ..	5.65
High Point, First (in full)	135.00
Reidsville (balance)	40.00
Rockingham	10.00
Mrs. W. C. Lassiter	2.00
Total to date	$2,194.79

High Point, First, Reidsville, and Canaan, North Davidon, go on the Honor Roll this week. High Point, First hurch, is struggling under a heavy debt. Reidsville has just uilt a parsonage. Did I hear somebody say they could not aise this McCulloch Memorial Fund apportionment because he church was in debt, or building, or something? Well, early beloved, if these churches can do it, you can do it. 'hat excuse hasn't a leg to stand on.

And before I quit, let me call your attention to the $2.00 Irs. Lassiter sends. "The widow's mite." Along with it omes a nice letter that I may read to the conference. Thank ou, Mrs. Lassiter. And thanks to everybody else who has elped put the M. M. Fund as far along as it is. "And so ng until . . ."

"EZEKIEL TEACHES PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY"

The International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, November 10, 1935

By REV. J. ELWOOD CARROLL

Scripture Lesson—Ezekiel 33:7-16.

Golden Text—"Each one of us shall give account of himself to God."—Romans 14:12.

In recent months there has been a new debate topic. Not so many years past, those who liked to debate discussed freely the relative importance of environment and heredity. Now the issue pivots on the word responsibility as related to self and to society. The question is frequently stated for formal debate, and in essence of informal conversation, Resolved: That a person's responsibility is greater to himself than to society. We might judge the issue new, having arisen with the denunciation of so-called "Rugged Individualism" and the advocacy of "The New Deal." The issue, in fact, is thousands of years old and was discussed by Ezekiel.

Prior to the age of the prophets, the Hebrews thought almost entirely of their responsibility to God as a national whole and little as personal individuals. Abraham, the father of the Hebrew nation, had been called and promised descendants as the sands of the sea (Gen. 12:1-3). Ever thereafter every descendant gloried in the fact that he had the blood of Abraham pulsing through his veins. Each conceived of his duty bound up with the program of the national life, each believed his personal salvation merged in the salvation of the group. The thoroughness of such a belief is clearly taught in the secretive act of Achan (Joshua 7:19-26). And despite the teaching of the prophets on personal responsibility, the Jews still clung to the idea of a national salvation even in Jesus' day. Notive how the Pharisees and Sadducees refused to repent at John the Baptist's preaching because they trusted to their blood inheritance from Abraham (Matthew 3:7-9).

If a Hebrew must trust to the national life for his salvation at the time of Ezekiel, surely he was of all men most miserable. Ezekiel had been carried captive to Babylon with the first invasion of Nebuchadrezzar. In the fifth year of his captivity he was called to prophesy (Ezekiel 3:16-22). Shortly thereafter, in the year 586, Jerusalem was invaded a second time and completely destroyed. Where was there any hope of salvation of the individual if it were to come only through a national life when that nation lay in ashes and ruins? Ezekiel set himself to proclaim a salvation based upon individual responsibility to God, hence we have the words of our Golden Text, "Each one of us shall give account of himself to God."

Personal salvation was to be gained by personally repenting of one's sins and by warning other individuals of their need of repentance. Ezekiel uses the figure of a watchman set on the wall of the city to proclaim any signs of approaching danger. He calls himself that watchman (Ezekiel 3:22, 33:7).

One is lost or saved according to his final state. Ezekiel clearly points out that God has no wish that any man shall be lost. God has created each person a free moral agent, hence leaves to that individual to choose good or evil. The individual's salvation rests upon his selection of the good. God has made man so free that even after man has continued for many years in a general course of conduct, either good or bad, he is not absolutely bound to it. Habit does tend to bind us to a general course of living, hence it is far better to start out in life on the side of right. But God does not bind us absolutely to either course. Our condemnation or salvation rests upon our final status. If a person lives the good life many years, then changes his mind, turns to evil, surely by such a change he has repudiated his former belief in the right. That person deserves to die. On the other hand, the very converse is true—if a man has lived on the wrong side of life many years, then alters his loyalty so as to dedicate himself to the good, he thereby repudiates his former way of living and pledges himself to the right. That person deserves to be saved, and so he is.

The tragedy of repentance late in life is that we then are left mostly to die for God instead of to live for Him. Paul tells us that we ought to present our bodies "a living sacrifice, holy acceptable unto God" (Romans 12:1). If one waits until late in life to pledge allegiance to Christ, that person has set going countless chains of evil influence in the world. In order to count for most in Christ's kingdom, therefore, one ought to surrender himself early in life to Christ. In so doing our evil influences are reduced to the minimum, habit formation is rapid and almost guarantees our faithfulness to Christ, and our influence for Christ is raised to the maximum. Having said all that, we must ever remember that there is an open door of salvation for him who would repent regardless of his age, and there is also the possibility for one falling from his status of salvation. The state of being lost or saved is ever a matter of personal responsibility of the individual.

In our suggestions for home Bible readings we notice three areas of personal responsibility:

1. Responsibility for Stewardship, Luke 16:1-10.
2. Responsibility for Conversation, Matthew 12:31-37.
3. Responsibility for Conduct, Romans 14:1-12.

Questions for Discussion

1. Why did Ezekiel's hearers believe that they were undeservedly punished?
2. How do we attempt to avoid responsibility for sin?
3. What individual responsibility can we accept?
4. Is every Christian expected to be a "watchman"?
5. Does our personal responsibility excuse us from social responsibility?

PREACH PEACE ON NOVEMBER 10

It is the request of the North Carolina Council of Churches that all ministers make mention of world peace in their services on Sunday, November 10. This date is the day immediately preceding Armistice Day and the Council feels that all churches ought to utilize the interest and sentiment of the season for the promotion of peace among the nations. Of course it happens this year that November 10 is our conference Sunday. Yet ministers may, perhaps, be preaching in churches of the conference city and can find it convenient to stress the ideal of international good will.

P. E. LINDLEY.

AN EQUALIZED INCOME FOR MINISTERS

One of the difficult tasks of Christianity from its very beginning has been to determine just what status or position it would occupy in relationship to the physical and material world in which it existed. Should Christianity be a sect entirely other worldly in nature or should it be a social movement crystallized into an organization that is deeply involved in the interests and practical problems of society? The more pious of its adherents have held to the former view and have, from time to time, withdrawn themselves into cloisters in order that they might better cultivate the spiritual life. Of course the world has long since recognized the ineffectiveness of this procedure as a means of combating social sin. This does not comply with the Christian ideal of service to others. It was the more practical-minded Christian element that became the church. And down through the ages until this day it has been the practical-minded Christian people who have participated in that institution in an effort to make it a real force in the task of building a better world in which to live. We believe that these are they who have the spirit of Christ.

But there is another side to this whole matter. During many periods the church has been helpless to give effective direction to the processes of society because it was too deeply involved in the sins of the society of which it was a part. In the middle ages the church could not condemn the sins of feudalism because it was the chiefest sinner of all. In many instances we have suffered from an over-conformity to the fickle philosophies of life which were set by the pagan forces of society rather than by the Christian forces. We simply accept as Christian those things which are expedient. The church has been most effective as a social organization when it dared to stand apart. Somehow the church must keep itself disentangled from the fundamental patterns and processes of society if it is to keep its vision clear so that it can give a Christian appraisal and criticism of social procedure. The church cannot stand upon "the vantage ground of truth" and judge the world when the very shadow of the world is in its eyes.

The majority of the Christian leaders today are beginning to recognize the evil influences that the profit motive in industry is having upon the accepted values of society. Men work for money and not for the joy of serving their fellow man. Under the present organization of society and industry the church can preach and pray until doom's-day and yet the average man will consider that he has virtually failed in life unless he has succeeded in accumulating a respectable portion of this world's goods. Thus the competition of today and the scramble for material possessions. And thus the maldistribution of wealth as the more fortunate, the more industrious, and the more intelligent get ahead. Thus the resulting poverty, unemployment, misery.

Again the church is embarrassed by the fact that it is proceeding by the same motives and values that are condemning society. If you want your pastor back, you had better boost his salary a little, for some other church might offer him more. He, of course, is very pious and sincere, but he might decide that there is a larger field of service where the money flows more freely. And when a new minister comes to your church the congregations soon find out just what kind of a church he has been serving and the size of the salary he has been paid. In other words, the profit motive, the desire for the material, is just as much a part of the church as it is a part of any other institution in society. This is not a fault of an individual or of individuals, but it is a fault of the system of values for which we work.

All of this may seem to be inconsequential due to the fact that salaries are usually small, anyway, but in my opinion it has a far-reaching influence upon the message of Christianity. No minister can effectively condemn society for breeding millionaires and charity patients at the same time when within his own profession men are receiving from $200 to $25,000 per year for rendering a similar service. That variation within our own conference would be more like $500 to $2,000 per year. But even so, it is only a conceited fool who would argue that his services as a pastor are worth eight times as much as the services of some other equally consecrated man on a different charge. At the same time, however, it is basically un-Christian to attempt to measure the value of Christian service in terms of dollars and cents. For if you try thus to measure, inevitably you will come to be influenced by your desire for material goods, and it is then that you lose your perspective as an objective critic of a society that lives by the same false values of life.

It is my conviction that our conference should take some steps to equalize the incomes of its members. A minister should be paid somewhat in proportion to his need in a given situation rather than according to the charge he serves. We can preach our most effective message on human equality by setting a good example before the world. Also it seems to me that salaries should be paid and apportioned in such a way that they have no influence upon an individual in his choosing of a charge to serve or in his being chosen for a given work. As to how this could be done in a satisfactory way is hard to say. Among other things it would certainly demand an enlarged superannuate fund which we sorely need anyway. Whatever the details of such a plan might be, it is worth trying, for the church cannot effectively preach the gospel of Jesus Christ while at the same time it is bowing to the god of mammon. J. C. MADISON.

NOVEMBER—THANK-OFFERING MONTH

From almost the beginning of our material existence the fourth Thursday in November has been observed as Thanksgiving Day. Thanks to God for His material and spiritual blessings of the year. November, therefore, is the most fitting month for all Methodist Protestants to make generous thank-offerings toward the denominational interests for the blessings of God during the year. May every member and friend of the church heartily observe this month as a real thanksgiving occasion for the benefit of missions and education.

Please do not forget also Men and Missions Sunday, November 17. May it be observed in all our churches, especially among the men. G. W. HADDAWAY, Executive Secretary of Board of Missions.

JAIL POPULATION INCREASING IN VIRGINIA

The jails of Virginia received an all-time high number of prisoners during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, according to the report of Arthur W. James, state commissioner of public welfare. The record for the past six years is as follows:

1930	49,655	1933	62,842
1931	53,759	1934	60,973
1932	59,496	1935	74,599

Of the total increase of 13,626 in 1935 over 1934, the county jails accounted for 6,688, city jails for 5,546, and city farms for an extra 1,392. With the exception of Alexandria and Hopewell, every city jail in the state had more inmates last year than the year before. Norfolk had the largest increase, 2,068. Danville ranked second with a jump of 1,117, and Richmond was third with 843.

A detailed study of the jail cards showing the offenses responsible for the arrests has not yet been made. It is suggested that the increase may be due to the greater number of drunks being given the lock-up treatment, and also to an increase in cases of petty thievery as a result of the depression. Governor Peery thinks the trial justices, put in office throughout most of the state for the first time during the last fiscal year, may have been sterner in their judgments than the old-time justices of the peace.

Jail costs mounted to $410,007 last year as compared to $360,705 for 1934, an increase of $49,302.—The American Issue.

"I WILL NOT LEAVE THEE"

God is with us in our sorrows. There is no pang that rends the heart, I might almost say, not one which disturbs the body, but what Jesus Christ has been with us in it all.

Feel you the sorrows of poverty? He "hath not where to lay His head."

Do you endure the griefs of bereavement? Jesus wept at the tomb of Lazarus.

Have you been slandered for righteousness' sake, and has it vexed your spirit? He said, "Reproach hath broken my heart."

Have you been betrayed? Do not forget that He, too, had His familiar friend who sold Him for the price of a slave.

On what stormy seas have you been tossed which have not roared about His boat? Never glen of adversity so dark, so deep, apparently so pathless, but what in stooping down you may discover the footprints of the Crucified One.

In the fires and in the rivers, in the cold night and under the burning sun, He cries, "I am with thee: be not dismayed; for I am both thy Companion and thy God."—Spurgeon.

DR. LINDLEY'S BOOK NOW $1.00

The recent book, Human Nature and the Church, by P. E. Lindley, is now priced only one dollar and can be purchased at the conference at that figure. The original cost was two dollars. The publishers, Macmillan Company, have reduced the price and placed the book on what they term the "Religious Classics" list.

WORLD'S SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

The next World's Sunday School Convention will be held in Oslo, Norway, next July 6th to 12th, 1936.

These great world gatherings of Protestant leaders are held every four years in some part of the world The last one was in 1932 in Rio de Janeiro, the farthest point south that a group of Christians ever met. This next one will be the farthest point north—in the land of "sunlit nights."

These great conventions generally have delegates from many parts of thirty or more nations of the world, and are exceedingly colorful, inspiring and instructive. Outstanding Christian leaders from all parts of the world exchange views and discuss methods of furthering the work of the Sunday school in various lands; and these discussions are in both the English and native languages.

A great chorus of several hundred native voices render inspiring music. Pageants, illustrating great Bible truths, are rendered by native Christians under the direction of some outstanding world leader.

A great hall, filled with handwork, made by the Sunday school children of many of these lands, is in itself worth the trip.

A number of inexpensive trips are planned so that delegates may visit the neighboring countries in connection with the convention.

We are pleased to learn that Miss Myrtle A. McDaniel, Director of Leadership Training of the North Carolina Sunday School Association, Salisbury, N. C., is very much interested in trying to organize a fine delegation to go to this convention from this section; anyone interested in going may secure further information by writing the above.

THE SECRET PLACE

There is a place where thou canst touch the eyes
  Of blinded men to instant perfect sight;
There is a place where thou canst say, "Arise!"
  To dying captives, bound in chains of night.
There is a place where thou canst reach the store
  Of hoarded gold, and free it for the Lord;
There is a place here, or on a distant shore,
  Where thou canst send the worker and the Word.
There is a place where Heaven's resistless power
  Responsive moves to thine insistent plea;
There is a place, a silent holy hour,
  Where God Himself descends and works for thee.
Where is that secret place?—dost thou ask where?
  Oh, soul! It is the secret place of prayer.

OUR FELLOWSHIP AND OUR HOPE

Our fellowship—save when marred by sin—extends to the utmost limits of the one mystical body of Christ. The limit of the body is the limitation of our fellowship.

Our hope, just about to be realized, is His personal presence for us, His personal coming with us, the revelation of His personal glory, and our share in the vast, grand, and everlasting inheritance with Him. Oh, what a magnificent future!—The Witness.

DRYS OF WEST VIRGINIA CONTINUE TO WIN

September American Issue reported early dry victories i West Virginia elections. Since this report West Virginia ha continued her march toward sobriety.

State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League B. E Ewing writes this office:

"The count is now ten to nothing. Five counties and fiv towns have voted dry. On September 3 Jackson county vote dry by three to one, and on the 17th Lincoln county vote dry by approximately two to one. The towns where election have been held were small, Blackville's vote being 81 dry t 31 wet; Wayne, 156 dry to 107 wet; Pennsboro, 349 dry t 265 wet. The election in Pennsboro was called by the wet after the county (Ritchie) in which it is located voted dr by more than five to one.

"Other important elections are pending, including nin counties and several towns. The wets, financed by distillers funds, have blocked local option temporarily by halting th election in Roane county on the ground that the local optio provision of the law is unconstitutional in that it does no authorize the payment of costs of the election. The drys hav mandamused in the state supreme court the Roane count court to proceed with the election. "IT IS NOT MY BUSINESS"

A wealthy man in St. Louis was asked to aid in a series o temperance meetings, but he scornfully refused. Bein pressed, he said, "Gentlemen, it is not my business."

A few days later his wife and two daughters were comin home on the limited express. In his grand carriage wit liveried attendants he rode to the depot, thinking of his splen did business and planning for the morrow. Hark! Did som one say "Accident"? There are fifteen railroads centerin in St. Louis. If there has been an accident, it is not likel to have occurred on the —— and Mississippi Railroad. Yet troubles him. It is his business now. The horses are stoppe on the instant, and on inquiry he finds that the accident ha occurred twenty-five miles distant on the —— and Mississipp He telegraphs to the superintendent:

"I will give you five hundred dollars for an engine."

The answer flashed back, "No."

"I will give you one thousand dollars for an engine!"

"A train with surgeons and nurses has already gone fo ward, and we have no others."

With white face and anxious brow, the man paced th station to and fro. In a half hour, perhaps, which seemed t him a half century, the train arrived. He hurried toward i and in the tender found the mangled bodies and lifeless form of his wife and one of his daughters. In the car followin lay the other daughter with her dainty ribs crushed in, an her precious life oozing slowly away.

A quart of whisky, which was drunk fifty miles away by railroad employe, was the cause of the catastrophe.

Who dare say of this tremendous question, "It is not m business"?—Publisher Unknown.

WHO WERE THEY FOR?

Jack swung into step with Harold.

"Come over with me to the florist's," the latter said, laying an affectionate arm across the broad shoulders, for the two were great friends.

"Glad to," he replied. "But who is the favored recipient? I'll wager, now, it's the charming Miss Cranston."

Harold shook his head.

"The charming Miss Cranston, as you call her, has flowers in plenty, and doesn't need mine. These are for a little girl who doesn't receive any. Never mind guessing. I'll tell you who she is. It's my little sister, Pearl. She's going to a little social gathering tonight, and I thought flowers would go well with her white dress. I'd like to see her face when she opens them."

He paused.

"She's such a good little girl; good to dad, and I can't begin to tell you what she is to mother––washes dishes so willingly, helps with the meals, and is always pleasant and sweet-tempered. As long as I can remember, I've yet to hear her say the first disrespectful or unkind word to mother. She's always doing something for all of us. What she is to me, I can't begin to tell you. Keeps my room like a pin, sews on all my buttons, mends my gloves, mends my socks, embroiders initials in my handkerchiefs, and if I'm late to supper, it's my little sister Pearl who sees that things are kept hot. And so, when I found that she was invited to this party, I wanted to give her some flowers. They'll be the first ones she ever received, and somehow I wanted them to come from her brother."

He choked a little.

"You see, she's such a good little sister," he added huskily.

Jack nodded.

"I see she is," he replied gently.—Boys' Life.

THE TELL-TALE SPOON

She sat up in bed. The curtain was drawn up, and she saw the moon, and it looked as if it were laughing at her. "You needn't look at me, Moon," she said. "You don't know about it; you can't see in the daytime, besides I am going to sleep."

She lay down, and tried to go to sleep. Her clock on the mantel went "tick-tock, tick-tock!" She generally liked to hear it, but tonight it sounded just as if it said, "I know! I know! I know!"

"You don't know, either," said Minnie, opening her eyes wide. "You were not there, you old thing! You were upstairs."

Her loud voice awoke the parrot. He took his head from under his wing and cried out, "Polly did!"

"That's a wicked story, you naughty bird," said Minnie. "You were in Grandma's room, so now!" Then Minnie tried to go to sleep again.

She laid down and counted white sheep, just as Grandma said she did when she couldn't sleep. But there was a big lump in her throat—"Oh, I wish I hadn't!"

Pretty soon there came a soft patter of four little feet, and her pussy jumped upon the bed, and kissed Minnie's cheek, and began to purr-r-! purr-r-r! It was very queer but that, too, sounded as if pussy said, "I know! I know!"

"Yes, you do know, Kitty," said Minnie, and then she threw her arms around Kitty's neck and cried bitterly, "And —I guess—I want—to see—my—Mamma!"

Mamma opened her arms when she saw the little weeping girl coming, and then Minnie told her miserable story.

"I was awfully naughty, Mamma, but I did want the custard pie so bad, and so I ate it up—'most a whole pie, and then—I—I—Oh, I don't want to tell it, but I 'spect I must—I shut Kitty in the pantry to make you think she did it. But I'm truly sorry, Mamma."

Then Mamma told Minnie that she had known all about it, but she had hoped the little daughter would be brave enough to tell her about it.

"But, Mamma," she asked, "how did you know it wasn't Kitty?"

THE KEY TO A REVIVAL

David put it right. He cried, "Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation; and uphold me with thy free spirit." This comes first.

"Then will I teach transgressors thy ways; and sinners shall be converted unto thee." This follows as a certain sequence.

Beloved, let us pray likewise. It is vain to pray otherwise.

If you have lost spiritual joy, if you have experienced better days, acknowledge it. Break down in sorrow and shame. Confess the crimes of carelessness and prayerlessness. If you deplore and believe, God will restore and receive.

Your restoration will result in some sinner's regeneration. You are the key to a revival. Unlock it, beloved!—P. H. Advocate.

YOU CAN'T RUB IT OUT

Robert was amusing himself by writing with a piece of glass on a window-pane. "Don't write there, my son," said his father.

"Why not?" asked Robert.

"Because you can't rub it out," replied his father.

Did you ever stop to think that the mean, hateful, wicked things you do and think cannot be rubbed out by anyone on this earth? There is only one Person who can wash away sin—and that Person is the Lord Jesus. If you have done wrong things, thought bad thoughts, or said unkind, hateful words, take them to Jesus and ask Him to wash your heart and mind with His Blood. That is the only thing in earth or heaven that can take away sin.—Light and Life Primary Paper.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

INVESTMENTS IN HEALTH, PHYSICAL, MENTAL AND SPIRITUAL

Prov. 4:20-27

Topic for November 17

By E. LESTER BALLARD

Preparation

Three suggestions:

1. If possible, obtain pictures or photographs of prominent men and women who exemplify good health, keen mind, and devout spirit—a champion in athletics, a brilliant educator, a religious leader. Display these on the front wall of your room. Of course have a strong picture of Christ in the midst or above them.

2. Have an athlete, a teacher or professor a lay leader in religion, to speak briefly on: Dividends from Investment in (a) Physical Health; (b) Mental Health; (c) Spiritual Health, respectively.

3. If neither of the above are available assign the subjects, The Value of (a) a Healthy Body; (b) a Healthy Mind; (c) a Healthy Soul; to three Endeavorers for short talks. (See paragraphs under "Participation" below.)

Program

Prelude: My Faith Looks Up to Thee; This Is My Father's World; or an unused hymn below.

Hymns: Awake, My Soul, Stretch Every Nerve; Give of Your Best to the Master; I Would Be True; Just As I Am, Thine Own to Be; O Jesus, Prince of Life and Truth

Scripture: Prov. 4:20-27; Eph. 6:10-17; Jas 1:5, 6.

Poems: God of Our Boyhood—Wm. Byron Forbush; Be Strong!—Maltbie D. Babcock; Father in Heaven, Who Lovest All—Rudyard Kipling; Glad That I Live Am I—Lizette W Reese; God Give Us Men—Josiah G. Holland.

Be strong!
We are not here to play, to dream, to drift:
We have hard work to do, and loads to lift.
Shun not the struggle! Face it! 'Tis God's gift!
Be strong!

Be strong!
Say not the days are evil, who's to blame?
And fold the hands and acquiesce—O shame!
Stand up, speak out, and bravely in God's name.
Be strong!

Be strong!
It matters not how deep entrenched the wrong;
How hard the battle goes, the day how long;
Faint not, fight on! tomorrow comes the song;
Be strong!

Glad that I live am I;
That the sky is blue;
Glad for the country lanes,
And the fall of dew.

After the sun the rain,
After the rain the sun;
This is the way of life,
Till the work is done.

All that we need to do,
Be we low or high,
Is to see that we grow
Nearer to the sky.

Questions: Does or should the church provide a program for health? In what order of importance would you list the three health divisions of the topic? Why? Does Jesus have anything to say about the care of the body. mind, soul? Does Paul?

The following extracts from Harry T. Stock in the C. E. World Quarterly:

If dissipation and unwise habits were to shorten your life ten years, but to "put more thrills" into the years that you do live—which would you choose?

Is it just "my own business" whether I drink, or is it also a matter which concerns my present and future family?

One of the best investments in health is to go to bed. How many hours of sleep are needed daily?

Some young people say, "We know enough to be healthy. There is no use giving us advice, for we'll do what we want to regardless of its effect." Is that true? If it is, how wise is this younger generation?

Participation

The Value of a Healthy Body.

Who is it that does not admire a man or woman with a healthy body? That's one reason athletes are so popular. In most cases those healthy bodies were gained by care perseverance, self-denial. Over-indulgence in anything is harmful. The "eat, drink and be merry" theory is poor philosophy. Just the other day a young lady was relating her grandmother's policy of always rising from the table feeling that she could eat more. She is alert and sound in body at 85 years of age. Insurance companies have proven that total abstainers from alcohol are healthier and live longer. Why risk one's health and longevity by imbibing poisons? Invest in health and live long and happy. Jesus will help you.

The Value of a Healthy Mind.

Why is it railroad companies, machine shops, and other like industries will not employ dope fiends and habitual drunkards? Because men's minds must be clear to handle machinery, especially where much human life is involved. This applies more or less to the professional and business realms as well.

". . . The time demands Strong minds, great hearts, true faith, and willing hands."

Furthermore, so closely associated are the body organs with the brain that physical disease is caused by mental disorders. A tragedy occurred in a certain educational institution some years ago, when a brilliant popular Christian student committed suicide. It was thought that, being overloaded with studies and responsibilities, something snapped in his mind, and he yielded to an insane impulse. Care for that mind, young man, young woman.

The Value of a Healthy Soul.

We don't often speak of the soul as being healthy or unhealthy, but it nevertheless is true. Some souls are suffering with inertia. Some are afflicted with atrophy. Souls are diseased with sin. Many physical diseases have their counterpart in the spiritual. A normal man, physically and mentally, cannot be a healthy Christian without interest in the activities and attendance upon the services of the church, because these are means of grace and growth. The soul is oneself. It is also a part of God. To keep the soul healthy by regular and constant communion with Him who gave it is of primary and utmost importance.

HAPPY MAN

A cozy home in woodland grove
Where shades are dotted by the sun;
Tame shrub and bush look out in love
To see the beds of ivy spun:
Such is the place for home.

Gay walks that lie in angle ways
And ranks of Time's sequestered rose
Become the escorts of the days
For house and barn and garden close,
Which there adorn the home.

The orchard fields, the meadows green,
And silver brooks where cattle drink,
Attract the eyes in wonders seen
And let the mind repose and think:
How beautiful the home!

The mocking birds and whippoorwills
With lives atune for mirth and song,
Send out their cheers across the hills
To further help life move along;
Yet, there is more to home.

Forget the landsdape, tree and bird,
And home and things of fancy bright,
Then think of that which is preferred
To make the picture look just right—
A real happy home.

No mansion house nor cottage small
On city street, in plain or grove,
Will answer to life's innate call
Except through things we truly love—
Found in the hearts at home.

Thus love is needed to design
The scope, the object and the plan,
And execute the works benign,
And thus portray a happy man,
Reflecting life at home!

TITHING BULLETINS OFFERED AT A SAVING

At least $5 a week can be saved by any church that customarily uses a four-page bulletin each week. The Layman Company, 730 Rush Street, Chicago, offers this saving when using their four-page bulletin. Two pages are printed with a stewardship message, and two pages are left blank for local announcements The company suggests that churches conduct a five weeks' or ten weeks' course of tithe education by using its bulletins, which are offered at a nominal sum. It offers a sample set containing 32 different tithing tracts at 20 cents. Please mention the M. P. Herald also give your denomination.

THE PRINTERS WILL HAVE TO DO THE REST

Monday and Tuesday the editor worked feverishly trying to get the Herald material ready for the printers so he could leave on Wednesday morning for conference. That far in advance it is impossible to take care of every detail. So the only thing the editor could do was to do as much as possible and leave the rest with the printers.

TWENTY-MINUTE SERMONS

We have a growing conviction that the finest sermons preached in America are delivered during the month of August. Then visiting ministers try for the second or more times their favorite discourses on congregations where they are acting as supplies. That is the month of conferences where ministers meet for inspiration and instruction. Every worthwhile preacher does his best when speaking to ministers. The realization that his audience knows and sympathizes spurs him to his noblest efforts. Preaching reaches high altitudes when churches strike low ebb This is paradoxical but it is our experience.

We have heard much said in praise of twenty-minute sermons. There are ministers who can speak enough in that time and there are laymen who can hold no more. Some of the greatest preachers in America can preach for twenty minutes and give a satisfying message. There are many who find that twenty minutes limit them and they cannot do their best work in that space of time. It is our conviction that twenty minutes is too short for the best grade of preaching. The homiletical form is a distinct type of literary style as the essay or short story. A sermon can hardly be developed with introduction argument, and conclusion, with illustrations. in that time. An outline is not a sermon When time counts more than content, as it does with many, the twenty minutes may be the highest praise for a discourse, but there are other considerations.

The above sentences were written in remembrance of a conference in which we listened to four great American preachers who spoke for forty minutes each in a single morning with only ten minutes intermission between the succeeding lectures. They made great deliverances, packed, concise, comprehensive, probing and with mighty outlook Such utterances, such discussions of mighty themes, could not have been squeezed into twenty minutes. They needed range of time as well as thought. To listen to these successive sermons was a delight and an effort that left one mentally full and yet exhausted

The interesting thing is that some of the men who were in the audience were twenty-minute men and pulpit princes in power. When their congregations listen to them for twenty minutes again, let them remember that they are not men who themselves limit their hearing and studying to twenty minutes. They sit in on fifty-minute lectures They read the books in which years of research are crowded in chapters. They toil to simplify great ideas and epitomize large areas of truth. The twenty minutes have behind them years of study and hours of thought. We counsel congregations not to discount short sermons as lacking in effort nor to refuse longer sermons as requiring too much time. A sermon is an attempt to convey eternal truth through personality and in it the clock cannot be made the single standard of excellence without losing something that is even more excellent.—Methodist Protestant-Recorder.

MRS. J. W. SWAIN BEREAVED

Mrs. J. W. Swain, of Calvary church, mourns the loss of her mother, Mrs. Burton, who passed away at the home of Mrs. Swain on Friday of last week. The funeral was held from the First Baptist church in Greensboro on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Burton had been a member of this church for twenty years.

MRS. E. F. ALLMAN CRITICALLY ILL

Friends in North Carolina have been informed of the critical illness of Mrs. E. F. Allman at her home in Lost Creek, W. Va. Mrs. Allman is the wife of Dr. E. F. Allman, who was superintendent of our Children's Home at High Point before Dr. and Mrs. Dixon took up the work there.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Palestine, Flat Rock Circuit.—Our pastor, Rev. C. B. Way, filled his last appointment for this conference year at Palestine church last Sunday. Our people have enjoyed hearing Pastor Way this year, and all are anxious for his return. He has preached plain Bible truths that everyone can understand, so plain that even the little children can understand. And our prayer is that conference may return him to Flat Rock for another year. He and his family have endeared themselves to our people and we would regret very much to have to let them go. Brother Way and Mrs. Way have worked hard, and used every effort they could to have the work advanced. Especially have they tried hard to get our allotment for the Herald. While they have succeeded in getting only a little over half, yet I believe there are more Methodist Protestant Heralds coming to Flat Rock circuit than ever before at one time.

The Sunday school continues to go on. The attendance is small, yet the interest is good, we learn.

Mrs. Hilton Sharon is confined to her bed, we learn. Hope she may soon be out.

The last quarterly conference was held at Bethany church Saturday at 2 o'clock. All the churches were represented. The financial reports were very good. Palestine stewards reported pastor's salary paid in full, some paid on budget (other reporters will report from their churches). Conference voted unanimously for the return of the present pastor. Also voted to do some needed improvements at the parsonage, to be done at once. GRACE R. TUCKER, Reporter.

(This report came too late for last week.)

Flat Rock Charge.—We did not intend to send any report to the Herald this week, but things will happen. Bro. Houston Landreth, generous-hearted member of Palestine church, sent the pastor and family 50 pounds of flour last Saturday, for which we are very appreciative. An almost constant stream of gifts has come to us from various members during the past few weeks. We are very thankful to all these good people of Flat Rock charge, whose kindness and generosity have been highly appreciated during the two years of our pastorate. C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Friendship Station.—It is with a tinge of sadness that we pen our last letter to the Herald from our church for this conference year. As we look back over the past year we realize how little we have done. Our pastor has filled all appointments and at each one delivered true gospel sermons. And we trust he may do so again next year. We are hoping to send him to conference with a report that will be a credit to our church. Our efficient superintendent, Mr. O. L. Hatley, is our delegate. Our gain in membership this year has not been as large as some others report, neither is our Sunday school and church attendance, but we have a "faithful few" that go and render service each Sunday. It's rather late to mention this, but seldom has a visiting pastor so endeared himself to our people as did Rev. J. Elwood Carroll during his short stay with us. The people at large appreciated his splendid service.

Friendship church suffered a loss in the death of "Uncle" Frank Mason, who passed away October 7. Funeral service was held at Friendship church, conducted by his pastor, Rev. W. D. Reed, assisted by Revs. Atlas Ridge, C. H. Hill and O. B. Williams. Special songs of his own selection were sung by the choir. He had also selected his pallbearers, these being L. P. Lowder, W. A. and W. V. Hatley, G. C. Marton, C. A. Harkey, and D. N. Sides. The flowers, which were profuse and lovely, were borne by the Ladies' Sunday school class of which Mrs. Mason is a member, assisted by Mesdames G. C. Marton, A. A. Burris, B. H. Harkey, Alice Shankle, and Miss Emma Harkey.

MRS. D. W. SIDES, Reporter.

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge.—The fourth quarterly conference met here Saturday afternoon. There was a good number present and fairly good reports. There was a unanimous vote for the return of our pastor, Rev. J. R. Short, if the conference sees fit to return him to us. We have greatly enjoyed having Mr. Short, also his wife and children, with us for the past two years. He has done a good work which we appreciate.

Services were well attended Sunday. Communion service was observed; also election of officers. The officers elected were: Stewards, W. R. Harrison, W. M. Compton, E. L. Davis, H. R. Smith, H. R. McClimon, C. W. McClimon, David Pearson, and Joe Leonard; trustees, B. A. McClimon, B. P. Smith, P. W. Smith, and N. G. McClimon; class leaders, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Poole; clerk, Mrs. N. G. McClimon; church treasurer, Lula Pearson; reporters, Miss Lottie L. Harrison and Mrs. C. W. McClimon.

There have been some changes made and two reporters have been elected for the incoming year.

The Boys' Senior Class, under the sponsorship of Cecil W. McClimon, will have charge of the opening service at Sunday school next Sunday morning.

MISS LOTTIE L. HARRISON,
MRS. C. W. McCLIMON,
Reporters.

(This report came too late for last week.)

Mebane.—We have paid all claims and our pastor will go to conference feeling good so far as finances are concerned. We have had a good year and appreciate the work of the pastor and wife. The fourth quarterly conference was held Wednesday evening. Mrs. Carl Sykes, our faithful church treasurer, is delegate to conference, and was instructed to ask for the return of our pastor. The installation of officers and the communion service were combined in the Sunday morning service. The young people of High Point First church put on a play, "This War," for us at the evening service. This was very effective and was enjoyed by a very appreciative audience. The Ladies' Aid met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. H. Payne. Mr. Talmadge Jobe had his tonsils removed this week and is improving rapidly. Mr. and Mrs. Lon F. Wilkerson have announced the marriage of their daughter, Lois, to Mr. Erwin Taylor, of Efland, Friday, October 18, in Graham. Rev. J. C. Auman, of the M. P. church, heard the vows in the presence of a few friends. Mrs. Taylor has spen her life in Mebane. She is a graduate of th Mebane high school and has always been a interested and willing worker in our church She has been our pianist for several years first in Sunday school and now in church. Sh is an attractive and lovable girl and very bes wishes for a happy married life are bein expressed by her many friends. Mr. Taylo is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Taylo of Efland. He is a young man of sterlin qualities. He is in business in Mebane an we are glad they will make this their home

MRS. H. C. NICHOLSON.

Guilford Charge.—Today was the last appointment for the conference year. We hav had a good year. All the churches have don well. All have paid pastor in full, Fairfiel and Hickory Grove paid A. C. B. in ful Vickory and Mitchell Grove A. C. B. excep the college. This is our second year wit these people and we have enjoyed workin with them. The Mitchell Grove ladies fille two dozen cans of fruit for us, so two week ago they returned them and several mor also; lots of other things I won't try to mention. They gave the writer a nice quilt. O last Saturday afternoon Brothers J. L. Cashatt and Hermon Billings came and carrie Mr. Williams to town and dressed him up i a new suit. The other churches were so nic always giving us things for the pantry. W were so grateful to them for the kindnes shown us this year. May the Lord bless eac and every one. MRS. T. A. WILLIAMS.

Fair Grove Church, Haw River Charge.—Our church has just closed one of the mos successful years it has had in a long tim The financial report is very good. Pastor salary has been paid in full. On last Sunda our pastor preached his closing sermon. was preached mainly to the new officers wh were then installed.

Much work has been done this year on ou church. A stone porch has been added an the inside worked over. The ladies are no planning to have the grounds beautified b planting shrubs and rebuilding the old roc fence around the cemetery. They also inten buying new lights and curtains.

Today the Sunday school elected teache for the coming year and planned to equip room for the Primary Class.

Mr. Trollinger has been such a good past that we have all learned to love him and w sincerely hope that he and his family wi be with us another year.

BARBA GRAY TROXLER, Reporter.

South Winston.—With all our debts pai and a clear record, we are happy to end a start a conference year.

Things look favorable for a successful en of the conference year with us. We a happy to say that without any special dri we have all our debts paid and everything in our favor for a new conference year begin.

Our new officers for the following ye are: Superintendent, Mr. Ernest Johnson; se retary and treasurer, Mr. W. C. Norris. W are grateful to say that Mr. W. H. Smith h been successful in serving as our Sund school superintendent for about eight yea

Our Young People's Class has been ve good in helping out with the church neces ties. They have bought a new piano and they also bought the church cornerstone to be laid in the near future. We are proud of this good work and hope they will continue to do so.

MISS BEATRICE MARKLAND, Reporter.

West End, Greensboro.—We are glad to report that the closing of the conference year finds us with a clear sheet and grateful hearts for a number of things that have been accomplished this year.

The fourth quarterly conference met on last Wednesday evening and a unanimous vote was cast for the return of our very able leader and friend, Dr. N. G. Bethea. We appreciate his tireless efforts on our behalf and pledge our full co-operation in his return to us. It was voted that the pastor's salary be raised $200 also. Mr. L. M. Foust is our delegate to Annual Conference and Mr. W. W. Eldridge is alternate.

Noteworthy also is the fact that through negotiations with the company handling our church debt we have been able to reduce same to a great extent. For every dollar we raise we will be given credit for two until half the total amount is raised. Paying interest on the other half only during this period. Now we can feel that we are accomplishing something when the "Building Fund" is stressed.

The circles are meeting on Monday, as follows: No. 1 with Mrs. J. K. Osborne, 3 p. m.; No. 2, 7:30 p. m., at the church.

The auxiliary will meet at the church on Monday, November 11, at 8 p. m., with Mrs. S. H. Stapleton as hostess. A special effort is being made to get as many there as possible who have not been to a meeting this year.

The Senior Choir will meet for rehearsal and election of officers with Mrs. A. E. Pleasants, 912 Silver avenue, on Friday, November 8, at 8 p. m. All the old members and any others interested in the choir and singing are urged to come.

Spring Church Circuit Auxiliary. — On Wednesday, October 30, at 2 p. m., the Spring Church Circuit Auxiliary met in the home of Mrs. J. W. Crew with 13 active members, one honorary, and one Precious Jewel present. Mrs. R. M. Robinson was devotional leader. Mrs. J. W. Crew read the Scripture lesson, using the 96th and 100th Psalms. Mrs. Robinson assigned different parts of the program to Mesdames J. M. Dunham, H. E. Vassar, Temana Hart and Wm. H. Neese. Mrs. Robinson's subject was "Christ Our Companion in Gratitude." During the business hour reports from the different committees were given and plans discussed on how to make our treasury grow. A number of our ladies are expert with the crochet needle, so it was decided to buy thread and crochet a bedspread to be sold. Our society is by no means dead, but we do wish we could get more of the folks interested in the work. Mrs. J. L. Glover had charge of the program and was assisted by Mesdames Temana Hart and G. J Mitchell. Mrs. C. E. Dimick conducted the question box.

An interesting report of the first district meeting held at Eden church October 24 was given by Mrs. H. E. Vassar. For the benefit of those who did not attend the rally I just want to say you missed a treat. To my way of thinking it was the most interesting and best attended of any rally held in this district during the last four years. At this auxiliary meeting the writer offered her resignation as thank-offering secretary and also of corresponding secretary, which offices she has tried to fill for the last four years. It has been a pleasure to work with this band of interesting and consecrated women, and my sincere prayer for them is that they may continue in the great work they are trying to do for the cause of missions. Mrs. H. E. Vassar in a few well-chosen words told how much the society appreciated the writer's efforts in the work of the society and called for a standing vote of thanks. Just at this time the writer received a very pleasant surprise when Mrs. G. J. Mitchell, president of the auxiliary, presented her with a nice glass casserole dish, an appreciation from the auxiliary. Words failed when an attempt was made to respond to the honor bestowed. This remark was made, though, that regardless where this writer is another year there will be a warm spot in her heart for Spring Church Circuit Auxiliary and she will be trying to carry on the same kind of work somewhere else.

The closing prayer was offered by Mrs Neese, after which the hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. R. M. Robinson, served delicious refreshments.

MRS. WILLIAM H. NEESE.

Dulin's, Mocksville Charge. — Conference year closed yesterday with a small congregation to hear our pastor, Rev. R. L. Hethcox, deliver his last sermon for the year.

All business matters were settled and officers are duly elected for the next year.

Our Sunday school has been well attended throughout the year. We also have our Sunday school rooms finished and the church painted on the inside and outside.

We had to worship with us Mr. and Mrs. Fritts, from Danville, Va. Mrs. Fritts' father is the man who gave the lot for our church and from which it received its name, Dulin's. We were delighted to have these people with us. They have given two donations to the church for which we are grateful.

Shiloh, Shiloh Charge.—Our pastor preached his last sermon today, which seemed indeed to have been the best of the year. However, all have been good. His subject was "The Tragedy of Building Without God," using as a text Genesis 11:4.

At the close of the sermon, 35 or more officers were elected and installed. They are: Sunday school superintendent, H. A. Leonard; trustees, numbering seven; J. L. Evans, church treasurer and chairman of board of stewards, consisting of 20 other members; class leaders, W. J. Berrier, R. B. Sink and J. F. Fritts; pianist, Mabel Berrier; assistant pianist, Gladys Evans; choir leader, Floyd Leonard; assistant choir leader, Ray Leatherman; church reporter, Mabel Berrier, with Blanch Sink assistant.

We hope that our pastor will be proud to make his report of the work done, and that he will be returned to us to do even greater work for the upbuilding of the kingdom of God.

We are praying for the work of the conference, that God's will may be carried to the fullest extent possible.

Hoping for all churches of the conference a great prospect for a good year's work soon to be begun, we ask an interest in your prayers for our success in the Master's service.

Fair Grove, Seagrove-Love Joy Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. E. G. Cowan, filled the last appointment for Fair Grove church yesterday at 10 a. m. Pastor's salary paid in full and hope that all other claims will be paid before Bro. Cowan goes to conference. Officers for the new year are: Trustees, E. K. Auman, W. G. Hunt, J. D. Lilly, Frank Steed and R. R. Auman; stewards, M. C. Auman, H. E. Cagle, Ernest Cagle, Miss Johnsie Lawrence, and Mrs. L. E. Cagle; class leaders, L. E. Cagle, C. E. Stuart, Mrs. Frank Steed, Mrs J. D. Lilly, Mrs. M. C. Auman; Sunday school superintendent, M. C. Auman; secretary, R R. Auman; teachers, Mrs. C. E. Stuart, James Lilly, Mrs. R. R. Auman, Mrs. James Lilly, Mrs. J. A. Auman; pianist, Misses Nancy Auman and Margie Alexander; president C. E. society, H. E. Cagle.

We are planning for better service next year with the same pastor to serve us.

MRS. C. E. STUART.

Hickory Grove Church, Guilford Charge.—Our Sunday school is doing very good, although our attendance is not as good as we would like.

The fourth quarterly meeting was held at our church on Saturday afternoon, November 19, at 2:30 p. m. Bro. Andrews opened the meeting and a good number were present. We were very proud to report our church having paid in full.

On the fourth Sunday at 11 a. m. our pastor was with us and the Lord's Supper was observed. Officers of the church elected at this time were as follows: Superintendent, Claude Tedder; assistant, Lester Weadon; secretary, Miss Gertrude Gardner; assistant, Miss Ruth Hassell; stewards, O. E. Hassell, C. D. Tedder, Clayton Edwards; trustees, A. L. Jones, R. L. Borum, W. A. Matthews, Clayton Edwards, Henry Cook, E. E. Pitts; class leader, Mrs. Claude Tedder; ushers, Lester Weadon, E. E. Pitts.

New Hope, Why Not.—Bro. Hill preached at the regular appointment in last month, also he came back the first Sunday in November with good messages each time. The third Sunday in October all the officers of the church were either re-elected or new ones elected instead. Also some entirely new ones were added.

On the first Sunday in November the Lord's Supper was held and the doors of the church were opened, with three new members being admitted.

Mr. Lester Dorsett, one of our young men members, and Miss Anne Pickett were married recently. Bro. Hill performed the ceremony. We wish for them a long and happy life.

Mr. W. R. Williams, one of our faithful members, has been confined to his home for several weeks but is slowly recovering. We hope he will soon be able to come back to church. We miss him very much.

We are hoping the conference will send Bro. Hill back to us for another year, since the quarterly conference voted unanimously for his return and we have learned to love and appreciate him and his good wife. But if they should not return, may God's richest blessings follow them to their new work and prosper their every deed is our prayer.

MRS. JASPER VONCANNON, Reporter.

Liberty.—We are closing a most successful year. Prayer meeting has been carried on for the longest period of time, and the best attendance that we have any record of for Liberty charge. Our pastor has been so faithful in every line of Christian duty all the time all these three years he has been with us. He has visited the sick, comforted the sorrowing and tried to encourage everyone to live the Christian life. He did so much in improving the Liberty church. The new roof was put on, the inside painting done, chairs for the choir loft, new carpet, new flower vases and pedestals, also new song books. He also did a great deal to improve the country churches on his charge. Numbers of new members were added to the churches.

Mrs. Mamie Smith was hostess to Circle No. 2 of the Woman's Auxiliary Thursday afternoon. After the business session Mrs. Smith served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Estella Ray. At the same hour Miss Bertine Shepard was hostess to Circle No. 1 at her home. After the business session the hostess served refreshments, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Wade Hardin.

Enfield.—The district meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary at Eden church was greatly enjoyed by the people of this vicinity. Fourteen members of the Enfield auxiliary attended and found the program interesting and inspiring. The gracious hospitality of the ladies of the Eden congregation was greatly appreciated.

The October meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. R. A Jordan. The thank-offering program, which was in charge of Mrs. Cecil Matthews, was very interesting and appropriate. The thank-offering amounted to about $17. By special request Mrs. Cecil Matthews sang the solo which she had sung at the district meeting. At the conclusion of the business session Mrs. Eli Bellamy presented to Mrs. Mary Barnhill a birthday gift from the auxiliary. About this time a telegram was received from Mrs. Barnhill's daughter, Mrs. B. O. Rigsbee, of Durham, expressing her thanks to the auxiliary for the lovely way in which they always remembered her mother's birthday.

The auxiliary has recently held a very successful flower show. The display of fall flowers would have done credit to a much larger place.

A few weeks later a colonial tea and display of antiques was given in the hut. A large number of very interesting antiques was on exhibition. Mrs. Whisnant gave a most interesting demonstration of carding and spinning.

The fourth quarterly conference of the Enfield-Whitakers charge was held in Whitakers. The conference unanimously voted to ask for Mr. Peeler's return. Pastor's salary for next year was increased $180. There were very good reports from both charges. The conference gave Mr. and Mrs. Peeler a rising vote of thanks for the splendid work they have done. Mrs. Peeler made a very good talk, expressing their appreciation of the kindnesses and co-operation manifested by the members of all churches on the charge.

Church and Sunday school officers were installed in a beautiful and dignified service on the fourth Sunday in October.

REPORTER.

Center, Alamance Charge.—As we end another conference year we feel that much has been accomplished in our church this year.

Rev. H. L. Isley filled his last appointment the first Sunday evening. He was at his best and gave us a very impressive sermon.

Mr. Isley's report was fine and showed he has not been idle but has been about the "Master's business." His salary was paid in full, and we are hoping the conference will send Rev. Mr. Isley back to us again.

We were very glad to have Rev. A. O. Lindley with us. The Lord's Supper was administered at this time. At the close of the service there was a very impressive installation service for the new officers for the coming year. VERLA MANN, Reporter.

Lincolnton.—In talking to some of the official board I understand that our church is going to the Annual Conference with the best report in years. As the old saying is, you can't keep a good man down. You can't keep a good church down. Our church had a hard pull this year, with some pulling and others sitting down, but we have come out over the top. So we are often made to see if we don't do the church can get along without us. We are glad for the co-operation of one and all.

In making a special drive our Sunday school collection was $61.65 and attendance 161. That is very good with such small attendance.

Rev. J. R. Anderson preached his farewell sermon Sunday morning, his text being found in Acts 20:32, where Paul preached his farewell message. Scripture text: "And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified." REPORTER.

Asheville.—Last Sunday of the conference year. Things are winding up, but not quite as well as hoped. It is too bad that so much is left until the last few months, instead of being kept up to date each month. Still we do have many things for which to be thankful as a church and as individuals. May we not forget to "count our blessings"!

Sunday school started off on time for the first time in months. Everyone seemed quite pleased with the way Mr. Barrett, our newly elected superintendent, is taking hold of things. With the splendid corps of officers and teachers our Sunday school should have a banner year, and we will have if everyone will stand behind the leaders. Maybe all of us will not agree with everything that is proposed, but I hope and pray that we as a church and Sunday school will stop backbiting and learn to uphold the ones who are doing things. In other words, let's try being Christians, sometimes we are anything else but (not a very elegant expression, but an expressive one). If we could, when things arise to vex us, think what would Christ do under these particular circumstances, we should be saved much trouble and sometimes many hard feelings. "It matters a lot to all eternity whether we do right or wrong today!"

Mrs. Robey Wilson, superintendent of the children's department, is having a meeting of the teachers in her department Tuesday evening at her home to discuss plans for the new year. Mrs. Wilson is a splendid teacher and under her able supervision it is expected the children's department will make great progress this year.

Auxiliary circles are to meet as follows: No. 1 with Mrs. H. L. Hanner, 48 Soco street, Thursday, 3 p. m.; No. 2 with Mrs. J. R. Moore, 19 North street, Wednesday, 3 p. m. All members are urged to be present.

As conference convenes in Henderson this week we join with many others in praying that all that goes on in the meetings will inspire those present to be more Christian in everything they plan for the coming year.

Spring Church Charge.—Excepting some shortage in A. C. and World Service claims, the year is ending exceptionally fine. While no startling advances have been made, the attendance, interest and pastoral support have gone beyond my expectations. The general good feeling existing between pastor and people has never been equalled at the end of a four years' pastorate in the experience of this pastor. This is a splendid field; it is so because the people are a fine people. I hope that my successor will render better service than I. WM. H. NEESE.

Mill Grove, Midland Charge.—We had our last quarterly conference at Pine Bluff church October 22. Dr. Andrews was present. We appreciated having him. I feel like our charge has the best report for the Annual Conference which is now on hand that it has had in many years. Let's thank God for this report. The charge voted a majority for the return of our present pastor, Brother Trolinger. The delegate to conference, Brother Voncannon, was so instructed. I joined the M. P. church because I like its government of a majority to rule. So a word to the minority of voters on return of the pastor. We don't expect 100 per cent to vote for any man to return at any time. But we do expect the minority to be Christlike enough to say the government of our church is majority to rule, and I am a Christian and the majority's pastor is my pastor. And I feel like every born again Christian will co-operate to his fullest extent under such a wonderful government as our church has. Let's pray for the Annual Conference to have the best report it has ever had, and for next year to be the best year we have had yet.

Our church has re-elected all officers for next year except one, and that will be attended to after Annual Conference. That is reporter. However, we are thinking of adding to our official list at least two more positions, those to look after the Annual Conference claims. That is under consideration. I wish to say a word to the members that had the names of this year as a steward. They all paid me in full amount asked for, except four, and they paid part of theirs. I am proud of each name I carried in my steward book. I admit it took gas and expense to get around, but it was for the Lord's work, what do I care? I am expecting the measure to be heaped with blessings in return. In fact I have already been blessed.

The other stewards in our church have done exceedingly fine too. One of them collected more than any of us. I congratulate him. He is Brother O. B. Furr. Many members in the N. C. Conference know him. Although I can give the ones I have listed in my steward book credit for one thing, Brother Furr didn't collect from all his members, like you folks paid me. This report is a little lengthy, I admit, but as this may be my last report to the paper, I trust you will forgive if it is too long, as the church no doubt will elect another reporter next year. I am sure they can get a much better one than I am. We have a fine set of people to get one out of. But I have tried in my weak way to give you a few items along of what our church was doing. May God bless our work all over the field everywhere and let's make 1936 the best year yet. Good-by.

Mt. Pleasant, North Davidson.—The fourth Sunday our pastor, Rev. C. L. Grant, filled his last appointment for the conference year, giving us a fine sermon, taking his text from John 3:3.

The attendance for the year has been good and much interest has been shown. The pastor's salary has been paid in full, and some on the conference claims.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met with Mrs. C. A. Green last month. The auxiliary served a supper a few weeks ago and added several dollars to the treasury.

The C. E. Society met Sunday and a very interesting program was given.

Calvary, Greensboro.—Last Sunday was known as "Loyalty Day" at Calvary. Some member or members of the official board were present throughout the day at the church to receive pledges for the new conference year.

Our pastor will go to conference with a gratifying report from Calvary. All financial requirements have been met with the exception of World Service. We will find ourselves on honor roll "C" in that. We feel sure that one of the best years, if not the best year, of the church's existence has just closed. Dr. Pritchard has just finished a fine year's work as Calvary's pastor. It has been a very busy year for him as he has edited our church paper, but not one single time has he neglected the church work or anything pertaining to his church work.

It was interesting to see the enthusiasm with which each member present at the fourth quarterly conference voted for the return of our pastor for another year.

Both the church and Sunday school officers for the ensuing year were installed last Sunday at the morning church service.

W. F. Parker is our new Sunday school superintendent. He seems to be entering into the work wholeheartedly. We feel that the entire school is going to back him up in anything he undertakes to do.

W. L. and J. F. Caudle accompanied our Boy Scouts to Vade Mecum mountain last Friday afternoon where they enjoyed an overnight visit. They returned to Greensboro Saturday afternoon.

H. W. Highfill was recently elected troop committeeman of Calvary's Boy Scout troop.

Mrs. J. E. Pritchard and J. Frank Coble entertained the Junior Christian Endeavors with a weiner roast back of our church hut Thursday evening.

We wish to extend sympathy to two of our members who are bereaved, Mrs. J. W. Swain, whose mother passed away last Saturday morning, and David M. Glass, whose brother passed away last week, his death being caused by injuries received in an automobile wreck.

Pine Bluff, Midland Charge.—I am not trying to take the place of our good reporter from Pine Bluff, but just feel that I would like to have a little space in the Herald to report some of the things we have done in our church during the year that is closing.

On Sunday, November 3, we had Sunday school and preaching service, the last preaching service before conference, with a splendid attendance. Brother Trolinger preached on tithing, and received as a response from many that they would give this subject their prayerful consideration.

We feel that during the year Brother Trolinger has given us his best service in preaching, holding Bible study, visiting in the homes, and visiting our sick in the hospitals, and in all phases of pastoral work. We feel that our entire church is very deeply appreciative to him and Mrs. Trolinger for their good work among us. They have shown us that the good work of a pastor does not consist merely in preaching from the pulpit, but that it reaches out to the homes of the members of the church and even to those who are members of no church at all, who need to know of the spirit of Christ.

Before our last quarterly conference was held our church had paid up the pastor's salary and all the Annual Conference claims in full. We are glad of this, and thankful that our people are interested in the work to this extent. It has been a good year for Pine Bluff, and we think that much of the credit for this should go to our pastor.

Union Ridge, Forsyth.—The fourth quarterly conference of Forsyth charge was held at Mt. Carmel church Sunday afternoon. Encouraging reports were made by the leaders of every organization of the various churches of the charge. Miss Anna Tesh was elected delegate to the Annual Conference which will convene in Henderson. By unanimous vote of the conference, which was composed of about 40 official members, the delegate was instructed to ask for the return of the pastor Rev. R. A. Hunter, who has served us so faithfully for four years. We had a large congregation at the 11 o'clock hour last Sunday. Our pastor, Rev. R. A. Hunter, preached on the duties of our church officials. Following the sermon, officers were installed for the coming year. Supt. C. A. Cranford was re-elected for superintendent of the Sunday school. Mr. Francis Snyder was re-elected as treasurer for the church.

Alberta Oldham and Ralph Inscoe were united in marriage October 26, 1935, at the Maple Springs parsonage, with Rev. R. A. Hunter officiating.

We are glad to report that Miss Katherine Burns, who has been ill, is able to be with us again.

The stewards and trustees held their monthly meeting at the home of H. L. Miller.

Financially this has been the best year in the history of our church. We have paid our pastor in full and most of the conference claims.

Two of our charter members, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Mock, celebrated their golden wedding October 20, 1935. Many of their friends called to see them during the day. We wish for them many more years together.

Gibsonville.—At the church hour Sunday evening, October 27, an old-time singing was held, taking the place of our usual evening service. Hymns of long ago were sung. Mr. Stubbins gave a brief history of each hymn, its author and origin. A large crowd was present.

The Young Ladies' Class will hold their monthly meeting Tuesday night, November 5, with Mrs. Walter Petty. New officers have been elected for the coming year.

Mr. Clayton Faucette is very ill at his home here.

Mrs. Norman Brown is a patient at Long hospital, Greensboro, N. C., and is improving nicely.

Rev. R. C. Stubbins will leave Tuesday, November 5, for Henderson to attend conference. Mr. Rountree will also leave this week for Henderson.

First Church, Charlotte.—We are very glad indeed to submit a brief summary of the activities of this church during the past year. God has been most wonderful to this church and this community. We can never do enough for Him who died on the cross of Calvary to save us from sin.

During the past year there were over 600 persons who dedicated their souls to the work of God in the services held in this church. Approximately 230 new members have been accepted into the church during the year. This is a gain of nearly 100 per cent of the total membership a year ago.

The Sunday school attendance record was broken again on November 3. A total of 384 were present. The Young Men's Class alone had 84 members and visitors present. May the entire Sunday school work to break the record each Sunday, and to win souls to Jesus.

The Young People's Fellowship Club which was organized August 18, 1935, has been doing wonderful work for the glory of God. Every Saturday night the club holds street meeting services at various places in the city. Sunday afternoons are devoted to the holding of meetings in mission houses or at other places where God leads the club. During the week there are various meetings of the club and a large attendance is always present. The club has approximately 125 members who are separated Christians. All members of this club adhere strictly to the Fellowship Club creed.

The regular Wednesday night prayer service meetings have the interest of every member of the church. We believe that the attendance of these prayer meetings is the largest of any church in the Carolinas. At these meetings there is a special part for testimonies. Every member of the Fellowship Club always has a testimony for Jesus and are willing to give it at any time. The younger people of the church attend these Wednesday night meetings as much so as the older. The attendance is ever increasing. It is hoped that we will be able to broadcast a portion of the Wednesday night services beginning at the first of the new year.

This is only a very brief summary of the activities. Space will not permit a more lengthy summary.

Gideon's Grove Mission Band.—The Mission Band of Gideon's Grove M. P. church met at the parsonage last Saturday afternoon. An interesting program was rendered. The devotional service was conducted by Eloise Friddle. We decided to serve an oyster supper on Saturday night, November 16, in Stokesdale. The members are looking forward to this occasion with the hope of making it a success. The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Sam Lemmons Mildred and Louise Way will be program leaders. We urge every member to be present

First Church, Danville, Va.—Although we are only 35 weeks old, we are 21 members stronger than we were on March 10 (when our church was organized with 73 members)

The subject of the last sermon of our pastor, Rev. C. P. Morris, was "Gideon's Three Hundred." In comparing our church with Gideon's army he said that success was not gained by numbers alone, and if you could see how each member works for the advancement of God's kingdom on earth, you would certainly agree with him. We are proud of everyone and also our pastor, who has only been with us since May. We have all grown to love him and sincerely hope he will be returned to us for the next year. We are also proud to send our delegate, Mr. Ira Elliott, to conference with a clean sheet to start next year with—pastor's salary and all debts paid in full.

While mentioning the gain of 21 members in our church, we must report the loss of one faithful brother, Mr. J. W. Peavy, who was taken to glory November 1. We still love to count him with us although his body has been laid to rest. His influence and spirituality will forever remain in our midst.

At Sunday school last Sunday we had a banner attendance of 98 and a banner collection of $13. We are working and hoping that we will be able to report 98 regular attendants later on.

Interest seems to be growing in our Christian Endeavor with about 23 regular and active members in the Senior group. We all became kids again with Hallowe'en ghosts and witches roaming about at the home of Miss Ethel Spain, at the last monthly C. E. meeting. Miss Ora Whisenant was re-elected president and Miss Virginia Fowler and Mrs. Tate Rice leaders of the Junior class.

We enjoyed hearing and seeing Mr. Joe Lamb lead our Sunday school so much last year that we couldn't give him up. Now we'll all be able to see our superintendent each Sunday for another year, no matter where we're sitting, for if we can't see his head, there's always his sides to see. Where he's big in size he's twice as large in heart and we're all praying and hoping for his success. We each desire the prayers of the older and more experienced churches in our work. MARRIED

Lamb-Barnhill

Miss Sallie Bett Barnhill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Barnhill, Enfield, N. C., and the Rev. Eugene A. Lamb, pastor of Triplet Methodist Protestant church in Triplet, Va., were married by candlelight in Baker Chapel. Western Maryland College, Saturday, October 12, at 5 p. m. The officiating clergymen for the ring ceremony were the Rev. Dr. Fred G. Holloway, president of the Westminster Theological Seminary, and the Rev. Dr. Hugh L. Elderdice, president emeritus of the seminary. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lamb, of Greensboro, N. C.

Charles E. Forlines, organist, played a recital beginning at 4:30 o'clock. At 5 o'clock Mrs. Loureta Rawsthorne, of Pittsburgh, sang "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling" and "Because." This was followed by the organ selection, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

The groom and his best man, his brother, Bryon Lamb, of Greensboro, took their places at the altar. The ushers followed: Theodore Landis, Falling Waters, W. Va.; William Howard, Burlington, N. C.; and Renno Barnhill and Horace Barnhill, Enfield, brothers of the bride. Miss Kathryn Smith, Westminster, was the maid of honor.

After the ceremony the bride and groom received their guests in the rear of the chapel.

Following a motor wedding trip they will be at home at Enfield, N. C., after November 22. The bride has served several years as secretary of the office of the Board of Christian Education of the General Conference of the Methodist Protestant church located in Pittsburgh, with offices formerly located at the Westminster Theological Seminary. The groom is a graduate of Western Maryland College class of 1932, and he graduated from the Westminster Theological Seminary three years later. Upon his graduation in May he accepted a charge in Triplet where he will continue in that pastorate.—Methodist Protestant-Recorder.

Bivins-Boggs

Miss Margaret Lucile Bivins and Carl Andrew Boggs, of Burlington, N. C., were married by the writer at the home of the bride's parents, Hillsboro, N. C., Saturday, October 26.

Mrs. Boggs is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bivins, of our Efland church.

We wish for this promising couple much success through life. B. M. WILLIAMS.

REV. E. W. FOX TO KINGS MOUNTAIN

Rev. E. W. Fox, one of our highly esteemed subscribers who has served the M. E. church, South, at Elkin, N. C., for the last four years, has been transferred to Kings Mountain, N. C.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Hardee

In the life of Mrs. Z. A. Hardee the command of our Master, "Love one another as I have loved you," has been exemplified. Her life radiated love; love for her family, her neighbors, her church and her community. Her efficiency and her desire to serve gave her ample opportunity to fulfill the desires created by her broad vision of Christian service.

Therefore, be it resolved:

First, That we, the women of the first district, bow in humble submission to the will of Him who can make no mistakes, and strive harder as individuals to follow her example of sacrificial service.

Second, That we recognize the loss of an efficient secretary.

Third, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, a copy spread on our minutes, and copies be sent to the Missionary Record and Methodist Protestant Herald for publication.

MRS. E. I. BELLAMY,

Paylor

John William Bird Paylor, age 67 years, passed from this life on the 4th day of September. For 19 years Mr. Paylor had been a loyal member of the Methodist Protestant church and was looked upon as a practical and sincere type of Christian character.

The survivors are his widow, Mary Huffine Paylor; nine children, George, Ernest, John. Garland, Hurley, Amanda, Clara, Ruth, and Gladys. The good influence of Mr. Paylor still lives with us and we shall look forward, hoping to see his face when "the day breaks and the shadows flee away."

Waynick

Mrs. Sallie A. Waynick, 75, who for more than 30 years had been a member of Grace church, passed away at St. Leo's hospital on Saturday afternoon, October 12, 1935. She had been in poor health for many years.

Mrs. Waynick united with Grace church during the pastorate of Dr. R. M. Andrews hence it was her request that he conduct the funeral services, which were held on Monday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of W. D Waynick, a son, who lives at 353 W. Lee street. Dr. Andrews was assisted by Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, pastor of Grace church. The pallbearers were grandsons. Interment was in Green Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Waynick was born in Southmont, Davidson county, March 20, 1860. She was married to Philip Jesse Waynick, who passed away in 1923. Surviving are four daughters Mrs. Sparger Boyles, of Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs L. J. Blackwood, Mrs. R. C. Lewis, and Miss Nina Waynick, of Greensboro; two sons, W D. Waynick and J. M. Waynick, of Greensboro; a stepbrother, Webster Ogburn, of Summerfield; 20 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. For many years she had made er home with Mrs. L. J. Blackwood, who ives near Sumner school.

For 30 years Mrs. Waynick had been a aithful member of Grace church. Her health ad not been good, hence she was unable to ttend church often and do what she wished o do in and through her church. Those who new her loved her and spoke often of her eautiful character. Surely the membership f Grace church is the poorer at her passing ut the sweetness of her life lingers with us s a benediction. J. ELWOOD CARROLL.

AN APPRECIATION

Resolutions of Respect for R. R. Ross, of Asheboro

The death of R. R. Ross, of Asheboro, July 6, 1935, cast a gloom over the length and readth of the Methodist Protestant church. he state and his large circle of friends and cquaintances everywhere. His four-score nd four years had truly been filled with houghts, deeds, time and services, which were plifting and beneficial to those with whom e came in contact. His was

"A LIFE THAT COUNTS"

The life that counts must toil and fight;
lust hate the wrong and love the right;
lust stand for truth, by day and night,
his is the life that counts.

The life that counts must helpful be;
he cares and needs of others see;
lust seek the slaves of sin to free—
his is the life that counts."

Mr. Ross was a man of unusual Christian tainments, business ability and was at all mes considerate of his fellowmen, indeed e was "a friend to man." A veritable huanitarian, whose kindly interests and sinre loyalty and devotion began in his own ome and extended through religious, eduitional, civic and political interests. A tribte without reference to his love of animals ould be incomplete, for those who knew him new his love for animals, especially horses. n indication of which was evinced by his arf pin—a horse—pictures in his home, and prized set of book-ends with a primitive overed wagon with horses. His loyalty to iends was never questioned, nor was his nse of justice and right. In youth, early anhood, middle age and approaching old ge, merited honors were conferred upon him one however more appreciated than those ertaining to his beloved church, especially s position as a member of this body, the oard of trustees of the Children's Home, of e Methodist Protestant church, a position which he was of inestimable value.

For this we offer gratitude.

That the Lord has blessed him and kept him.
hat the Lord has made his face to shine upon him and been gracious to him, hat the Lord has lifted up his countenance upon him, and given him peace."

hat for these blessings to our beloved memer, and for his interest, influence and useilness, that we place the name of R. R. Ross nong our most hallowed memories, as one those who shall shine as the stars in the ight and beautiful forever.

Resolutions of respect:

That we, as a body, extend to his bereaved nd honored family our appreciation for his life and service, and sympathy in the loss which we share.

That a copy of this appreciation with resolutions be placed upon the minutes, a copy sent to the Methodist Protestant Herald for publication, and to the esteemed family.

MRS. WM. C. HAMMER.

Willey

In the afternoon of October 10, death made its silent entrance to the home of Brother B. F. Willey and took away from us his dear companion of many years, Mrs. Willey. This brought to an end a very anxious watch of considerable duration, because Mrs. Willey had apparently lingered in the very throes of death since the first week in August. We do not feel that death was cruel to her, though it brought great sorrow to her family and the entire Eden community, because it brought to her relief after all human power and skill had failed, and opened for her the gates to eternal life and the ever presence of her Savior and loved ones who have gone on before. Death for her had no sting, and she faced the end bravely with an unfaltering trust in the Christ whom she had served for many years.

Mrs. Willey was converted and joined the church when very young, her membership being at Eden M. P. church on the Halifax charge. She loved her church and grieved when health would not permit her to attend its services. Her passing has brought a great loss to our church and community, because she was a loyal church member, a devoted wife and a praying mother. Though she is gone, yet we thank our Father for the goodly heritage she has left us, for her Christian influence is left with us, and is seen in the religious lives of her children, a part of which are leaders in our own Eden church.

Mrs. Willey was one of the kindest and most gentle and loving women the writer has ever known, and the high esteem in which she was held was well manifested by the large attendance at the funeral and the beautiful floral display.

Survived to mourn their loss are her husband, Mr. B. F. Willey, and ten children, as well as a host of relatives and friends. To them we extend our deepest sympathy, and for them we offer our most sincere prayers.

Funeral services were conducted in the home by her pastor, O. C. Loy, assisted by Rev. E. O. Peeler, of Enfield, and Rev. R. L. Vickery, of Littleton, after which she was tenderly laid to her final resting place in the family burying ground on the family's estate.

O. C. LOY.

Garrett

Since the previous meeting of the trustees of the Methodist Protestant Children's Home Henry Arlendo Garrett, a member of the board, has been called from his earthly labors to his eternal reward. We, his associates desire to express our sense of loss, and our appreciation of his life, of his service to the Home, and to the church in other fields of endeavor.

When the Home was removed from Denton to its present location, the superintendency was accepted by Mr. Garrett at a financial sacrifice. But he was interested in the work in behalf of unfortunate children, and it was in response to a conviction that it was the will of God that he should thus serve Him that he became connected with the Home. Under his wise administration, the work was expanded, a more generous support secured and the confidence of the church increased. He continued to serve as superintendent for eleven years, resigning when he felt that the work had become too severe a tax upon the strength of Mrs. Garrett. But his interest in the Home did not cease, and as associate superintendent, and as a member of the board of trustees, he continued his work in its behalf, as opportunity arose, until he was taken from us.

Following his resignation as superintendent, he acted, for over two years, as agent for High Point College, after which he retired to his farm in Alamance county. There as a member of his home church, and as a citizen, he continued his labors in behalf of the church, the Kingdom of God, and his community.

He was, on more than one occasion, a delegate to the Annual Conference, and represented the church in the General Conferences of 1916, 1920, 1924 and 1932. In our opinion he was, at all times, a good and faithful servant of the Master, who has left an example that rising generations will do well to emulate.

Be it resolved, that this tribute be recorded in the minutes of this meeting, and that a copy be sent to Mrs. Garrett, and to the Methodist Protestant Herald for publication.

May

Myrtle Whitesell May, age 27, passed to her reward September 9, 1935. She united with Gibsonville M. P. church at the age of 13 and lived a brief but beautiful life. She will be missed in the hearts of many. She leaves behind the husband, E. M. May; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Whitesell; two sisters, Mrs. C. E. Hall and Mary Whitesell; two brothers, Samuel and Charles.

Adkins

J. D. Adkins was born April 13, 1861, and departed this life September 28, 1935. He joined Zoar M. P. church in 1887 and was faithful until the end. He was always present at Sunday school and church so long as his health permitted. And was ever ready to do his part in all the activities of the church. The Golden Rule was his standard of living.

He is survived by his wife, four sons, three daughters, several grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services were held in the Zoar M. P. church by his pastor, assisted by Rev. G. H. Hendry, of Charlotte, and Rev. J. R. Smith, of Flint Hill Baptist church. Interment followed in the church cemetery beneath a beautiful mound of flowers. Mr. Adkins will be greatly missed in the church and community. The family and loved ones have our tenderest sympathies. P. E. BINGHAM, Pastor.

F. R. BRITTAIN HAS EYE REMOVED

Brother F. R. Brittain, of Grace church, Greensboro, had an eye removed at a local hospital the first of the week. He did not have to remain in the hospital long after the operation.

The hour is getting late and all day long we have worked to get out from under the avalanche of dollars. It is great to see the money come rolling in, but when the Herald week, the Herald year and the conference year all end at the same time, it does make a lot of work.

Last week we said it was a problem to figure out who would be at the head of the list this week. Well, by looking at the top of this column you will see that Brown Summit is right up on top of the mountain. Rev O. L. Easter, the young pastor over there certainly is to be commended for putting his charge over the top when he has been there only a few months. That is a good beginning. And we welcome Community church and Granville to the place of honor.

Now for the receipts of this week. THEY SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES. Any amount of raving would not be as eloquent as the figures. But at the very head of the list is that valiant son of Randolph county, Rev. C. L. Spencer, of Granville. This time he came to the top of the list with a vengeance. But he is being hotly pursued by that fine conference reporter, Rev. J. L. Trollinger, who services notice on the world that he means business. Then Rev. C. B. Way, of Flat Rock, comes in for deserved praise. Following these are so many we cannot mention all of them Look at the list.

Now for the subsidy. LOOK AT THAT $100.00 FROM THE CHILDREN'S HOME And a whole lot of others send in the full amount. While we cannot give them a star, yet Rev. E. G. Cowan tells us that Fair Grove and Seagrove have raised their apportionment, although the charge is not out yet. And let us say that Mrs. E. S. Taylor tells us that the Efland church on the Orange charge has reached its quota of subscriptions. Our receipts this week are $325.51, $158.71 being on subscriptions and $166.80 being on subsidy.

THANKS, THANKS, THANKS TO EVERYBODY WHO HAS HELPED.

MR. AND MRS. MOCK ARE HONORED ON ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Mock celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at the home of their children, Mr. and Mrs. J. Montie Mock, on the Clemmons-Waughtown road, Sunday. The couple were surprised on the night before when a group of young people from Union Ridge M. P. church serenaded with song and lovely string music. They also presented Mr. and Mrs. Mock with a large picture of "Jesus in the Temple" in a gift frame.

The home was beautifully decorated Sunday with autumn flowers and many of their friends called to extend them congratulations.

At the door were Mrs. R. L. Hooper, of Greensboro, and Mrs. Fred Mock, of Bethania.

In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Mock, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Mock and Mrs. D. C. Hendricks, of Rural Hall.

Miss Edith Mock poured tea and Mrs. Florence Hilton served tea and cookies.

The table was spread with a beautiful lace cloth and its centerpiece was a large bowl of cut flowers.

On the table of gifts was a water set 50 years old, this being a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fries to Mr. and Mrs. Mock at their wedding.

Mrs. James Auman presided at the piano and lovely music was rendered.

Mr. and Mrs. Mock received many useful and lovely gifts, as well as congratulations both verbal and by mail. They wish to extend their sincere thanks and best wishes to their friends who remembered them.

Annual Conference News

Knowing how anxious a great many of our people are for some of the most important news of the 108th session of the conference, held in Henderson, N. C., November 6-11, it seems wise to use the space which is usually allotted to us to give our readers a few of the most important happenings.

The conference opened on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. The devotional services were in charge of the President, Rev. R. M. Andrews, D.D. The conference sermon was preached by Rev. T. Glenn Madison, who for the past five years has been pastor of our First church at Thomasville. As we are to publish this sermon in full we will let you read it. Following the sermon the roll of the Honored Dead was called while the members of the conference stood with bowed heads. This was followed by the communion service.

One of the very enjoyable features of the afternoon services was the singing of old hymns, led by Rev. A. L. Hunter, one of our best loved superannuate ministers. Brother Hunter rendered a similar service to the conference last year.

On Wednesday afternoon Rev. J. C. Broomfield, D.D., President of the General Conference, brought his official message, in which he reviewed the work of the denomination. His address was filled with optimism. Two of the things that he mentioned that are helping wonderfully in building a better church are the work of Rev. F. L. Gibbs in the leadership training schools and the work of the women.

Following this address the election of officers of the conference took place and Rev. R. M. Andrews, D.D., who has served the conference for the past three years, was elected to succeed himself. Other officials who have served for the previous year were re-elected. When the results of the first ballot for the lay member of the Stationing committee were announced it was found that Brother L. R. Gooch of our Henderson church, Brother J. Norman Wills of Grace church in Greensboro, and Miss Blanche Hardee of Eden church on the Halifax charge were the three highest. On the second ballot Brother Gooch was elected.

At the evening hour on Wednesday Rev. J. C. Broomfield, D.D., the President of the General Conference, preached a splendid sermon.

Beginning with Thursday morning, Rev. T. M. Johnson, D.D., delivered a series of devotional talks each morning. These were very helpful and the conference expressed its appreciation to Dr. Johnson for them. At 10 o'clock on Thursday morning the order of the day was for the turning in of reports by the pastors. Dr. Bates, the secretary, announced that the record was broken this year, as only three pastors failed to turn in their reports.

The most of the time Thursday afternoon was given over to committee work, as very little could be done by the conference until the committee could formulate their reports. The evening hour on Thursday was given over for a presentation of the work of the women of the North Carolina branch, Mrs. W. C. Hammer of Asheboro presiding. When the women had finished giving information concerning their work, Rev. G. W. Haddaway, Secretary of the Board of Missions, spoke.

Friday morning was given over to High Point college and the Children's Home. Dr. Humphries spoke for the college in most hopeful tones. In the absence of Dr. Dixon, Superintendent of the Children's Home, Rev. C. K. Proctor, Superintendent of the Oxford Orphanage, made a wonderful address. More handkerchiefs were in evidence than at any other time during the conference.

Friday afternoon the balloting for representatives to the General Conference which meets in High Point next May began. The voting was continued at each session until Saturday night. The large number of persons voted for made the work very laborious for the tellers. Ministers elected in the two days of intermittent balloting are: C. W. Bates, F. W. Paschall, R. M. Andrews, Geo. R. Brown, J. E. Pritchard, S. W. Taylor, T. M. Johnson, P. E. Lindley, J. D. Williams, J Elwood Carroll, C. E. Forlines, J. C. Auman, N. G. Bethea, H. F. Surratt, and R. A. Hunter. Laymen elected are: J. Norman Wills, Mrs. W. C. Hammer, Dr. W. C. Goley, C. C. Robbins, J. H. Allen, J. G. Rogers, Capt. A. M. Rankin, Mrs. D. S. Coltrane, L. R. Gooch, W. A. Davies, L. L. Wrenn, Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, L. F. Ross, J. B. Hicks, and J. M. Cutchin. Ministerial alternate delegates are: H. F. Fogleman, T. J. Whitehead, J. L. Trollinger, G. L. Reynolds, B. M. Williams, and R. C. Stubbins. Lay alternate delegates are: Mrs. Geo. R. Brown, Miss Blanche Hardee, C. G. Hunter, M. A. Coble, T. B. Nally, and W. L. Ward.

The Friday evening service was given over for a consideration of the work of the Laymen's Fellowship. The meeting was aoddressed by Mr. J. C. Kittrell of the Henderson bar and by Mr. Henry White, also a Henderson attorney. In the election of officers for the next year, Henry Powell, of Henderson, was elected president, R. S. Garmon of Charlotte vice-president, Henry White of Henderson secretary, and J. W. Boyles of Thomasville treasurer.

During the sessions of the conference we were fortunate to have Dr. Frank Stephenson and Rev. F. L. Gibbs of the General Board of Education to speak to us. Dr. Stephenson spoke during the High Point College Hour, and Mr. Gibbs spoke on Saturday morning. Both brought timely messages.

On Saturday morning the editor of the HERALD made his report, in which he stated that the HERALD was closing the year with a balance of $415.00 and with an increase in subscriptions over last year of almost 30 per cent. The conference stood in appreciation to Calvary church for letting its pastor edit the paper. The adoption of the HERALD committee report carried with it the election of the same editor for the new year.

At the evening service on Saturday, Dr. W. R. Cullom, of the School of Religion of Wake Forest College, made a most illuminating address on the 400th anniversary of the printing of the English Bible. We have the manuscript of Dr. Cullom's address and it will be printed just as soon as we can find room for it.

Sunday was a great day at conference. Visitors came from far and near. There was a fine worship service in the Sunday school, conducted by Miss Elizabeth Fox. At the morning church service the music, under the direction of Miss Fox, was superb. The ordination sermon by Dr. N. G. Bethea was of a high order. This sermon also will be printed soon. Rev. Eugene Andrews Lamb was ordained as elder, President Andrews being assisted in the service by Drs. Bethea and J. D. Williams.

The memorial service on Sunday afternoon was very touching. Dr. S. W. Taylor read the obituary of Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk, the editor of the HERALD read the one for Rev. C. H. Whitaker, Rev. C. L. Grant read the one for Mrs. I. I. York, Dr. N. G. Bethea for Mrs. J. H. Moton, and Rev. J. Elwood Carroll for Mrs. J. R. Hutton. Several members of the conference spoke briefly.

At the evening hour Rev. T. J. Whitehead, President of the Conference Council of Religious Education, presided. The music was furnished by the Young People's choirs of Vance county. The address of the evening was by Dr. H. Shelton Smith, of the Duke School of Religion, and was of a high order. We hope to print this also.

Monday morning is always a great time at conference. Many reports were adopted which we cannot mention here. But as usual, everybody was waiting for the report of the Stationing Committee. This was not read until about one o'clock. Quite a good many changes were made, but as we are printing this we will let you look for yourself.

A report of the conference without any reference to the pastor and members of the entertaining church and the people of Henderson in general would be a monstrosity. While this was the pastor's first experience, he did it like a veteran, leaving nothing undone for the comfort and convenience of the conference. The church lived up to its fine reputation. This church has entertained the annual conference so many times, it has become accustomed to doing it and is getting very near perfection. The editor could not be in all the homes to see what was going on, but he did have the feeling that he was in the best one in Henderson, that of the Hon. J. H. Bridgers, who is not only a lawyer of ability but a former treasurer of the North Carolina Annual Conference, M. E. Church, South, and a Christian gentleman of whom any community might be proud. Brother Bridgers is the leader of the prohibition forces in Vance county and is a leader to be trusted.

The annual conference happened to be in session on the birthday of our venerable brother, George B. Harris, who was 84 years young on that day. The conference took notice of this great occasion by pausing to do honor to him.

All in all, it was one of the best conferences the editor has ever attended.

JEREMIAH

(The following sermon was delivered by Rev. T. G. Madison to the N. C. Annual Conference at Henderson, N. C., Nov. 6, 1935, and is published by request of the Conference.)

Since the time I was elected to this place of responsibility it has been my desire and prayer that God may direct the message of the hour. I trust that you may share this same desire.

About six hundred years before Christ in the ancient village of Anathoth, three miles from Jerusalem, there was born to the Priest Hilkiah a baby boy. When this boy was in his late teens God spoke to him a definite message: "Before I formed thee . . . I sanctified thee, and I ordained thee a prophet unto the nations." Not through the cowardice that fears danger, nor through the indolence that dislikes effort, but through humility and the diffidence of youth, the lad shrank from the great work to which God was calling him. "Ah, Lord God! behold, I can not speak: for I am a child." But God hushed his alibi! "Say not, I am a child: for thou shalt go to all that I shall send thee, and whatsoever I command thee thou shalt speak."

Quite a task to which God was calling this boy! A mere lad without the experience of years. He had held no former pastorates nor filled any prophetic offices. Yet he was the person God wanted to do His work. And He called him regardless of his age!

And Jeremiah went. Without any reference to his conference journal he went forth to his new field of labor! His was a two-fold task: destructive and constructive. Destructive in that God said "To root out, and to pull down, and to destroy, and to throw down." Constructive in that God said "To build and to plant."

Jeremiah's time was one of the most crucial times in the history of Judah. His boyhood days saw the wickedness and idolatry of Manasseh's evil reign. In his mind was definitely fixed the need of religious and social reform. His eyes were not blind to the sins of his day. God was sounding divine condemnations upon the sins of His people who had gone from Him. "Thus saith the Lord, What iniquity have your fathers found in me, that they are gone far from me and have walked after vanity, and are become vain?"

God said, "My people have committed two evils": (1) "They have forsaken me, the fountain of living waters." (2) They "hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns, that can hold no water." They had turned their backs upon the living God! "Hath a nation changed their gods, which are no gods? But my people have changed their glory for that which doth not profit." Too, they had made for themselves idol gods and worshiped them!

God said, "See thy way in the valley, know what thou hast done." "Thine own wickedness shall correct thee, and thy backsliding shall reprove thee." "And thou saidst, I will not transgress, when upon every high hill and under every green tree thou wanderest, playing the harlot." Jeremiah said, "Were they ashamed when they had committed abomination? nay, they were not at all ashamed, neither could they blush." Have we ever seen an age when people could not blush? Despite the fact that we are all optimists, we can not help but see sins, open and aboveboard, which should make us hide our faces in shame! But we can not even blush! Rather, society has placed her stamp of approval upon them! So have our state and nation!

Jeremiah's parish was not a religious Utopia! The tragedy of it all was the fact that not all of the sins of his day were upon the people of the pew! They were in the pulpit, too! "The priests said not, Where is the Lord? and they that handle the law knew me not; the pastors also transgressed against me, and the prophets prophesied by Baal, and walked after things that do not profit."

It is a serious thing to be a minister of the gospel! God's anointed! We as ministers are public examples of the work of grace and the power of the gospel of Jesus Christ which we preach to others. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, in his book, The Minister as Shepherd, said: "There are laymen whose faith has been destroyed forever by the unworthiness of their pastor. They once had confidence high and glad in Christian ministers, and were foremost workers in the church, and then, alas, one day there came a minister who, preaching with his lips the gospel of unselfishness, hid behind his preaching the corruption of an avaricious spirit. Little by little it became revealed that the minister was working for himself, that the welfare of the parish was not in all his thought. And when laymen have at their head a coveteous leader, they oftentimes say nothing—they sicken and die spiritually. They lose their faith in their minister and then their faith in all ministers. They lose their interest in their church, and finally in all churches. Woe to the minister who by his selfish heart not only loses heaven himself but closes the door so that others cannot enter—he is the worst man in the parish, he is worse than a robber." What minister is there among us who can pick up his Bible and read Jeremiah 2:8, "The pastors also transgressed me," without a heartache?

It is a serious thing to be a minister, not only because we are public examples, but because there is upon us the responsibility of declaring the whole truth of the gospel to dying men and women who are trusting us and depending upon us to declare it! They are paying us our living to do it! And it is not always an easy thing to declare the whole truth of God's Word. It was not in Jeremiah's day; neither is it in our day! How can I stand behind the sacred desk and look my congregation in the face as I denounce the sin of lying, while Brother Ananias sits on the front pew, and I know of a truth that Brother Ananias is guilty of the particular sin which I am condemning! And who is Ananias? Why, he is the chairman of my official board! And he is popular in my church in spite of his sins. How can I stand behind the desk and pronounce God's wrath upon a certain ungodliness, while Sister Jezebel occupies the chief seat in the choir, and I know of a certainty that Jezebel is possessed with the same spirit of ungodliness which I am condemning! And who is she? Why, she is the president of the Woman's Auxiliary! And she is popular in the church in spite of her sins! Well, what shall I do? They both pay liberal amounts to my salary. And I know if I condemn their sins they will come to the fourth quarterly conference and cast their votes for a change in pastors. Then I will not be able to report to the Annual Conference and the stationing committee that I had a unanimous vote for my return! What shall I do? Shall I retain my popularity with these two official members by treading lightly upon their sins or omitting the mention of them altogether? Or shall I deliver God's message regardless of personalities?

Well, what did God say to Jeremiah? "I will utter my judgments against them, touching all their wickedness. . . . Thou therefore gird up thy loins, and arise, and speak unto them all that I command thee: be not dismayed at their faces, lest I confound thee before them."

Can a minister be popular with all his people and at the same time preach God's wrath upon their sins? People do not want to hear their sins condemned. "The wages of sin is death," "The soul that sinneth it shall die," are unpopular texts in our day. Jeremiah says: "The prophets prophesy falsely; and my people love to have it so." They did not want the truth. They preferred a preacher that would pat them on the back and tell them they were all right. As in Ezekiel's day, when they said, "Peace, and there was no peace." If preachers do condemn sin, when will the people be convicted of sin. And if they are not convicted of sin, when will they repent of their sins, and when will we have a Christian church?

Shall I make my sermon such as will make my hearers hasten to shake my hand and congratulate me on my message? Or shall I make my sermon such as will make my hearers forget me and "Behold the Lamb of God, that taketh away the sins of the world"? God forbid that I should sell the pulpit for the price of praise and popularity! Ezekiel 33:6 says, "If the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned; if the sword come, and take any person from among them, he is taken away in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand."

Jeremiah delivered God's message and spared not. He warned conceited Judah of their impending doom, and exhorted her to repentance, with the assurance of God's forgiveness. But she did not repent! Instead, she turned upon him, shouting, "Thou shalt surely die! Why hast thou prophesied in the name of the Lord?" They took him to task. The priests and the prophets reported him up to the princes and the people, saying, "This man is worthy to die; for he hath prophesied against this city." Was he unpopular? Yes! Because he had preached the truth of God and that truth did not harmonize with the life and character of the people. He endangered his life.

But he did not apologize for his message! Neither did he run away. Heroically he faced those jealous priests and false prophets, saying: "The Lord sent me to prophesy against this house and against this city all the words that ye have heard. Therefore, now, amend your ways and your doings, and obey the voice of the Lord your God; and the Lord will repent him of the evil that he hath pronounced against you. As for me, behold, I am in your hand: do with me as seemeth good and meet unto you. But know ye for certain, that if ye put me to death, ye shall surely bring innocent blood upon yourselves, and upon this city." They put Jeremiah in prison, cast him into the mirey dungeon, and finally exiled him into Egypt, but they could not keep him from speaking in the name of the Lord. He was willing to trust in God and risk the consequences. And he did.

What was the final result of Jeremiah's life and preaching? He lived to see the fulfillment of many of his prophecies, viz., the death of Jehoiakin and his queen-mother; the death of Hananiah, the deceitful prophet; the inglorious end and shameful burial of King Jehoiakim; the fate of Zedekiah; the invasion of Judah by the king of Babylon, and the Jewish captivity; the rifling of the temple by Nebuchadnezzar; the destruction of Jerusalem by fire; and the Chaldean subjugation of Egypt. And the remaining prophecies were fulfilled after his death.

These prophecies, as they were seen by the exiled Judah, fulfilled in their most literal form, effected a complete revolution in the esteem with which Jeremiah became cherished. His predictions of their deliverance and restoration, and his promises of a Messiah, upheld in the minds and hearts of the people the most cherished and ardent hopes. And he whom they had molested as the herald of their national doom became revered as the evangel of their redemption. And around his name gathered countless legends investing him with an ideal glory.

"Servant of God, well done!
Thy glorious warfare's past;
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last."

New Church at Danville, Virginia, Received

The new church at Danville, Va., was received into the conference last week and will be known as First church, Danville. Mr. Ira Elliott was the delegate from this new church, and it was his first experience at a Methodist Protestant conference. While he was a new man at conference, yet he seemed to be at home and made a good impression.

Greensboro M. P. Ministers to Meet

The Greensboro Methodist Protestant ministers will meet in Grace church next Monday morning, November 18, at 10:30 o'clock. An interesting program is being prepared.

N. G. Bethea, President,
J. Elwood Carroll, Secretary.

Dr. Dixon Not Able to Be at Conference

The many friends of Dr. A. G. Dixon were very sorry that he was not able to be at conference last week, due to illness. While he was not seriously ill, yet the physician put him to bed for a rest. We trust he may soon be well.

LOSING ONE'S LIFE TO FIND IT

"He that loseth his life for my sake shall find it." I did not understand the meaning of that line until Paul Blaikie came home. Paul was an old school-chum of mine. For seven years he had buried his life in a two-by-four foreign settlement in western Canada as preacher, counselor, health inspector, teacher and what not else. This was his first holiday home.

"Paul," some one asked, "why do you bury yourself in that forsaken hole when you might be making a name for yourself in the city?"

He smiled. "Bury myself? Why, no. It's real living out there. There's a job to do. They need me. I know it means losing myself; but by losing my life I have found it."

Through such missionaries we get a glimpse of what Jesus was like. How completely Jesus obliterated self in order that men might see God's will. He was entirely without self-regard. There was to be no profit in it for Him. There was no personal ambition—His ambition was always for others. His Name did not count. He gave His all that men might see the Kingdom, and enter therein. He was content to be snubbed, to be spat upon, to wear a crown of thorns—content to lose His life because He had found it. Today He gives the same call. Jesus, the great Adventurer, who staked His whole life on God and won out, He who found the secret of real life says:

"He that loseth his life for my sake shall find it."—F. C., in Boy Life.

HOW TO MAKE A PRAYER MEETING SUCCESSFUL

"Be on time; do not be late. A straggling presence is better than none, but is poor.

"Be a constant attendant at the midweek prayer service.

"Occupy a forward seat. Do not sit in the most distant seat as if you were a stranger, or ashamed.

"Be brief; others will want to speak and pray.

"Be interesting in your remarks.

"Make strangers and others welcome by a warm handshake and a word of welcome at the close of the meeting.

"Enter into the singing heartily and earnestly.

"Avoid the habit of complaining and criticizing; be cheerful.

"Expect God's presence.

"Go home feeling it was good to have been there."—Herald of Light.

EXCUSES FOR FAILURE

Everybody is a very peculiar person; I never met anybody who did not excuse himself for being a failure as a Christian on the ground that he had very peculiar difficulties; but if you will remember that Jesus Christ died for you as if there were not another soul on earth, and that He was the omnipotent Son of God as well as the perfect Man, and that He is now in Heaven on the right hand of God, with all power in Heaven and on earth, then you will begin to see that the Gospel of Jesus Christ is true when it teaches that men can live a life of victory and power and unceasing joy.—Prebendary Webb-Peploe.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Salutatory

It is again my privilege and pleasure to be your annual conference president. As the president of our conference I am put in the position as your leader. It becomes my task to present the projects and goals of this conference and to urge their acceptance and to help you plan for their achievement. I hold no brief authorizing me to compel anyone to do anything. If a pastor is unwilling to abide by his ordination vow to be faithful to his tasks as a pastor, it becomes his duty to resign from his pastorate and to surrender his membership in the conference. If any member of the church is unwilling to perform the duties enjoined by his membership in the church, then he should have the grace to withdraw from the church in which he finds himself unhappy.

But to those who DESIRE to live true to their pledge as minister and as member, I want to pledge my whole-soul devotion to the cause which is so dear to us all—the promotion of the interest of the Kingdom of God as these interests abide in our denomination. There is a great work before us. The door of opportunity is barred only to the unwilling and indolent; but to those whose faith motivates through wise plans and consecrated endeavors, God speaks as to Joash of old, wherever soles of your feet shall tread have I given thee. Be not afraid. I crave your prayers, your counsel, and your fellowship; I want to be the brother of all.

The Dixons Challenge Us

At the meeting of the trustees of the Children's Home, Dr. Dixon flung a challenge to the membership of the Methodist Protestant church—that he and Mrs. Dixon would give one month's salary as a Thanksgiving offering to the Home to match the one day's wage of our people. For years the people of North Carolina have been urged to give an amount equal to one day's wages to the orphanages of the state. The movement was inaugurated by the chairman of our board, Mr. J. M. Millikan. It has been a means of bringing to the orphanages many dollars for their support. While our people have not always led the other denominations by large gifts, hundreds of them have contributed. And now, this year, as we begin to think of Thanksgiving day, let us plan to lay upon the altar of the Lord one day's income for the Children's Home. It would not be fair for Dr. and Mrs. Dixon to make this great sacrifice while we withhold our gifts from the Home. So Superintendent Dixon said when asked if any condition was attached to his challenge, he said if sixty per cent of our pastors would state that they would join in the effort to challenge our people and work for such a goal, then he would gladly make this sacrificial gift to the Home. Let us meet this challenge and prove to these faithful workers that they have our whole-hearted support in their efforts to carry on the work of this institution.

The First Quarterly Conference

This is, in many respects, the most important quarterly conference of the year. At this conference the work of the pastoral charge is to be planned; plans adopted; officers inducted into their official positions, etc.; budgets accepted, pastors' salaries apportioned, etc. It must indeed be unwise to wait for many weeks to hold this conference unless it cannot be held earlier. But when the first quarterly conference has accepted a definite amount for that church or charge, then plans must be made for raising this amount. It is obvious that these should be made and set in motion during the first weeks of the new conference year.

The Annual Conference Budget

This budget has in it five items: A. C. expenses, A. C. debt retirement, church extension, and High Point college. The apportionment for these items will be published in the Herald next week. They will vary but little from what was set for each claim last year. There is one change: we are setting definite periods as the times for raising each of these items. January and February are set for raising the A. C. expense item. No conference claims are set for December. The time for raising other items will be stated later, but will appear in the Journal when it is printed.

We shall be interested in what charge and what pastor will head the list of those charges which pay this item in full.

When You Leave——Leave!

It is very difficult for pastor and people to say good-by, sometimes. That is when the pastor is sent to another charge. But he should say good-by and mean it. While he treasures in his memory numerous friends whom he served as pastor and shall doubtless always hold them tenderly in his memory, nevertheless for his successor's sake he should leave them and stay away from them. Give his successor a chance to win their love and esteem. Especially is this true if there is some dissatisfaction on the part of any because of the new pastor. There has been much suffering, misunderstanding, and sometimes bitterness caused by the failures of preachers to stay out of the pastorate where they had no official business. It is harsh to say "No Trespassing," but there should be none just the same.

R. M. Andrews.

Our Conference Hates Liquor

One thing that our conference has just about as much love for as it would have for a rattlesnake is liquor. At the recent session at Henderson the conference expressed itself in no uncertain terms in regard to this evil. Every speaker on the floor who said anything against liquor had the hearty endorsement of the conference. The Committee on Social Service let it be known where the committee stood on the question of liquor and the conference endorsed the report with a vengeance. It was the unanimous verdict of the conference that liquor is one of man's worse enemies and that there is no way to make it respectable. The only way to get rid of it is to outlaw it.

"THE RETURN FROM CAPTIVITY"

The International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, November 17, 1935

By REV. J. ELWOOD CARROLL

Scripture Text—Ezra 1:1-6; Psalm 126:1-6.

Golden Text—"The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad."—Psalm 126:3.

God's way is an open door both for an individual and a nation. Last Sunday we saw that the final state of a person's life was the one which God accepted as the one which man intended to present before his Maker, therefore God reckoned with the man in that attitude. One's salvation depended upon his right attitude towards God. The same is true of a nation. Both to the fallen man and the fallen nation God forever holds open the door to opportunity. A new day awaits him who will arise to accept it.

Movement is rapid in our brief survey of the history of Judah. Israel is taken captive in 721, Judah is made a subject nation by Nebuchadrezzar in 597, but due to the former's revolt is completely destroyed and taken captive in 586, and this mighty nation of Babylonia is in turn captured by Persia in 538. This latter incident was discussed in connection with Belshazzar's feasts and the handwriting on the wall. Cyrus, the great king of Persia, upon capturing Babylonia, issued the following year (537) a decree which granted the Hebrews the right to return to Palestine. God's door of opportunity swung wide for a race of people to return to their beloved hills of Galilee. It all came about "that the word of Jehovah by the mouth of Jeremiah might be accomplished. Jehovah stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia." (Ezra 1:1).

The decree of Cyrus is a turning point in Hebrew history. Among the many things with which it was connected, we might mention the following:

(1) It marked the close of the so-called "Babylonian captivity," 597-537. No doubt following the decree there was a rather constant stream of Israelites moving back to Palestine. But like our western movement in America during pioneer days there was a constant stream which from time to time became a "rush" in its swollen flow of humanity. With the steady flow from Babylon came three great waves: the first under Zerubbabel in 536, the second under Ezra in 458, and the last under Nehemiah in 446. These "rushes" will be discussed in later lessons. But let it be remembered that each depended upon the decree of Cyrus of 537 for its right to be. Not all the Israelites returned to Palestine, hence they are known as the Dispersion.

(2) The decree of Cyrus marked the close of an era in which the local Hebrew congregation was born. From the time of the Exodus out of Egypt the people have focused their worship in the Ark and later the Tabernacle. When they became established in Palestine they built the Temple in Jerusalem and centralized their worship in that building. After the burning and destruction of the temple in 586, where were they to focus their religious life? In the synagogue. In fact, the synagogue came in answer to a need of a captive people. It developed in Babylon. It kept alive the true faith in Jehovah amidst paganism. It kept the Hebrew race exclusive so that it did not to any great degree contaminate itself with the customs and practices of the Babylonians. It was so exclusive, in truth, that very little intermarrying took place between the two races. The synagogue became the local church and was transported to Palestine with the return. It has played an important part in the Hebrew faith even right down to our own day. Even now in every community where there are a few Hebrews (Jews) we find a synagogue over which is a rabbi (preacher).

(3) The Hebrews are given a new name after the date of the decree of Cyrus. The descendants of Abraham had up to that time been known as Israelites or Hebrews. Henceforth they are also called Jews. They did not lose their other two names, but acquired a third. The use of either of the three today is proper. But the use of the title "Jew" to refer to Hebrew prior to the decree of Cyrus is incorrect. Why the change? They were a new people! Why was Simon called Peter? After he had beheld Jesus as the Son of God he was a new person. Why was Saul called Paul? After his Damascus road experience he was a different character. And so it is with the Hebrews. No longer is there a nation of sin suffering under punishment, but a people humbly trusting in Jehovah for their salvation.

(4) After the period of the captivity the Hebrews are no longer a nation but a congregation. Many of them returned to Palestine to rebuild the kingdom of David and Solomon, but truly they may never again be spoken of as a nation. They are more a religious organization. So they were when Jesus was born in their midst. So they ever have been through the centuries. When they failed as a nation God opened to them the door of a congregation. So He opens some door for all of us.

Questions for Discussion

1. What doors of opportunity has God opened to you?
2. Did you enter all these doors? If not, why not?
3. Do you consider our suffering in America God's way of showing to us an open door to new opportunities? What are the opportunitiese?
4. In reference to your spiritual nature how many names do you have?
5. Are you personally in captivity? If God released a whole nation can He not likewise set you free?
6. Can you be free amidst those who are in slavery?
7. Do you have "date" in your personal spiritual history?

One Day's Wage for the Orphanage

We call attention to the request that comes each year for a contribution to the Children's Home equal to one day's wage. This custom sprang up when our Children's Home was young, and since then it has been adopted by all the denominations in the state. While this may not be much of a sacrifice on our part, yet it will mean a great deal to our Children's Home. Let every pastor present this matter with all the earnestness he can command, and let the people rally to the call. Let there be an offering that we shall be proud of.

BELSHAZZAR'S CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

By W. A. Ledford

The above theme is more than a catchy title; yea, it is a red flag that might wave before us all. If ever a man needed help on a puzzling, mysterious writing, it was Belshazzar. His puzzle was not the modern type with horizontal and vertical lines to be worked out in one's pastime, but were all probably horizontal, written by the hand of God, and pronounced the doom of this worldly, profane and reveling king. After all the other wise men of the realm failed to interpret the writing, Daniel was called in. The three mysterious messages hidden in the symbols were numbered, weighed and divided. The gentle, tactful way Daniel approached the awful message to Belshazzar reminds one of Micah before King Ahab, or the Prophet Nathan before King David.

The repetition of the first word, "mene," sounds like the "verily, verily" of Jesus, expressing both emphasis and certainty. The word translated into our language means "numbered." For Belshazzar it meant that his kingdom was numbered, his course finished, and his race ended. Unlike his predecessor, he was allowed no additional time in which to repent. The judgment sent on his predecessor, Nebuchadnezzar, was warning enough for Belshazzar. He had been warned again and again. The finish is one of those inevitable things that comes to us all. With God's help we can determine the finish. Contrast the glorious, triumphant finish of Jesus on Calvary, and Paul in or near Rome, with the tragic, dramatic, disastrous finish of Belshazzar.

Scriptures are silent as to what Belshazzar was celebrating in this feast to a thousand of his lords, when they drank from the golden vessels taken from the temple in Jerusalem. It may have been one of their national days, as our Independence Day. It may have been his birthday party. Could have been his wedding anniversary, when he would live over again the day when he led the beautiful queen to the marriage altar. More likely the celebration was in honor of his ascension to the throne. This much can be said truthfully: the hand could not have written at a more embarrassing moment. If the famine had not come when the prodigal was "broke," and depression in hard times, both might have been met with less embarrassment.

When Belshazzar had run his race, finished his course, and ended his days of probation, he was weighed in the balances of Almighty God and found wanting. He may have taken great pride in his own integrity, and his associates may have looked on him as a very shrewd king, and also his contemporary rulers may have envied him his success and prosperity; but in the sight of God he played the fool. Men are prone to look on the outward appearances, and judge people as they appear outwardly; but God looks on the heart. Whatever there may have been of good in this dissolute, sacrilegious king, he was rejected by Him "Who is too good to be unkind, and too wise to make mistakes."

All who will read this word of warning have neither finished their course nor been weighed in the balances of God and found wanting. For this we thank God and take courage; but let us not be deceived by the false prophets, who may attempt to lead us into believing that such a judgment as befell Belshazzar could not befall us. The Apostle Paul must have been conscious of such a peril when he wrote, "I keep my body under, and bring it into subjection: lest by any means, when I have preached to others, I myself should be a castaway." This word of warning comes both to Christians and sinners, to church people and non-church people. The church people of the day of Jesus had, as a whole, an insufficient and unbalanced religion, which Christians must surpass, if they are privileged to enter the Kingdom of God.

The final word in this famous, bewildering and meaningful handwriting on the wall, in the banquet hall of Belshazzar, is the logical sequence to such a life. He had forfeited his right to the things God had entrusted him with. In such a case these goods would be divided among others. Jesus plainly and unmistakably taught this lesson in both the parables of the Talents and Pounds. In the days of Paul, "The wages of sin is death." Jacob's wages may have been changed ten times, and most of ours suffered more changes than Jacob's; but the wages of sin have not changed since the days of creation. A witty old man of nearly ninety summers remarked that boils were worth five dollars each when he was a boy, and the price of them had never changed. The judgment for sin is among the unchangeables.

The suddenness in which Belshazzar was called to judgment is in keeping with all Scriptural teachings. The end would come as a thief in the night, Jesus explained. Of the time not even the angels, much less men, knew. The only safe way is to prepare to meet God, here and now, and keep on watching and praying. If we walk humbly with God, He will do by us like a little girl said He did to Enoch, when the night overtakes us, He will take us home with Him. When the day for our numbering, weighing and the division comes, let us hope, watch and pray that the Master's "Well done, good and faithful servant" may be ours.

Boundary Changes

The following changes were made by the Boundary Committee of the annual conference:

Shiloh church was detached from Liberty and attached to Randolph. Mt. Pleasant and Mt. Zion were detached from Randolph and were made a charge to be known as Mt. Zion charge.

West Thomasville church was detached from English St. and attached to North Davidson.

The name English St. in High Point was changed to Rankin Memorial and the name English St. is dropped.

The church at Danville, Va., was received into the conference, to be known as First church, Danville.

Mt. Ebal was detached from Denton charge and was made a station.

Liberty church was made a station.

Hickory Grove, Zion and Flint Ridge were detached from Liberty and constitute a charge to be known as Chatham.

Bessemer City was detached from Lincolnton and made a station.

Cid was detached from Why Not charge and attached to Mt. Zion.

OUR STORY PAGE

"THANK YOU"

Little Jack was only four years old and a great pet of his Aunt Ruth on account of his sweet and loving ways. One day his cousin, a boy of sixteen, set Jack to work for him. He told him to pull some weeds in the field while he finished his story. Little Jack worked away until his fingers were sore and his face very hot. When, at length, he returned to the house, his aunt said to him, "Jackie, what have you been doing?"

The tears came into his eyes, and his lips quivered, and for a moment he did not speak. Then he said, "I've been kind to Cousin Frank; I worked hard for him and he never said 'Thank you' to me."

Poor little Jackie! I felt sorry for him. It was very hard not to receive a word of thanks after all his work. But that night when I put him in his little cot he said to me, "Aunty, this morning I was sorry that I pulled the weeds, but now I'm not sorry."

"How is that?" I asked. "Has Cousin Frank thanked you?"

"No, he hasn't; but inside of me I have a good feeling. It always comes when I've been kind to anyone; and, do you know, I've found out what it is?"

"What is it, darling?" I asked.

Throwing his arms around my neck, he whispered, "It's God's thank you."—Publisher Unknown.

A MOTHER'S PRAYER

A Christian mother wtih love uppermost in her heart placed a New Testament in the hands of her boy who was just about to go as a sailor. The lad was thoughtless, careless, and although so young, was quite unmanageable—the result of mixing with evil companions. But his mother's prayers followed him; and although many years passed away without seeing or hearing anything of her boy, the loving mother never forgot him in prayer.

One day a sailor knocked at her door to ask for relief. The sight of a sailor always interested her, and she heard his tale. He had seen great perils, and had been wrecked several times, but was never so destitute as at one time, when he and a "fine young gentleman" were the only individuals saved of a whole ship's crew.

"We were cast upon a desert island, where after seven days and nights I closed his eyes." And while tears stole down his face, he told of the happiness experienced by his mate, which he said he got by reading a little book his mother had given him when a boy, and which was the only thing he saved. "He gave it to me," he continued, "just as he was dying, and said, 'There, Jack, take it and read it, and may God bless you.'"

"Is all this true?" asked the astonished mother.

"Yes, madam, every word of it." And then, dragging from his ragged jacket a little book, much battered and time-worn, he held it up, exclaiming, "And here's the very book."

She seized the Testament, descried her own handwriting, and beheld the name of her son coupled with her own, on the cover. She gazed, she read, she wept, she rejoiced. She seemed to hear a voice which said, "Behold, thy son liveth." —Publisher Unknown.

BETSY JANE'S RICHES

Betsy Jane was a very poor little girl. She lived in a tiny house and her clothing was thin and scant. Often Betsy Jane felt hungry and sometimes her home was cheerless and cold, but Betsy had the sunniest of faces and the warmest of hearts.

"It won't always be so hard," she said. "Father has been sick, you see; but he is growing stronger now. When mother and I see that, we feel like the richest follk in town. God is so good to us always. Baby keeps well. If he were not so little, mother could earn more money, but he will soon be older. So now we are rich, don't you think so?"

And Betsy Jane's teacher said, "Betsy is one of the richest girls I know. She sings and smiles; and if her little heart grows sad, as I think it must sometimes, she runs off and tells Jesus. She shares her sunshine and her wealth of hope and contentment with others. I'm thinking that, one of these days, God will send the clouds away from her skies. Even now she is the richest girl that I know."—Joy Bells.

LOVE IN ACTION

A class of girls was learning to spell. They spelled a number of small words, such as "pig," "cat," "dog," "cow," and amused themselves with imitating the sounds that these animals make. Then Mary was asked to spell "love." She didn't stop to give the letters, but ran and threw her arms around the teacher's neck, and kissed her on the cheek. "We spell 'love' that way at our house," she said.

The girls laughed, but the teacher said, "That is a beautiful way; but do you know another way to spell 'love'?"

"Oh, yes," cried Mary, "I spell 'love' this way," and she began to put the books in order on the teacher's desk. "I spell 'love' by helping everybody when they need me."

Isn't that the best way to spell love? The things we do for people will tell them in a bigger way than our words how much we love them. And if we say we love Jesus, our actions ought to show it.—Our Pentecostal Little Folks.

THE BRIGHT SIDE

"I am on the bright side of seventy," said an aged man of God; "the bright side, because nearer to everlasting glory." "Nature fails," said another, "but I am happy." "My work is done," said the Countess of Huntingdon, when 84 years old; "I have nothing to do but to go to my Father." To an humble Christian it was remarked, "I fear you are near another world." "Fear it, sir!" he replied, "I know I am; but blessed be the Lord! I do not fear it; I hope it." —The United Evangelical.

CONFERENCE COUNCIL OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

T. J. WHITEHEAD, President
Burlington, N. C., R. 4

STATEWIDE YOUTH CONFERENCE

November 29 to December 1, 1935, First Baptist Church, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Have your young people been facing the living issues of today in their meetings? Would they like to know what other young people in the state are thinking on these topics? Would they like to help in arriving at a Christian way of living under the leadership of men who have spent much time and thought on these problems?

Less than one month from today the young people of North Carolina will have an opportunity to come together in Winston-Salem and consider these facts, led by Dr. Jesse M. Bader, of New York City, chairman of the National Committee for Youth Conferences, and a faculty including Dr. Harry Holmes, field secretary World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches; Dr. John W. Rustin, minister of Ghent Methodist church, Norfolk, Va.; Dr. G. Ray Jordan, Winston-Salem; Prof. E. R. Groves, of Institute for Research and Social Science, University of North Carolina; Dr. Francis C. Anscombe, of Salem College and Duke Institute of International Relations, and Dean Elbert Russell, of Duke University. There will be nine discussion groups, giving each person a chance to participate in one or more of his favorite topic discussions. These groups will include:

1. Developing Personal Christian Living.
2. Helping Other Young People to Be Christian.
3. Assisting in Bringing about World Peace.
4. Helping to Solve the Liquor Problem.
5. Helping to Build a Christian Economic Order.
6. Providing a Constructive Use of Leisure Time.
7. Being Christian with other Racial and Cultural Groups.
8. Preparing for Marriage and Home Life.
9. Developing a Christian Type of Patriotism.

If you have discovered the inspiration gained when young people from various parts of the state come together in your own conferences, you will certainly appreciate the inspiration that will come from this larger enterprise including all the churches of all the state. Through their working together, playing together, thinking together, and praying together, these people will get a new vision of "Christian Youth Building a New World."

Plan to have your people here by Friday noon, so that they may enjoy the opening session and the banquet Friday night. Do not rush them home, but let them remain for the Saturday sessions, the afternoon recreation, trip around the city and tea at Salem College. We will close Sunday afternoon with an impressive commitment service led by Dr. Bader.

This conference should be the most outstanding youth activity of the state. Will your young people co-operate to make it so? Will you see that they share in its blessings?

Pastors are requested to call this meeting to the attention of their young people. Let us co-operate to send a large delegation. Send registrations to Rev. Carroll Roberts, Fourth Street Church of Christ, Winston-Salem, N. C. Registration fee is one dollar.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

WHAT "GREAT THINGS GOD HATH DONE" FOR US!

(Thanksgiving Program)

Luke 8:26-39

Topic for November 24

By E. LESTER BALLARD

Preparation

It is always necessary for every Endeavorer, but especially the leader and those assigned special parts, to prepare his heart for the presentation and discussion of the topic at least a week in advance. This time, in your daily devotions or Quiet Hour, spend part of the period in meditation upon God's mercy to you as a human being, as a citizen, as a Christian. Practice a spirit of gratitude, if it does not already come naturally. Let it become contagious in your daily contact.

In preparation for the meeting, create a thanksgiving atmosphere. Hang branches of autumn leaves around the room and over the electric lights. Shocks of corn in the corners of the room will help. The horn of plenty with fruits and vegetables rolling from it, on a box or table, or on the platform, is suggestive of Thanksgiving. Posters, with pictures of things for which we should be thankful, cut from magazine advertisements, may be placed in conspicuous places around the room a week in advance of the meeting. At least on one poster have the Bible, a happy home, a school building, friends in conversation or communion, the church, and such things as minister to our spiritual welfare.

Urge that your offering be large so that it may be combined with the special Thanksgiving offering for our Children's Home, unless your pastor has some other plan.

Program

During the program you may have the President's Thanksgiving proclamation read, also the famous poem, "Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers" (Mrs. Hemans), or some other suitable poem, such as "Thanksgiving" (John K. Bangs); "Thankful for All" (Thomas W. Higginson); "Blessings" (Katharine Lee Bates); "For Peace and for Plenty" (Margaret Sangster); "This Is the Land" (Grace Noll Crowell, in Christian Herald November, 1935).

Hymns a-plenty are available: Count Your Many Blessings; For the Beauty of the Earth; America, the Beautiful; Come, Ye Thankful People, Come; Now Thank We All Our God; We Plow the Fields and Scatter; There's a Wideness in God's Mercy.

Special music: Any good Thanksgiving hymn, or sacred song, not too classical.

Questions: What is God's greatest blessing? Is religious liberty as great a blessing as people say it is? How does God work in human society? Are we thankful enough for the ability to work? Is it possible for the worst afflicted, the most dejected, the least fortunate to be thankful? How is gratitude linked up with the discovery of God's plan for one's life? In what ways can our national life be improved, that we may see greater cause for thankfulness?

Subjects for special talks: The Greatest National Blessing; God's Work Among Nations; Scriptural Reasons for Gratitude; The Influence of the Grateful Life.

Participation

"Citizens of Immortality."

This is the unique way the C. E. World Quarterly has expressed the fact that Christians are citizens of heaven as well as earth. The old hymn used to put into the mouths of the worshipers the words, "Earth is not my dwelling place; heaven is my home." Upon accepting Jesus Christ as our personal Savior we receive our naturalization papers in the heavenly kingdom. This is a cause for thanksgiving that the man of the world cannot enjoy, because he has not been adopted into the family of God.

Gifts of the Spirit.

In Gal. 5:22, 23 is listed "the fruit of the Spirit." Although nine different consequences of the indwelling Spirit are given, the singular form of the word "fruit" is used, suggestive of completeness. They fall into three divisions of three each: Inward, man-ward, God-ward. Material blessings are manifold, and call forth unreserved gratitude, but the blessings of the Spirit are immeasurable, and impel unlimited thankfulness.

Privileges of the Church.

"I love thy kingdom, Lord,
 The house of thine abode;
The church our blest Redeemer saved,
 With His own precious blood."

Love of the Church of Christ—of our own local church—will cause us to ever be thankful for the privileges it offers for worship, for service, for growth. "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord," declared the grateful Psalmist (122:1). Is attendance upon the services of God's house a joy? It should be. The opportunities afforded for the use of our talents and the expression of our love through sacrificial service create in us the spirit of the hymn, "I Am Happy in the Service of the King." Do you find it a joy to do your Master's will? And the growth that follows personal devotion, public worship, and persevering service is a source for additional thankfulness. Are you thankful enough for the privileges of your church?

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

MRS. J. E. PRITCHARD, Editor

OUR THANK-OFFERING

Searching back carefully through the records of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, the first mention of this plan of raising money is found in the minutes of the fourth annual meeting of the Board in the year 1833. There is this simple statement: "During the year mite boxes were introduced." A brief statement it was, but far-reaching in its application, because it was the sign of hopeful hearts seeking a tangible means for the expression of their love. "As long as there are grateful hearts, there will be a thank-offering." It is not strange, therefore, to find the thank-offering growing in value and significance through the years.

The next mention of it is in the minutes of the meeting of 1845, where this item appears: "The 14th of February, or the day most convenient to that date, was adopted to be observed perpetually by the Women's Foreign Missionary Society as 'Thank-offering Day.'" There is no further record in the history compiled by Mrs. E. C. Chandler, from which these facts are taken, nor any mention as to the amount of distribution of the offering.

Slowly but surely the plan grew in importance. Now we have two thank-offering services, one in November emphasizing the educational phase of our program, and one in February emphasizing the missionary phase of our program, the receipts of which are divided on a basis of 67 per cent for missions and 33 per cent for Christian education. We have set a goal for our November thank-offering of $8,600, and of $8,600 for our February thank-offering.

The more our church can see their thank-offering as an opportunity to share in the great Kingdom enterprise, the more readily will they be stirred to sacrificial giving.

> "Over against the treasury,
> He sits Who gave Himself for me.
> He sees the coppers that I give
> Who gave His life that I might live.
> He sees the silver I withhold
> Who left for me His throne of gold,
> Who found a manger for His bed,
> Who had nowhere to lay His head,
> He sees the gold I clasp so tight,
> And I am debtor in His sight."

Our November thank-offering will help accomplish three things:

First—Increase the effectiveness of our educational program. Part of your thank-offering will go to maintain the Westminster Theological Seminary, Westminster, Md. It is the "School of the Prophets" and those that are trained there will be the leaders in spiritual realms tomorrow. They come from practically every conference in the Methodist Protestant church, and most of them could never finance their education were it not for the help of the Ministerial Loan Fund. Several young people have approached the writer in our Leadership Training Schools with this statement: "I know I am called into the missionary work, but how can I hope to prepare myself for this task?" The Student Loan Fund is helping some of these students in our denominational colleges this year. That young person might be your son or daughter. Shall we give them a chance?

Second—Carry on our home mission enterprises. A very successful summer program has just been completed at Dillonvale, Ohio, and plans for the fall and winter program are now going forward. Mrs. Greenwald sees in each of these young lives "a door of opportunity." Truly, it has proved to be so. Rev. and Mrs. Andrew write that their task has been easier this year at Pine Ridge because the Board of Missions has sent checks every month. These boys and girls are so fine. We must not lessen our efforts in this important field.

Third—Keep faith with our missionaries on the foreign field. A report from Japan which has just been received says: "As you will observe from the treasurer's reports, the finances of the mission are in a satisfactory condition. This is due to the regularity with which the appropriation from the Board has been sent." A letter from Betty Cassen, of India, says Dr. Lacy is working too hard and is in need of a helper. They hope to secure someone but what they really need is an American nurse. The work in China was never more challenging.

Plans for the thank-offering were outlined in the August and September issues of the Missionary Record. These materials, thank-offering boxes and envelopes may be secured by writing Department of Women's Work, Board of Missions, 516 N. Charles Street, Baltimore, Md.

A SHORT HISTORY OF WILLIAMS CIRCLE OF EFLAND M. P. CHURCH, EFLAND

Dedicated to Rev. and Mrs. B. M. Williams and Family

On July 24, 1935, the young ladies of the Efland M. P. church met with Miss Margaret Efland to organize a missionary circle. We were at first known as Circle Number 3 of the Efland M. P. Auxiliary, but later we named our circle in honor of our pastor and his family, who have been with us for 11 years—Rev. B. M. Williams. Thus, we became known as the "Williams Circle." Our enrollment was 17, which increased to 25 by the end of the year. The ladies of the other two circles were of great help to us and especially Mesdames B. M. Williams, O. E. Burns, M. P. Efland and G. M. Dunn and our pastor, Rev. B. M. Williams, who helped us. Our officers for the year of 1934 were: President, Margaret Efland; vice president, Mable Sykes; secretary and treasurer, Ruby Young.

Our circle meeting was set for the first Monday night of every month, and at the different homes. At the end of our first auxiliary year our books showed that our circle had accomplished the following things: Gave two church suppers; paid budget in full; paid money on church debt; helped get names on auxiliary quilt square; gave Thanksgiving dinner to needy family; gave toys at Christmas for needy family; sold hose to raise money.

At the beginning of our new 1935 auxiliary year we elected our same president and vice president, with Edna Mae Mayes as secretary and treasurer. Our enrollment up to date is 31 members. Our books for this year to date show that our circle has put over the following activities: Helped in auxiliary supper; sponsored measuring party; selling sponges; helped raise money for church rug; helped clothe High Point orphan; paid church debt assessment; put on pageant, "The Lost Church," for October thank-offering.

In the near future we are sponsoring an "overall social" and sponsoring "Ward's Tobacco Tags" of Radio Station WPTF, Raleigh, Tuesday night, December 10, at 8 o'clock at Efland high school and to raise money for auxiliary budget.

Thus concludes the history of the Williams Circle of the Efland M. P. church of Efland, N. C., to date, but we hope and plan to do much more for our M. P. auxiliary in the future.

EDNA MAE MAYES,
Sec.-Treas., Williams Circle.

SEVEN YEARS ON HAW RIVER CHARGE

It is impossible to give here all that our heart has felt, and recount all the wonderful and happy experiences that have been ours, but we do want to say that these have been happy years. They have been years filled to the brim with good things: things that every pastor remembers long after they have happened. It seems to us now as we look back from this day to that one when our pastorate began that only the beautiful and good stands out most prominently in our minds tonight as we write these lines.

Serving with a people that love you, and whom you love, one comes to the place where he feels a part of them, and they a part of himself. This is our experience. We start tomorrow for Annual Conference, but in spite of the fact that every pastor among us faces the possibility of a change, we feel that here are some of the most deeply consecrated and most lovable people to be found in our entire brotherhood.

I have said the above in order to better say this: The people at Friendship church will never know just how much this pastor appreciated the gift of a new suit of clothes which they made yesterday. Throughout these years our people have been giving us things—no, we have not reported them to the Herald, but they have not ceased to come in—but yesterday, when the money for the purchase of a new "conference suit" was given, it seemed that this was the outstanding single gift we have received.

People from the other churches have been most generous and thoughtful of our comfort, and have done much to make our work a pleasure, and the parsonage family is taking this method of thanking every church and each individual for everything they have done, from the smallest to the largest, and praying God's richest blessings upon them, again we say thank you and God bless you one and all. J. L. TROLLINGER.

MR. AND MRS. F. M. TAYLOR AT CONFERENCE

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Taylor, of near Enfield, on the Halifax charge, attended conference on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are the parents of Miss Maxine Taylor, who is so well known in the Daily Vacation Bible School work of our conference.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Mt. Zion, Pinnacle Charge.—It has been so long since Mt. Zion sent in a report I hardly know where to begin.

Our Sunday school is moving along just fine, although there are some that have not been attending, but we are in hopes they will start in and come regularly.

On the fourth Sunday night Mr. M. H. Needham was elected superintendent for the year. Let's all co-operate with him and do our part and I think he will do his very best to make our Sunday school a success.

Rev. A. L. Hunter was elected choir leader. Words can't express how much we appreciate having Mr. Hunter with us. He has been with us so long we would feel lost without his help. We also appreciate having Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hunter in our Sunday school as teachers. We hope their health will continue to be good so they can be with us every Sunday.

Mr. Reece, of Pinnacle high school, made a visit to our church last Sunday. He taught the Men's Class and also made an interesting talk to the Sunday school. We appreciated him and his wife coming and hope they will visit us quite often.

There were quite a number to attend the fourth quarterly conference last Sunday. There was a 100 per cent vote for our delegate to bring our pastor, Rev. J. D. Morris, back after conference. I am sure everybody enjoyed having Bro. Morris and his wife with us. I feel as if everybody is waiting with a warm heart and a welcome hand for their return. ETHEL LANE, Reporter.

Rehoboth, Granville Charge.—The end of another conference year is drawing to a close and a sad feeling comes over us as we think of the past year and check up on our work and ask ourselves the question, Could we have done better?

Since my last report, we have held our revival services at Rehoboth. Owing to the epidemic of polio in our midst (there being two cases within a mile of the church) we postponed our services till the first Sunday in October. We had our services only at night so the children could come, as they were in school all day. The services were conducted differently from the way we usually have them. Instead of having one preacher or maybe two to do the preaching, we had the preachers from different churches to preach each night till the last three nights, then Rev. C. L. Spencer, our own pastor, preached. It was wonderful how each service would lead right into the next one, when one preacher did not know what the other one had preached about.

Last Sunday the doors of the church were opened and the following new members were taken in, one by letter, Mrs. H. P. Wright. The others were Shirley Mae Greenway, Ettie Marshall Greenway, Emily, Hickman and Brantly Crews, Catherine Renn and Beth Breedlove.

The following officers were also installed: Trustees, J. T. Cozart, H. B. Hicks, H. L. Wright, W. W. Grissom, K. E. Parrott, R. W. Harris and W. R. Kittrell; class leaders, W. E. Renn and W. R. Kittrell; stewards, W. H. Greenway and H. L. Wright; S. S. superintendent, S. B. Greenway; reporter, Miss Crystal Bobbitt; pianists, Mrs. Maude Hight and Miss Sue Harris. This is a splendid set of officers and their work will never be left undone. For they are workers for the advancement of God's Kingdom and the best interest of the church. May God bless them. This is Bro. Spencer's sixth year on Granville charge and each year he goes to conference with a unanimous vote for his return.

We held our thank-offering service the third Sunday in October. Dr. Morris, from Oxford, made us a splendid talk. Mrs. H. L. Wright gave the reasons for having thank-offering services and what the collections were used for. The collection was fair and the ladies of the auxiliary were well pleased.

This will be my last report, for we have a new reporter for next year and my wish is that she will do her work so well that she will make up for all of my shortcomings as a reporter. Hoping to see lots of my friends at conference, I will close with a hearty God bless you all.

Gideon's Grove Mission Band.—Our Mission Band held its regular monthly meeting Saturday, November 2, at the home of Rev. C. B. Way. Fifteen members answered the roll call. A very interesting and helpful program was rendered by different members of the Band. All members had been asked to bring a gift for a box to be sent to the Children's Home at High Point. Quite a nice little assortment of things were brought for this.

At the conclusion of the program the Band went into a business session and ways and means for raising some money were discussed. We decided to hold an oyster supper in the near future.

The meeting adjourned to meet with Doris Lemons in December. Tempting refreshments were served by the hostess during the social hour. ORELIA FRIDDLE, Reporter.

Friendship, Mt. Hermon Charge.—Rev. T. J. Whitehead filled his last appointment of the conference year the first Sunday with a splendid message. His text was taken from the 28th chapter of Matthew, "Appointments Jesus Has With Men." The Lord's Supper was observed with a large number partaking.

The following officers have been elected and installed: Church trustees, Lacy Isley, E. Patterson, T. F. Overman, Joel Graves, J. G. Holt, Sr.; stewards, Knox Lamar, Earl Loy, Early Edwards, Paul Graves, Miss Elma Sharpe; treasurer, H. T. Patterson; pianist, G. R. Isley; Sunday school superintendent, J. A. Sharpe; class leaders, Mrs. H. A. Garrett, Mrs. Hermon Isley, T. F. Overman; church reporter, Madge Murray.

On Thanksgiving morning at Bellemont church at 9:30 o'clock there will be a harvest offering for the Children's Home. We have been asked to bring or send a harvest offering.

There will be services at our church the third Sunday in this month at 3 o'clock.

The next meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held at the home of Mrs. C. M. Mann, Burlington, on Saturday before the third Sunday at 2:30 o'clock.

We are glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Daily Mansfield received into our church. Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield are both good church workers and we feel sure the church will be benefited.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Byron Keck, who has been in Duke hospital for the past month, is improving, and we hope she will soon be well again.

It has been such a blessing and a privilege to us to have had Rev. Mr. Whitehead with us this past year, and we hope to have him with us many more years to come.

Union Chapel, Mocksville.—The members of the Christian Endeavor of Union Chapel church, Mocksville charge, gave a Hallowe'en party Friday night, November 1, at the school house near the church. All members and many friends were present. A number of games were played and enjoyed by all. The refreshments served after the games consisted of banana sandwiches, cakes, pears, peanuts and lemonade. CAMILLA HOLMAN.

Piney Grove, Siler City Charge.—As we all know, the conference year has come to a close. But we hope that our pastor, Rev. J. A. Burgess, will return to be with us for another year, as we appreciated and enjoyed the splendid messages which he brought to us during the past year. The new officers for the coming year have been elected and are as follows: Trustees, W. A. Poe, C. M. Beaver, D. I. Hinshaw; stewards, C. M. Beaver, Miss Wilma Dark; class leader, Mrs. W. A. Poe; treasurer, W. A. Poe; ushers, Guy Dark, Howard McPherson; janitor, Guy Dark; reporter, Lela McPherson.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely with W. A. Poe as superintendent. Mr. Poe was re-elected for the coming year.

First Church, Danville, Va.—Our church extends a hearty welcome to our pastor, Rev. C. P. Morris. We are overjoyed to have him back with us another year. Our Sunday school superintendent, Mr. Joe Lamb, had a good old-fashioned case of the "blues" last Sunday in the absence of the pastor. The Sunday school had to sing "Glory, Glory Hallelulia" three times before getting him to hold his head up and keep his chin out. Our attendance fell eight short of that of November 3, giving us only 90 in Sunday school last Sunday. Now that Mr. Morris is back, we're looking for everybody in his place, long faces put back in the attics, and broad smiles everywhere.

We had two very interesting speakers at the morning and evening services. Mr. Robert McNeally, a young boy just starting out in ministry, used as his topic for the morning service "Glorying in the Cross," using as an example Paul the Apostle. He said that although Paul had a high education and was an excellent orator, he forgot his position and humbled himself in the glorifying of God. Rev. Mr. McAllister gave us some good points Sunday evening on the tragedy of sin.

Our Sunday school and Christian Endeavor are going forward with plans for a large harvest offering along with our Thanksgiving prayers on November 24. The superintendent has asked that each person bring some article of food to be distributed to the needy in the community Thanksgiving day. It gives us great joy to share our harvest meal with others and to try to count the many blessings God has bestowed upon us in the past year.

We are all looking forward to a big success for our officers and teachers for the new year. We each pledge our support and prayers and earnestly desire and need your prayers.

In last week's article an error was made in printing. Instead of 73 charter members the article should read, "Our church was organized with 37 members."

ELEANOR TANNER, Reporter.

Grace Church.—In the absence of Mr. Carroll at conference, our pulpit supply was Dr. Clyde A. Milner, president of Guilford College, who is no stranger to a Grace church audience.

Dr. Milner's subject was "The Spirit of Peace." He was in school in England when everything in all England was stopped for two minutes on that first Armistice Day. In relating it, he said that was one of the deepest experiences of his whole life. Dr. Milner said in part, "I will focus my remarks around two words, 'new' and 'old'; new, in the sense of being made popular by modern thinking; old, because of theology thinking of a generation ago. Just as the child trying some new task and fails, turns back to the accustomed thing, in failing to perform a new pattern of behavior they regress. The same happens in the adolescent age—acting like a grown-up, then reverts to the most childish behavior. We adults do much that same way. We strive at some new task, then drop back to do the same old accustomed way. It is also characteristic of the groups of people. We must as honest thinking people face the fact that it is perfectly possible for us to regress into another war. We have failed in that nobler way; it is easy to become disheartened. Shall we regress? There is a better way, a finer pattern of behavior. We could use this one—that is redemption. If we have caught the meaning of Christ's life while with His disciples, we cannot regress. They were redeemed by the living Power. Only as you and I are redeemed with the eternal spirit can the world find a higher and better way out. Only as His great love redeems us and we are co-workers with Him will we have the spirit of peace and approach unto His Kingdom which is Peace and Love."

MRS. J. M. S.

Kannapolis.—The work of this church is going on very nicely. We have had some very efficient leaders for the past year but yet they decided to make some changes for the ensuing year which, we trust, will be a success for soul-winning as well as member and financial gain. On Sunday, November 7, Rev. Aubert Smith, assisted by Mr. R. T. Sides, installed the following officers for the year: Superintendent of S. S., Mr. W. T. Kiser; assistant, Arthur Tutterrow; secretary of S. S., Miss Alma Braswell; assistant, Miss Ruth Marshall; C. L. Hampton, treasurer of S. S.; Miss Elva Sides, pianist, with Miss Laura Braswell her assistant; Mr. M. W. Henderson, chairman of trustees, with C. B. McCommons, C. B. Price, M. E. Marlow and L. C. Carter; stewards, R. T. Sides, E. Steele, J. V. Dwiggens, D. F. Abernathy, M. W. Hudson, V. M. Whitley, Edward Sides, J. F. Faggart, M. E. Marlow, C. E. Gabriel, M. W. Henderson; Mrs. C. B. McCommons, chairman of committee on communion; ushers, M. W. Hudson, David Cartner, Curtis Tutterow, Clyde Henderson; reporter, Mrs. X. E. Grayson; president of Woman's Auxiliary, Mrs. J. S. Marshall; president Senior C. E., Miss Ollie Sloop; Intermediate C. E., Miss Dorothy Clampett; Junior C. E., Miss Beatrice Cartner; advisory committee, H. W. Sides, X. E Grayson, C. W. Tutterow; lay leaders, R. T. Sides and C. W. Tutterow. At the close of the installation service communion was observed by a very impressive service.

At the evening service on November 7 Rev. Mr. Smith brought us a good sermon, this being his farewell sermon. "There was rejoicing among us at his coming and of course tears at his leaving," but we pray and trust for his success in the spiritual as well as financial future.

On Sunday, October 27, Rev. Clarence P. Morris, a former pastor of our church, and Rev. Aubert Smith changed pulpits and it was indeed a pleasure to have Rev. Mr. Morris with us and we feel his coming did us good and truly hope Rev. Mr. Smith was equally welcomed to Danville, Va., and that much good will be accomplished by his going there. Mr. Morris is always welcomed to our church and community as well as anyone else who comes our way. The doors are always open. And may we all not lean too much on the pastor but put more trust and faith in God and work this year as never before for the upbuilding of His kingdom.

MRS. X. E. GRAYSON, Reporter.

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge.—Conference is here. What has been done we do not know at this writing. But our prayers are that whatever is the Lord's will will be done.

As our pastor was away at conference Sunday and it is our usual preaching day, Mr. Talmadge Chapman, a ministerial student, came and preached for us. He brought us an inspiring sermon. Our prayers go with this young man as he goes forward in the cause of the Master.

Sunday night after Christian Endeavor Mr. Charlie Rollins, who taught a singing school here the first week of August, came back and we just had a singing at the regular preaching hour. We also had the Franklin male quartet from Greer and Junior Girls' quartet from the Southern Worsted Mill with us again at this time. Everyone certainly enjoys hearing them and hope they will come back again.

The Boys' Senior Class opened Sunday school first Sunday morning. Everything was carried out splendidly and everyone enjoyed it.

Morehart Davis, one of the young men of our church, underwent the operation of having his tonsils removed last Friday at the Mary Black hospital in Spartanburg. We are glad to report he is getting along just fine and hope he will soon be back with us.

We are also sorry to report little Junior McClimon, small son of Mr. and Mrs. N. G. McClimon, is ill. We hope he will soon be cut again.

Our prayer service is still being held each Wednesday night. Last week Mrs. C. W. McClimon led the service, the topic of prayer being discussed. One of the interesting features was the reading Mrs. McClimon gave, "Tommy's Prayer." This week Mr. Tom Gaston will lead the prayer service. For the past two years Mr. and Mrs. Gaston have lived some distance away and did not get to attend church here often. We are glad to have them move back into the community and take up their places in our church work.

As we stated in our last report, there were two reporters elected for this conference year. Although you will still hear from me, Mrs. C. W. McClimon is the other reporter and is a young woman of remarkable ability and you will hear from her next.

We wish to express our appreciation of the Christian Endeavor aids and discussion of the Sunday school lesson in the Herald. They are interesting and helpful.

We ask all Christian readers to pray for us that we may go forward in the cause of Christ. LOTTIE L. HARRISON, Reporter.

South Winston.—The Loyal Sons and Daughters Class of the South Winston church are having a contest for the upbuilding of their class. The girls are racing against the boys for the most points. The losing side is to give the winning side a social. We are anxious to see which side will win.

The new officers and teachers took charge Sunday and are doing fine with their work and are making a good start for another successful year.

BEATRICE MARKLAND, Reporter.

Orange Charge.—Am pleased to be assigned to Orange for another year. The first services to claim our attention are our regular Thanksgiving services, at which we make our offerings for our Children's Home. These services will be held in November as follows: Third Sunday, 3 p. m., Union Grove; 7 p. m., Efland; fourth Sunday, 11 a. m., Hebron; 3 p. m., Chestnut Ridge.

The first quarterly conference will meet with the Hebron church Saturday, November 30, at 2 p. m.

May we get into the new year's work at once and strive to make it the best of our existence. B. M. WILLIAMS, Pastor.

Union Chapel, Granville.—We feel that some real good work has been done through our church under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer since they have been with us. We are glad to welcome them back again.

We were very fortunate in securing two of our former pastors to preach for us on Sunday during the conference. On Sunday morning at 11 o'clock Rev. H. F. Fogleman brought a splendid message. At 7:30 Sunday evening we were honored by hearing another fine sermon by Dr. C. W. Bates. Large crowds attended both services.

May our prayers, co-operation, and presence make this year the best ever.

MRS. E. C. HUFF, Reporter.

MRS. A. D. SHELTON IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. A. D. Shelton, wife of Rev. A. D. Shelton, the pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Protestant church in Greensboro, is a patient at the Clinic hospital in Greensboro.

DR. AND MRS. AMICK AND MISS DEVINNEY ATTEND CONFERENCE

Dr. and Mrs. T. C. Amick and Miss Frances Devinney, of Louisburg College, attended conference on Sunday.

LEST WE FORGET

To the Friends of Orphanages in North Carolina:

The Thanksgiving season rapidly approaches, reminding friends of the orphanages of their urgent needs and the necessity of supplying them. Care of the large number of homeless children in North Carolina is of prime importance and people of our state never forget the orphanages at this time of the year. Annually, for years, there has been a special effort to aid them at Thanksgiving.

The North Carolina orphanages are supporting approximately 5,000 homeless children each year. This does not include the number assisted through Mothers' Aid. The supporting agencies of these orphanages have gone into this work on a voluntary basis and churches and fraternal orders have been impelled by an inner motive of kindness and service to take upon themselves, and into their hearts, the care of the needy, homeless children of the state. The Thanksgiving season has been made far more beautiful since the people, generally, have found joy in the opportunity this season presents to assist in the program of child care and training.

Every orphanage in North Carolina needs money. During the depression, and even before, a great many things were left undone at the orphanages. That condition still exists, but with liberal Thanksgiving donations by interested citizens, especially from those best able to give most, the orphanages will be enabled to pay their bills and face the winter with a greater sense of security. We, therefore, wish to impress upon your minds and hearts the needs of the orphanages of North Carolina at this season of the year. It is an opportunity to render a service to homeless children and, at the same time, make an investment in worthy childhood that will pay dividends far beyond all human expectation.

Not a single citizen in the state, either male or female, should fail to join in the movement to provide room for helpless orphans in the homes supported by loving generosity. We cannot escape condemnation here or hereafter if, seeing human need, we "pass by on the other side," or, if facing manifest duty, we seek to shift responsibility to others.

On Thanksgiving Day, the Master expects everyone to do his duty to the orphans, His children, our neighbors—our brethren. Every citizen of the state is admonished to forward the INCOME OF A DAY to the orphanage of his or her choice. It will be an investment in the mind and heart and soul of an orphan child, or children, with all their infinite capacities for good, or evil, in the world.

Respectfully,

M. L. SHIPMAN, Chairman,
A. S. BARNES,
C. K. PROCTOR,
MISS LILY MITCHELL,
R. C. HOUGH,
Publicity Committee.

COMMUNITY CHURCH, THOMASVILLE.	81
GRANVILLE	81
STATE STREET, LEXINGTON	77

Last week when we were working this page we thought we were saying good-bye forever to the old quotas and that this week we would be filling in the new spaces. However, so much money was turned in at conference before the editor could make his report on Saturday morning and so much of it was subsidy that really counted on last year's quotas that we decided to include that money in our report to conference, run the old quotas this week and start with new quotas next week. The money turned in at conference after Saturday morning is being acknowledged separately this week and will be a credit on the new quotas next week.

The only difference in the percentages this week over last week is that State Street, Lexington, comes up into third place. This same church raised its subsidy in full last week also.

We are so crowded with material this week and have been so rushed with work since coming home from conference that we are going to leave off our ravings and just let you read the list of contributions except to call your attention to the payments on subsidy, both by the churches and the Conference Council of Religious Education. We are profoundly grateful for the fine work which has been done for the Herald during the past year and we trust this is but the beginning of bigger things for the year to come.

Our total receipts since our last issue amount to $175.25, $94.50 being on subscriptions and $80.75 on subsidy.

Thanksgiving

We are now approaching that season of the year which we usually call Thanksgiving. The origin of this day is so familiar that every child in the grades in the public school is familiar with it. One reason for the great familiarity with the day is the fact that almost every teacher in the schools puts on some kind of a program bearing on the origin, the aims, the purposes of the day. Also, our churches have made much of the idea. In fact, we sometimes wonder if people have not thought so much about a particular day on which they cease, in a manner, from their usual occupation and go to church or go hunting or go to some big football game, or something else like this, that we have come to think of it largely as a day rather than a season.

Now, it is difficult to repeat anything from time to time without its losing some of its original purpose. Our forefathers had a cause for thanksgiving. They had been through the ''starvation'' period and had come out of it with a consciousness of what it meant. In our day with our granaries bulging, with so much on hand that even the government is trying to limit production, it is hard for us to put ourselves in the place of the Pilgrim Fathers who had come to a strange land and had endured the cold and had lived on half rations while they were trying to make a crop. There was no big-hearted government watching over them, seeing to it that not one went hungry. To them it was a life and death struggle and the great question with them was, would the food hold out until they could produce some more? We sometimes wonder if anybody is in position to enter into the real spirit of our Thanksgiving day who has not passed through the fires of want and misery. It is true that a great many people have known for the past five years what it is to be without plenty. Many have suffered hardships and privations which have tested their faith, but not so many of these will be in the church on Thanksgiving day. Unfortunately, too many of these people do not frequent the church. Some of them ceased going under the pretense that they could not dress like other people, hence they felt embarrassed. Others have used the excuse that they have not been able to pay anything to the church, hence they did not feel like accepting its benefits. Of course both of these attitudes are wrong. But that does not change the matter with some people.

Who then will be in the sanctuary for worship and for giving thanks on Thanksgiving day? In large measure it will not be the rich nor the real poor, but it will be the great middle class who have not had as many of the comforts of life during the depression as they had before it came, but who have had enough to keep the wolf from the door. And the truth of the matter is that a great many of these who thought they were having things hard have had so much more than the average person had years ago that it should be cause for thanksgiving on their part that they have had as much as they have had. Comforts and conveniences are only relative terms. It depends upon the age in which men have lived as to how much of these things they have had.

But there are some things that always call for thanksgiving. We have them in any age, in any clime, in any nation. And while it may seem trite to some people for us to mention them, yet we are going to risk that in the hope of helping some people realize how rich they are. To all of us there comes the sunshine and the rain. But somebody will say that the rain indicates gloom, shadows, unpleasant things. But the rain is just as essential as the sunshine. It takes both to make the earth yield her increase. In the dry time of summer when the crops are being parched, what is better than to have a refreshing shower to water the earth. Fortunately the people of this state usually have just about enough sunshine and rain. Here in this section in which God lets us live we seldom have enough of either to work much destruction. Both of them are blessings for which we should be thankful. Our state has been marvelously blessed. So far this year no section of it unless it be some small area has suffered much from drought or flood. The winter winds and the summer's heat have both been tempered, so that we can say we have thus far passed through a normal year. When the sun has shined, that sunshine has been as beautiful as it has ever been. When it rained, the rain was as wet as it was in former years. The autumn leaves were just as beautiful this year as we have ever seen them. Our hills and our valleys, our rivers and our mountains have had as much charm as we have ever known them to have. So far there is no evidence that nature is failing in its attempt to make for us a scene that is so beautiful that it will point us to God. And the beautiful sunset belongs to the poor just as much as it does to the rich. No one has a corner on the beauties of nature. The only limitation put upon us in this respect is that some people limit themselves by not being willing to see. We may not own a foot of land and yet the landscape is just as much ours as it is the man's who owns the land. There is such a thing as being poor and yet being very rich. Health is just as sweet to the man of low degree as it is to the mighty. The air we breathe is worth just as much to one as it is to another. It all belongs to us and was given that we might enjoy it.

But while there are many things that all can enjoy equally, there are some things some people do not enjoy as much as others do. The things that mean most to men are the things which they choose. And only those who choose them can get the enjoyment out of them. Christ is here for everybody. He says, "Behold, I stand at the door and knock. If any man will hear my voice and will open the door, I will come in and sup with him, and he with me." But it is only the man who opens the door and lets Christ come in who enjoys Him. It is true that everybody living in our country is a beneficiary in a way of Christianity, but it is also true that those who embrace it have more to make them happy than does the person who pays no attention to it. But we do have something to be thankful for in that we have Christ as our Savior, our Redeemer. We can never thank God enough for the gift of His Son. For this we ought to be thankful for all the year and throughout all eternity. And so on this Thanksgiving day, as well as on all other days of service, we ought to go into our churches and enter into the spirit of thanksgiving. And one of the best ways to show our thanks is to share what we have with others. And in this we do not mean with those who can return the favor, but the children in our Children's Home who are looking to us for their daily bread, with any unfortunate families living in the community who do not have plenty, with the unfortunates anywhere and everywhere. Let the spirit of praise be manifested everywhere, in our churches and in our homes. Let us open the doors of our hearts and let Christ come in, and if we do this we shall have something to be thankful for.

A Campaign for the Herald

As soon as Thanksgiving is over we trust that HERALD agents and pastors will launch a campaign for the HERALD that will take advantage of the fact that many people have more money at this time of the year than they do in the summer time. If we could get the HERALD into each home in our conference we would see a lot of difference in every phase of our work. People just cannot be interested in a thing they do not know about, and they cannot know much about the church without the church paper. So, HERALD agents, get busy. Pastors, if you do not have HERALD agents at your churches, then appoint some, unless you are willing to do the work yourself.

Send a Good Offering to Children's Home

A good way to express our thanks this year is to send a good offering to our Children's Home at High Point. Remember, the Home is depending on us and we dare not fail them. If you cannot have a regular service in your church on Thanksgiving day, then take an offering next Sunday or the next. Give out envelopes to all the people and press the offering. All working together can do wonders.

Mail Early Next Week

In order that the printers of the HERALD may rest on Thanksgiving day, the HERALD will be printed one day earlier next week. Let correspondents remember this and mail their communications early.

Scripture Lesson—Haggai 1:2-8; 2:8, 9; Zechariah 4:6-10.

Memory Verse—"I was glad when they said unto me, let us go unto the house of the Lord."—Psalm 122:1.

The sub-title, or theme, of our lesson today is a little nearer the heart of our printed text than the broader general subject. May we then keep in our minds the memory verse and the theme, "Why We Build Churches."

The lesson for today follows so closely our study last Sunday of "The Return from Captivity" that it will take little time to get ourselves placed historically You recall that we learned of the fall of Babylon in 538, the decree of Cyrus of 537 granting freedom to the Jews, and in 536 a group of 15,000 Jews under Zerubbabel came back to Palestine. They set themselves immediately to rebuild the Temple which had been destroyed in 586, but got no further along than the laying of the foundation. Sixteen years of stagnation followed (536-520 B.C.). It might be concluded that they ceased from the construction because of drought and famine. But whether the drought and famine were the causes of the cessation or the punishment for the cessation is not clear. According to Haggai 1:6 it seems the latter case. If such is accepted, then as to the cause, we are not informed. (If you check the last clause of verse 6 in your Bible you will find that the word "but" as printed in our M. P. quarterly should be "put.")

The prophet Haggai arose to condemn the people for neglecting the building of the Temple, and to challenge them back to their divine duty. He uttered four prophecies amidst this time of coldness and neglect (520 B.C.). At this time he was an old man, having seen Solomon's Temple before its destruction in 586 (Haggai 2:3). By his prophecies we conclude that he had been carried captive to Babylon, returned under Zerubbabel, and now was called by Jehovah to stir the people to action for God.

Hagai pointed out that the poverty of the people was not a reason for their cessation of building the Temple because they lived in "ceiled houses, while this house (the Temple) lieth waste." The sin of luxury certainly was a root evil that caused God to speak through Amos. Read most any chapter in the book of Amos for a proof of this contention. Would it not be a little challenging for even us American Christians to compare our homes with all their luxuries with many of our debt-ridden, unpainted, bat-ridden churches? No community, unless it is overchurched, would permit its church buildings to be any whit less attractive than its homes. If we permit our churches to fall into disrespect because of their unattractiveness, then some Haggai should come into our midst and command us in the name of the Head of the Church to "go up to the mountain, and bring wood, . . . and silver, and gold" that there might be a neat, comfortable, attractive earthly tabernacle in which men might worship God.

Haggai did what he could; then Zechariah, a young man, came to his aid. He, too, had come from Babylon. He and Haggai had a singleness of heart in their desire for Jehovah: the rebuilding of the Temple. Four great phrases from Zechariah should be engraved upon our memory: "Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord," 4:6; "A brand plucked out of the fire," 3:2; "Who hath despised the day of small things?" 4:10; and "And the streets of the city (the new Jerusalem) shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof," 8:5. By their concerted effort they aroused the people to a determined zeal. In about five years the Temple of the Return, often also called the Second Temple, was rebuilt and dedicated. It stood from 515 until 20 B.C. when Herod rebuilt it and called it Herod's Temple.

Questions for Discussion

1. Why was it considered such a sin not to complete the construction of the Temple?
2. What are some of the motives why people build churches? What is the true motive?
3. Could Christianity long live in a world of clubs and organizations as ours without churches?
4. What was the determining factor in your joining the church of which you are a member at present?
5. Why is not our modern church more effective in developing the kingdom of God on earth?

BE FAITHFUL

This story is taken from the American Magazine. It is about a young girl who was on her way to work on a very stormy day. The whole country was covered with ice and snow. A man started to his office in a limousine, but the car stuck in the drifts. No trolleys were running; there was nothing for him to do but to walk. He turned up his great coat collar and struck out. Soon he came alongside a slight girl beating her way against the wind and snow. 'Say, this is fierce!" he said to the girl. "Not so good; but it might be worse," she said, smiling back at him. For another hundred yards they fought the storm together; then he stopped. "Sister, this is no day for you to be out," he said; "let's turn back." "Oh, I can make it all right," she bravely answered. "But what's the use?" he asked; "I can go back and do my business by telephone." She waved her hand cheerily. "No," she said, "I can't go back. I'm your telephone operator."

If the girl who was the telephone operator had stayed at home that day how many might have been hindered that day! Perhaps mesesages of great importance, messages of life and death would have been hindered. But you say, "Oh, well, perhaps some one else might have taken her place." Yes, that is true, but when pay day came she would have been disappointed. Another would have drawn the pay. There is a pay day coming for us all. If we are not faithful we shall miss our pay. God says, "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life."—The Lighted Pathway.

Mrs. E. F. Allman Passes

Information has come to friends in North Carolina of the passing of Mrs. E. F. Allman of Lost Creek, West Virginia, on November 13, following a lingering illness. Mrs. Allman was the wife of a former superintendent of our Children's Home at High Point.

My last report to the Herald showed that we still lacked $1,136.91 of having the full amount of the McCulloch Memorial Fund. I am reporting this week that we lack only $833.87. That is, $306.04 came in at Conference. So we're on our way out. But I hope we won't wait until next Conference to get out. I want to see this $833.87 raised in the next three months. IT CAN BE DONE.

Well, they re-elected the same old board; meaning to say that the McCulloch Memorial Fund Committee is continued as was: C. W. Bates, R. M. Andrews, J. G. Rogers. So I've got my old job back. How long I'll keep it depends on you. But I don't want it; and the sooner you send in the money, the sooner I'll be able to quit. But I won't quit until I get it.

And we voted—which was the only fair thing to do—that the churches that had paid the McCulloch Memorial Fund apportionment in full would not be asked to pay any more. It falls where it belongs—on those churches and charges that have not met this obligation. Next week, I shall give the apportionments by charges, indicating the credits, if any, that the churches have on their apportionments. If you'll start right in after next week, you can raise what you are asked to raise, and have it done with.

Not to make this report too long, I am reporting where we are to date:

Previously reported	$2,194.79
Pensacola (additional)	1.00
Mt. Pleasant (balance)	90.00
Gibsonville (in full)	50.00
Henderson (balance)	36.00

Fairview, Anderson	12.50
Liberty	23.25
Salem, Saxapahaw	7.81
Total to date	$2,497.83

All right, folks, bring on your money, and let's quit talking about what we're going to do. My address is the same as last year. If you don't remember the street number just send it to Winston-Salem, C. W. Bates, Chairman.

J. W. Tucker and Family Move to Albemarle

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tucker of Calvary church have moved to Albemarle where Mr. Tucker is a clerk in the post office. Mr. Tucker resigned a similar position in Albemarle before coming to Greensboro several years ago. Calvary church regrets exceedingly to lose them.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

W W B F

Let this be our slogan— We Would Be Faithful. It would be fine if every pastor and every church official would set this for their task. And thus become an example to others. If our leaders would lead—not drive or lag—our churches would advance rapidly in all the ways of doing good. "The pastor must give the vision."

Appointments Made

E. P. Hamilton, student at High Point College, supply pastor of Mt. Zion charge. Mt. Zion charge is composed of Mt. Pleasant, Mt. Zion, and Cid churches.

W. C. Clark is appointed supply pastor of Democrat charge.

W. D. Reed is released from Porter and C. G. Isley is appointed pastor of same.

Corrections

Guilford charge was omitted from the Stationing Committee's report as it appeared in the Herald of last week. Bro. T. A. Williams is pastor.

Bessemer City did not appear. It is now a station and is to be served by D. T. Huss.

The typist made me say Joash, when speaking of the Lord's command to Joshua in last week's Herald. I abbreviated the word—Josh.—which was doubtless responsible for the mistake.

That Thank-Offering Again

It is none too soon to plan for the Thanksgiving gift to the Children's Home. Let us meet the challenge of the Dixons. Just work out what one day's wage is and give it as your Thanksgiving gift. Let those who are thankful for health, for a place to labor, for the unbroken family, for friends who are true, for the blessings of heaven which have been so multiplied, join in this beautiful service. It should not be a task; no one should give of necessity or grudgingly, but cheerfully, for the Lord loveth a cheerful giver.

The Budgets

When planning for the first quarterly conference, be sure to make provision for both the W. S. and A. C. budgets. Get your officials to accept a definite amount of the World Service, and apportion it to the churches to be raised by them. Apportion the five items in the A. C. budget. These should be raised in full, but need not be all raised at the same time. Some pastors prefer to lump them and raise them that way. That may suit your particular way of doing it, but the conference is only asking that you take one at a time. First is A .C. expenses. You will have two months to raise this in—January and February. By raising these items this way you will not draw so heavily upon the pastor's salary, which should be paid regularly.

Set a Quota for Membership Gain

It is so easy in our efforts to raise money for buildings, debts, conference expenses, etc., to overlook the main purpose for the existence of the church—the saving of the unsaved in the community. These must be converted. They must be brought to Christ through you and yours. And what if we forget them altogether? We must not. We must raise the money needed to keep the church going, but we must also seek and save the lost about us. One pastor told me that he began when he got back from conference by securing the enlistment of his auxiliary in this work, that he expected to present it to the other organizations of his church. We hope he will give the readers of the Herald a report on this activity when he gets it fully under way. It certainly would stimulate interest in evangelism in all of us.

Quarterly Conferences

Saturday, November 23—Bethel church, Randolph charge.

Wednesday, November 27—Rankin Memorial.

Saturday, November 30, 2 p.m.—Hebron, Orange circuit.

Saturday, December 7, 2 p.m.—Mt. Pleasant church, Mt. Zion charge.

I shall be glad to meet as many appointments as I can where my services may be helpful. Call on me and if I can go, I shall be pleased to go when needed.

R. M. Andrews.

THE INFLUENCE OF ONE BIBLE

Nearly fifty years ago a Jew stepped into a Bible house in Constantinople to purchase a Bible because he could secure both the Old and New Testaments a dollar cheaper than the Old Testament alone could be obtained from the Jewish Publication Society. He became interested in the New Testament and was led to accept Christ. His wife also became a Christian, and they added to their line of merchandise a volunteer Bible agency, handling the Scriptures in thirty-three languages. Twenty-five years ago they moved to the Far West and opened their business as importers in San Francisco His ruling passion was to preach Christ and distribute Bibles among the Jews. Two years ago he died, leaving his entire property, except a life income for his wife, to the San Francisco agency of the Bible Society to be spent in the distribution of the Bible among the Jews throughout the world —The Watchman-Examiner.

THE BREAKING POINT

"Don't you feel you're liable to break?" was asked of a devoted Christian man who was in the midst of severe testings.

"Yes," he replied, "I often feel I might, but not until the 50th Psalm breaks at the 15th verse."

"What does that say?" his friend asked.

He opened his Bible and read: "Call upon me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me."

Take God at His word.—Pentecostal Testimony.

OUR STORY PAGE

TIME FOR RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION

Billy and Patty and Joe heard the big clock in the big tower solemnly ring out the hour of five, so they laid down their balls and started home in spite of the protests of their small friends. ''It's time for our study period,'' explained Patty. ''You can come and sit with us if you choose.''

''Don't want to! Just like school,'' objected Martin.

''Is it fun?'' asked Homer, who was a new boy in the neighborhood.

''It isn't school and it isn't fun, but you'll like it,'' said Joe. ''Come and see.''

It was more like a story-telling hour, but all the children soon realized that they were getting a little drill in the Sunday school lesson for next day. They asked questions and made comments just as Mrs. Groton wanted them to do.

''If I had been Joseph I never would have given my wicked brothers a bit of corn to eat,'' said one child.

''That wouldn't be right,'' put in another.

''Don't you know the Golden Rule?'' said little Patty. Presently Mrs. Groton was aware that two ladies were hidden behind the screen of vines listening. She motioned them to join the group but they shook their heads and touched their lips lightly with their fingers.

''May we come again?'' asked the neighbor children when the study hour was over and a small treat of fruit was distributed. ''We like it.''

Of course permission was given, and then the two listeners came out from their hiding place after the children scampered away to play.

''So that is the way you get time to instruct your children in religious matters,'' said one of the visitors. ''You simply appoint a time just as you would for a meal and then stick to it.''

''That is the only way I can manage,'' said the hostess. ''I used to teach in the Sunday school and miss the sessions greatly, but Baby is too small to take just now, so this is my substitute.''

''I wish you'd see your way clear to take my child—no, I won't say that either,'' said the other visitor. ''I'll try to learn your method and teach my children myself. I find time to clothe and feed and care for them, so of course there is time for their higher life.''

''I feel that way, too,'' said her friend thoughtfully. ''I've worried about leaving everything to the Sunday school, but now I see a way out of the difficulty. Thank you very much, Mrs. Groton, for this pleasing object lesson. You see two of your pupils—and you didn't know you had us for pupils until the lesson was nearly over—took your instruction so seriously that they are going to put it into immediate action. That is something few teachers of adults can say.''

''I know you'll enjoy it as much as I have,'' said the hostess. ''When the clock strikes five we can all be thinking together and praying together that God will help us fill the precious minds intrusted to our care with thoughts that will please Him and help keep our little ones in right paths.'' —Mrs. W. C. Kohler.

HOW MARGARET HELPED

Margaret tiptoed into the house. She put her schoolbooks quietly in their usual place. Then she went into the kitchen where her aunt was.

''How is Mother now?'' Margaret asked, looking into her aunt's anxious face.

''Not any better yet,'' replied her aunt.

''Isn't there anything I can do for Mother?''

''The nurse is doing everything that can be done. You and I must be quiet and wait. That is all we can do, Margaret.''

Margaret sighed. ''It is hard to wait.''

For a whole week, Margaret's mother had been ill, getting sicker every day. In all that time Margaret had not seen her once. Never before had she been away from her mother that long. She was very unhappy about it. She tried to be just as quiet and good as she could be, so that mother might not be disturbed. But every night she cried herself to sleep.

That evening Aunt Bessie seemed more anxious than ever. Father hardly spoke at all. He spent the evening sitting in the hall outside Mother's door. Twice Margaret heard the doctor come and go. The second time he brought another doctor with him. They talked a long time with Father in the hall. Margaret knew then that Mother must be very ill, indeed.

Noiselessly she crept up to her room and began to undress. ''Oh, I wish that I could do something! I do wish that I could do something!'' she kept saying over and over.

Suddenly a thought popped into her head. Magaret smiled for the first time that week. ''Why didn't I think of that before?'' she scolded herself as she scrambled out of her clothes.

When she was ready for bed, she knelt down and said her prayers as usual. Then she began a little prayer of her own: ''Oh, please make my mother better! We need her so. Please, Lord Jesus, make her well like You did the people long ago.'' Over and over again, Margaret said her prayer. When Aunt Bessie peeped into the room an hour later, she found Margaret still kneeling, but sleeping soundly.

In the morning, Margaret was awakened by a smiling-faced aunt. ''Mother is better, but we must still be quiet,'' said Aunt Bessie.

Margaret looked radiant. ''I knew she would be. I asked Jesus to make her well,'' said she.—Olive Plants.

HER MISTAKE

''I have tried to come to Jesus many a time, but I have never reached Him,'' said a downcast lady at the close of our gospel service one evening.

''How did you try to come?'' I asked. ''Was it as a saint or as a sinner?''

She hesitated a moment, then said, ''I believe I tried to make myself something like a saint; but I see my mistake now. I should have come to Jesus as I was.''—Glad Tidings.

THE ADDRESS BY DR. CULLOM

Below we print the address of Dr. W. R. Cullom, of the School of Religion of Wake Forest College, as delivered to the 108th session of the N. C. Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant church in Henderson, N. C., November 6-11, 1935, in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the English Bible.

TWO TURNING POINTS IN CHRISTIAN HISTORY—1535 AND 1935

(By Dr. W. R. Cullom, of the School of Religion, Wake Forest College)

On October 4, 1535, Miles Coverdale gave to the world the first printed English Bible. From October 4, to December 8, 1935 (Bible Day) the Christian world is celebrating that significant event. Here are two dates, surely, that are fraught with meaning to all Christendom. The Calvinism of the author of this paper is not so rigid as to single out October 4, 1535, as a particular day of destiny. It is rather my thought that this day brought to the attention of the world in a concrete way a series of movements of world significance. Many of them preceded the day in question; many of them followed it; but they were all tied up together in such a way as to constitute a fresh, distinct, and a most meaningful message of the "Spirit to the Churches." It is also my thought that this good year of our Lord 1935 comes likewise in the midst of a series of events and movements that constitute an equally clear, and, if possible, a very much more challenging call of that same Spirit to the churches of this day. May we try as best we can to hearken to and follow the call of God's Spirit!

Many movements and influences of world significance lie in the approach to 1535. To discuss them would be entirely out of the question in such a paper as I am here offering. Simply to catalogue them would be to outline the main points in that very significant change from Mediaevalism to our modern world. I shall attempt merely to point to a few of the more outstanding of them in the hope of bringing my hearers to a little deeper appreciation of that event which gave the common man access to the rich treasures of that Book about which the dying Sir Walter could say: "There is but one Book."

To begin with, let us think for a moment of that gap between the Ural Mountains and the Caspian Sea which has more than once been the gateway through which central Asia has emptied hordes of its surplus population into the Levant and thence on into Eastern, Central and even Western Europe. Rome went down before and the new Rome was built out of just such hordes. The Crusades were brought on by the coming in of a new invasion from this same background and through this same gap. When one pauses for a moment and allows his imagination to picture to himself the composition of the several European states and the whence and the how of the formation of that composition, he can understand somewhat the various, the perpetual, and the apparently incurable antagonisms among these several peoples. If I may stop here to make a sort of summing up of these antagonisms, I would say that there were three of them which constitute a fairly good summary of Mediaeval history. First, is the fierce conflict amongst the dozen or so barbarian tribes. that came in from the North and East and formed the Europe of that day; second, is the conflict between the Bishop of Rome and the Emperor of the Holy Roman Empire for supremacy in Europe; and third, is the conflict between the Mohammedans and the Christians for the supremacy over each other. Here are three conflicts whose influences have been most powerful through all succeeding centuries, and they are a mighty power even today in every nook and corner of Christendom in determining the attitude of nations and peoples toward one another.

When will we Christians return to the spirit and fellowship of the early days when the pagans said, "Behold how those Christians love one another!" When will we learn that "they that take the sword shall perish with the sword"?

From such a background may I pass on to name a few incidents which may serve as pointers toward 1535? The Crusades held the spotlight in Europe during the twelfth and thirteenth centuries; Wycliffe's translation of the Bible was made in the fourteenth century; the city which was called by the name of the first Christian emperor and which was the capital of Christendom for several centuries fell into the hands of the Mohammedans in 1453; the announcement of the important discovery of movable type was made in November, 1454; in 1487 Vasco da Gama sailed around the southern point of Africa; in 1492 Columbus sailed westward in search of India and discovered America; in 1519-1522 Magellan sailed around the earth and thus proved conclusively that the world was round; in the winter of 1510-1511 the Monk of Wittenburg made that visit to Rome which was to result soon in causing him to become Luther the Reformer; on October 31, 1517, this same monk nailed his 95 theses to a door of the Castle church in Wittenburg; on April 17, 1521, Luther stood before the Diet of Worms, and on the following day, April 18, he defied the entire Roman Catholic church and the Holy Roman Empire, declaring, "Unless I am refuted or convicted by testimonies of the Scriptures or by clear argument, I cannot and will not recant anything, since it is unsafe and dangerous to do anything against the conscience"; in 1516 Erasmus' Greek New Testament was published; William Tyndale took his Master of Arts degree at Oxford in 1515. He went at once to Cambridge where he associated himself with Erasmus, that great humanist and master of the Greek New Testament. Tyndale then returned to his native Gloucestershire where he became tutor in the family of Sir John Walsh. Here he met many traveling leaders of the church and others with whom he often argued. In one of these discussions one day one of his opponents remarked: "We had better be without God's laws than the Pope's." Tyndale rose in indignant wrath and cried, "I defy the pope and all his laws; and if God spare me I will one day make the boy that drives the plough in England to know more of Scripture than the pope does." He issued his New Testament in 1526 and other parts of the Scriptures from time to time until he was treacherously taken and strangled to death; in 1530 Copernicus completed his epoch-making book which was to revolutionize men's conception as to the whole of the physical universe; henceforth the earth was no longer the center around which the sun and the planets moved, but was only a speck, as it were, floating around in space; an important principle was enunciated in the Marburg Colloquy between Luther and Zwingle October 30 to November 5, 1529. Luther's position was that anything might be practiced in the church which was not forbidden in the Scripture. Zwingle's principle was that men should go to the Scriptures, find what they taught and follow that. Luther's hot temper led him to denounce Zwingle, saying to him, "You are no brother of mine," and again, "You have a different spirit from us"; in 1530 the Augsburg confession of faith was set forth. This confession was prepared by Melancthon and approved by Luther. It is the great Protestant declaration and committal to the Scriptures as God's authoritative message to the soul. Surely it is time for some one to put forth a Bible in English that can minister to this new faith —a faith which recognizes each individual as directly responsible to God.

Let us, then, turn and give attention to the main facts as to the man whose translation of the Bible we are celebrating. Like Wycliff, Myles Coverdale was born in Yorkshire, about 1488, probably in the district of Coverdale near Middleham. He was educated at the Augustine Convent at Cambridge, took priestly orders in 1514 at Norwich, and became a bachelor of Canon Law at Cambridge in 1531. At Cambridge he was one of the group who met with Dr. Barnes, prior of the Convent after 1523, to discuss ideas "out of Germany." Coverdale followed him to London when, in 1525, Barnes was called to account for his ideas. About this time Coverdale left the Augustines and became a secular priest, going about preaching against various current religious practices. In Cambridge he had known Sir Thomas More and had come under the patronage of Thomas Cromwell to whom he wrote, possibly in 1527, "Now I begyne to taste of Holy Schryptures; now (honour be to God) I am sett to the most swete smell of holy lettyres, with the godly savour of holy and awneyent Doctoures, unto whose knowledge I can not attayne, without dyversyte of bookys." Coverdale early acquired a reputation for being one wholly given up to the preaching of the Gospel. In 1528 he found it expedient to leave England for Germany. He may have met Tyndale in Hamburg in 1529, but the evidence is doubtful. He drops from sight until 1535 when his translation of the Bible was printed, probably in Zurich. Hoping to secure open circulation for the book, he prefixed to it a fulsome dedication to Henry VIII, and, to distinguish it from the banned Tyndale translations, signed his name to the prologue to the reader. In 1540, on Cromwell's death, he returned to Germany, staying for a time at Tubingen, then going to Bergzabern, near Landau, where he held a benefice and conducted a school. About this time he married Elizabeth Macheson, a Scotchwoman. He was awarded the doctorate of divinity by the University of Tubingen; in 1547 or 1548 he returned to England as almoner to the Dowager Queen Catharine and later became chaplain to King Edward VI, but is soon heard of in Devon, by his preaching helping Lord Russell put down a rebellion, for which he was awarded in 1550 40 pounds. He was also a member of a commission to examine anabaptists, heretics, and contemners of the Book of Common Prayer. In 1551 he was appointed Bishop of Exeter and served as a member of a commission of bishops and others to revise the ecclesiastical laws. He regularly attended the House of Lords, a busy man, who took his responsibilities seriously.

In 1553, on King Edward's death, Coverdale was deprived of his see and was summoned to London, on the grounds of a technical debt, with other reformers. Several appeals to Queen Mary by King Christian of Denmark, whose chaplain was Coverdale's brother-in-law, succeeded in securing his release in 1555, and although his works were proscribed, he was allowed to leave England. From Denmark he went to Wezel in Friesland, where he preached to English refugees for a time before returning to his old charge at Bergzabern. He was in Geneva in 1558 when the Geneva Bible was in preparation, but probably took little, if any, part in it. In 1559 he was back in England, preaching. Although he attended as a bishop, but in plain black gown, the consecration of Matthew Parker as Archbishop of Canterbury, and always used his title, he did not return to Exeter nor accept another bishopric.

"He was appointed rector of St. Magnus, close to London Bridge, in 1563. He resigned in 1566, because he would not conform to the requirements of Queen Elizabeth's church laws, but continued preaching to large groups in various parts of London. He died in February, 1569, and was buried at St. Bartholomew's church; due to the destruction of much of this church in the London fire, his remains were removed in 1840 to St. Magnus. An old picture shows him as a man of unattractive physical appearance; but his writings reflect a strong, sweet personality, and his contribution to our English Bible reveals beauty and aptness of thought."

If we turn now and try to summarize a few of the leading tendencies of the age of which 1935 is a part we shall have to note the following: (1) It was an age of remarkable expansion in man's knowledge of the physical universe. (2) It was an age of great intellectual awakening. (3) It was a time of much and deep searching of spirit as to men's relationship to God and to one another (4) There was a fresh emergence of the spirit of individual responsibility. (5) It was a time when men wanted to get back to the sources and form fresh contacts with vital reality. (6) This last tendency gave rise to a fresh interest in the Bible along with all the classics. (7) All of these begot a new and enlarged interest in education.

If we turn again to note the trend of Christian thought and life following 1535, we are not surprised to find that the Bible is exerting a most wholesome and even a controlling influence in theology. Note especially such works as Calvin's Institutes of the Christian Religion put forth in March, 1536. This was a clear, dignified, vigorous presentation of the beliefs of Protestants. If we turn to the Elizabethan era of English literature, we see its whole spirit saturated with and dominated by Bible ideals, Bible ideas, and much of it even in the very phraseology of the Bible. When we pass into and through the Victorian era we find very much the same. If we look at the influence of the Bible in civic life, in education, in the formation of social ideals, in the field of music, in domestic life—in short, in the making of the English people and in laying the foundations of the American Republic, we are impressed that this Book has truly been the fountain whence have come to us streams of life and of power and of blessing that should call forth from us the deepest and strongest feelings of gratitude, and at the same time should beget within us correspondingly deep and strong resolutions and purposes to make it an even greater power for good and blessing in the new civilization which is emerging even while we celebrate this happy anniversary.

And this brings me to a consideration of

Like its predecessor of four hundred years ago, this good year of 1935 is the recipient of many powerful influences that have gone into the making of the life about us today. This year and its immediate context will, in turn, set in motion influences and let loose powers in the earth that should challenge us to be on our guard at every possible point and in every possible way lest the streams that shall go from us to the making of the future for our children and children's children shall prove to be streams of death and destruction rather than streams of life and of blessing.

In giving a sort of summary statement as to some of the main factors in and the general trend of modern life, Dr. Henry P. Van Dusen has this to say: "The life of every one of us in any age is compact of two great sets of factors. The one, the external circumstances of life, differs from age to age and marks each man's and each generation's distinctive history. The other, the primordial forces within his own soul and the problems they beget, each man largely shares with all mankind; they vary little from age to age. Of the two great factors whtich determine's man's experience, one—the first—has suffered more radical transformation within the lifetime of our generation than in all of human history before. The external setting of the life of every citizen of the western world today — all that surrounds his spirit and makes incessant impact upon it, moulding and fashioning it beyond his realization—is more completely different from that of his grandfather than his grandfather's was from that of Socrates. it is a new creation. That fact furnishes the key to modern life.

"The by-products of this basic fact are likewise a tale too familiar. Let us mention four: 1. The advance of man's effective mastery over Nature has accomplished the unification of the world. Through multiplied and instant communication, through the worldwide dispersion of invention and education and culture, through interlocking commercial and financial interests, the peoples of the world live in continuous and intimate contact with each other; and their interests are largely one And this unification has found its most significant expression in—the World War.

2. The advance of man's effective mastery over Nature has, for the first time in all human history, made thoroughly practicable the provision of adequate food, shelter, security, education, recreation and a modest comfort for every single inhabitant of the western world. And that possibility has taken actuality in—the present depression, with its immeasurable want, hardship, degradation, and despair.

3. The advance of man's effective mastery over Nature has opened wide the doorway to culture, acquaintance with the rich treasures of man's past, participation in the delicate and deep imponderables of the human spirit for all who will enter. And the most general response to that invitation has been—the movies, the radio, jazz.

4. The advance of man's effective mastery over Nature has promised modern man achievements and satisfactions beyond the wildest dreams of his forbears. And that promise has seen realization in the typical successful American of today—superficial, crude, blatant, confused, restless, inwardly dissatisfied.

"The promise—a united world, security and comfort, culture, happiness. The fulfillment —a World War, the depression, jazz, disillusionment. A partial and one-side picture, to be sure; one thread among many. But will any one question that it is the dominant character of the portrait of our world's life today, the central thread in the tangled skein which is Modern Life?"

The truth of the matter is that the man who is only in the prime of life today has seen four world revolutions going on contemporaneously about him. The revolutions here in mind are these: (1) The astronomers and the physicists have given us a physical universe whose reality far outstrips anything that could have been invented by the imagination of the author of Arabian Nights. When the astronomers begin to measure distances in millions and even hundreds of millions of light years, and when the physicists begin to tell us that the atom contains within its make-up many millions of universes, the average man is lost and can only stand and gaze in amazement and wonder. And I confess to being one of the average men at this point. (2) A second revolution has come to pass within that same period with reference to men's method of living. The application of the power generated by steam, electricity, and gasoline to the tasks, the recreations, and the general uses of modern life has placed upon all of us the necessity of learning afresh the simplest lessons of living. Roger Babson said in a magazine article several years ago that the automobile had put hell on wheels and that the flying machine had given it wings. Who is not made to cry out for wisdom in the use of such powers lest they prove to be an army of Frankensteins let loose in the earth? (3) A third revolution may be seen in the way men look at the most elementary, the most sacred, and the intimately meaningful institutions of life. I have in mind here such institutions as the home, the Sabbath day, the Bible, education, the state, business of all sorts, and all the rest. (4) I would mention here, finally, the conception of a human being which some so-called scientific theories are trying to put on the people of this generation. Dr. P. B. Watson, for example, would insist that there is no such thing as moral purpose. All men's impulses, aspirations, hopes, ambitions, prayers, and what not are merely the result of physical stimuli. There is, according to these behaviourists, no such thing as a spiritual personality. Faith, hope, love, consecration to high ideals, and all such are absolutely and only illusion.

There have been great revolutions in the earth before. It seems to me, however, that there are two things about these revolutions which, taken together, are unparalleled. One is their radical nature. They certainly go to the very roots of all life. The second is their extent over the earth. Other revolutions have been confined to limited areas. These take in the whole round earth.

When I bring myself to face such facts and such a challenge as all this sort of thing brings to the followers of Christ, I am made to feel that surely the need for the Bible and its influence in the world's life today is multiplied over that of 1535 by at least the number of years that have elapsed between the two dates in question. Nor am I alone in this feeling. If I were called upon to name the half dozen men who are possessed of the best first-hand acquaintance with all the peoples and with the most significant movements of the earth today I should certainly put Dr. J. H. Oldham near the top of that list. A few months ago he gave to the world a little booklet whose purpose is to orient a limited group of people for a very important world conference to be held in 1937. Among many other suggestive statements in this booklet I find this one: “Even a slight acquaintance with the recent literature of different countries is sufficient to show how widespread and deep in thoughtful minds, both Christian and non-Christian, is the sense that we stand today at one of the great turning points in human history comparable in significance to that in which the Middle Ages gave birth to the modern world. The ideas which have given character and shape to modern civilization are in the melting pot. The old order is passing into something new. We do not know what the future will bring. . . . The members of a modern community find themselves more and more closely bound together in a common life and subjected as never before to the continuous pressure of a common culture. The crucial issue is whether this common life and culture will be inspired by Christian or pagan conceptions of the meaning and purpose of human life.” Along with Dr. Oldham's statement I should like to place another which is to be found in a recent book by Dr. P. Carnegie Simpson. This book is called “The Fact of the Christian Church,” and the statement in question is this: “There is in our world today a kind of apprehension which it is not too much to say has never been felt before. In history there have been occasions when Western civilization was in real fear of some external peril—of Barbarian invasion, at one time, or, at another of the Saracen menace. But I do not think that ever before in history has Western civilization been as it really is today afraid of itself. What is wrong is essentially this: that in a world in which we are bound together by innumerable inter-relationships and common needs, the nations and classes have not learned to live together with reciprocity and harmony, but on the contrary are entrenching themselves behind ramparts of international enmity, class war, economic rivalry, and racial exclusiveness. To put it in simple while metaphorical language—the world is today, as it never has been before, one household; but mankind is not living in it as one family.”

My friends, if I have made any impression on you for good, I am more than glad. It has been my thought to impress upon you two or three simple things. The first is the eminently worthwhileness of this celebration. I am glad you are having it, and thank you most heartily for giving to me the honor and the pleasure of sharing it with you. My second purpose has been to impress you somewhat as to the seriousness of the issues that confront all of us as followers of our Lord in this day of fearful crisis. The crisis is indeed a fearful one, but let me remind you also that it brings with it a correspondingly great opportunity and privilege of service. The people of God must do one of two things: they must lay aside their little, narrow, selfish, and altogether unworthy bickerings and piddling in which they are indulging and put themselves under the load that God would lay upon us today; or, they will be swept aside as were God's chosen people in the long ago. Which shall it be? May the Holy Spirit open our eyes, help us to see our opportunity, and enable us to lay hold of it with an earnestness and a determination of purpose that will at least be approximately worthy of Him whose we are and Whom we serve.

Now I am going to ask you to let me append to my word a paragraph from the pen of Dr. Charles Clayton Morrison which seems to me to form a most fitting climax to what I have wanted to say to you. You will find this paragraph in the current issue of the “Christian Century Pulpit” and it is as follows:

“Something like an intellectual revolution is on the way among Christian thinkers. It is of prime importance that we shall be aware of it, intelligent about it, open-minded toward it, and critical in the manner in which we accept and adjust ourselves to it. Surely the time is ripe for a change in the mood of the Christian church. It has been timid and apologetic for a long time—for at least two generations. The higher criticism shattered the traditional conception of the Bible. The doctrine of evolution shattered the age-old conception of man, and where it did not destroy it thinned out the conception of God. As for the church, we Protestants never had a worthy conception of it. Science has seemed to lead theology around by the nose to physics, to biology, to psychology, to sociology, all the time forcing her to make new adjustments to one department of assured knowledge after another. It has been a dizzy experience. Now at last we are becoming aware of the fact that religion is itself a field for the operation of a science which is not an imitation of other sciences, nor an echo of them, nor an ‘application’ of them, but one whose data are as truly independent of them as the data of any science are separable from the data of the others. Theology is about to recover her long lost position as the queen of the sciences. We are going to hear a great deal in the immediate future about the independence of theology, the independence of the church, the independence of Christian ethics, the independence of the Christian tradition. Let us be prepared for it—both hospitably and critically prepared. I think I sense the coming of a reformation along the whole range of Christian thought—from fundamentalism on the right to extreme liberalism on the left. The new speech of the Christian faith will be confident and militant. Religion is in the way of becoming again the supreme interest of humanity.”

ATTENTION, PASTORS

Congratulations, pastors, upon your splendid work during the past year! As you enter upon a new year's work may you seek the support of the youth of your church. There is your enthusiasm and your action. Plan a constructive, active program for them. I now have some suggestions ready for your leaders. Please let me send these suggestions to you. Just send to me the name of your secretary of Young People's Work. If you have failed to select one in your auxiliary to carry on this work, then send me the name of a consecrated worker in your church. She should be selected with the greatest of care. She must be young enough in spirit to be sympathetic with youth's problems. She must be willing to sacrifice many hours in order to think as fast as her young people. She should be able to eat weiners, hike, lead in prayer, laugh, and cry. A very hard life is that of the alert Young People's secretary. But such a life pays big dividends.

Please, pastors, send to me the name of such a person for every church on your charge. I hope to have a response from every church in North Carolina within the week.

MRS. C. D. SIDES,
Sec. of Y. P. Work of N. C. Branch.

THANKSGIVING OFFERING FOR CHILDREN'S HOME—THE DIXONS OFFER CHALLENGE

The membership and friends of the Children's Home of the Methodist Protestant church hardly need to be reminded of the proclamation of our governor that the sum equal to one day's earning be set aside for the orphanage. Dr. and Mrs. Dixon have thrown out the challenge of giving one month's salary. If the pastors and Sunday school superintendents do their best to secure a good Thanksgiving offering and as many as 60 per cent of the pastors will certify to the president of the conference by January 15, 1936, that a faithful effort was made to raise a Thanksgiving or a Christmas offering for the Home in each church on their charge, Mr. and Mrs. Dixon will give one month's salary. This is a challenge, the need at the Home is great. Women, do your best by making your own gifts and encouraging others to do the same. Preachers, talk this and urge it for the benefit of the children, the child of our church and the workers, our friends. Let us join in observing Thanksgiving by contributing generously to the Home.

Very truly,
MRS. WM. C. HAMMER, Pres.,
N. C. Branch Women's Work.

MISSIONARY WORK IN CITIES

(Christ Walks the City Streets)

Acts 14:1-7

C. E. Topic for December 1

By MRS. EUGENE A. LAMB

Since this is Consecration Sunday, let us plan and conduct a thorough worship service for our meeting. Keep in mind that little quotation by Oliver Wendell Holmes: "I find there is in the corner of my heart a little plant called Reverence, which wants to be watered once a week." This is a suggested outline:

Prelude: "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee."

Call to Worship: "Verily, I say unto you. inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

Hymn: "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee."

Reading of Scripture and Comments: Acts 14:1-7.

Prayer of Meditation: (The leader should guide the thoughts of the people praying, pausing after each sentence or paragraph for silence. Let us give thanks for health and strength, for friends and loved ones, the joy of living, the joy of knowing and serving Jesus, a place in His work here as a missionary to those less fortunate than we.)

Leader's Talk.

Special Music: "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life."

Discussion of Topic.

Devotional Poetry:

Of all things beautiful and good,
The kingliest is brotherhood;
For it will bring again to earth
Her long lost poesy and mirth;
And till it comes these men are slaves,
And travel downward to the dust of graves;
Clear the way, then, clear the way;
Blind creeds and kings have had their day.
Break the dead branches from the path;
Our hope is in the aftermath.
To this event the ages ran;
Make way for brotherhood—make way for man.

Offering: (So often the offering is not a part of the worship service. What could be more sacred than giving of our material gifts to the work of Christ. As we receive our offering tonight, let us give with thoughts of those who have so little of life's joys—those less fortunate than we.)

Consecration Service: Hymn of Consecration, "Just as I Am, Thine Own to Be"; prayer of consecration, dedicating our lives to the work of giving to every human being a chance to know and love Christ.

Mizpah.

Leader's Talk

All of us are interested in the city, town or community in which we live. And, too, we are interested in learning how to give Christ to the millions of non-Christians who live in our great cities today. That is our special concern tonight. It has been said, "The only Christianity that can do anything for us is a Christianity that makes us want to do something for others." For so long we have interpreted the word "missionary" as a Christian who goes across the seas to preach Christ—every man, woman, boy or girl who tries to further the cause of Christianity is a missionary. Too, it has been said that we cannot believe in the religion of Jesus if we do not believe in missions—in giving our Christ to other people. What a wonderful field for genuine mission work in our large cities today, our small towns and even our rural communities. How are we to cope with the situation —how are we to so love and live Christ that they might want Him?

Discussion of the Topic

Why is the situation more serious in our larger cities than in rural communities? There is a tendency today to leave the congested districts and to establish homes in the suburbs. That leaves the vacated places to the poorer classes of people, who are compelled by their poverty to remain in the downtown districts. Oftentimes the churches are moved to the suburbs also. Of course the people in the suburbs want their churches close, but we must continue our mission work in the congested districts for the unchurched multitudes. For if this is not done, the sections will become regions for the spreading of crime.

Can we accomplish our mission work among these non-Christians through political and social reform? It is fine to have political purity, industrial integrity and social reform, but all of them combined cannot Christianize one single individual. We may clean up the slums of the cities, work for health conditions, beauty the districts, etc., but all this is of secondary importance. We must preach the gospel with these things. We must not put the cart before the horse. Social and political reform should grow out of hearts warmed by the gospel of Jesus.

Questions for Discussion

1. What type of missionary work is most effective in the cities?

2. Must the church seek to be popular in order to be effective? Can cheap popularity actually rob a local congregation of its spiritual effectiveness?

3. Does your city, town or community need mission work?

4. Is it possible to enlist the youth of our cities and communities in service for Christ and His church?

5. What should influence one to do missionary work in the city?

WHY WE CANNOT ALWAYS GRANT REQUESTS

In almost every mail we receive requests that the enclosed article be printed "in this week's Herald." If it were optional with us whether we printed a sixteen, twenty-four or thirty-two page paper, then we could comply with these requests, but since we can print only sixteen pages, some material must wait. Some articles are of such a nature that they must be run immediately, while others would be good any time. It is our responsibility to do the best we can with all the material sent in.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Medearis

William Fletcher Medearis was born in the Bethel church community near the Guilford-Stokes county line 69 years ago and departed this life from a hospital in Greensboro on October 25, 1935. In the earlier years of his life Brother Medearis moved to Henderson. where his first marriage took place and where he became a staunch member of our church there. The writer of this sketch served the Henderson church years after he left there, but Brother Medearis' name was frequently used by the older people in the church, indicating that he was held in high esteem. Later in life he came to Greensboro, became a prominent business man, united with Grace Methodist Protestant church, and was a faithful member until Calvary church was organized 11 years ago, when he moved his membership to Calvary, becoming a charter member. Several times the writer has heard people make the remark that Brother Medearis was one of the best members that Calvary ever had. When he retired from business four or five years ago he moved to his farm a few miles from Greensboro. Being nearer to Brown Summit church than he was to Greensboro, he moved his membership there where it remained until the time of his death. The funeral was held in Calvary church on Saturday afternoon, October 26, and was conducted by the editor of the Herald assisted by Rev. R. C. Stubbins. Burial was in Green Hill cemetery in Greensboro. Rev. O. L. Easter, the pastor at that time of the Brown Summit church, assisted at the grave.

Brother Medearis is survived by his second wife, who was Miss Vesta Coe, of Greensboro, and by a host of friends who shall continue to remember him as the years come and go and who expect to meet him in the better land.

Durham

Mr. Lee Durham possessed a kind, gentle spirit. External noise and disturbances did not make him impatient. He was a man of kind words and pleasant disposition. In the midst of intense physical suffering he manifested a sweet spirit and he did not complain or grumble even when medicine had lost its power to relieve his pain and suffering.

Death had no horror or dread for Mr. Durham. He had found peace in Him who hath put all enemies, even death, under His feet. Mr. Durham's physical death, therefore, was not defeat, but victory and triumph.

Mr. Durham was born in Chatham county on the 20th of April, 1876. His soul departed this life on the 1st of November, 1935.

May the bereaved be comforted and sustained by the presence and peace of our loving Heavenly Father.

FRED W. PASCHALL.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Mrs. C. B. Way and children of Gideon's Grove, Flat Rock, 12 pencils, 7 tablets, 2 crayon sets and 3 handkerchiefs. Mr. Clark Kirkman, Tabernacle, 6 fine pigs.

We are thankful for these gifts and also for those reported last week.

If there are items which came in last week which have not been answered personally, they were duly reported in Herald. Wife is having her own work and most of mine to do these days, and it is difficult to keep up with it all.

Thanksgiving

Note above that we have one fine Thanksgiving offering already in. Mr. Stamey always sends his offering just ahead of Thanksgiving. We thank him for the example, and may many others follow suit. We are expecting great things from the Thanksgiving offering this year from Methodist Protestants and their friends. God is wonderfully blessing you in increased prosperity, so be sure to share it with His dependent ones.

"The Barium Springs Messenger" devotes its entire front page in its last issue to saying:

A Butterfly Lives But a Day; Suppose It's a Rainy Day?
How Would You Like to Be That Butterfly?
The Lives of 300 Motherless and Fatherless Boys and Girls
Depend Upon a Season
That Season Is Thanksgiving
Suppose You Fail to Make an Offering

Their number is 300 while our number is only 115, but they are appealing to 80,000 Presbyterians for support, and we are appealing to 30,000 Methodist Protestants. A day's wage, or more from all who can, and everybody giving something, if worked in every church and Sunday school in the conference, will bring us a great Thanksgiving offering.

Thank you every one for doing your full share.

Harvest Home Offerings

We have two harvest home offerings to send for on the day before Thanksgiving. What about yours? Is it coming or shall we send for it? Note above, a few weeks ago Mr. Clark Kirkman gave us eight bags of flour, and now he gives six pigs.

Yours in the Master's service,
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

THANKSGIVING OFFERING FOR CHILDREN'S HOME

High Point, N. C., Nov. 14, 1935.

Our Dear Friends:

Thanksgiving is almost here, and it is with the deepest feelings of thankfulness that I send this letter to you. We are profoundly grateful to all who helped so nobly and well in the anniversary offering. It was a splendid response to the occasion, and hearty co-operation in the state and out of it. It has lifted the burdens here at the Home greatly.

It seems close on the heels of that offering to send out this Thanksgiving appeal. But we have depended so much on the offerings at Thanksgiving and Christmas to see us through the year that without these offerings we would lose all that has been gained in the anniversary offering and so get farther behind. So feeling that you will understand and appreciate our position, I am sending our regular Thanksgiving letter to you.

Thanksgiving is a time when all the good people in the state who love children and are concerned about the welfare of orphan children give liberally and cheerfully to the support of orphanages. Please do your best for your Children's Home this time and get every one about you to do likewise.

Your Home has 115 children to feed, clothe, keep warm and comfortable, send to school and train during the winter. We cannot and you cannot do it alone, but together we can. Among your people please stress "The care of the orphan child," "A day's wages for the orphan at Thanksgiving," and "Everybody contributing." Urge your people to give a day's wage and especially urge that every member of your church and Sunday school contribute something. Certainly 75 per cent of your people should be reached and led to make an offering to the Home at or near Thanksgiving. If the day set for the offering is rainy, cold, or if for any other reason the people are not present, please give them another chance at another time.

A Challenge

If the pastors and Sunday school superintendents do their best to secure a good Thanksgiving offering and as many as 60 per cent of the pastors will certify to the president of the conference by January 15, 1936, that a faithful effort was made to raise a Thanksgiving or a Christmas offering for the Home in each church on their charge, Mrs. Dixon and I will give a month's wages to the Home over against a day's wages on the part of our people. Our need is great and we know you are interested, so we leave our case with you.

Enclosed is a list of coupons for which we get cash—emphasize the cash. Please do all you can to get your women's and children's organizations to collect and send to us these coupons. If the churches will collect 1,000,000 coupons by June 1, 1936, the Home will get $4,000 plus a bonus of $400, making a total of $4,400 cash. There has been a thousand "Baby Bonds" sent out to churches, and if each receiving a bond raises only 1,000 coupons, that will make the million.

Under doctor's orders I am in bed trying to be perfectly quiet and forget responsibilities, but it is a bit hard to forget that 115 children must be cared for through the winter

God bless you and yours and give you a good year in service for Him.

A. G. DIXON.

WESTERN MARYLAND ALUMNI MEET

Twenty-one North Carolina students and friends of Western Maryland College were called together on Friday evening during Annual Conference by Dr. Lawrence Little for a fellowship supper and to honor the memory of Dr. A. Norman Ward, late president of Western Maryland College. The meeting was held in the dining room of the Henderson church and the tables decorated in Western Maryland colors—green and gold.

The program was arranged by Dr. Little, who presented Dr. T. M. Johnson as one of Dr. Ward's best friends in North Carolina. After expressing his appreciation of Dr. Ward as a fellow student and personal friend, he presided over the meeting.

Dr. G. I. Humphreys gave a brief resume of Dr. Ward's achievements, and spoke of him in highest terms as president of the college, as co-worker in Methodist Protestant educational institutions, showing particular interest in High Point College and as a fellow member of the Maryland Conference.

Calling him an "adjective," Dr. F. W. Stephenson explained that this part of speech does not take from but adds to. Dr. Ward did not touch an institution or individual without changing it—contributing to it. He had a deep interest in and devotion to young people.

Dr. C. E. Forlines, who was in college two years with Dr. Ward, spoke in terms of his friendship with the family, mentioning particularly the fact that he performed the ceremony when Dr. and Mrs. Ward married, he being Mrs. Ward's pastor at LaGrange, N. C., where the wedding took place.

Dr. Little then presented the matter of a field house for Western Maryland College, the last project Dr. Ward had undertaken. Through Dr. Ward's influence all the proceeds from the sale of tickets for the football game between the University of Maryland and Western Maryland College, to be played at the Baltimore stadium December 7, will go toward financing this building, which will care for the indoor athletic activities and physical education program particularly during the winter months. Since it was hardly possible for North Carolinians to attend this game, each alumnus and friend was given an opportunity to help further the campaign by contributing to the fund, thus showing appreciation for Dr. Ward's efforts in what he termed his "last campaign."

It was suggested that a note of sympathy from the North Carolina group be sent Mrs Ward and Norman, and Rev. C. W. Bates was requested to write the note to be sent in care of Dr. Little.

The meeting was dismissed with prayer by Rev. C. W. Bates.

MRS. E. LESTER BALLARD.

IT IS PAPA CARROLL NOW

Those who wish to do so may now address Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, the pastor of Grace church, Greensboro, as Papa Carroll, a daughter having been born to Mr. and Mrs. Carroll at the Clinic hospital in Greensboro on Monday evening.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Cedar Cliff, Mt. Hermon Charge.—Our church has been moving along nicely since our last report. Since conference is in session we have not had preaching for the past two Sundays. But we expect to resume our regular church activity on the fourth Sunday of this month.

The fourth quarterly conference was held at this church. Dr. Andrews was present. We had a very good crowd.

At our business meeting the church officials were elected as follows: Stewards, Lee Crabtree, A. G. Cooper, Sr., Desmond Woods, W. T. Coble; treasurer, Mrs. W. T. Coble; pianist, Mrs. Margaret Woods; assistant, Miss Flora Cooper; class leaders, Mrs. A. G. Thompson, W. M. Boyer, J. D. Payne; trustees, A. G. Cooper, Sr., E. G. Edwards, J. B. Williams, W. T. Coble, J. D. Payne; Sunday school superintendent, Lee Crabtree; assistant, Roy Boyer; ushers, Carl Thompson, James Boger, A. G. Cooper, Jr., Kernett Lamb; church reporter, Bertha Boger. The above officials are to be installed next Sunday.

BERTHA BOGER.

Haw River Church, Glen Raven Charge.—I had the privilege of attending the conference at Henderson for two days. The business seemed to be progressing smoothly.

There were considerable changes made in the pastoral charges. Our former pastor, Rev. J. P. Pegg, who served us faithfully for the past four years, moved Thursday to State Street, Lexington. The Lexington folk may consider themselves very fortunate to have Mr. Pegg next year. Our new pastor is Rev. R. S. Troxler. We wish to extend him a hearty welcome, and we offer our co-operation to make this year a great work.

We are installing a new heating system at the Haw River church, and we hope to have it in working order by the fourth Sunday.

T. S. COBLE.

First Church, Lexington.—We are beginning a new conference year with our new pastor, Rev. L. E. Mabry, coming to us from the Creswell charge highly recommended. We are hoping all our members will co-operate with our new pastor as they did with our former pastor. We regret giving up Rev. C. G. Isley very much, as many of our younger people know of no one else. We consider that he has done a great work here and we will always love and hold him in high esteem for his efficient service. We realize it is our loss and Albemarle's gain. We welcome Rev. Mr. Isley and his mother, Mrs. Hattie Isley, with us at any time.

Mr. William McBride was elected as assistant Sunday school superintendent last Sunday to fill the vacancy of Mr. Oscar Koontz, who has joined the army. We regret very much losing Mr. Koontz.

The following teachers have been elected for the coming year: Mr. C. L. Hedrick, Mrs. Phonse Bean, Mrs. H. C. Koontz, Mr. Henry Yates, Mr. Phonse Bean, Mrs. J. J. Mallard, Mrs. Lester Koontz, Mr. Willie Kimball, Mr. R. L. Everhart, Mrs. Willie Craven, Mrs. Henry Yates. Some of these teachers have been teaching for quite a while. We feel that we have an efficient set of teachers.

We are proud of our auxiliary for what they did in the past year. We have recently organized a new circle with Mrs. Mock Hedrick chairman.

Mr. Phonse Bean conducted prayer meeting Wednesday night. His message was very inspiring. We had a good attendance of 63.

We are very sorry to note at this time the illness of two of our faithful members, Mrs. C. L. Hedrick and Mrs. David Brooks. We wish them a speedy recovery.

MRS. WILLIAM McBRIDE.

Pleasant Hill, West Forsyth Charge.—Rev. G. B. Ferree filled his regular appointment here Sunday, November 17. This was his first service of a new year. We are indeed glad to have him back with us for the coming year.

The Woman's Auxiliary will meet at the home of Mrs. G. B. Ferree Tuesday night of this week.

We are proud to have some of our members move back in this community. We hope they can attend church regularly.

The young people of Pleasant Hill organized a Christian Endeavor society last Sunday night with an enrollment of 25. We hope to enlarge our roll and have a great society. The following officers were elected: Leader, Mrs. Edgar Waller; assistant leader, Miss Milna Long; president, Miss Grace Sprinkle; vice president, Miss Jewel Long; secretary, Ralph Ferree; assistant secretary, Elwood Sprinkle; treasurer, Mrs. Edgar Waller; and pianist, Miss Johnny Speas.

MISS JEWEL LONG, Reporter.

Pensacola.—We have closed a very successful church year. Of course we could have done more, but we are glad for what we accomplished the past year. We paid pastor's salary in full and also three of the Annual Conference claims. We paid part of the McCulloch Memorial Fund apportionment. We secured our quota of Herald subscriptions. We put a new roof on the parsonage and made a contribution to the Children's Home each month.

We are very glad indeed to have Rev. J. O. Fry and family back with us again this year. We feel they will be a great help to us. Rev. J. O. Fry has already organized a Christian Endeavor with 21 members. The officers are: President, Miss Kathleen Hensley; vice president, Mrs. J. O. Fry; secrtary, Miss Emma McMahan; and treasurer, Mrs. Emma Hensley.

MRS. W. G. BLANKENSHIP.

Mt. Pleasant Church, Mt. Pleasant Circuit.—We are very glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Braxton back with us for another year. We hope that every member will give them their support and co-operation, and that this will be a very successful year.

We started the year with a good attendance at Sunday school and for our church services. Our pastor gave us a splendid sermon on the "Working Church." Scripture taken from the 28th chapter of Matthew. He told us of the importance of the church, and each individual setting a goal for the year

Some of the ladies of our church have been faithful in helping to make our church a more worshipful place by placing flowers around the altar each service. A flower committee consisting of Miss Callene Phillips, Messrs. J. L. Garrett, J. T. Shoffner, J. E. Kirkman and Lonnie Shepard was appointed for the year.

We are planning a sunrise Thanksgiving service at our church on Thanksgiving morning. We are also planning to send a harvest home offering to the Children's Home.

The Business Girls' Circle of our auxiliary will meet at the home of Mrs. Carl Clapp Saturday evening, November 23, with Mrs. Clapp and Mrs. Curtis Shoffner as joint hostesses.

The first quarterly conference will meet at Mt. Pleasant church at 3 o'clock on the first Sunday afternoon.

MRS. W. A. STAFFORD, Reporter.

New Hope, Why Not Charge.—We were very glad indeed that the conference decided to send Bro. Hill back for another year. He filled his regular appointment the third Sunday in the form of a funeral. Mrs. Lucy Jane Williams, wife of the late Thomas Williams and one of the oldest members of this church, died Friday night and funeral services were held at the 11 o'clock service Sunday, November 17, Bro. Hill having charge of the services. She was 81 years old and she was said to have kept the faith until the end came.

Our Sunday school attendance is still good and we hope that with the coming of cold weather we will have the same large crowds present each Sunday that come during nice weather.

We were glad to have Bro. W. R. Williams back at church yesterday, he having been sick for two months or more. We hope he will be able to attend services every Sunday now.

We are hoping that this church will do more for the Master this year than we've ever done before. Pray for us that we may.

MRS. JASPER VONCANNON, Reporter.

Canaan, North Davidson.—Everything is moving along nicely here at Canaan. Everybody is looking forward to a prosperous year that is just before them. We are thrilled to know what our future pastor looks like. He is a new one to us, coming from quite a distance, something like 200 miles away. We feel assured though from the correspondence that some of us have had from him that we are not bitten, and feel that we are going to have a treat when he gets here. He is expecting to move sometime this week if our former pastor can get away in the next day or so. Seems as though he has been delayed in getting out.

The Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. Holland Craver this month with 11 members present. It still is doing good work, everybody alert, looking for something to do to help to carry the work on. The building of the Sunday school room will soon be in progress as the men are planning to get the framing out in the next few days. When this undertaking is carried through we will have rooms for all classes except one, and that is for the old men's class. Don't think they will stay behind long, though, because their ability to be up with the others is too strong to stay behind.

Oh, I almost forgot to say we are looking forward to a Thanksgiving service on Wednesday night, November 27, expecting the future pastor to be present at that time. Hope everybody will come and join us in this service. The Lord is good and merciful unto us all and we should give thanks unto Him who sendeth His blessing to us through power and grace from on high. May we all live a life here that in the end we shall gain a glorious victory.

MRS. CARL W. CLODFELTER, Reporter.

North Davidson.—I hope to be able to move on the charge sometime this week. In case I do so, I will preach at Mt. Pleasant the fourth Sunday at 11 a. m. and at West Thomasville at night. I am now 200 miles from North Davidson and cannot meet my appointment until the final move is made.

WM. H. NEESE.

Flat Rock Charge.—We have begun our third year as pastor of Flat Rock charge. We have elected a reporter at each church and shall not write reports during the coming year. We will depend on the reporters to keep the Herald readers informed about our work.

Bro. Archie Tucker, of Palestine church, is the first new subscriber to the Herald for the new conference year. We trust many others will follow his example.

The first quarterly conference for Flat Rock charge will be held at Gideon's Grove church on Saturday, December 21, 1935, beginning at 2 p. m. We are expecting a large attendance of official members and others interested in the work of the new conference year.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Hollister, Halifax Charge.—As we are entering the new conference year, may we make this prayer our prayer during the year: Help us, O Father, to do our very best to be honest with Thee, with other people and with ourselves. To make our work an offering to Thee. To labor in the spirit of love and to work cheerfully even when we are tired or bored. To grow more like Jesus. To bless others with our work as well as with our words. To be faithful laborers with God, even to the end. Amen.

We were very much disappointed when we heard that our pastor, Rev. O. C. Loy, had been assigned pastor of First church, Thomasville. We have enjoyed having Mr. Loy as our pastor for the past two years and we appreciate the good work he accomplished while pastor of Halifax charge. We wish for him and family success and happinesss as they go to Thomasville. May they have a good year there, is our prayer. Mr. and Mrs. Loy are held in high esteem by the people of Halifax charge and we extend to them a cordial welcome to visit us whenever they can.

We are proud of the fact that even though the conference did change our pastor it did not change our pastor's surname, as we have his brother, Rev. W. M. Loy. We welcome Mr. Loy and family to Halifax charge. We hope to accomplish great things on Halifax charge this year.

I attended several services during the session of the Annual Conference in Henderson and I surely enjoyed them. The ordination sermon preached by Dr. N. G. Bethea was splendid. I always enjoy hearing Dr. Bethea preach, as he was my pastor for several years. I have just read the conference sermon in the Herald as delivered by Rev. T. G. Madison and I think it is a wonderful sermon. I urge all of you who were not at conference to hear this sermon to get your Herald and read it as it is worth reading and meditating upon.

We are glad to know that Rev. J. E. Pritchard is going to serve as editor of the Herald for another year. I think he is a splendid editor as well as a preacher.

May God's blessings be upon the Herald and its readers.

KATHLEEN SHEARIN, Reporter.

(Thanks for the compliment.—Ed.)

Rockingham.—We are very glad to have our pastor, Mr. Bell, back with us another year. We hope to do all that we can toward the advancement of God's kingdom during this new year which lies before us. May all the churches remember us in prayer that we may accomplish this.

Our Sunday school is about the same, but the attendance of our midweek prayer meeting is not as large as we would like. We sincerely hope to see an increase in the future.

We are hoping to have a good Christmas program this year. Miss Luvenia Perkins is in charge of this.

ELLEN MARTIN, Reporter.

Denton.—We are glad indeed to have Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Bowman back with us for another year. The church has been doing good work for the past year and we hope to make the coming year better.

We appreciate Mrs. Bowman's work with the children. She has been giving a special service twice each month for the children for the past two years. The children of our church are very important and should not be neglected.

The new church and Sunday school officers began their work for the coming year yesterday. Mrs. Paul Hamilton, our new superintendent, had charge of the Sunday school. We should all try to co-operate and make this one of our best years.

The Thanksgiving service will be held with this church Thursday evening, November 28. Rev. Mr. Rathburn, pastor of the M. E. church, will deliver the sermon. Let us all come to this service and give thanks for our many blessings.

RUTH FLOYD, Reporter.

Community Church, Thomasville.—Mr. C. L. Berrier was our delegate to Annual Conference, this being his first time to attend. He found the meetings very interesting and helpful, he reports. Mr. Berrier is a splendid suprintendent of the adult department of our Sunday school. Mr. J. W. Boyles attended one day's session.

Mr. H. Freo Surratt has been our pastor for the past three years. We have enjoyed having him and Mrs. Surratt with us very much. We feel a regret at their leaving, as we esteem them very highly, and our love and best wishes go with them to Graham. Mrs. Surratt is recuperating satisfactorily from a recent serious operation in a Richmond hospital. We hope that her health will improve steadily and surely. They leave us Tuesday.

Mr. Surratt preached for us Sunday morning. There was a large number present and it was said by many to be one of his best sermons. It was such a hopeful sermon that we were not allowed to dwell so much on the sadness of parting. We were glad to have Dr. Glenn Perry, of High Point, worship with us at this time.

Rev. J. Clyde Auman and family come to us this year. He is not a stranger to many of us and we welcome him and his family most heartily. We trust we will have a happy year together—one in which much and lasting good will be accomplished.

We sympathize with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Clodfelter on the death of their grandchild in Danville, Va. Burial was held there Sunday. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Clodfelter, also have our sympathy.

Mrs. C. L. Berrier, who has been ill for some time, is improving.

Our annual turkey dinner was served to about 90 people by the auxiliary at the church last Thursday. Everyone seemed to enjoy the evening so much.

Yarborough's Chapel.—Our church extends a hearty welcome to our pastor, Rev. Kenneth G. Holt, who returns to us for another year. We have been very fortunate in having Mr. Holt for our pastor for the past year, and we feel that both our Sunday school and church will make even greater progress this year under his leadership.

Sunday morning Mr. Holt brought us a very helpful and appropriate message for the beginning of the new year on "Looking Forward," using as his text a portion of the 18th verse of the 29th chapter of Proverbs: "Where there is no vision, the people perish." At this service Mr. E. M. Hipp, our delegate to conference, gave a very interesting report.

While our attendance at both Sunday school and church services has been small, our offerings have been exceptionally good.

We are glad, indeed, to have the new teachers in our community attend our church. They are accomplished musicians, and their music adds much to our services.

First Church, Charlotte.—We are so very glad that we have Rev. G. H. Hendry for our pastor for another year. This church has grown continuously in membership and attendance since Mr. Hendry has been with us, and we don't see how we could do without him. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hendry are "Big Brother and Sister" to all who are acquainted with them. Our prayers are for them both, that they may serve the Lord in a great way, and that through their teachings souls may be saved in our Savior's name.

On last Sunday evening there was a beautiful and impressive service held by the Senior Christian Endeavor Class of this church. Part of the program was for the installation of class officers. The following officers were installed by the pastor: Thelma Tadlock, president; Sara W. Allen, vice president; Margaret Dellinger, secretary; Tom Broome, treasurer; Mrs. A. F. Love, adviser. May God be with these officers and with the entire class, and may they be used in a great way for the service of God.

The Young People's Fellowship Club of the church is growing in membership every week. Seldom does a week pass that there are not some to join the class. This club consists only of young Christians who are living the separated life. The class membership now totals 130 members. This club goes to different places during the week to hold religious services and to do personal work. On Saturday night they hold a street meeting service at different places in the city. Every member of this club is a live-wire worker for Jesus, always having a testimony, and giving it whenever the chance comes to do so. "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth." Ecclesiastes 12:1.

The Young Men's Bible Class is another class that is growing in membership and attendance continuously. Every week this class has a large number of visitors, and usually there are some of these who join the class. Recently there was a membership goal set with the goal at 125 members by January 1, 1936. Every member of the class is working towards this goal, and it is believed that they will have a victory. Mr. R. S. Garmon, teacher of this Young Men's Bible Class, is a very competent teacher, and always gives a vivid description of the Sunday school lessons. We are glad that we have such an excellent teacher as Mr. Garmon, and we hope that through his teachings someone's heart may be touched in such a way that they will accept Jesus as their Savior. A member of the class. Mr. Lucien C. Croft, has been called to do some specific work for the glory of God. It is not known as to what he will study for, but he is preparing to enter Bob Jones College, Cleveland, Tenn., on January 22, 1936. May God use this young man in a great way and may he be of service to our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

Concord.—We Concord folks are really glad that the conference sent our beloved pastor and family back to us for another year. We all enjoyed working with them last year and we think we had the best year our church has known in a long time. We are making a good start for this year and we hope and pray that this will be the best year yet for our church. The new officers were all elected and installed for the church, also the new officers for the Ladies' Aid Society. Mrs. Garner will be our president for the Ladies' Aid again this year. Some folks say a good beginning makes a bad ending, but we are glad to say that the chairman of our board of stewards doesn't believe that, because last year we had a right good beginning on our budget and we had a real good ending, and this year we still have a better beginning and we hope that we will all co-operate still better than we did last year. The every member canvass has been made and we hope every member will co-operate so good that the only work the stewards will have to do will be to visit the members and all get better acquainted. Mr. B. F. Waddell is our chairman of the board of stewards again this year, and if we will only try to do as he tells us we know we will have a good year. On Wednesday night after conference we had a little surprise for Mr. and Mrs. Garner. Mrs Esther Litaker, the chairman of the religious work of the Youth Movement, got her young folks and the older folks together and put on a real interesting program. About 150 of our folks met in the church auditorium and tried to show our appreciation to Mr. and Mrs Garner. Someone from each class of the Sunday school and each department, also the Ladies' Aid and Missionary Society, made a short talk and pledged their co-operation to them for this year. Our Ladies' Aid did a fine work last year under the leadership of Mrs. Garner. We have made some improvements at the parsonage and we hope to do lots more this year. We must give the men credit for being so nice in helping any time they could. We decided to have the front porch of our parsonage covered and one of our faithful brothers, Mr. Edd Beaver, got some of our men together and got the work done much cheaper for us. The ladies appreciate that very much. The Ladies' Aid is very dear to us women folks so I got off of my subject about our reception for Mr. and Mrs. Garner. After we finished our meeting in the church Wednesday night we all went down in the Baraca room where we had slipped another little surprise on them. There we gave them a pounding and then gave them a chance to talk after we had done all our talking upstairs. Mr. Garner then made a real good talk and told us that he wanted to be our pastor in every way that he could, said he was ready to serve as our pastor at any time. He said many, many good things. We just feel sure that we will all work together fine this year. After the reception the young people took charge and put on a program that was enjoyed very much by all present. We are so glad that Mr. Garner organized the Youth Movement and we feel that it is going to be a great thing for our young folks. They held their fourth meeting last Sunday night with Mr. Garner the leader. Mr. Garner urged the boys and girls to live a life of devotion. Sunday morning we feel like we started good, right in our Sunday school. An appeal was made to get up some money for a colored girl that is in the hospital, a very worthy case. Our folks responded fine. Then at the morning church service our pastor gave a good message on "The Christian Model." We were glad to welcome Mr. Carl Mabry in our church family at the morning service. Mr. Mabry came to us from the Love's Grove church. We are glad to have Miss Helen Blackwelder worship with us while she is in Concord. Her home is in Weaverville, N. C.

All families have their joys and sorrows. So our church family is rejoicing with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sides over the birth of a son, also Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Little, a little daughter. Our hearts are sad because we have some members in the hospitals and some sick at their homes. Mrs. Pearley Harget and Mrs. Ephrin Little are in the hospital. Mr. Wade Little has returned home from the hospital and is able to be out some. Grandma Thomas is right sick at this time. She has been confined to her bed for several months.

Thomasville, First. — Another conference year has passed and gone. We have now entered into a new year with its duties and opportunities.

Our hearts have been saddened by the loss of our pastor and his family who have been with us five and one-half years. We feel that they have been a great blessing to us and our community. It is with real regret that we see them leave us, however we pray God's richest blessings on them in their new work.

We also extend a welcome to our new pastor, Rev. O. C. Loy, and family in our midst. They have been with us at times previous, and we feel that they, too, will prove a blessing to us.

We had quite a large attendance last Sunday morning to greet our new pastor, who preached a very fine sermon. His text was taken from the 16th chapter of St. Matthew, and part of the 18th verse, "I will build my church." Again at the evening service we had another good congregation who heard another splendid sermon.

Our Christian Endeavor Society will meet each Sunday evening at 6:15 o'clock instead ot 6:45 o'clock and will be followed by the preaching service at 7 o'clock.

The Woman's Auxiliary met at the church last Friday evening. Circle No. 1 had charge of the devotionals and gave a very interesting program.

On last Sunday morning the "Precious Jewels" were presented with a silver cup honoring them for the best work done for the year in the North Carolina Branch of Woman's Work. The cup was presented by Mrs. T. A. Lloyd, secretary of Young People's Work.

The Woman's Auxiliary sponsored a miscellaneous shower for Mr. and Mrs. Madison on Monday evening, November 18. They received many gifts of different kinds for the entire family.

The Woman's Bible Class held its regular monthly business meeting on Tuesday evening, November 19. Mrs. John C. Lloyd president of the class, had charge of a very helpful devotional. At this time they made plans regarding Christmas.

Sapling Ridge, Alamance Charge.—It is a pleasure to know the conference saw fit to send our pastor, Rev. H. L. Isley, back on our charge again. He has proven exactly what we needed. a good church worker and pastor as well as bringing us helpful, inspiring sermons twice each month. We welcome him and Mrs. Isley back for another year.

The Alfred M. Self Auxiliary of our church has been meeting in the homes for a year, which has proven successful. It has created more interest and a more friendly spirit. We have more time than had been taken up at church and have much more effective programs. We have learned how to co-operate more closely and discuss our church work and needs very prayerfully, so when we go to church on Sunday morning each lady knows her duties.

We held our regular monthly meeting Saturday afternoon, November 16, at 2 o'clock. For this meeting, it being more convenient, we met at the church. Mrs. Mabel S. Teague, the president, presided over the meeting. Mrs. Lizzie Johnson read our Scripture lesson and Mrs. W. W. Woody led the prayer. After the roll call, business, minutes, etc., an interesting program was given. Mrs. W. A. Pugh led the "Question Box." Mrs. Laverne Woody gave a very effective reading and Mrs. T. M. Clark gave a reading. It was discussed and decided to make a gift for Thanksgiving to our Pine Ridge school consisting of aprons, pillow slips and towels. We adjourned to meet December 14.

Since last November we have held a bazaar, sold flavoring and got subscriptions to "The Farmer's Wife" and cleared for our auxiliary $24. The first money we ever raised for our auxiliary, though even small, we feel very proud.

At our prayer service, which is held each third Sunday morning, Welford Campbell, a young boy, made a good leader last Sunday. It is the prayer of our hearts to interest our young people in our church work. Hiram Perry, another young boy, will conduct our next prayer meeting. Special prayer was offered for Mr. Will Jones, who is seriously ill. However, not being a member of our church, he has many relatives and friends who are members of Sapling Ridge church and he is a member of a neighboring church. We feel deeply interested in him and much concern was felt as we grieved over his serious illness. May God's richest blessings rest with him and his family and if it be God's will may he be restored to good health again.

Bethel, Flat Rock Charge.—I am glad to report that we have our pastor, Rev. C. B. Way, back with us another year. Mr. Way has brought to us some splendid messages during the past two years. Rev. Mr. Way filled his first appointment of the new year Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock with a splendid message. His text was taken from the 12th chapter of 1st Corinthians, "We are laborers together with God." In his message he explained the duties of the pastor and the duties of the people in the church work.

On the last first Sunday the new officers were elected for the ensuing year, as follows: Church trustees, C. T. Pope, W. S. Dwiggins, G. L. Anthony, J. F. Browning, and R. C. Gordon; stewards, Pink Dwiggins, L. P. Combs, Mrs. V. O. Jones, and N. W. Gordon; class leader, J. H. Pearman; pianist, Avahlee Combs; assistant, Myrtle Pearman; reporter, Vassie Gordon.

At our next preaching service, which will be the first Sunday in December, a Thanksgiving offering will be taken for our Children's Home.

Our Sunday school is moving along just fair. There are some who have not been attending, but we are in hopes they will start in and come regularly. We have already started plans to have a Christmas program.

May we start into the new year's work at once and try our best to make it another successful year. We ask all Christian readers to pray for us.

Hawkins Chapel, Littleton Charge.—We were glad to have Rev. R. M. Andrews to preach for us last fourth Sunday evening. His text, "Paul's Great Ambition." His sermon was greatly enjoyed. Misses Virginia Hawkins and Eunice Green rendered a beautiful duet.

Rev. R. L. Vickery preached his last sermon the first Sunday evening before conference. His Scripture was from St. John, 14th chapter.

Second Sunday morning after Sunday school Mr. E. B. Pair, the class leader, asked Miss Mildred Hawkins to conduct prayer service. Her topic, "Balancing the Scales and Balancing the Ledger." Several took part and glad indeed to have Mr. Joe Lucas, of Tabor M. E. church, to take part.

Misses Grace and Maragrette Pittard and Mattie Ree Collum were the guests of Miss Maggie Hawkins Saturday before last.

Miss Virginia Hawkins spent the week-end with Miss Dorothy Green week before last.

Mrs. G. L. Green and Mr. and Mrs. Georgie Thompson and two children spent Sunday before last with Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Pittard.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Carpenter and daughter, Mr. Arthur Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hawkins and four of their children were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hawkins Sunday before last.

Mrs. Woodrow Shaw was the guest of her mother, Mrs. J. W. Hale, Friday before last.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Hawkins and two children, of Roanoke Rapids, spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. Captian Hawkins.

Our auxiliary will meet Thursday afternoon, November 21, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Baldy Green.

Mt. Hermon Church, Mt. Hermon Charge.—We are very grateful that the Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Whitehead are to be with us another year, for they have both endeared themselves to us and we should have been greatly disappointed had they not returned. We are hoping that as we begin another year together that we may have a greater determination, by the help of God, to make the incoming year even better for the cause of Christ.

Our pastor filled his regular appointment Sunday morning, November 17. The Scripture lesson was taken from Isaiah 54:1-10. The subject was "Lengthen Thy Cords, and Strengthen Thy Stakes." Mr. Whitehead stressed the fact that our general theme for the coming year would be "Greater Things for My Church and Christ."

There will be a Thanksgiving service held at Bellemont church on Thanksgiving morning at 9:30. Everyone is urged to come and bring their harvest offering for the Children's Home.

The first quarterly conference will be held at Friendship church November 27 at 7:30.

New officers for the coming year have been elected and installed. They are as follows: Board of trustees, J. A. Crabtree, G. M. Isley, J. H. Coble, A. C. Thompson, and Ben Neese; board of stewards, Willard Isley, J. H. Keck, Clyde Allen, E. H. Coble, and Mrs. G. F. Holt; church treasurer, Mrs. L. P. Holt; class leaders, Mr. James Thompson, A. A Sharpe; Sunday school superintendent, L. P. Holt; church reporter, Joy Thompson; pianist, Truth Isley.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will meet at the home of Mrs. J. F. Isley Saturday, November 23, at 7:30.

The Christian Endeavor officers for the coming year have been elected. Miss Doris Holmes is president. The C. E. Society went to Bethany church last Sunday and gave a program.

The county Christian Endeavor Union will meet at Mt. Hermon church Friday, November 29, at 7:30.

First Church, Danville, Va. — Congratulations, Mr. President! We Danville people are proud to have you as our conference leader again. We have learned to love you since you first visited our church and wish you a glorious success. If you ever need our help, call on us. We are 57 willing workers.

We are traveling on the road towards a new church with 42 subscriptions to the Building & Loan Association all paid up to date. On November 17 we had $210. We are at present worshiping in a building formerly occupied by Jordan's drug store and are all looking forward to the day when we can walk into our own little church and praise His holy name.

Before waiting longer I cannot refrain from telling how impressed we were by the report brought back by our conference delegate, Mr. Ira Elliott, concerning the Children's Home. We are following up our superintendent's suggestion that the whole Sunday school Thanksgiving offering be sent to this institution to show the great love and interest we have for these children. During the coming year we are going to help support our Children's Home in every way possible—prayerfully and financially.

Sunday school seemed normal again last Sunday with our pastor, Rev. C. P. Morris, and delegate, Mr. Ira Elliott, back with us. Mr. Elliott is a much loved teacher of our young people. Our attendance didn't exactly come up to expectations on our first Sunday. We had only 75 at Sunday school, but we have the weather on which to lay the blame. It was what we might call "overcoat" weather and all of us did not have new shining overcoats as our superintendent and treasurer, Mr. J. W. Lamb. The old saying, "You can't keep a good man down," is certainly true about Mr. Lamb. He was right there with a smile on his face as broad as his sides and before Sunday school was over he had us all smiling, although there were only a few present.

Our pastor brought us two inspiring sermons Sunday, especially the evening service on "Friendship With Christ," which was devoted to young people. After listening to this sermon, one was fully convinced that he has enjoyed this beautiful friendship.

Asheboro.—We wish to welcome our pastor, Dr. Taylor, and his family back to us. He preached two inspiring sermons for us last Sunday. The morning subject was "Setting Up Our Standards" and the evening subject "A New Conference Year Prayer." We had a large attendance at both services, and a record-breaking attendance for the Sunday school recently. There were 333 present, with an offering of $26.

We were delighted to have three new members join the church after the morning service, Mr. L. D. Burkhead and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Lowe. They were received by letter from the M. E. and Friends churches of this city.

We are anticipating another profitable year in our church and wish to assure our new pastor our heartiest co-operation in his efforts.

We were pleased to have Mrs. Henry Powell, of Henderson, guest of the pastor's family, worship with us Sunday.

We are glad to report that one of our choir members, Miss Kate Hammer, is out again after having been ill for several days with influenza.

With best wishes for a splendid conference year.

How do you think the new quotas look? Well, there they are. This week we took all the credits of last week and added them to this week's credits, so this is the result in so far as we know. Working with such haste as is necessary here on Wednesday and taking credits off of two sheets at the same time is no small job. We hope we did not overlook anybody. Also, several people sent in money without telling us what charge they belong to, so in one or two cases we had to guess at it.

Now for the percentages. Pensacola, away up in the mountains, is at the top of the list. Guess they are accustomed to being up high. And Henderson comes next, with Danville right on their heels.

Now for the receipts of this week. There is not any doubt about who is at the head of the table. Miss Gertha Trogdon, of Henderson, who hails from Randolph county, is so far in the lead that she is almost out of sight. But while Henderson leads, there are others very much in the running. Mrs. Baity of Forsyth, Dr. Bates of First church, Winston-Salem, Mrs. Paul Waynick of Gibsonville and several others made a fine beginning. It is going to be interesting to see this race warm up this year.

Now for the subsidy! There certainly is no competition here. On Monday morning Dr. Bates handed us the subsidy in full from First church, Winston-Salem, and this is absolutely THE FIRST SUBSIDY THIS YEAR. So there is at least one distinction for both pastor and people. Thanks, a lot.

Our receipts for the week amount to $84.00, $76.50 being on subscriptions and $7.50 being on subsidy. This compares very favorably with the $47.90 which we received the second week after conference last year. Let the good work go on.

Beginning the New Conference Year

Since the HERALD is a conference organ, we feel that we are fully justified in writing often on themes that concern the church. This week we are thinking in terms of the new conference year. By the time this is in print practically all of the ministers will be in their new homes, ready for a year's work if they moved, while those who did not move will be fairly well started on the work that is before them. So much depends on getting a good start that we wish we could help things along some, and in this hope we venture a few suggestions.

One thing that helps a good deal is the right understanding on the part of both pastor and people. If the people can just remember that the new pastor and his family are human beings and that they want things somewhat in keeping with the things of other people it will help a great deal. The house they live in ought to be well kept and it ought to look well enough for the pastor and his family not to be ashamed to have their friends from other places see it. The furniture should be such as is usable, not being simply for show nor the cast-off of somebody else's home. Too many times parsonages are furnished with things that nobody else would want. After the pastor and his family move in, it cheers things up a good deal to have a number of the people call at the parsonage from time to time. In case it is thought best, all may go at the same time, taking such things with them as the family might need. Where some other plan is desired, a reception can be made to serve a good purpose. This is one of the best ways for the new family to meet the people. In case the reception is used, other people besides the members of the church should be invited. Prospective members and people who are not actively identified with other churches might be invited. Members of other churches who are interested would appreciate an invitation. We will suppose now that the pounding or the reception, or whatever other feature is used, is now over and the new minister and his family are alone. They are now ready to begin a year's work.

How shall the new minister start his work? With a determination to be a real minister in the community. He should visit all of his people as early as is possible. No one, rich or poor, should be overlooked. In order to do this it will be necessary for the minister to refer quite frequently to his church roll. It is a good idea to consult the church register with the help of some family that is thoroughly fmiliar with the families of the church. Visits might be grouped so as not to require too much driving. As soon as possible the minister should be able to call the people by name. Very few things help quite so much as for the minister to recognize his people, and very few things hinder quite so much as for the pastor not to know the folks. Our personal opinion is that each minister ought to be interested in whatever it is that the people are doing, whether it is farming, merchandizing, banking, or anything else. People really like to talk to a man who can talk intelligently about many things.

Now, we will go to the church. The people naturally come out to hear the new man. It is superfluous to say that the new minister ought to preach the best he can. He ought always to do that. But before he preaches he will want to say a few things. It will be becoming in him to have a proper sense of modesty. If he should want to refer to his plans for the work, it might be a good idea for him to remember that other people in the past have had plans also and that no one's plans will solve all the problems. If he should want to refer to his predecessor, it ought to be done in the most respectful manner. No man ever gets far with a new congregation by speaking disrespectfully of the man who has gone before him. Even the most ardent supporters of the former pastor can be won by the new one more quickly by kind words than by harsh words.

We will presume that the first sermon is enjoyed by the congregation and that a lot of people have told him so, and still the minister is humble. Now we will go into the first quarterly conference. This is the official business meeting of the church and the place where the plans are made for the year. This meeting is full of dynamite. It may make or break the new pastor. If the pastor is very wise he will proceed cautiously with drastic recommendations for changing things. Many men try to drive people too rapidly. Some people must have time to think things out and the pastor who loses patience because the people do not fall for everything he has used somewhere else has some disappointments in store. But while this is true, the pastor must have some plans and he must present them. Perhaps the greatest barrier to success consists in not having any plans. The pastor must have a program and must let it be known. If the people are willing to use all of it, all well and good; but if not, let them use what they will.

While we are in the quarterly conference we might say that one thing that the minister must be able to do is to talk intelligently of the work of the Annual Conference. Every man ought to know the names of things. If he should speak of the Board of Church Extension as the Church Extension Committee he will grade himself downward several points in the estimation of those who know. If he should refer to the Stationing Committee as the Stationing Board, then he is cutting his own throat. Intelligent people want the pastor to be intelligent, and every man ought to do his best to measure up in this respect. Every minister ought to know the rules and the workings of the Annual Conference, and if he does not know these things he is the loser. Every man who accepts an appointment from the Annual Conference ought to be loyal to that Annual Conference and do his best to carry out its mandates. If he cannot do this, then he should resign and get in somewhere where he can be loyal. When the pastor has done his best to present all the interests of the church, he may find that not everything has been done that he was expected to do. But he can derive comfort from the thought that he has done his best.

A great deal of what we have said about the new minister applies equally to the one who is not new. In every pastorate it requires planning, praying, preaching, and hard work, and then some things will not be done. We trust the new year may be successful for every minister and every charge.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SOCIAL SERVICE

We have reviewed the social issues which are factors in our program of building the Kingdom of God on earth. There are many hopeful signs; but, there are likewise many issues which cause our hearts to grow faint if we counted not the Lord with us. As your committee, we beg to review some of these hopeful signs, the problems which confront us, and some means of solving these problems.

We desire to note three signs of rejoicing. First, there are in every town and in nearly every community certain so-called character-building organizations. Among these agencies we might mention the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Nursing Councils, Salvation Army, etc. All of these organizations are dedicated to the purpose of enriching personality. Without question most all of these organizations are the children of the Gospel of Christ, though not definitely connected with the church. We rejoice in the work these organizations are doing and urge our ministers to know their local organizations and to help them by a good word, moral support, and assistance in whatever way possible.

We rejoice, furthermore, because our governments have become more humanitarian in their interest in relieving suffering. Our federal government, without question, averted a revolution by launching a relief program for the unemployed and otherwise handicapped. We do not necessarily endorse all the methods employed to inaugurate that program of relief, but we do feel a sense of gratitude for the good which has been accomplished. In this connection, we also rejoice in the beautification program of our government which is intended to make our cities more attractive, our highways safer, and give an opportunity for the proper enjoyment of leisure through the recreational facilities provided by the government. And furthermore, we rejoice that our church in its superannuate fund society has long held an ideal before the nation as to how the aged should be treated. We are happy that steps have been taken, looking towards the day wherein workers shall have a sense of security from the dread of unemployment and old people may approach the sunset of their lives without the haunting ghost of an institution or dependence upon relatives forever hovering about them. Religious bodies have been excused from this national program since it was assumed that we were already doing more than the letter of the law for our employers during the time of service and after their days of active usefulness. We rejoice that the government has been a pattern of living in our relationships, and pray that God may hasten the day when real security shall exist for all.

A third source of our encouragement is for the deeper spiritual note of our churches. During recent days there has come a new clarion call for righteousness. Our churches have moved away from the ''prosperity sins'' of discussing ''isms'' and ''ologies'' and have again proclaimed in no uncertain terms the gospel of Jesus Christ. Besides that clearer call for righteousness, the churches have in many ways lent helping hands in troublesome days. Our ministers and laymen have acted as free dispensers of charity, relieved suffering, and helped with the character-building organizations during the days when the personnel of these organizations had been greatly decreased. Our church has helped, and stood, and prospered because her foundation was a rock—even the rock of Jesus Christ, her Lord!

Even with these sources of encouragement pouring new life into our morale our souls grow faint when we consider the many problems about us—grow faint only if we leave God out. We may merely mention the greater issues as a means of suggesting the problems which we confront.

1. War. Thousands of our American boys and millions of the youth of the world were pushed into the slaughter of the World War by our general wild-eyed enthusiasm and belief that it was to be a ''war to end war.'' The disillusionment gave the world a headache. Immediately around the globe ran the universal pledge to peace. But so soon we forget our disillusionment, so soon we betray our pledge, so soon we prepare for another holocaust. As Christians—the followers of the Prince of Peace—we ought to set going every possible influence for peace that the kingdoms of this earth might become the kingdoms of Christ!

2. Gambling. There seems to be among our citizens an increase in the desire to get something for nothing. The practice of gambling ranges all the way from ''flipping coins for a soda'' to horse-racing with millions of dollars at stake. The general practice of gambling is becoming worse, as is evident by the fact that in recent years many states have legalized betting on various forms of sport. Such practice, we hold not to be in harmony with the teachings and spirit of Christ, and urge our people not to participate therein even in the smallest degree.

3. The Liquor Traffic. In the minds of the Christians there is no question about the harmful effects of alcohol upon the human system. Science corroborates Christian principle! Our problem today is to rid humanity of the curse of whiskey. We deeply regret that during the year certain counties of our state have opened liquor stores within their borders. With our highways filled with automobiles, our girls with new freedom, and our disregard for human life, as Christians we cannot help but believe that liquor, legal or illegal, has no place in our social order.

4. Sabbath Observance. We decry the passing of observance of the Lord's Day. Slowly, but no less certainly, commercialized interests are encroaching upon the church's claim of the Lord's Day. In many cities of our fair state there are on the Lord's Day open movies, swimming pools, ball games, and other entertainments which are conducted, not for recreational purposes at all, but purely for the profit derived therefrom. The experiences of history, the facts of science, and the teachings of Jesus bear out the belief that we ought to observe the Lord's Day with worship of God and not by a rushing struggle for gold.

5. Movies. We recognize in the cinema great educational possibilities. We likewise recognize that these possibilities may be used to develop Christian personality or to debase our very souls. We rejoice in the co-operative fight of many denominations to clean up the movies. Progress has been made. We also look with favor upon the effort to get national laws passed which would prohibit "blind-buying" and "block-booking." But it ought to be remembered that our greatest power over indecent pictures is the price of the ticket. As Christians we ought to know what we are going to see before we see it; then if the picture is not good, to boycott such a picture by refusing to attend and getting others to pledge themselves not to attend.

6. Child Labor. In a nation where unemployment is a grave problem there should be no question about exploitation of children in labor. But since children work cheaper many fields of industry and agriculture continue to employ them. We look forward to the day when there shall be education for the youth and work for the mature.

7. Economic Situation. We believe that a great majority of our social problems have their roots in our economic situation. Our entire system is built upon the desire for wealth. The profit motive is our urge. Wealth is our standard of measure for greatness. We are too much materialists. As Christians we ought to re-emphasize the value of every human being, the worth of social brotherhood wherein each had work, the necessities of life, and the pursuit of happiness, and above all the tremendous fact of the supreme value of all values—personality! We cannot blame any social pattern for our ills, neither can we blame the impersonal "social order" for our troubles, but we can blame the ignorance, indifference, and selfishness of our individual citizens for them. We affirm our belief in the conviction that the Kingdom of God would be much more of a brotherhood than our present order realizes.

8. Marriage and Divorce. We regret the continued lightness with which the people look upon both marriage and divorce. Through the centuries the church has proclaimed the sacredness of the marriage vow. We still consider it as such and thoroughly denounce all practices which tend to minimize that sacredness. As a means of more wisely dealing with the problems related to this subject we feel that a national uniform marriage and divorce law would be beneficial. We are under no disillusionment to believe that a law would solve all our problems here, because at the root of practically all, if not all, divorces there is sin We, therefore, call upon our people to enter into this holy estate with clean lives, and to endeavor diligently to educate themselves on domestic questions so as to keep the union once established permanently joined.

9. Propaganda. The power of propaganda can be seen by the use of it in the World War. Propaganda did not end with the war, but has entered the field of modern advertising. Off of the press, through the ether, and from speakers' stands come terrible information. Possibly such propaganda comes to the worse in our modern advertisements of cigarettes and whiskey. Such misleading statements are contrary to the Christian way of living by the truth. As ministers and laymen we pledge ourselves to have no part in any such advertising and in all manner of conduct to proclaim the truth of Christ which will set men free.

10. Freedom of Speech. We believe as Americans and as Christians in the freedom of speech, press, and assemblage. We regret that in its battle for the right, The Churchman, organ of the Protestant Episcopal church, was fined in a libel suit. This, with other threats, points to the danger of secular interests robbing us of our rights to the freedom of speech. As ministers especially, we feel called of God and to deliver the message of God; therefore, any limitation put upon the expression of our divine convictions tends to thwart God's message to men. We believe in the right to utter one's convictions. Our very right to preach rests upon this premise; therefore we shall fight any force that tries in any way to hamper our speech, press, or assemblage.

Having noted the signs of encouragement, also the problems which confront us in the building of the Kingdom of God, we would suggest a few means of helping to solve these problems. First, we would urge regular attendance upon the church services. Our business as officials in the local church is to make every service just as attractive and meaningful as possible. A real revival of interest in church attendance would do more to stop this wave of Sabbath desecration than all the laws man has ever written. Church attendance that led to real worship would put an end to many of the other ills herein mentioned. We urge our ministers and officials to exert themselves in getting people to attend church.

A second means of combatting all the evils would be a more thorough study of the Bible. Too often our reading of the Bible has been done at night when our eyes were half-closed with approaching sleep, or at morning when we were only half-awake from past sleep. As a people we do not know the Book. No finer way of commemorating the 400th anniversary of the printing of the English Bible can be conceived than a thoroughgoing revival of studying the Word.

A third suggestion in helping to solve these problems is to know the issues. Because there are so many problems and the propaganda floods upon us so fast, many of our people are bewildered beyond the degree of useful action. As a people who know God, we ought to see the issues clearly. Valuable information of every issue herein discussed may be obtained for a few cents, if not free, from the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, New York City. Our own church papers are helpful. General religious journals are of much value. Know the truth and there is hope that we shall be free.

Having said the above about the issues of building the Kingdom of God, we unreservedly affirm our faith in the gospel of Christ as the power of God unto salvation, both personal and social. We believe that the church must be concerned with the issues of moral reform about us, but we believe that no social system can succeed without right individuals to compose that system. We believe, therefore, that our churches must not become mere reform societies, but must forever remain proclaimers of the eternal message of God's gospel of personal repentance and righteousness. But that message must not end with a demand for right relationships between man and God, but must carry on into the right relationships between man and man.

DANCING AT HIGH POINT COLLEGE

The High Point College is sending out questionnaires in regard to dancing in the college. If we try to teach God's Word as Jesus wants it taught we will not say unto our brethren, "Go ye out and dance," unless to the joy of the Lord. Can we say to our students in the colleges, go out and dance, for the people of God say there is no harm? And in sanctioning the whims of the devil we will be doing just that. Our discipline of the churches forbids anything contrary to God's wishes, and if it were not against the wish of God the prophets of old, and Jesus Christ would not have condemned it. Old Noah told the people to stop their dancing and merry-making, drinking and revelry, and hearken unto God: if they did not stop God would destroy them. But they were having too good a time listening to the whispers of the devil, so God brought about a flood and destroyed them. Now, if we say that we are having too good a time listening to the whispers of the devil, and go on and instruct the students in our college to dance, and not take God's warning laid down in the Holy Bible, we will say as the people did of old, Oh! that I might have another chance! Now let's not flirt with temptation, lest we fall into temptation. Let us not fall into this temptation of letting our High Point College permit dancing, lest we be tempted also.

More About R. C. Woodburn

Last week, just as our forms were closing, we made the barest reference to the passing of Mr. R. C. Woodburn, father of Mrs. Maude Johnson and Miss Kate Woodburn, of Calvary church. Brother Woodburn, who was a devoted member of Centenary M. E. church, South, lived near where the HERALD is printed and will be greatly missed. He was a friendly man and useful in many ways. Anything he had he was willing to share with others. He was the editor's competitor in gardening, and he took delight in helping the editor along. Such fellowship as we enjoyed in him makes the world brighter. The funeral was held at Centenary church Saturday afternoon, and the editor of the HERALD felt honored in being given a part.

* Balance of last year's apportionment.

To keep faith with the charges that have already raised their apportionment, these charges must do their part. We have no other expectation: they will do their part.

C. W. BATES, Chairman.

The New President of Western Maryland College

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of Western Maryland College on November 8th, Rev. Fred G. Holloway, D.D., President of the Westminster Theological Seminary, was unanimously elected president of the college to succeed the late Norman Ward. In the comparatively few years that Dr. Holloway has been president of the Seminary he has made a profound impression on the entire church, and we predict that his administration as president of the college will be equally successful. Our only regret in the matter is the loss that comes to the Seminary in having to give up this fine leader.

Brother Pegram Likes the Herald

A note from Brother Wm. N. Pegram, now of High Point but formerly one of the outstanding members of our First church in Winston-Salem for a long period of years, says, "I simply cannot get along without the HERALD." We certainly thank our good brother for this compliment.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.
CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.
CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Pastoral Appointments

J. Elwood Carroll pastor of Shady Grove church.
W. M. Loy pastor of Fountain Place church.
Leo Pittard pastor of Brown Summit church.

Service for Halifax

J. E. Pritchard will fill the appointments for first Sunday in December. N. G. Bethea will fill appointments for second Sunday in December. R. M. Andrews will hold quarterly conference December 14, and fill appointments for third Sunday in December. Other preachers will be announced later.

Four Hundredth Anniversary of the Translation of the English Bible

Possibly every pastor has received literature enough to enable him to hold a most creditable service celebrating this anniversary in a most fitting manner. We sincerely hope that all of our pastors will join in this effort to emphasize the importance of Bible study and of living the truths it teaches. It should be easier just now to do this than on any other occasion.

Shall We Turn Congregational?

Some of our churches, in other annual conferences, have adopted the congregational system in pastoral supply. The annual conference only approves of such arrangements. We have not yet adopted this system openly. Some do practice it. Some pastors seem to think it is perfectly proper for a preacher to candidate for a pastorate. But really just how far can a preacher go in candidating for a pastorate and maintain an ethical standing with those who do not? How far can a church go in this same business and maintain an ethical standing with other churches?

If the annual conference is to supply all the churches of preachers at its annual session, then this conference must have an absolutely free hand. It is difficult and almost impossible for the conference to act oftentimes. This difficulty having been created by the great activity of some pastors and some delegates. Just how far can a pastor go in candidating for a pastorate and maintain his ethical standing with other pastors? Is a pastor really free to visit members of another pastor and discuss with them conditions of the work which are more or less acute already without impairing greatly his standing with his brother pastor? Is it proper, under our system, for a pastor to try to arrange boundaries (changing churches) in order to prepare a place for himself? If it is proper for one, it is perfectly proper for all. And when all go to doing this thing you will have a big muss.

Is it perpectly proper for a preacher when at the annual conference to candidate, interview delegates, explain his own fitness for certain pastorates? If this is perfectly good ethics then we would urge all pastors to do this. Many do not. There are preachers in our conference who have served for years, served most acceptably some of our best charges, who have never in all those years candidated for a pastorate. Never in the interim of conference, nor during the annual conference have these men been found trying to secure a pastorate for themselves. We repeat, if it is right for some, it surely is proper for all.

First Quarterly Conference, Randolph Charge, Rev. G. L. Reynolds, Pastor

This conference was held at Bethel church last Saturday. Shiloh church was received back upon this charge. A definite amount for World Service was accepted, like manner the A. C. budget; the apportionments are to be worked out by the pastor. This is Pastor Reynolds' second year on this work, and he is making plans for more intensive and extensive development. Randolph has in it the making of one of the best of our rural charges. It is fairly compact, has some very fine people, and most of the church buildings are in fair repair. The parsonage is nothing to brag about, but they know that, and this knowledge will doubtless be the means of improving it.

First Church, High Point, Rev. J. C. Madison, Pastor

I filled the two appointments here last Sunday and held the first quarterly conference Monday night in the absence of the pastor, who is sick. The pastor had been busy since the adjournment of conference preparing his program for the new conference year, and we are expecting good results from such thoughtful planning. First church has a heavy load to carry; it also has a great opportunity for service, and we believe the membership will respond to the efforts of the pastor, and together they will make much progress in the new year.

Plan of Appointments

November 30—Quarterly conference at Hebron, Orange charge, 2 p.m.

December 1—Fairgrove church, 10 a.m., Seagrove-Love Joy circuit. Seagrove church at 11 a.m. Quarterly conference in afternoon.

December 7—Quarterly conference, 2:30, Mt. Zion circuit, Mt. Pleasant church.

December 8—Grace church, 11 a.m.

December 14—Quarterly conference, Halifax circuit.

December 15—Appointments on Halifax circuit.

R. M. Andrews.

Too Late for This Week

Last week we announced that on account of Thanksgiving it would be necessary to go to press one day earlier this week. It is now Wednesday morning and the make-up man is ready to go to work, and just now a whole batch of church reports came in. But there is no time for setting type nor reading proof now except for this notice. We are sorry, but we cannot help it.

"EZRA'S MISSION TO JERUSALEM"

The International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, December 1, 1935

By Rev. J. Elwood Carroll

Scripture Lesson—Ezra 7:6-10; 8:21-23, 31, 32.

Golden Text—"The hand of our God is upon all them that seek him, for good."—Ezra 8:22.

Ezra is the great leader of the second group which returned from Babylon. You recall that we studied how Zerubbabel led back the first group in 536 and undertook to rebuild the Temple; how the work fell into stagnation; and how Haggai and Zechariah had to arouse the people to the Lord's work so that the Temple was completed in 515. Many years later a second group of Jews was forming in Babylon with the intentions of coming back to Jerusalem. Ezra was their leader. They returned in the year 458 B.C., which was the seventh year in the reign of King Artexerxes of Persia.

Ezra was an all-round talented man. He was a scribe. In modern language that means he was a secretary in the local church. His primary duty was to make by hand copies of the Mosaic Law and the comments on that Law. This, with other sacred literature, constituted the Old Testament. The office of scribe is not to be despised because Jesus condemned those who held this office during his day. What Jesus condemned them for was their exploitation of the people for support and also because they failed to experience the religious truths which they wrote down for others to observe. Ezra was a noble scribe. He was also a great leader. It certainly would take a man of unusual leadership ability to gather several hundred persons into a march across thousands of miles of arid region to a land which they themselves had never seen. Ezra did just this. In the third place, Ezra was a talented man because he was successful as a settler. By careful leadership, under God's guidance, he brought the people safely to Jerusalem. They settled down as hard-working citizens. The news of the success of Ezra's party reached back to Babylon, so almost immediately a third group started for Palestine (446).

All phases of the greatness of Ezra rested upon his complete dependence upon God. Certainly his own religious experience came from a vital touch with the Divine. As Ezra copied the truths of the Eternal from one manuscript to another it is clear that his heart burned within him for the realization of those truths in actual life. His own life was alive to God's love and zeal.

Ezra waited upon God for guidance in reaching Jerusalem. God's spirit had stirred the heart of Ezra to gather a group for Palestine. He had responded. The people were assembled but were at a loss as to the way to travel. Who knew the road which led to Palestine? Not a Jew! Surely, thought Ezra, the same God who called me to this task will direct me in the performance of it. The practical, shrewd Jew would suggest that they employ a pagan guide to direct them. Such a move might mean their destruction since the guide would be free to lead them into a trap of any enemy or robber band. Ezra was wise enough to hold steady and wait for God's guidance. His guidance came. Ezra moved westward and the company followed. They not only avoided all possible mishaps, but learned a great lesson of trust in God.

Ezra found God's guidance in prayer. There is something about prayer that unites all the forces within a person or organization about a given objective. How many of us have found victory through prayer! How many organizations have blossomed forth from their seemingly dead selves when their members humbly turned to God in sincere prayer! There is, also, something about prayer which unites all forces towards the realization of that single chosen end. Nothing quite so unites a family as an attack by some outside force. The strength of each member of the family is combined against a common enemy. The thorn in the flesh of an organization has often proved to be the very cross of salvation of that organization. It was the spur which called forth a thoroughly united action. The complete ignorance of the people concerning the road back to Jerusalem led them through prayer into the guiding hand of God. Happy is the man who, out of his own personal experience can say, "The Lord is my shepherd. . . . The hand of our God is upon all them that seek him, for good."

Questions for Discussion

1. Would Ezra have been considered a liberal in our day? And why do we hate those who are liberal?
2. Has my church found its greatest problem and conscientiously laid that problem before the throne of God's grace?
3. We agree that a person may have his "thorn in the flesh," but do we agree that an organization also does? Does the church?
4. Were the Jews under Ezra justified in their adventure? What was their reward in Palestine? What would have been their reward for remaining in Babylon?
5. What "new" do you have in your church which was not there in 1915? How did you get that which you have? Why do you not have more?

Mrs. C. A. Parrish's Father Passes

Mrs. C. A. Parrish, of Calvary Church, mourns the passing on Thursday of last week, of her father, Mr. W. H. Jennings, of Central Falls. Mr. Jennings was familiarly known as "Bud" Jennings and lived for a long period of years at Cedar Falls, where he was one of the dependable members of our church there. After his second marriage he moved to Central Falls.

The Editor to Be on Halifax Charge

In conformity with an agreement on the part of President Andrews and Miss Blanche Hardee, the delegate from Halifax charge, the editor of the Herald is to be on Halifax charge next Sunday, preaching at Eden at 11, Union at 3:00 p.m. and Hollister at 7:30 p.m. We hope to see a lot of old friends of our first charge during the day.

OUR STORY PAGE

DON'T FORGET YOUR LANTERN

"It will be quite dark before you return, Charley; don't forget your lantern," said a mother to her son, who was going to spend his half-holiday at a farm about two miles distant.

"I'm not afraid of the dark and I know my way well enough," he muttered. "No, I shan't take the stupid old lantern; it will only be in the way."

Off he went and spent a merry afternoon with his companions, never thinking of his mother's words, or troubling about his journey home. It was quite dark when he said good-by to his friends at the farm, and as there was no moon the night was very dark, so they kindly offered to lend him a lantern. But he was too proud to accept it after boasting to his mother that he knew his way so well, and declared more loudly than ever that he knew his way blindfolded, and would be half home before the lantern was lighted.

He ran down the path, along the road and across the field. In the corner of the field was a broken stile which had to be crossed in order to enter the wood. Part of the stile had rotted away, but the long nail which had fastened it still remained, and, catching Charley's jacket as he climbed it, it tripped him and threw him suddenly into a bed of sting nettles in the dry ditch beyond. Bruised and smarting and mortified, he crept out of the ditch and began to make his way through the wood. There were several paths, but the widest and most frequented was his nearest way.

Perhaps it was the pain he was suffffering or the annoyance he felt which caused him to forget to take the turning on the right, for after walking a short distance he found the bushes were close to him on either side, and he felt sure that he had strayed into one of the narrow pathways which crossed the wood in every direction. How he longed for his lantern! He had no idea which way to go, but wandered on and on until he grew tired and footsore.

At last he came to a more open space and, thinking he had reached the road, he pressed boldly on, but found the ground gave way beneath his feet, and in another moment he was struggling in the water. There was a large pool in the midst of the wood and into this he had fallen. Happily, it was not very deep, and, after groping about for something to which he could cling, he seized hold of a tough bough, and by its aid managed to scramble out of the water into the pathway.

Some minutes later, bruised and bleeding, with clothes torn and stained with mud and weeds, and soaked with water, he reached the gate of his own home where all the family were assembled, wondering what had become of him.

"Mother," said the miserable but penitent boy, "I've been very foolish; but I will never go without the lantern again."

Four years passed and Charley, grown a fine, tall lad, stood again by the gate saying farewell to his mother, not for a few hours, but for months—perhaps years.

"Don't forget your lantern, my boy," she said, as she placed in his hand a small Bible. "Let God's Word be a 'lamp to your feet and a light to your path.' Whenever you are in doubt as to the way you should take, let the light of this Book shine upon your path and the way will be plain."

NANCY'S DREAM

Nancy had been in bed almost an hour when Mother heard her scream, "I want to go—wait—wait a minute!"

Her mother was soon by her side. "What frightened you, dear? Mother is right here."

"Oh, I couldn't go, and I wanted to!" sobbed Nancy. "I wanted to go with Jesus. I guess I was dreaming." She rubbed her eyes and looked around the room.

"I thought our Sunday school class was sitting around the table and Jesus came in. He asked us if we all had our lamp. In Psalm 119:105, it says, 'Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.' We each held up our Bible. Then He asked if we had oil in our lamps. The oil, He explained, was the Holy Spirit in our hearts. I didn't have the Holy Spirit because I was too selfish. Jesus spoke to my heart, I know, but I kept saying, 'I don't want to give up my own way yet.' I do want to be ready when Jesus really does come, though, Mother, what must I do?" Nancy spoke very earnestly.

"I am sorry that you have had to have a dream to wake you up, but it is true that when Jesus does come He will find many who are not ready.

"When I was a little girl, one day Mother said if we would be ready when Papa came home he would take us for a ride into the country. I took my shoes and stockings off and was playing. Mother called, 'Come,' and I put my stockings and shoes on faster than I ever had before. I just made the jump into the spring wagon as Papa started to drive away. I often felt I just started for the Kingdom at the last minute," said Mother.

"I thought you were a little girl when you let Jesus come into your heart," said Nancy.

"I was only a small child, but the enemy was already getting me to want worldly things and to say slang words." Mother looked Nancy straight in the eyes.

Nancy asked Mother to pray with her. Then Nancy prayed. She told Jesus how ashamed of herself she was, how sorry for her selfishness, and she really got oil in her lamp.

"My sins are under the Blood and I'm so happy," she said, "and best of all, if Jesus comes I can go with Him."

Mrs. Thompson Has Birthday

On last Sunday quite a lot of the relatives and friends of Mrs. J. H. Thompson gathered at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. A. Blalock, on Randolph avenue in Greensboro, to celebrate Mrs. Thompson's 76th birthday. We trust she may have many more birthdays.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

MRS. J. E. PRITCHARD, Editor

ANNUAL CONFERENCE VISITATION

The Executive Committee of the General Conference assigned the Executive Secretary of the Board of Missions to conferences in the south and southwest. We have had an unusually strenuous conference visitation this fall. Twelve annual conferences were visited and 22 addresses and sermons delivered before the same. Also, we delivered 16 addresses and sermons to churches and other organizations, making a total of 38 addresses and sermons in all. The distances traveled for most part were long, reaching upward of 11,500 miles. In it all we have enjoyed the best of health and thus far without accident. Thanks be to a kind Providence.

We found the people more hopeful than they have been for several years. There has been a decided improvement in the leadership and conduct of business among the weaker conferences. Good spirit and good fellowship seemed to prevail everywhere. "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

Our visit to the North Carolina Conference this year was the most pleasant we have ever made. We enjoyed the delightful fellowship of the conference and the fine way in which the said conference conducted business and the hopeful and successful attitude of the people.

G. W. HADDAWAY.

TO AUXILIARY SECRETARY OF SCHOLARSHIPS

Dear Friends:

So many of you have asked for information concerning scholarships that we venture this letter explaining this very important phase of our missionary task.

Why Scholarships

Scholarships offer to the local auxiliary a personal contact with the various fields of service: Pine Ridge, India, China, Japan, and our Christian colleges. For example, a local church decides to support an evangelist in China. The name of the evangelist is given to them, and if possible, the picture of the evangelist. The Missionary Record reports on the activities carried on by the evangelist and the auxiliary supports the definite project.

Upon What Basis Are Scholarships Given?

The Board of Missions votes an annual appropriation to each of the mission fields. The amount of the appropriation is based upon the receipts for World Service of the previous year and the need in that particular field. No sum of money can actually be guaranteed to any field with the exception of missionaries' salaries, because the local church, annual conferences, and branches do not guarantee any sum to the Board of Missions. Of course, if each annual conference and each branch raised their apportionments, sums could be guaranteed the mission field, work would not have to be curtailed, additional scholarships could be given, and there would not be that constant worry on the part of the missionary lest some important phase of the work of their mission be closed for lack of adequate support.

Now, upon the basis of the appropriation made to the field, the mission writes that so many evangelists, Bible women, scholarship students, orphan children, can be supported. The names are given to the board and upon this list the scholarships compiled. Of course, if the Board of Missions is able to send the full amount to the mission field, these scholarships are taken care of regardless of whether or not the local church takes them as private projects. The chief reason for scholarships is to personalize the budget.

What Scholarships Are Available?

We have a few scholarships in China for evangelists and Bible women. As was noted in the July Missionary Record, these scholarships are $70, $110, and $160 per year. In India, we have scholarships for the orphan children, evangelists, and medical workers. The orphan scholarships are $35, evangelists $125, and hospital bed scholarships $35. We have also added another type of scholarship this year, that is, the medicine units. In speaking with Miss Miskimen, since her return to America on furlough, we decided that 100 medicine units could be given out to auxiliaries on the present India budget. We have quite a number of medicine units which have not been taken. We suggest these particularly for young people's groups, Sunday school classes, etc. In Japan, we have teacher scholarships in the elementary and kindergarten schools, also in the high school. Support of a teacher at Eiwa Jo Gakko school, Yokohama, Japan, is $75 and those in the elementary school and kindergarten $120. Naturally, these amounts do not cover the entire amount paid to the teacher per year but the difference between the salary and the tuition charges. We have eleven of the $75 scholarships and seven of the $120 scholarships.

At Pine Ridge, scholarships are handled differently. Instead of giving a name to the auxiliary, designations may be made to the scholarship maintenance fund. Because of the number of children that need help financially these concessions are made by Rev. G. W. Andrew, superintendent. All children receiving concessions on their tuition do some work to merit the scholarship or concession.

How to Secure Scholarships

Secure scholarships through your Branch Secretary of Scholarships. These are a credit on the budget of your auxiliary unless special arrangements have been made by individuals who are supporting scholarships as a special outside the budget. The money should be sent to the treasurer of your Branch and clearly designated for the person whom you are supporting unless it is Pine Ridge. Warning! The Board of Missions has no way of knowing how much money a local auxiliary has paid on a scholarship unless this information is given them by the Branch Secretary of Scholarships. The Branch Secretary is dependent upon the auxiliary for this information. So please report NOT LATER THAN APRIL 1 of each year. Many misunderstandings and discrepancies occur over the list given in the July Missionary Record due to this neglect. Please do not designate any money for scholarships to India, China, or Japan, unless your auxiliary has agreed to support a definite scholarship. We only have a certain number of scholarships and unless we adhere to this policy there is danger that your designations cannot be honored.

If you have a scholarship this year we are counting on you to meet this obligation. There are many groups desiring scholarships that we cannot give because we have already given one to your auxiliary. CONSEQUENTLY WE MUST DEPEND UPON YOU. If you had a scholarship last year, we are taking it for granted that you desire to support the same one this year unless a necessary change has to be made in the office because the child you had last year has died, married, left school, or is now self-supporting. Sometimes this information does not reach our office for some months after the student is off the school roll, therefore necessary adjustments have to be made in the annual list appearing in the Missionary Record.

Try to interest your group in a scholarship, either on the mission field or a student in one of our denominational colleges or seminary. Write Rev. F. W. Stephenson, D. D., 3267 W. Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh (16), Pa., about student scholarships in our colleges.

Very sincerely yours,

BETTIE S. BRITTINGHAM,
Denominational Scholarship Secretary.
MRS. G. P. YOUNGINER,
Branch Scholarship Secretary.

If any of the auxiliaries desire a typewritten copy of this letter, please write me, 91 Elizabeth Street, Asheville, N. C., and I will gladly send it.

Friends, please get busy and send in a scholarship as the year is speeding along.

Sincerely yours in His service,

MRS. G. P. YOUNGINER.

FOURTH DISTRICT RALLY

Notice is hereby given that the women of the Fourth District will meet in the First M. P. Church in Burlington on Friday, December 6 at 7:30 p. m. in the first district rally of this conference year. Rev. R. S. Troxler, the new pastor of the Glen Raven Charge will conduct the devotional services. Mrs. H. C. Nicholson of Mebane, chairman of Districts will speak on Organization. Mrs. D. S. Coltrane of Greensboro will speak on the subject, "Women's Part in the Great Work of the Church."

The churches in the district are: Haw River, Glen Raven, Fairview, Graham, First Church, Burlington, Fountain Place, and Gibsonville. A full attendance of the women in the district is desired.

MRS. W. J. JENNINGS, Chairman.

MORE CHANGES OF ADDRESS

Since last week we have received the following changes of address: Rev. C. G. Isley to Box 223, Albemarle; Rev. D. R. Williams to Box 732, Kannapolis; Rev. O. C. Loy to 315 Taylor Street, Thomasville; Rev. J. P. Pegg, 208 State Street, Lexington; Rev. W. H. Neese, R. F. D. 5, Winston-Salem; Rev. R. S. Troxler, R. F. D. 4, Burlington; Rev. T. G. Madison, R. F. D. 1, Lawndale.

BROTHER IVESTER ALSO LIKES HERALD

Brother Velus Ivester, of the Cleveland charge, in sending in his renewal this week, says he does not want to miss a single issue of the Herald. We are glad he feels that way about it, and trust there may be more of those of like sentiment.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

TYPES OF MISSIONARY WORKERS

Acts 8:5-18; Eph. 4:11-13
C. E. Topic for December 8

By MRS. EUGENE LAMB

Suggested Program:

Prelude: "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Us."

Call to Worship:

Stir me, oh! Stir me, Lord I care not how;
But stir my heart in passion for the world!
Stir me to give, to go—but most to pray:
Stir, 'til the blood-red banner be unfurled
O'er lands that still in deepest darkness lie
O'er deserts where no cross is lifted high.

Hymn: "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Us."

Prayer: For all peoples who do not know Jesus everywhere; in our great cities, in the country lanes, in our own country and across the seven seas. End with the prayer of all peoples. . . . .the Lord's Prayer.

Leader's talk

Scripture: Acts 8:5-8; Eph. 4:11-13.

Hymn: "Jesus Shall Reign Wherever the Sun."

Discussion of the Topic.

Sentence Prayers: For the work of all our missionaries, home and foreign, and particularly for those laboring in our own Methodist Protestant fields. "For more things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of . . . . "

Closing Minutes: Sing as your closing hymn "Am I a Soldier of the Cross?" Ask each individual to make it a personal question as he sings it. Close with a prayer for the speedy evangelization of the world for Christ.

Suggestions to the Leader

Back several years ago, our missionaries went to foreign and home mission fields with the idea of giving them our civilization and modes of living along with Christianity. That plan did not work. Stanley Jones tells us that the peopel of India want our Christ and our Christianity but they do not want our civilization—that is, the part that is selfish, weak and ugly. Today, the methods of missionaries are different. No longer do they try to force our civilization upon the people to whom they minister but they endeavor to elevate the living customs of the people and make them Christian in their own civilization. When we think of the great responsibilities that rest upon these men and women who go into mission fields, we realize that they, too, must be thoroughly prepared just as other professional men and women are today. It means both consecration and training and preparing themselves for this service. Let us think of some of them now:

Stanley Jones—is a missionary of the M. E. Church in India. Nowhere is there a man who has a more magnetic, attractive and striking personality. As in his own country, America, the people of India are charmed by him and Dr. Jones is doing a marvelous piece of work there. This does not mean that he has Christianized all India, no, not by any means, but he has done much and is continuing his work. Dr. Jones has written several splendid books: "Christ of the Round Table," "Christ of the Indian Road," "Christ on the Mount," and "Christ and Human Suffering," and others. He emphasized in his writings that missionaries often fail in their purpose because they are pessimistic and continually speak of the weak points in a country's life instead of the strong ones. Dr. Jones says the Indians are alive to the evils in their country and are combatting them, and they can do more than we can. He says we should lay foundations of Christian missions deeper than upon particular evils found in a particular race. Dr. Jones does much evangelistic work in India and conducts round-table discussions at which times the natives are free to ask questions and present problems which perplex and trouble them. Dr. Jones was in America on furlough Christmas 1933 and delighted and thrilled many audiences by his thorough, practical and consecrated philosophy of life.

Albert Schweitzer—has been called the missionary who plays on the souls of men. When Albert Schweitzer plays the organ in the capitals of Europe, there is standing room only for he is a musician who can sweep the soul heavenward. He began playing the organ at nine years old and grew up to be one of the greatest organist of this day. This, somehow, did not satisfy Schweitzer for he wanted to be a minister like his father. He became a minister, then the principal of the Theological College of St. Thomas at the University of Strassburg. He lectured on theology all over Europe. A musician and an educator—surely a rich and full life for any young man not yet 30. But this was not enough for Schweitzer—he wanted to be a missionary. He reasoned this way: every man is valuable to the world only for what he can give to his fellowmen in direct service. The yearning in his heart to serve—for Jesus' sake—was not satisfied. He began to study medicine in order that he might go to Africa as a medical missionary. Against the protests of his friends and family in Europe, he went to Africa, and built his hospital. The first day 40 patients came and soon the river was full of canoes and boats bringing the sick and dying for the Christian doctor to see. As he healed men's bodies, he told them of Jesus, of the Great Physician who had sent him there. Today his hospital accommodates 200 patients, and what a marvelous work Schweitzer is doing!

In our own M. P. Church, we have a medical missionary in India. Dr. Edith Lacy went to Dhulia, India, and with some native nurses carried on the work in the little hospital there. For a while the hospital was closed because of insufficient funds. Now a part of it has been opened but they need more resources to take care of the patients. Can't we Christian Endeavorers be of help to them? An average of 5,000 patients are treated each quarter.

Questions for Discussion

1. What was Paul's method of missionary work?
2. How do you account for Paul's success in missionary work?
3. Do you think modern missions have underestimated the importance of preaching the gospel?
4. Can you ever force men to share with each other permanently? Is there any practical way of sharing besides loving your neighbor?
5. Why do you think non-Christian countries appreciate the work of our missionaries? Is their opposition strong enough to offset their real need of help?

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Lexington, State Street.—We have now been in Lexington a little more than a week and the membership of State Street has received us with many expressions of gratitude. An informal reception was given us on last Wednesday evening.

Brother John Leonard and Dr. A. E. Brannock extended greetings in behalf of church and the community at large.

The work of Dr. Johnson with this church during the last two years has been of a high order of service. Both among our people and those of other churches, he is held in love and esteem.

Brother J. A. Walser has been thoughtful of us, bringing gifts to help supply the pantry.

On the afternoon of November 17, we were at Yadkin College, preaching at 3:30 p. m. Brother W. L. Totten, a superannuate, lives there. Also we visited the mother of Dr. S. W. Taylor. She is very old but bright and cheerful.

Yesterday morning, November 24, at Bethesda, we were welcomed by a congregation of about 200 persons. This is one of our largest and best equipped rural churches. Mr. and Mrs. Everhart gave us a good dinner.

With the people of Glen Raven, Haw River, and Fairview, who worked with us so faithfully for four years, we leave our best wishes and kindest regards. J. P. PEGG.

Welch Memorial, High Point.—Sunday, November 17, Rev. J. D. Williams started his fifth consecutive year at Welch. The writer is expressing the opinion of the entire church in saying that we feel very fortunate to have him with us again this year.

The board of stewards is inaugurating, this year, a new plan for raising our finances. This plan is being undertaken with the hope that it will start the membership on the road of systematic giving.

The general board is divided into three special boards each having its own chairman and co-operating together through the general chairman— these boards are: men's board, which will contact all adult men members of the church; ladies' board, to contact all adult lady church members; junior board, to contact all members under twenty-five years of age.

The following are members of the board: O. W. Brown, general chairman; Mrs. Tom Morgan, secretary; men's board, W. W. Frye, chairman, Roscoe Briley, Howard Vuncannon, M. L. Vuncannon, Cleve Loman, Floyd Vuncannon, C. H. Lambeth, S. E. Cashwell, and W. L. Edwards; ladies' board, Mrs. J. W. Mitchell, chairman, Mesdames D. G. Hiatt, Dan Joyner, C. W. Hoover, Roy Medlin, W. R. Brackett, Pearl Greenwood, Tom Morgan; junior board, Henry Kivett, chairman, Mrs. Ruth Cashwell, Mrs. Mattie Hughes, Miss Grace Wood, Miss Kathleen McLean.

It is hoped that through the activities of the junior board the children at the church will receive training in systematic giving. In the opinion of the writer, this is a most important work.

Everyone is looking forward to Baraca home coming day, Sunday, November 24. There will be an outstanding group of speakers, both of local and state-wide recognition. If the class puts forth the effort this year it did last year, then there is no doubt of the results.

The Baraca class has done a wonderful piece of work in undertaking the problem of Christmas treats for the Sunday school children up to eighteen years of age. But since quite a few of us are approaching our second childhood, we wonder where we come in. It is rumored that two other adult classes are going to stand treat for all Sunday school members over eighteen years old.

At last, after sleeping through the summer, the plans for a church hut have awakened and specifications for same are to be submitted to contractors next week. The writer sincerely hopes that the plans do not fall asleep again until the hut is completed.

Graham.—Rev. J. Clyde Auman closed his pastorate at Graham church last Sunday with very impressive messages. The entire congregations of the M. E. church accompanied by their pastor, Rev. C. Freeman Heath worshiped with us Sunday morning. This came as a complete surprise to us and our pastor. We greatly appreciate this interest of our sister church.

We are sorry to have Rev. Mr. Auman and his family leave us. Our prayers and best wishes go with them to their new church and home. May we again express our appreciation for the good work Mr. and Mrs. Auman have done during their five years with Graham church.

We heartily welcome our new pastor, Rev. H. F. Surratt and Mrs. Surratt to our church and community. We hope they will find their work with us pleasant and successful. Rev. and Mrs. Surratt will arrive at the parsonage Tuesday afternoon.

Our new church officers have been elected and installed.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Heenan Hughes is able to be out again.

The Friendly Helpers class will meet Friday evening, November 22, with Mrs. Alvis Wilson. All members are urged to be present. Officers for next year will be elected.

Gray's Chapel, Randelph Charge.—It is a pleasure to report that we have our pastor, Mr. Reynolds back with us for another year. He filled his first appointment of the new year last Sunday morning with a splendid sermon on "Power." He also told us some of his plans for the new year. I am sure that if the members will do their part to help carry out these plans, we will have the most fruitful year ever.

The new officers for the coming year have been elected and installed. They are: Board of Trustees, J. P. Lineberry, Brower York, Isaac Routh, M. S. Lineberry and Erastus Routh; Board of Stewards: C. N. Nixon, Clyde Routh, Henry Hackett, Hobert Lineberry, G. D. Pugh, Carl Brower and Juanita Brower; Class Leader, R. P. Foust; pianist, Ina Lee Pugh; choir leader, O. P. Brower; secretary and treasurer of the Sunday school, Mrs. Carl Brower; Sunday school superintendent, T. F. Nixon; and assistant superintendent, Bruce Pugh.

Next Sunday we are going to take a special offering in our Sunday school for the Children's Home. We hope everybody will come prepared to contribute according to the many blessings we have received this year.

Our ladies have recently organized an auxiliary, and under the leadership of Ina Lee Pugh have started to work with real earnestness.

Since last report, death has claimed two of our faithful members: Mrs. W. M. Cates and Mrs. Filmore Pugh.

We are proud to report a new piano installed in our church and completely paid for. I have never seen members respond more promptly in raising money for anything. We want to thank those who are not members for their contributions.

Grace Church, Greensboro. — Yes! we are smiling at Grace church these days! There is truly a Thanksgiving spirit in the atmosphere for several reasons—Conference was good to us in sending back our much-loved ministers, Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, and Dr. S. K. Spahr, pastor emeritus, for which we are thankful. Another reason: there has come to live at the parsonage a beautiful little baby girl, Elizabeth Anne. Mrs. Carroll and the baby are doing fine, for this we are thankful.

We observed Thanksgiving on Sunday, the offering was taken for the Children's Home. The music was unusually good, the sermon on "Thanksgiving," by Dr. S. K. Spahr. He very feelingly, referred to the sense of wonder in his own heart how he was led to this Southland in 1924 to serve this church. How fortunate Grace people are to have a man like Mr. Carroll. Though we now are Mr. Carroll's people, he can sit in the pew and hear the gospel every Sunday by one, who knows so well how to be kind to "the old man" and had given him the opportunity to bring this Thanksgiving message. He spoke of his title "Emeritus" and smiling said he was proud of his appointment by the Conference. Dr. Spahr held the closest attention of a large congregation with his great message on Thanksgiving. His text was Ps. 116:12: "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me." He said in part: "This is a very personal Psalm, for each of us there is only one other its equal in being personal, that is the 23rd Psalm. This 116 Psalm contains in it our duty to God,—our privilege in a thanksgiving. The president, nor governor, by issuing a proclamation for a given day as Thanksgiving Day, cannot bring from the people a true sense of thanksgiving for 'our benefits.' That only can come from within the soul. The way things have drifted we are leaving God out and do not thank Him. I am afraid most of us think of it as just a big feast day, just a splendid meal, then later figure up the cost of it.

"We should stand in such a relationship with the Divine Giver that our souls be filled with praise for the goodness of God to us. Then, too, the glory of Christmas has been made commercial by having great noises and parades to draw the crowds as a business plan to bring trade. It makes me sad to think of it; we do not say that these things are wrong, we know those things do not touch the heart and I wish we might have such scenes as the Babe of Bethlehem shown in some way to awaken in us a deeper sense of gratitude for the Christ.

"What shall I render to God? We think too little of our many blessings. We take for granted too much the things we have, and do not trace them back to God.

"Is there a way in this modern time, we can say our daily bread is God's bread to us? To whom are we thankful? We need to take ourselves to task; to renew our vows unto the Lord. We have trouble, do we complain about it, or pray about it? I am sure many of the hard things in these recent years have been real benefits to us. We may not see it that way. But 'all things worketh together for good to them who love God.' It is wonderful to be a follower of the Christ. A real Christian with a devotion and a consecration in our hearts to Him.

"When we, you and I, say like the Psalmist, 'I will take the cup of salvation and call upon the name of the Lord.' 'I will pay my vows unto the Lord now,' we will enjoy a better Thanksgiving, we will feel a comfort, a help and support, and have a new confidence in the Christ. We can say 'Lord we love Thee; and we want to love everything that Thou lovest'."

Dr. Spahr in closing stressed the offering for our Children's Home, that it would be a pleasure to Grace church people to give for the Home was so dear to us all.

MRS. J. M. STONE.

[Because of the great value of what Dr. Spahr has to say we have suspended our rule and are printing in full this rather lengthy comment on the sermon as made by Grace Church's reporter. We trust other reporters will not ask us to do likewise.—Ed.]

Efland, Orange Charge.—While many people went to church last Sunday to see and hear their new pastor; Efland went to hear and welcome our former pastor, Brother B. M. Williams and his family, for their twelfth year with us. We were very much gratified when we learned that they would be with us again. We hope to make this the best year Efland has ever had.

At the morning service Brother Williams spoke briefly about some things we hope to accomplish this year, then brought us a splendid message with thought centering around Thanksgiving.

The evening service was our Thanksgiving service and an offering was taken for our Children's Home.

We are glad our Sunday school superintendent is able to be out after about two weeks' illness. Mr. Dureen is faithful in discharging his duties and is missed when absent.

The auxiliary held its monthly meeting Wednesday with the program in charge of Circle No. 1, Mrs. C. A. Boggs, leader. Mrs. Boggs spoke on "Ingratitude and Its Effects," Mrs. J. M. Dureen made a very interesting talk on "Gratitude," and Mrs. B. M. Williams spoke on "Thanksgiving," leaving with us two words "Think" and "Thank." I'm sure if we would stop to think we would thank more.

Mrs. Boggs in her own pleasing manner spoke very fittingly words of welcome to our President, Mrs. B. M. Williams, who then conducted the business session.

All Circle reports were encouraging and show that progress is being made. Circle No. 2 recently made and sold three quilts. These were donated by members and the circle sponsored an all day quilting at which they served a bountiful luncheon to about 40 members and friends of the auxiliary. A very pleasant and profitable day was spent.

On Tuesday, December 10, the William's Circle will sponsor a program by Ward's Tobacco Tags in the high school auditorium, at 8:00 o'clock. We hope to have a large attendance. The admission will be 15 and 25 cents.

We want to take this opportunity to wish Democrat charge much success with its new leader. While Brother Clark has not been one of us long we have known him long enough to appreciate him and feel that by following his guidance much good can and will be accomplished. He, we feel sure, will give his best to the cause. Efland is indeed glad to have one of her members "go and tell others the story."

May we not forget the reason for Thanksgiving and give thanks to whom it is due.

PATTYE G. CRUTCHFIELD, Reporter.

First Church, Burlington.—We are indeed glad to have our pastor and family with us another year. We are thankful for the good work accomplished last year, but we are looking forward to greater goals for this year.

The contractors are expected to begin work on the new roof for the church and hut this week. A part of the money is in the treasury for this work and the remainder is being pledged. We need a new roof badly, and we pray God's richest blessing on all who are helping in this noble work.

The Evangelistic club met at the parsonage on last Monday night. The first quarterly conference met November 27.

May we all be truly thankful to God at the Thanksgiving season for His loving kindness and mercies toward us.

MABEL THORNBURG, Reporter.

Lebanon Church, High Point. — Yesterday was another good day at Lebanon. Our pastor, Rev. J. R. Hutton, preached two great gospel sermons to large, appreciative congregations. His morning text, "Lord, teach us to pray." (Luke 11-1.) This sermon was so appropriate just now as we enter into a new conference year's work. How we do need more effectual, fervent prayers! Rev. Mr. Hutton so ably explained the importance of prayer in the Christian life and taught us so clearly how to pray that even the child could understand. His evening text found in Acts 10:44 served as a base for the four essentials of salvation: the Preacher, the Word, the Receptive Heart, and the Holy Spirit. This was a wonderful message, challenging to the church, edifying to the soul!

We have the preacher and the blessed Word. Now let us pray without ceasing for receptive hearts and the outpouring of the Holy Spirit to make this the banner year in extending Christ's Kingdom in the radius of Lebanon church's influence.

The first quarterly conference will be held on Wednesday evening, December 4 at 7:30 in the church. This is an important session. May every member be present.

The young people entertained at a very enjoyable banquet in the hut on Tuesday evening, November 19, with our new pastor as guest of honor. It is a very evident fact that our new pastor is already popular among the young people. Just another proof that one is just as old as one is old in spirit. Each Christian is a minister in some sense of the word ("He that would be great let him serve") and a man may give years of service, becoming old in the field of experience, but so long as he is young in spirit there is that congenial friendly relationship, that connecting link binding the Father in Israel as it were to mere children in Christ.

The Ladies' Aid gave a turkey supper in the hut last Friday evening which proved to be very profitable financially as well as enjoyable socially.

Mrs. Fred Pritchard has been elected pianist to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. V. L. Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have recently moved to Shelby, N. C., to live.

Mrs. Roxie Huff is visiting her brother, Mr. Mayfield Crouch, in Martinsville, Va.

Our C. E. society will take part in the sunrise Thanksgiving service to be held at First M. P. Church, this city, Thursday morning. We are certainly sorry to hear of the illness of Rev. Clay Madison, pastor of First church. He is dear to the hearts of Lebanon people, having served as pastor here two years. We hope for his early recovery.

LENA THACKER.

Clark's Chapel, Weaverville Charge. — We are very thankful that our pastor, Rev. W. L. Harkey has been sent back to us another year; and we trust that all may co-operate and work with him to make this one of the best years in the history of our church.

We realize that our older members are fast passing away, and the younger ones must take up the work and carry on!

We have just lost one of our most loyal and beloved members, Mr. Lucius Eller, age 74, passed away on Friday morning at 6:30 o'clock at his home near Weaverville. Funeral services were conducted at Clark's Chapel at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, with Rev. Mr. Harkey officiating assisted by Rev. J. S. Williams of Asheville, and Rev. Homer Casto. The large crowd of friends and relatives which more than filled the church showed the love and esteem in which he was held.

He was the last member of his immediate family but is survived by several nieces and nephews and a host of friends!

MRS. CLYDE BLANKENSHIP, Reporter.

Shiloh, Shiloh Charge.—You have not heard from us since conference. The reporter, it seems, has been too busy to report. But anyway we say first that we are very proud of the return of our pastor, Rev. C. E. Ridge, for the third year. We hope that this year will be even greater in the Master's service than the other years have been.

He preached his first sermon for the year on November 17, using as a subject, "A Reasonable Question," text Acts 10:29. We want to pray more for him this year that he may be able to preach the gospel plainly and forcefully because we feel that it needs to be preached with no lightness or compromise in these days.

Our monthly prayer service was held Sunday morning and was led by three of our young men, Frank Shoaf, Homer Sink and Grady Leonard. They read Scripture and made some wonderful explanations. The attendance at this service was 90. These boys showed that they have had some spiritual training, and we feel that there are many more in our church who are receiving training both in the home and the Christian Endeavor society, which gives an opportunity for beginning leadership for young people.

The Union Thanksgiving service of three of the neighboring churches is to be held on Thursday night at 7:30. Special singing from each church and talks, and an address by Rev. H. C. Sprinkle, pastor of First M. E. church, Lexington, will constitute the main program.

Our Thanksgiving offering for the Children's Home was taken Sunday and amounted to over $35.00.

Let every Christian pray as never before that God's will may be more fully accomplished in our churches this year than ever before. MABEL BERRIER, Reporter.

First Church, Winston-Salem.—Back again with us for another year are Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Bates. We were glad to have them returned to us.

Dr. Bates' very impressive Thanksgiving message on Sunday morning was "Where Are the Nine?" After hearing this sermon one could not but go home feeling more thankful for one's blessings and with an earnest desire to show one's gratitude to God for all those blessings.

The congregation is pounding the pastor and his wife at the parsonage Monday night

The Junior choir is beginning work on Christmas music. On December 22 Dr. Bates will broadcast the regular Sunday afternoon devotional service from 5:30 to 6:00 o'clock and he has invited the Junior choir to appear on the air with him at that time and sing Christmas carols. Mrs. Charles Stonestreet is the capable director of the Junior choir.

A Thanksgiving basket is being gotten together by the Sunshine Circle for a needy family. They are a fine group of boys and girls. PAULINE BRANSON, Reporter.

Asheville.—I'm going to be fired from this job if I don't get a report in this week, so here goes.

Things are starting off well for the new year. Mr. Minnis is back and seems to have acquired an extra amount of pep during the week away at Conference, so it is expected that this year will be the very best the Asheville church has ever known. Let's all unite to make it so. Let's all be "Builder-uppers." Even if you don't agree with everything that is being done, don't shirk your job. Each of us doing our best will encourage Mr. Minnis so much that he will be able to do more than ever and our church will really enjoy the best year in its history. May we each ask ourselves this question, "Am I a 'builder-upper' or a 'puller-downer'?" None of us wish to be labelled "puller-downers." I am sure.

We rejoice with Mr. and Mrs. Guy Allison in the arrival of a little son on November 14. to bless their home; also with Rev. and Mrs. J. Elwood Carroll in the arrival of their little daughter.

Sorry that Mrs. Arlene Hanner Nodine and Edna Moore are on the sick list. and we wish for them both a speedy recovery.

Our Sunday school is going on fine. The children and young people are on the job on time each Sunday; sorry we cannot say as much for the adults. Miss Estelle Swain and Miss Hilda Brownlow are being added to the group of teachers in the primary department, and the work seems to be going forward well. Food of different kinds was brought in by the entire Sunday school this Sunday and it will be used to fill baskets for some needy folk in our community, Mrs. Robey Wilson is heading this project.

A vote of thanks is extended Mrs. J. S. Williams and her circle of the Woman's Auxiliary for repairing the hymn books and cleaning and mending the curtain around the choir-loft.

Mrs. H. L. Hanner celebrated her birthday yesterday. We all join in wishing her many, many more.

The first quarterly conference will be held Wednesday evening at the church. All are urged to attend.

A young people's party is scheduled for Friday evening and it is earnestly hoped that something of this nature can be put on weekly for our youth. I think every church should provide a certain amount of social activity for its youth. Every parent should be willing to co-operate with Mr. Minnis in this movement, then we would not be wondering where our youngsters were spending their leisure time.

We are happy that Mr. Pritchard is again editor of the Herald, and we wish him more success than ever. M. L. B.

Weaverville Charge. — The pastor of the Weaverville charge, Rev. W. L. Harkey, has returned from Conference, who is permitted to serve this charge another year. The people from the different churches seem to be glad to have him back. When the pastor returned the official board had approximately $13.00 awaiting him.

Weaverville church was the only one which payed out in full. Clark's Chapel church came near to paying out and Mt. Zion also came near to paying out.

The official board held its first meeting of the year at the parsonage last Friday to discuss problems of the coming year.

The first quarterly conference will be held Friday night, November 29, at Mt. Zion church. JUANITA HARKEY, Reporter.

Moriah.—Since the election of church reporter was overlooked until last Sunday, this is the first report of the conference year.

There was great rejoicing among the members of our church and friends in the community when the Conference saw fit to return to us our beloved pastor, Rev. W. M. Howard, Jr. Though he is attending the Seminary at Westminster at present we are looking forward to his return. During Mr. Howard's absence however, we have with us Rev. Mr. Strickland of High Point college, one whose messages give us hope and cheer and an inspiration for better living. Mr. Strickland preaches for us every Sunday morning at our regular church hour, 11 o'clock.

Few changes were made at the election of officers for the year and from a financial standpoint our church is doing better than in several years past but not yet as good as we hope to do. It pleases me to report too, that our Sunday school is doing well under the leadership of our able young superintendent, Charles Sharpe, Jr., and attendance is good Everybody is welcome at our Sunday school and church services.

The Thank-Offering was taken last Sunday and the ladies of the church brought cakes and fruit for the Children's Home. The Young People's Bible class and the Junior Bible class are giving a pie supper Wednesday of this week. Practice for our Christmas program was started Sunday afternoon with the organization of a Junior choir under the direction of Wilbur Sherrill and Lillian Kirkman. Let it be said here that a spirit of fellowship and good will is more manifest in our church than ever before; and it's a good feeling too, In closing we'd like to say "hello" to Mr. Howard way up in Maryland.

Lincolnton.—We are entering a new Conference year with an earnest and prayerful desire to do more in the great work of our church than we did last year. Although we considered it a successful year, we are always striving to do better. Our Sunday school at Lincolnton is moving along nicely, although the cold weather has kept some of our people away. Our attendance last Sunday was one hundred and thirty-eight, and the offering was $22.00.

We were glad that the Conference saw fit to return our former pastor, Rev. J. R. Anderson, to us for another year. We are still enjoying his wonderful and inspiring messages. We are all glad that his family is back to normal after some very serious illness that they have gone through while they have been in Lincolnton.

Our Christian Endeavor is still going with the young people taking a great interest in it. The intermediate C. E., too, is in capable hands and is progressing rapidly. A committee has been appointed and informed to make arrangements for our Christmas program. We will be busy on it from now until Christmas. The small children have shown a great interest in it already and we are sure that it will be a worth-while project.

We are having our first quarterly conference Wednesday night and hoping that all our officers will be present because our pastor has some plans for the new year to lay before them. Again, we are praying for a wonderful year.

Randleman Charge.—I trust the editor can give a little space in our church paper for a few lines from us, as we have returned to this charge. The people have received us very kindly and we have met three appointments. This morning Mrs. Trogdon did not feel like going with me to Level Cross and was not there to share with me an experience through which I had to go. They began to pound and pounded with everything from a can of honey to keep us sweet to a cake of soap to keep us clean. We cannot gives names because not many names were given. Mrs. Trogdon and Inez join me in thanks to all and pray God's blessings upon each one.

The Ladies' Aid of Mt. Lebanon church met with Mrs. Trogdon Thursday evening, November 21; fifteen members were present, and they were wide-awake and laid plans for their work for this conference year, and instructed the writer to pursue the quicker way to put water and sewer connection into the parsonage. And the big hearts led them to give the largest offering to our Children's Home they have perhaps given as a thank offering, $25.00. I think that is fine and these ladies are always ready to get anything needed at the parsonage.

The people of Mt. Lebanon will soon realize Sunday school rooms if the weather keeps favorable. They are much needed and may God bless them in their undertaking.

Level Cross is planning to paint or put rock board on the inside of the church which will add much to its appearence.

Everything looks very favorable for a good year on this charge. I forgot to say that there was a big home-made cocoanut cake in the pounding for Thanksgiving. If any of you brethren come by we will give you a piece.

Our first quarterly conference will meet at Mt. Lebanon church on Saturday before the second Sunday in December at 2:00 p. m. Brethren come and let us plan for the year's work in the service of our Master, Jesus Christ our Lord.

JOEL B. TROGDON, Pastor.

Shiloh, Randolph. — Rev. G. L. Reynolds preached his first sermon yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, using for his text Acts 1:8.

Our new Sunday school superintendent, Mr. James Brown, is much awake to his work. We hope this shall be a good year for church.

We were glad to have several of our young married people out for worship yesterday.

Our Sunday school shows some signs of interest. There were 83 present yesterday, we hope to reach the 100 mark soon.

If the bad weather or sickness does not prevent we shall have a Christmas service and a Christmas tree.

The sick of our community are all much better we are glad to report.

The supper given by the women of the church Saturday was quite a success. Thank one and all who helped.

First quarterly conference of the year for Randolph charge was held at Bethel Saturday at 2:30 o'clock.

There will be a steward's meeting at Mr. Eugene Brown's Friday night, November 29.

The next Ladies' Aid meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Callie Coble, December 5. Let's make this the best meet of the year.

Calvary, Greensboro.—We are indeed glad to have Dr. and Mrs. Pritchard with us another year. They are both splendid people and are doing splendid work. We feel that we are fortunate in having them in our midst.

Dr. Pritchard has started the new year off with more of his fine sermons. He preached a wonderful Thanksgiving sermon last Sunday at the 11:00 o'clock hour.

In the absence of our pastor next Sunday, Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of High Point College, will preach for us at the 11:00 o'clock hour and Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, pastor of Grace church, will preach at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening. We are looking forward with pleasure at having them with us.

Our first quarterly conference is meeting tonight, Tuesday, at which time Dr. Pritchard is planning to introduce several new plans for the new year.

The Senior C. E. society boasts good attendance and fine programs. Mrs. Floyd G. Reynolds is the new president

The Sunday School Workers Council meeting recently held at the home of W. F. Parker was attended by a large and interested group.

We wish to extend sympathy to Miss Kate Woodburn and Mrs. Maud Johnson, whose father, R. C. Woodburn, died last Thursday morning. Mr. Woodburn, however, was a member of Centenary M. E. church but Miss Woodburn and Mrs. Johnson are members of Calvary.

Mrs. L. A. Michael is a patient in Memorial Hospital, Richmond, Va., where she is receiving treatment and will probably undergo an operation later.

Our Missionary circles will meet Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock as follows: No. 1, Mrs. R. F. Laughlin, 1007 Martin street; No. 2. Miss Cozy Whitt, 514 Julian street; No. 3, Mrs. J. F. Caudle, 1415 Asheboro street.

MRS. HOWARD R. NEECE, Reporter.

Midway, Haw River Circuit.—We are very glad to have Rev. J. L. Trollinger and family back with us for another year, this being their seventh year with us. We have learned to love them very much. And we feel sure if every member on the charge will give their support and co-operation we will have another successful year. We are sorry Brother Trollinger's throat is giving him trouble again. Hope he will soon be well. Dr. P. S. Kennett was with him yesterday and preached for us. His sermon and visit were appreciated very much.

Our hearts were made sad in the death of Mrs. J. A. Dixon of Jamestown, whose funeral was conducted at this church yesterday afternoon by Dr. J. D. Williams and our pastor. May the Lord comfort the bereaved family.

All officers have been elected and installed for the new year with only a few changes being made. Our Sunday school attendance has fallen off some due to the fact that so many of our young people are away, some in school, others at work.

With best wishes for a splendid conference year. MRS. G. W. APPLE, Reporter.

Maple Springs, Forsyth Charge.—Our church is doing nicely. We are very glad to have Rev. R. A. Hunter and family back with us again. We have preaching services twice each month, each first Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock and each third Sunday night at 7:30. We have good attendance at these services even though our membership is small.

Our Sunday school is doing nicely also. We have had some new members recently both on church and Sunday school rolls.

Brother R. E. Watts was elected as our superintendent to relieve Brother Ira Baity, who has served so faithfully for so many years. Brother Watts is very interested in this work and we are sure of fine co-operation throughout the entire Sunday school.

A committee has been appointed, and plans are being made for a Christmas entertainment at our church.

The November meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. R. E. Watts, with ten members and one visitor present. Several business items were discussed after which a delicious salad course was served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Brady Beck announce the birth of a daughter, Joanne, October 13, at City Memorial hospital. Mrs. Beck prior to her marriage was Miss Nina Watts.

According to the latest reports Brother Paul Hine, who is a patient at the U. S. Veterans hospital in Tucson, Arizona, is showing slight improvements.

Miss Ida Long, one of our faithful members has had her tonsils removed and is not able to be out much as yet.

The Ann Forrest Bible class held its annual chickenstew at the home of Mrs. E. N. Grubbs on Tuesday, November 19. Their families were invited guests and about 30 people were present at this happy occasion. After delicious chickenstew pumpkin pie, stuffed peppers and roasted peanuts were served; the men and boys enjoyed an opossum hunt while the business meeting was held. Mrs. Ira Baity and Mrs. Brady Beck having a birthday in November were each given a shower of gifts from class members.

When this letter has reached you we will have given Rev. R. A. Hunter and family an old-time pounding which is scheduled to be Tuesday night, November 26.

We had a special Thanksgiving offering in our Sunday school Sunday for the Children's Home and a nice sum was received.

Knob Creek, Fallston Charge.—We are really glad to welcome our beloved pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. Fogleman, back with us for another year. And we can truly say that they have been a great help to us, in all that we have undertaken to do. On last Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Fogleman preached a very interesting sermon. His text was Psalm 122:1 and his subject was based on, "Building Adequate Churches."

On Wednesday, November 20, the Woman's Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. A. J. Jeffers and completed their memory quilt, which had lacked the quilting. This quilt is to be sent to the orphan home.

We are able to report great improvements in our Sunday school. On last Sunday there was 87 present. Some of this is due to the fact that the junior class, of the church, is having a contest, which started the last of October and will end at Christmas. The aim of the class is to secure new members.

As we are approaching the Thanksgiving holidays, we should all be very thankful for all that God has given us. We should do as the Pilgrims did long ago. Be very happy and thankful that our lives have been spared. Now in closing I want to say, that we, the church, as a whole, want to wish every one especially those who are sick, the very best and happiest of Thanksgivings, this year.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Miss Norma Muir, Leeds, Ga., 2 boxes of cookies.

The Ladies of Stallings Church, by Mr. H B. Furr, 2 quilts.

Union Chapel, Granville, 1 quilt.

We are profoundly grateful for all these gifts and wish we had the strength and a bit of Brother Pritchard's ability to rave over them. But you will please accept our great big thank you this time. We do wish to say a special thank you for the advance Thanksgiving offerings this week. We believe the promise is for a great offering for the Home this year. So mote it be.

The many dear friends who have written cards and letters, and who have called to see us during these shut in days have our great appreciation. It is fine to have so many good friends. God bless you every one.

A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Magee

Joseph William Magee, son of Henry J. Magee and his wife, Sara Jane, was born April 4, 1859, in Northampton county, North Carolina. Brother Magee was twice married. his first wife being Mrs. Amos D. Stephenson. to whom he was married in 1882. This union came to an end when she passed away in 1905.

After living alone for seven years, he was again married, his second wife being Mrs. Virginia Wright Massey, of Pleasant Hill, N. C.

It was during the happiness of this last marriage that the writer became his pastor in November, 1921. At this time Brother Magee was a prominent and influential member of the Pleasant Hill Methodist Protestant church on Spring Church charge. His membership had been transferred from Elam Baptist church only a few years prior to our pastorate. At the time we first knew him he was Sunday school superintendent, which office he filled with grace and dignity, remaining in this position for the two years of our pastorate.

Brother Magee was not only a prominent member of his church, but was prominent in the governmental circles of his county. He served as justice of the peace for more than 30 years, he was township tax collector and list taker for a quarter of a century, resigning in 1933 on account of ill health. He became an invalid in March of 1930, and after a long stay in a Richmond hospital returned to his home, where he remained in retirement, and most of the time confined to his bed, until his tired spirit took its flight from a pain-racked body on August 13, 1935.

Brother Magee was counsellor, friend, companion and Christian father to us in the first days of our ministry. His confidence, friendship and sympathetic understanding will ever remain fresh in our memory. When we were discouraged, he found something to make us feel that our work was not in vain. We do not feel that we contributed much to his life, but we know that our own life would have been less happy and useful had he not come into it just when he did.

"Judge" Magee left something of good in the life of the little community of which he was such an important part. It was our privilege to visit him once or twice during the last year of his life, and in those short visits we found the radiance of Jesus shining out of his eyes, and heard testimonies of a never failing faith coming from his lips.

"Sometimes when all life's lessons have been learned,
And sun and stars forevermore have set,
The things which our weak judgments here have spurned,
The things o'er which we grieved with lashes wet,
Will flash before us out of life's dark night,
As stars shine most in deepest tints of blue;
And we shall see how all God's plans are right,
And how what seemed reproof was love most true.

"And we shall see how, while we frown and sigh,
God's plans go on as best for you and me;
How, when we called, He heeded not our cry,
Because His wisdom to the end could see.
And e'en as prudent parents disallow
Too much of sweet to craving babyhood,
So God, perhaps, is keeping from us now
Life's sweetest things because it seemeth good.

"And if sometimes commingled with life's wine
We find the wormwood, and rebel and shrink,
Be sure a wiser Hand than yours or mine
Pours out the potion for our lips to drink;
And if some friend we love is lying low,
Where human kisses cannot reach his face,
Oh, do not blame the loving Father so,
But wear your sorrow with obedient grace!

"And you shall shortly know that lengthened breath
Is not the sweetest gift God sends His friend,
And that sometimes the sable pall of death
Conceals the fairest boon His love can send.
If we could push ajar the gates of life,
And stand within and all God's workings see,
We could interpret all this doubt and strife,
And for each mystery could find a key.

"But not today. Then be content, poor heart:
God's plans like lilies pure and white unfold,
We must not tear the close-shut leaves apart,
Time will reveal the calyxes of gold,
And if through patient toil we reach the land,
When tired feet with sandals loosed may rest,
When we shall clearly know and understand.
I think that we shall say, 'God knew the best.' "

Whitaker

Reverend Carey Hamilton Whitaker was born in the Whitaker's Chapel community near Enfield in Halifax county, North Carolina, on November 30, 1860, and departed this life to be with those who have been promoted from the church militant to the church triumphant from his home in Winston-Salem, N. C., on the 18th day of August, 1935. The time and the place in which one is brought up have something to do with one's after life. Brother Whitaker was brought up in the troublesome times following the Civil War, and from his earliest days he learned the lesson of struggle. He united with Whitaker's Chapel church when he was only eight years old, and it was said of him that he would not be turned aside from his purpose to unite with the church simply because his widowed mother was not able to buy shoes for him to wear while he was being received into church membership. As he grew to young manhood he shouldered a great deal of the responsibilities of the home and helped to support his mother and his younger brothers.

After leaving the schools of his community. Brother Whitaker went to Western Maryland College where he remained for two years. He was in college with Dr. A. N. Ward of sainted memory who, on hearing of Brother Whitaker's death, wrote these words: "He was one of the finest men that ever came to college hill and I loved him dearly."

His first work was in Washington county in 1893 and his last regular work was on the West Forsyth charge in 1928. During his lifetime as a minister Brother Whitaker was interested in young people. Our Church Record, now the Methodist Protestant Herald, printed in 1901, refers to the fact that Brother Whitaker had delivered an address to the state Christian Endeavor convention, which address was said to be one of the very best delivered. As a preacher he was earnest and sincere. He realized the high calling of the preacher of the Word and gave himself to the task without stint. While he was a good preacher he was also a good pastor. One of our ministers recently wrote of him: "He was the best pastor I ever saw. From my earliest days in the ministry I took lessons under him." While he was pastor at Littleton the church there was begun, and while he was pastor in Graham the church there was built. At many other places he had a profitable ministry. It is true that the charges he served never paid large salaries, but he did not slacken his interest because of that. He was willing to serve wherever he was sent.

Being brought up near to the place where our Annual Conference was organized and among people who could remember very well the circumstances leading up to the organizing of our church, it is not to be wondered at that Brother Whitaker was one of the most loyal men our conference ever had. He loved his church and he knew what it stood for. Few men, if any, ever took the work of an Annual Conference session any more seriously than did Brother Whitaker. When the conference adjourned he knew what had been done. For a long period of years he was on the conference Faculty of Instruction. If any man ever had a right to be a member of this body, he did, for when he was a student in the course of instruction he mastered it in one year.

Brother Whitaker was superannuated in 1928 and the remaining years of his life were spent in Winston-Salem where he took great interest in the work of our First church, in evangelistic clubs and any other work he was able to do. At the time of his death, Santford Martin, editor of the Winston-Salem Journal, wrote of him: "Death has called home another faithful minister in the person of Rev. C. H. Whitaker, retired, of the Methodist Protestant church. Mr. Whitaker was a minister of the old school, his work in the divine services carrying him to many points. For years he served as a circuit rider, glorying in the hard tasks which fell upon his shoulders as a guide to the higher ideals among the rural people of the state."

Brother Whitaker was a man who made friends and kept them. He was often referred to as a sweet-spirited man. Those who have been associated with him in the work of the ministry for these many years will sorely miss him, but we shall still think of him as a brother beloved, a friend, a servant of God, a Christian gentleman, and we hope to meet him on the other shore.

He is survived by his widow, who before her marriage was Miss Elizabeth Speight, of Edgecombe county, and who resides with her children at 111 Gloria Avenue, Winston-Salem, and by two sons, Carey, Jr., and Richard, both of Winston-Salem, and by three daughters, Mrs. G. D. Thorne, of Venezuela, South America; Miss Alice Whitaker, of Washington, D. C., and Miss Emma Lewis Whitaker, of Winston-Salem.

A brief funeral service was held in honor of Brother Whitaker in a funeral parlor in Winston-Salem and was conducted by Rev. R. A Hunter, while the funeral proper was held at Whitaker's Chapel church near Enfield and was conducted by Rev. J. E. Pritchard, assisted by Rev. R. C. Stubbins.

Swaim

James Willis Swaim was born in Davidson county April 6, 1861, the son of E. V. and Mary Kennedy Swaim, and departed this life on November 8, 1935. Mr. Swaim was a member of the Spring Hill Methodist Protestant church near High Point and for many years he was a trustee of that church. On December 6, 1886, Mr. Swaim was married to Miss Lutricia Kennedy, who, with four sons and two daughters, survive. The sons are Carl, Roy, Jennings, and Wayne Swaim, and the daughters are Mrs. D. L. Johnson and Mrs. Henry Byerly.

Mr. Swaim was a well-known farmer, an honorable and highly respected citizen. In the home, the church and the community his life was upright and firm. Now that his spirit has been transferred to its heavenly home, his good influence will long remain a blessing to those who follow.

The funeral services were conducted at the Spring Hill M. P. church Saturday afternoon, November 9, at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. C. K. Gentry, pastor of the First Wesleyan Methodist church of High Point, was in charge. assisted by Dean P. E. Lindley, of High Point College, and by Rev. I. T. Sisk, of the Wesleyan Methodist church. The great throng of friends, neighbors and loved ones attending the funeral gave evidence of the wide circle of friends who felt the loss of a good man in the community. There was a fine offering of beautiful flowers. May our Heavenly Father in His loving care keep those who are so sorely grieved at this time.

Gray

Junius Alson Gray, a son of Armenius and Emma Elizabeth Walker Gray, and a grandson of Rev. Alson Gray, one of the founders of the Methodist Protestant church in North Carolina, was born at the ancestral home of his grandfather in the Fairfield church community, Guilford county, June 20, 1872.

He died January 31, 1935, after a lingering illness of many months.

He attended the public schools of the community and the academy at Jamestown, N. C

He came to High Point when a young man and identified himself with the business interests of the town. For over 25 years he was connected with the High Point Hardware Company and was industrious and honorable in all his dealings. His life endeavors as business man, civic and religious leader, contributed much to the town.

J. A. Gray joined the First Methodist Protestant church of High Point in 1895, under the pastorate of Rev. W. R. Lowdermilk. He was active in all the affairs of the church as long as his health permitted, and spared not himself or his means in promoting the best interests of the organization. He was superintendent of the Sunday school for 15 years. He served as chairman of the board of stewards, was a member of the board at the time of his death, and had held practically every place of honor and trust the church could bestow upon a layman. He loved his church and served it well.

In character and life he was unblameable. He was clean in thought and circumspect in example, and most highly respected by all who knew him.

In his home he was a devoted husband and a dutiful father. He was tenderly nursed by his loved ones during the long months of his decline and bore his illness with patience and fortitude.

On October 25, 1916, he was married to Miss Ilene Hutchinson, of Charlotte, N. C., who survives with four sons: Alson, Jr., Joe, Gilbert, and William; a sister, Mrs. J. B. Spencer, and one brother, C. L. Gray, both of High Point, N. C.

In the death of J. A. Gray our church has lost one of her most loyal members.

Since an all-wise Father in His infinite wisdom has taken from our midst J. A. Gray;

Therefore, be it resolved:

That we cherish as a rich legacy the memory of this faithful and consecrated member.

That we express to the family our profound sympathy in the great loss we have sustained.

That a copy of these resolutions be recorded in our minutes and a copy be sent to the Methodist Protestant Herald for publication and to the bereaved family.

"There is no death;
What seems so is transition,
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life elysian
Whose portals we call Death."

Willey

Sarah Dorr Willey, born December 25, 1864; died October 10, 1935.

"God's finger touched her and she slept."

When on the afternoon of October 10, 1935, the sweet spirit of my beloved mother was called to her heavenly home, a beautiful life was ended here and a life more beautiful begun There, "in that house not made with hands, eternal in the skies."

Heaven is another place because she is there, just as earth is another place because she is not here.

Looking backward, I recall no act or evidence of selfishness through the years of her life. In the closest of life's relationships she was the ideal home-maker. She made her home the center of loving interest to her husband and 12 children, 10 of whom survive her. It was a gathering place for friends young and old.

Mother was modest and shrinking in her estimate of self, but we know that great hearts never beat loud and that her influence will be felt throughout the years, for she lives in the hearts of her children and of all who have been touched by her saintly life. Her lofty ideals and the sunshine of her faith in her God and fellow-man was so radiant that it was never marred by a cloud of doubt or bitterness.

She was a loyal and devoted member of Eden Methodist Protestant church, and while she was not always permitted to be there in presence for the services she was there in spirit. One of the stewards of the church once said to me, "To see your mother at church is an inspiration and a benediction." She loved and contributed to every activity of her church and worked even beyond her physical strength.

When she was no longer able to attend the meetings of her missionary society it was my great privilege and pleasure to entertain them in her home once each year.

It was these attributes of soul which made her the friend and counselor, the inspiration not only to her husband and children but all with whom she came in contact.

For her the scene is closed,
The day is done,
And I doubt not that could she but speak to us from the other side,
She would say, "It is well with my soul."
Tread soft, speak low,
God's angels guard her holy rest;
Our lips are dumb, we loved her so,
And yet we know God loved her best.

Her devoted daughter,
FRANCES WILLEY NEVILLE.

THANKSGIVING TURKEY

A bird of fame but not of mirth,
Whose prominence sweeps o'er the earth;
  Roosts high beneath the summer skies,
  Most always walks and seldom flies;
Well known for stride and quickened breath,
And famous for a place in death:
  The casket is an oven hot;
  Pall-bearers, "friends" there on the spot.

Thanksgiving Day ends that career,
Brings forth rejoicing and good cheer;
  The sacrifice is not of choice,
  Yet makes folks happy and rejoice;
That life obscure is not in vain,
For gladness follows in the main,
  And, in the wake, come out "glad hands,"
  Which this old world well understands.

A turkey dinner, hot and rare,
Enough for all and some to spare,
  Unlooses tongues and unlocks hearts
  And unfolds minds in many parts;
It even draws a larger laugh,
A bigger joke—and that's not half:
  It limbers up a fellow's ways
  To act the same on other days.

Therefore, Thanksgiving means a joy—
A time of sunshine to employ
  The virtues of life's dearest trends
  To mix and mingle with one's friends,
And think, of course, about the bake
Of rarest fowl and pie and cake
  And how the turkey graced the plates
  Of ev'ry one who celebrates!

CATASTROPHE AVOIDED AT CHILDREN'S HOME

The daily press reports the near tragedy at our Children's Home at High Point. On Monday night a person passing the Home discovered a fire in the girls' dormitory and turned in the alarm in time for the High Point fire company to save the building. Sixty-one persons, all children except three, were sleeping in the building, and the fire soon would have cut off the only stairway exit. An electric iron caused the fire. It makes us shudder to think what might have happened.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS

Pensacola	20
Henderson	18
Danville	17

There has been no change in the percentages since last week. The same figures stand there, bearing testimony to the fact that no place did any great things this week.

Now let us look at the subscription receipts. Mr. C. B. Price, the agent at Kannapolis leads the list in individual amounts this week, however, Cleveland circuit really sent in more money than did any other charge. The difference was that three different persons sent it in and we credit money to the person sending it in as well as to the charge. Other contributions were in two and one dollar amounts.

While there was not much doing along the line of subscriptions, there was one fine payment on subsidy, this being from the Henderson church. Thew pay subsidy in full, besides they are one of the largest contributors in subscriptions since the Annual Conference closed. We are fully expecting Henderson to do big things for the Herald this year.

This is being written late Tuesday afternoon and we are acknowledging all money received up to that time. We are of the opinion that a good many folks failed to read our notice of last week saying that on account of Thanksgiving we would close our books one day earlier and would print the Herald one day earlier this week. Money that comes in later in the week will be acknowledged next week.

Thanksgiving will soon be over and we are asking all pastor and Herald agents to get busy and send us in enough subscriptions during the winter months to tide us over the lean months of next summer. We did well last year and we ought to do better this year.

Our receipts this week amount to $39.00, $29.00 being on subscriptions and $10.00 being on subsidy.

COUPONS FOR THE CHILDREN'S HOME

Many of the coupons redeemable by the Colgate people have double value up to January 1, 1936, but the company asks us to get the coupons to them as early as may be in December that they may not be overwhelmed with the counting of them late in December.

So please send in all you possibly can early in December. This will help us and the company. Then go on saving until December 30 and mail me then all you have at that time, so we may get the advantage of all the double value ones.

The campaign for coupons continues until June 1, 1936, but the double value is only promised until January 1, 1936.

We greatly appreciate your help in this undertaking.

A Day on Halifax Charge

It was our great privilege to spend last Sunday with the people of Halifax charge, the first charge we ever served. There were three appointments during the day, at Eden at 11 o'clock, Union at 3, and Hollister at 7:30.

The congregation at Eden was said to be larger than usual and we enjoyed speaking to them. This church is well located in a good farming section of Halifax county, and is four miles from Enfield. The church building is neat and makes a good impression on the stranger. Because of sentimental reasons it may look better to us than it does to others, for while we were there as a very young preacher this church building was considerably remodeled, a recess pulpit, a tower and vestibule being built, and art glass windows and the new pews were put in. Last yea, under the leadership of Rev. O. C. Loy, a hut was built on the church grounds, which adds considerably to the convenience of the women when they want to serve. This charge at the present time is without a pastor, hence our visit at this time.

The afternoon appointment was at Union church. The Woman's Auxiliary had their Thanksgiving service at 2 o'clock, Mrs. J. H. Cutchin of Whitakers being the speaker. Following her address we had the privilege of speaking to a good-sized congregation. This church also has a tender spot in our heart, for it is the only church building that has ever been erected from the ground up under our ministry. The old one was torn away and the new one built on the same spot. While the building is not large, yet it has served a good purpose for more than twenty years.

The evening appointment was at Hollister. And here we register another first: we were the first to preach in Hollister. Back in the days when it seemed that Hollister was destined to become a real city we began preaching in the school house there in the hope that Lee's Chapel church, which is a little more than a mile away, might be moved to Hollister. This was accomplished during the pastorate of our successor, Rev. R. A. Swearingen. The Hollister church building is the best on the charge and is ample, we presume, for the needs of the congregation. Since the lumber industry that was once the outstanding thing in the life of Hollister no longer plays the part it once did, the place is not growing much, although there are several people there. It was a great privilege to preach to the people there as well as at the other places. There are three other churches on the charge, but we could not visit all of them the same day. Dr. Bethea will be on the charge next Sunday, Dr. Andrews the third Sunday, and Rev. E. O. Peeler the fourth Sunday.

And now, having said some things about the services, we want to say a few things about the charge in general. Halifax ranks as one of our best rural charges. A few years ago it stood at the head of the list of all of our rural charges in the matter of salary paid. From the standpoint of culture and refinement it is one of the best we have. And in the matter of appreciating a pastor, we feel that we would be safe in saying it has no superiors and but few equals. During our pastorate there we had so much given to us that it did not require much money to live on. As we think back over the days of our sojourn in these parts we have a feeling that we would like to go the second round some time. If we were not already tied to more jobs than we can handle, we might be beseeching President Andrews to send us down there now.

Halifax not only has some of the finest people in the world, but it is also a fine farming section. A great many of the people raise cotton, tobacco, and peanuts, not in terms of hundreds of dollars but thousands. To see their fine, level fields with the rows of cotton so long you can hardly see to the other end gives one a feeling of bigness that he does not get everywhere.

During the past week-end we were entertained in the very hospitable home of Brother J. W. Hardee and family, and are under lasting obligations to them, not only for courtesies received on this occasion, but on many other occasions. Brother Hardee's daughter, Miss Blanche, was the delegate to the recent session of the Annual Conference at Henderson, and as we have said before, made a good run in the voting for the lay member of the Stationing Committee, and was also elected an alternate delegate to the next General Conference. We are also indebted to her and to Brother Z. A. Hardee for wheeling us around at a good speed in the Terraplane. While on this trip we were able to pick up some renewals with the promise of some new subscriptions for the HERALD at an early date. Taking everything into consideration it was a great trip for us, and we hope to go again some day.

In our absence from Calvary last Sunday, Dr G. I. Humphries preached for our people at the 11 o'clock hour, and Rev. J. Elwood Carroll at 7:30. Both, we understand, delivered fine sermons.

Material Crowded Out This Week

We have so much material on hand this week that it is impossible to run it all. In order to run as much of it as possible, we have set some of it in smaller type than usual. We hope to see daylight by next week. In the meantime, let correspondents keep on writing, but let them condense as much as possible.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR THE SEMINARY

Christmas is almost here. It is a great festival—the festival of giving. It is the anniversary of God's greatest gift to men. It is also the anniversary of men's first gift to Jesus Christ. We will, of course, celebrate Christmas by giving.

The value of our gifts is determined by three factors—the spirit of the giver, the need of the receiver, and the adequacy of the gift to express the devotion of the benefactor and to meet the need of the recipient. Of these factors, the first is by far the most important. Because of her generous spirit, the poor widow's two mites were declared by the Master to be "more" than the "much" which all the rich cast into the treasury. "The gift without the giver is bare."

" 'Tis not the weight of jewel or plate,
Or the fondel of silk or fur;
'Tis the spirit in which the gift is rich
As the gifts of the Wise Men were;
And we are not told whose gift was gold
Or whose was the gift of myrrh."

When the spirit of the giver is devoted and loyal, it is certain that the gift will suitably express that spirit and worthily serve the needy recipient.

Every reader of these lines is going to make some Christmas gifts. Already the list of recipients and gifts is being prepared. The Westminster Theological Seminary asks for a place on that list. And it makes bold to suggest what it would like to receive.

It is always grateful for gifts to its permanent endowment fund, its scholarship fund, and its current fund. Because of several unusual expenses incurred this year, gifts to the latter fund are especialy desired. Then, too, it has no library fund. It is constantly in need of such funds for the purchase of new books and religious and theological journals. Just now the library needs very badly Webster's New International Dictionary and the new Encyclopædia Britanica. The president's office needs a new typewriter, adding machine, and mimeograph. The Chapel needs a new pulpit Bible, 100 of the new Methodist Hymnals, and about 125 new seats.

Your love for the institution and its pressing needs warrants a generous Christmas gift. Give it now. Speak to your friends about it and ask them to join you in this giving. It will do you good. "It is more blessed to give than to receive." "God loves a cheerful giver." It will do the Seminary good. God loves a grateful receiver.

Send your gifts to the Westminster Theological Seminary, Westminster, Maryland. Should you wish further information, write to

C. E. Forlines, Acting President
Westminster, Maryland.

Liquor a Great Menace

Already a number of people have had their driver's license canceled for driving while drunk. We are glad the courts have the courage to cancel the license of the intoxicated driver for he is a menace to society. When we remember what liquor has done and what it is doing, we wonder how anybody can defend it. It is one of man's greatest enemies. Away with it!

AN HONEST CONFESSION

They tell me "an honest confession is good for the soul." If it's true, then the folks down at Siler Sity, including Brother Los Wrenn, ought to be feeling much better. I had this letter from him last Monday:

> "I enclose check for $31.25, our part of the McCulloch Memorial Fund. We were sorry that we could not send it last year but did not. But last Sunday morning we got busy at Sunday school and raised the balance in a very short time and without any great ado about it. It made me so glad that we could join the other churches in paying this worthy sum."

You folks that ain't done it, how do you like that? Read them words careful: "Sorry." "Got busy." "Glad." "Join other churches." "Worthy sum." Well, they certainly had a godly sorrow, and brought forth "works meet for repentance." "Go thou and do likewise." It can be done just as Brother Wrenn suggests: "Get busy in the Sunday school." Take it up with the classes and organizations, and put it over. As soon as you get it, I'm through. And I want to quit.

Here's how we stand:

Amount previously reported	$2,497.83

THE FIRST IN TEN THOUSAND YEARS

The following letter, telling us about the resolutions passed by the Enfield-Whitakers quarterly conference, is the first of its kind ever received by us, and the editor greatly appreciates it. Now read the letter from Brother Peeler.—Editor's Note.

Enfield, N. C., December 3, 1935

Rev. J. E. Pritchard, D.D.,
Greensboro, N. C.

Dear Dr. Pritchard:

Enfield and Whitakers charges held their first quarterly conference for the year 1935-36 jointly in the Enfield church on December 2, 1935, at 7:30 o'clock, and delegated the pastor to write you this note extending you their greetings, and their appreciation for your faithful and efficient service as editor of the Methodist Protestant Herald.

I am Yours truly,
Edgar O. Peeler, Pastor

The Herald as a Christmas Present

What about giving the Herald to some friend for Christmas? Think it over and send us the subscription as early as possible. After this week there will be just two more issues before Christmas, no paper being printed Christmas week.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Did Your Church Take Thanksgiving Offering for the Home?

The challenge of the Dixons is, if sixty per cent or more of the pastors will write to me that this offering was taken in their churches, then the Dixons will give one month's salary instead of one day's wage to the Home. I have been notified by Pastors B. M. Williams, E. G. Cowan, and J. C. Madison that their churches took the offering. How about yours? Let me hear at once, please, so I can certify that the condition has been met.

W W B F (We Would Be Faithful)

I am here proposing five channels of activity through which your faithfulness might go. These objectives have their roots throughout the entire personal and denominational life and activity of every loyal church member. These are as follows:

1. I will be faithful in my daily Christian duties and try to bring at least one soul to Christ this year.
2. I will be faithful in my endeavor to increase the attendance upon the worship service of my church.
3. I will be faithful in my endeavor to increase the spiritual atmosphere of my church service. By prayerfulness, by attention and meditation in the service I will seek to produce a better spiritual atmosphere.
4. I will be faithful in my endeavor to increase the contributions to all the benevolences sponsored by my denomination. By giving of my own means and encouraging others to give.
5. I will be faithful in my endeavors to increase the circulation of our church papers. By subscribing and reading the papers myself and by endeavoring to get others to do likewise.

Faithfulness is the one requirement of all God's children. There is no other standard set by which we are to be judged that ranks with its importance. There is no list of activities which all of us must make the same grade of efficiency in. Some may grade low and succeed, while others grade high and lose because the low grader did the best he could, while the high grader could have done so much better that his high grade was low for him. So we come back to faithfulness as the real test. "Be thou faithful unto death."

The great problem all have to meet is to keep out of our thoughts and lives those things which would prevent our being faithful. The preacher has to guard his life lest he be unfaithful to his ordination vow—lest he be unfaithful to the flock of God over which he is the watchman. Many temptations to waste his time, gadding around over the country, neglecting his church members, neglecting to prepare his messages, etc., have to be recognized and resisted And every church member has the same task. He is due his Lord and Master the best there is in his life. He must give this to Him or he will be unfaithful to Him. Whatever comes in your way, preventing your doing your part in the work of the Kingdom, must be resisted. So let's make this slogan ours—We Would Be Faithful.

Orange Charge, Rev. B. M. Williams, Pastor

I attended the first quarterly conference of this charge at Hebron last Saturday and thereby assisted in starting Brother Williams off on his twelfth annual journey around this circuit. Brother Williams may become a "fixed star" before very long, as he is now entering such an area or period. Anyhow, the people express pleasure at his return, and the work is planned for increased activity along many lines. I heard the expression, "We have no debt now," so I presume the people will do more for the denominational claims than formerly, for there must be no retrenchment in financial activities.

Sunday, I spent the day with Brother E. G. Cowan on Seagrove-Lovejoy charge. We began the day at Fairgrove church. This is one of the older church centers in the community. It is the seat of a high school which was run in a building near by the church. The building is gone, but here and there we meet with some who attended this preparatory school. It is the home of two of our preachers, Bros. J. Clyde Auman and B. M. Williams. There are also three of the Auman brothers in our First church, High Point. Not many churches have made such a contribution to the denomination as Fairgrove. The congregation was not large but interested. I enjoyed preaching here. The service was held at 10 a.m., and at 11 a.m. we were at Seagrove church. I have written of this church upon my former visit here. But the whole surroundings have a pleasing effect upon one, the exterior and the interior of the building, etc. There was a much larger attendance here than when I visited the church more than a year ago. The church membership has almost doubled during the present pastorate, and there is evident a most hopeful attitude on the part of the members. The delegate to the last annual conference from this charge is a member of this church, and is one of the most active members of the church, being superintendent of the Sunday school. The pastor remarked about him that Brother Richardson recognizes the youth in his programs in a way that is always helpful.

Dinner was served in the basement of the church, as we were to hold the quarterly conference in the afternoon, and all certainly enjoyed this part of the program to the fullest limit, including the pastor and the president.

A new heating system has been installed, so the building can be made most comfortable; a church bulletin is also typed for the congregation, and there is evidence in the attitude of the members that they appreciate the presence of visitors. I enjoyed my visit to this loyal band of workers.

The quarterly conference was held at Fairgrove in the afternoon. The usual business at the first conference was transacted, except the salary was increased more than one hundred dollars for the year. That is quite out of the ordinary, but certainly good form. Seagrove appreciates its pastor, and we believe the new year will be a good one. We leave the details of the conference to the local reporter to cover.

THE CRY OF DISTRESS

"A friend asked a life-saver at Newport, R. I., how he could tell when any one of the thousands of persons on the beach and in the water was in need of help, to which he replied: 'There has never been a time when I could not distinguish the cry of distress above all other noises.' And that is exactly like God. In the midst of the babel and confusion He never fails to hear the soul that cries out to Him for help amid the breakers and storms of life."—Selected.

Why We Cannot Supply Back Numbers

Quite frequently people write us asking us to send them so many copies of a previous issue. Many times we cannot grant the request for this reason: The Herald does not own a printing plant, but pays McCulloch & Swain, who are commercial printers, so much a copy to print the paper. Not knowing that we shall be able to dispose of them, and since we have to pay for every copy printed, it can readily be seen that we cannot afford to have many more copies printed than is required for the regular list.

Those who want extra copies will confer a favor on us by letting us know it by Wednesday noon of each week.

FAILURE OF REPEAL

The records of a leading insurance company reveal the fact that with people under thirty years of age there has been an increase in the use of liquors of 138 per cent since repeal. Repeal has failed.—Herald of Holiness.

Dr. Bethea to Be on Halifax

Dr. N. G. Bethea, the pastor of West End church in Greensboro, will supply on Halifax charge next Sunday, being at Bethesda at 11 a.m., Ringwood at 3 p.m., and Hollister at 7:30 p.m. Dr. Bethea served this charge for several years.

JAMES AND THE POISON IVY

James lived near Lake Michigan and among the trees that surrounded his home there was a great deal of poison ivy. James' father was careful to show him the dangerous plant, explaining that he was not to touch it because it would poison his hands and get on his face and make him sick.

"Do you think you know the plant now, James?" asked his father.

"Yes, daddy," was the reply.

"Well, then, see if you can find some."

James searched under an oak tree and soon called to his father, "Here I have found some, daddy."

After walking on for some distance he asked again, "Can you find some poison ivy here?"

"Here it is, daddy," said the boy, pointing to a shiny green leaf.

"That is right," said his father. "Now that you know the poison ivy you will be careful not to touch it when you are playing."

Not many days after this, James' mother noticed that his hands and face were covered with little red pimples.

"How can this be?" said his father. "It looks very much like poison ivy. How could you get poisoned, sonny, after daddy warned you about it?"

James began to cry and said in a pitiful voice: "I was out in the woods with Harry and showed him how to tell poison ivy. We wanted to see if it would really poison us, and so we picked some leaves and rubbed it on."

There seems to be something within the nature of every boy and girl, man and woman, which makes them want to do the very thing they know they have been forbidden to do. In this we are all very much like Adam and Eve, who could not resist the temptation to do the one thing that God told them not to do. As soon as a boy or girl gets big enough to toddle around, he or she begins to do things that are not right. At first we may think it amusing, but it is sin. "There is no difference: for all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God" (Rom. 3:23).

The poison ivy left its mark on James and made him suffer. Sin leaves its deadly mark and brings untold suffering, not only in this life, but in the world to come, if its deadly effects are not counteracted.

Thank God there is a remedy. We are reminded of it in the "tree of life whose leaves are for the healing of the nations." The Lord Jesus Christ bore the smart and curse of sin when He hung upon the Cross at Calvary, and now all who lay hold upon Him, simply receiving Him as their own personal Savior, are made clean in the sight of God and have eternal life.—Life Line.

SOME KINGS!

The pupils of a school were asked to write an original composition on "Kings." The prize was taken by a bright youth who wrote the following, says the "Classmate":

The most powerful king on earth is Wor-king; the laziest, Shir-king; a very offensive one, Smo-king; the wittiest, Jo-king; the leanest, Thin-king; the silliest, Win-king; the most garrulous, Tal-king.—Sunbeams.

Note the great number of personal Thanksgiving offerings, and to us here at the Home there is a personal touch about them all. The accompanying letters mean so much to us. Our very youngest church sends check for $25, and to date Henderson sends the largest amount of any one church. We hope to top that in our next report. In sending regular offering Asheboro says, "We take pleasure in notifying you that we have increased our monthly offering for the year, so you may expect $35 per month." Fine, to set a monthly goal, or if you already have a goal, to increase that goal will help us through the entire year. Note also the gift from the friends in far-away Canada.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Mr. Arthur Ross, Asheboro, 12 boxes of Brame's Vapormentha salve. Mt. Carmel. Forsyth, 4 pumpkins, 3½ bu. Irish potatoes, 1 bu. sweet potatoes, 14 half-gallon and 7 quart cans of fruit and vegetables. Baltimore, West Forsyth, 15 bu. wheat, 5 bu. corn, 3 bu. Irish potatoes, 9 chickens, 2 pumpkins, 2 cakes, 1 box cookies, 81 half-gallon and 5 quart cans of fruit and vegetables. Woman's Auxiliary, Charlotte, 1 pk. Irish potatoes, 1 pk. sweet potatoes, 1 lb. box of crackers, 9 half-gallon, 7 quart and 4 pint cans fruit and vegetables, 2 dresses, 4 dozen pair socks, 1 pumpkin and 10 lbs. sugar. Lebanon Auxiliary, High Point, 109 half-gallon, 18 quart and 2 pint cans fruit and vegetables, 17 towels, 24 kitchen towels, 26 washcloths, 5 cakes soap, and 2 quilt tops. Junior High School, High Point, 20 jars preserves and jellies, 7 boxes corn flakes, 11 boxes Quaker oats, and several other small packages of various articles. Friendship Station, 57 half-gallon cans fruit and vegetables, 5 bu. corn, 3 bu. wheat, 2 bu. oats, 1 bu. cotton seed, 2 bu. sweet potatoes, 1 pumpkin, 2 heads cabbage, 1 dress, 1 pr. pants, 1 bu. turnips. Richland Circuit, 5 lbs. sugar, 3 half-gallon and 6 quart cans fruit and vegetables, 2 jars preserves, 1 pumpkin, 5 lbs. peanuts, 1 pk. potatoes, and 1 bag of corn meal. Midland Circuit, 105 half-gallon cans fruit and vegetables. Fairfield, Guilford, 10 cakes and 2 half-gallon cans fruit and vegetables. Haw River Circuit, 9 pumpkins, 40 lbs. sugar, 16½ bu. wheat, 1 coat, 1 dress, 1 bu. corn, 8 bu. sweet potatoes, 6 bu. Irish potatoes, 26 half-gallon and 48 quart cans fruit and vegetables, 1 box Quaker oats, 8 lbs. lard, 2 gallons molasses, 2 boxes tapioca, and 1 lb. brown sugar. Mr. and Mrs. J. Norman Wills, Greensboro, 1 victrola and records. (It may be that some of you have a number of records which you are not using which you would donate to go with this victrola.)

We are thankful for so good a report, both of money and other gifts. Especially do we appreciate the gifts of grain. Our farmer friends are doing better with this than ever before. There are a few donations in but not listed. They will be reported next week.

The Near-Fire in Girls' Dormitory

Many of you have doubtless read in the daily press of our near-calamity here, and with us you shudder at the thought. It might have been a great calamity but for the ready response of three men who were passing and the quick response to their call by one of the fire companies of High Point. We regret very much that any one in that building was careless enough to have an electric iron attached. They are instructed over and over again never to leave an iron until it is detached from the fixtures. But we do wish all our people to know that it would be practically impossible for a child, or group of children, to be trapped by fire in either one of our dormitories. The stairs which are in daily use, together with the fire escapes, are so arranged that it would be next to impossible for any child to be so shut off from escape. Mrs. Dixon and I sleep in that building ordinarily, but having been ordered to bed for complete quiet and rest, it was necessary for me to move over to the superintendent's home, and wife had to stay with me We will be back in the dormitory soon, we hope. The loss was small and covered by insurance.

A. G. DIXON,
Superintendent.

COLLEGE GIRLS HOLD SERVICES

No, being away from home in the remotest of schools and absorbed in tense study does not cause enthusiastic young people to drift away from or forget the true spirit of real thanksgiving. Rather, it makes the meaning fuller.

This was verified last Sunday evening when the Y. W. C. A. of Appalachian State Teachers' College held their meeting in the dormitory at Lovell Hall. A sincere group of 250 college girls, coming from all parts of this state, expressed their gratitude in a simple impressive way.

Six of the group presented a Thanksgiving play of two scenes. Following the play everyone marched in single file past a table on which they left a Thanksgiving offering. then formed a kneeling group around the altar and softly sang "Faith of Our Fathers," and "Taps," with which we were dismissed.

The offering consisted of fruits, vegetables. eggs, canned products, and silver coin, and was given to some of the needy families of Watauga county.

"It is not what we give but what we share for the gift without the giver is bare."

The dormitory students are not permitted to attend Sunday evening church services but of their own initiative hold worship each Sunday evening at 6 o'clock in this organization.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DAY—JANUARY 26, 1936

Young People's Day samples will be mailed the first week in December. I am sure that our young people and church leaders everywhere will welcome the Young People's Day materials which consist of the following:

An attractive poster on which is "Christ at Thirty-three," by Hofmann.

A suitable Worship Leaflet including a Recognition Service for the Sunday school, morning church service, and Youth Candlelight communion service.

We also are glad to announce that Miss Dorothy Elderdice has prepared for us another play. This is a Biblical play entitled "Demas," which can be staged in any church.

Should your samples not reach you, please advise us and we will place you on our mailing list.

Reserve the date of January 26, 1936, on your church calendar for this event.

HELPS FOR YOUR CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

We are receiving a number of requests for Christmas program helps. We trust that the following suggestions will be of help to the leaders of our local churches.

A Christmas Pantomime, by Martha Race—This has a cast composed of a reader and the usual Christmas play characters. With the reader, little or no memorizing is required. We have 300 copies of this play and will send them to you free as long as they last. Please enclose 10 cents for postage.

In the International Journal of Religious Education, December, 1935:

A Christmas Dawn Worship Service—"The Light Goes On," by R. Park Johnson, page 14.

A Christmas Story—"Anthony Lights the Tree," by O. G. Herbrecht, page 15.

Christmas Worship in the Children's Departments by Mary Alice Jones, page 16.

A Christmas Eve Candlelight Service—"The Gloria in Excelsis," by Victor M. Rhein.

A New Year's Service by J. Gordon Howard.

A single copy of the International Journal of Religious Education may be had for 15 cents from 203 North Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill., price $1.25 per year.

Other Christmas plays from Samuel French Co., 25 W. 45th Street, New York:

"The Star Gleam," by Florence Lewis Speare. Price 53 cents. No royalty. Christmas outdoor nativity pageant.

"The Nativity," by Rosamond Kimball. Price 25c. No royalty. Christmas service—story of nativity told through words of Bible.

"Why the Chimes Rang," by Elizabeth McFadden. Price 35c. Royalty $5 where no admission is charged, $10 where admission is charged. Especially suited for children at Christmas. Story of a boy who gave himself with his good deed.

"Mimi Lights the Candle," by Edith Coulter. Price 30c. No royalty. A charming play about Christmas in which the age-old idea of the coming of the Christ child is given an original and beautiful mode of treatment. Can be produced any time of the year, since the story is universal.

For recitation and helps for building December worship program of the various departments of the church, see the November issue of the International Journal of Religious Education, page 25. Also, consult other religious magazines, such as Methodist Protestant-Recorder, Missionary Record, Christian Herald, etc.

If we can be of further assistance to you in planning your Christmas service, please feel free to write for information.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

KEEPING CHRIST IN CHRISTMAS

Luke 2:8-14; Ephesians 4:11-13

By MRS. EUGENE A. LAMB

Christmas can be a selling campaign
To keep American business out of the red;
Or it can be a spiritual tonic
That will build soul morale. WHICH?

Hymns: Poets are they who put their dreams in song, and songs have always brightened the way of life. But no songs have done more to cheer and hearten the weary and discouraged and to increase and express the joy of the happy than the songs of Christmas time. So let them express our joy in this Christmas season, and let us worship through them. Use the beautiful Christmas hymns in your program.

Prayer: A silent prayer, that the Christmas spirit may be very real in our lives, that we "may learn to share the Christmas joy we sing."

Suggestions for Discussion of Topic

In doing my Christmas reading last year I came across this: some people write Christmas like this: "Xmas." In algebra we learn that X equals nothing—therefore, in writing Christmas like the above, we let Christ equal nothing. Is it true that we are celebrating Christmas and letting Christ have no share in it?

The poet says: "In day and deed he has no part, Who holds not Christmas in his heart." There are many people who fear they cannot celebrate Christmas properly unless they have plenty of money. But you can't buy the Christmas spirit. There's only one way to get it, that's by being well acquainted with him whose birthday party Christmas is. Jesus had no costly gifts for anyone but He gave so bountifully of love and understanding that He made every one who knew him feel rich and happy.

One of the Finest Features of Christmas, Many dormant sympathies and generous impulses are awakened at Christmas time. We write words of greeting to friends scattered far and wide. We use our ingenuity to devise gifts that will bring delight to children Happy, happy Christmas that can win us back to love and simplicity of heart! To some of us the true Christmas message has less meaning than when we heard it first. There are times when a wave of Christ-love strays into our spirits, but these experiences are not as frequent as they should be.

Are you a Christmas shopper like this? Do you give others this idea of Christmas? A little Jewish girl from the East Side of New York, who secured work in a store during the holiday season, met with an accident, and was ministered to in her sufferings by a trained nurse. She looked appealingly into the face of the nurse, and asked incredulously, "Is it true that you are a Christian?" Upon being answered in the affirmative, she replied, "You are so polite and gentle, I didn't think you could be; but then, the only Christians I've seen are Christmas shoppers."

Why should we keep Christ in Christmas? Christ should either be kept in Christmas, or Christmas should cease to wear the name of Christ. It is ridiculous to observe a birthday and neglect to honor the One whose birth it celebrates. It is a sad day, instead of a "glad day," when the Christ-child is unceremoniously shoved aside, and the anniversary of our Lord's birth is then exploited by selfish commercial interests and the exchange of 'loveless" gifts. At least one day in the 365 should find us in meditation upon the surpassing blessing which came to earth in the person of the Lord Jesus at Bethlehem. The day should be so hallowed in the hearts of Christians that they should intuitively resent any attempt to obscure its true meaning. Santa Claus needs to be relegated to the background in Christian observance. The "exchange of presents" should be substituted by a real spirit of giving.

How would Christ have His followers celebrate the anniversary of His birth? It is cause for surprise that the birthday anniversary of our King should ever have been so changed that children could grow up with an entirely erroneous conception of the meaning of the day. A 16-year-old high school girl of good average intelligence boarded in the home of a minister in western Oklahoma. Near the Christmas season the subject of Christmas was brought up at frequent intervals. One day this young woman said, "Well, tell me what Christmas is for, anyway." At first they thought she was only joking, but found, upon inquiry, that she was in dense ignorance of the meaning of Christmas. In this same town a so-called "Christmas program" was presented one year by the church of Christ, and during the entire program the name of Christ was not mentioned. There was place for "Old St. Nick" and for the names of all his reindeer, but no room in the inn that night for even the name of Christ, and this on His own birthday anniversary, too!

A Legend of Christmas. There is an old story of a humble wood-cutter who cut green branches for his humble home, but had nothing with which to beautify those branches. Then, in the snow, he found a child in rags, cold and hungry. He brought him to the warmth of his home fireside and gave him his own supper. By morning the child had gone, but on the boughs of the trees that had been bare there was a web of light, like a blaze of gold and silver tinsel. So did the woodcutter have the richest of decorations for the trees beneath which his thankful family gathered.

Let us begin this Christmas to replace a social life in which division, falsehood, and violence are all-powerful, with a new order in which humanity, truth, and brotherhood shall reign. Let us give ourselves up absolutely to the Christmas spirit of love and fellowship, and we shall find our mental barriers crumbling away as the year circles around to another Christmas.

"CHRISTMAS IN THE HEART"

It is Christmas in the mansion,
  Yule-log fires and silken frocks;
It is Christmas in the cottage,
  Mother's filling little socks.

It is Christmas on the highway,
  In the thronging, busy mart;
But the dearest, truest Christmas
  Is the Christmas in the heart.

Think About These

1. What should be the church's program for Christmas Day?
2. How should a Christian select Christmas cards?
3. How can we perpetuate the true Christmas spirit throughout the year, and what effect would it have upon the world?

"NEHEMIAH REBUILDING THE WALL OF JERUSALEM"

The International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, December 8, 1935

By REV. J. ELWOOD CARROLL

Scripture Lesson—Nehemiah 4:6-21.

Golden Text—"The people had a mind to work."—Nehemiah 4:6.

We continue our study of the restoration of the Jewish colony in Jerusalem. The second group to return from captivity was led by Ezra (458) and discussed last Sunday. For today we look at the third return group, led by Nehemiah in 446 B. C. In the work of restoration the two men, Ezra and Nehemiah, stand out like shining stars.

The life of Nehemiah, like that of Daniel, is a refutation of the popular theory that a man is victim of his environment. Even amidst pagans and idol worshipers, Nehemiah not only remained true to his Hebrew faith but was an outstanding man in royal circles. This fact is also a refutation of the theory that a person has to compromise his moral standards in order to be "popular."

The hour of opportunity came to Nehemiah when a deputation of Jews, under the leadership of Hanani, came to the city of Susa, the capital of Persia, and reported the state of desolation in Jerusalem. The news fell on the ears of Nehemiah, who at that time was serving in the royal exalted position of cupbearer to the king, which position made him the constant companion and friend of the king. The story of the sad state of affairs in Palestine caused Nehemiah to shed tears. He immediately gained permission from the king to lead a large group of Jews back to Jerusalem. In so doing he renounced the luxury and ease of his high position at Susa in order to tread the thorny path of a reformer.

1. The Head. King Artaxerxes not only granted Nehemiah the right to go to Jerusalem, but furnished him a military escort to accompany him and letters requiring Persian officials along the route to give any necessary assistance, and also made him governor of Judah with full authority to restore the devastated country.

The value of the work of restoration of Jerusalem can hardly be overestimated. The rebuilding of the city, and the subsequent reformation and repopulation, opened a new era in the political and religious life of Jewish people. The success of this entire program rested largely upon the great leadership of Nehemiah. His unselfish devotion was matched by the energy of a self-made man and the wisdom of a courtier.

He, like Ezra, spent three days in worship and thought. He moved about the city quietly in order to understand the entire task before him and to meet the leading natives of Judah, whom he in turn invited to his house for entertainment. Then, under cover of night, he made a thorough personal inspection of the walls and gates of the city. He decided upon immediate action. The people were called together, he presented his plan with zeal, and they unanimously responded, "Let us rise up and build."

Our age calls for heroic leaders like Nehemiah. Some indication of our broken walls and crushed gates may be had by reading "The Report of the Social Service Committee" of our Annual Conference, a copy of which was printed in the Herald of last week. The success of Nehemiah was the product of heroic faith, natural ability, and hard work. God is calling us today, but too many, no doubt, are making excuses by denying their natural ability when the real weakness lies not there, but in our lack of faith or consecration to hard work.

2. The Helpers. Nehemiah, in his own strength alone, could never have rebuilt the city. He had helpers. There was a magnificent response to Nehemiah's challenge. The response of the people becomes all the more impressive when compared to their indifference and despair of the preceding century. With the exception of the Temple, the entire city had lain in waste for more than a century. The hope of the people had died and their faith was in decline.

Nehemiah performed a miracle by reviving both to the degree of positive action. They responded to his appeal. Undaunted by difficulties and undismayed by opposition, they persevered until their great task was finished. The key to their victory was inspiration and organization. Nehemiah infused his own hope and faith into them. He also offered his plan of organization. Forty-four working squads were formed.

3. The Hinderers. But every movement towards progress is opposed by ridicule and hatred. Every Nehemiah has his Sanballat. The task was so large that Sanballat thought he and his crew could just laugh Nehemiah's workers into failure. But such ridicule only stirred the zeal of the artisans. While Sanballat's crowd laughed, Nehemiah's men worked. The progress of the work turned the laughter of Sanballat into hatred. He hurried to form a conspiracy to destroy Jerusalem. But Nehemiah's military preparations were so effective that the threatened attack never came.

The most severe trial to Nehemiah came from within. Certain cities sent urgent requests that their workers come home. The task was too great, the opposition would destroy them, and the safety of life was to be had only at home. Nehemiah was sufficiently great as a leader even to hold these would-be traitors to their tasks until the work was completed.

Questions for Discussion

1. What are the qualifications of a good leader?
2. What is the cause of the lack of progress in my local church?
3. What sources of ridicule hinder your church?
4. What outside movements hate the church?
5. What sins may exist within a church to hinder its growth?

LEXINGTON TO ALBEMARLE

The recently closed session of the Annual Conference brought to a close a happy and, I trust, a successful seven-year period as pastor of the First church, Lexington, and Mt. Carmel charge. During all this time we had the complete co-operation of the people—people that are as fine as can be found anywhere.

On Friday night before I left, the ladies of the First church and Mt. Carmel auxiliaries gave mother a miscellaneous shower at which many valuable gifts were given her. Circle No. 1 of the First church auxiliary presented me a $10 check and other valuable gifts; while Circle No. 2 gave a tie to me and a nice bedspread to mother. Her Sunday school class, of which she had been teacher, gave her a beautiful pocketbook. Neither of us shall ever forget these good people, and our prayers and best wishes for their success in their co-operation with their new pastor remain with them as we leave.

On Monday following the third Sunday, Mr. Jonah Harkey and Mr. D. J. Hatley sent their trucks from Albemarle and moved us to our new appointment. When we reached Albemarle we found the house well warmed, and Brother "Jap" had a fine supper waiting for us at his home, for all of which favors we are deeply grateful.

In the church we have found a good Sunday school and good congregations at the preaching services. The people have given us a cordial welcome to their midst. Seven new members have been received into the church, and I feel sure that they will be a great help to the church.

On last Monday night, November 25, we were taken completely by surprise—the surprise taking the form of one of the best poundings we have ever received. Practically everything imaginable for kitchen and pantry was contained in the supply of good things which we received. May God's richest blessings rest upon all who contributed in any way to make the pounding successful.

On Thanksgiving Day a turkey dinner was given by the ladies of the church, the net proceeds from which amounted to $100. The Ladies' Auxiliary here is one of the most wide-awake I have ever seen, and the whole church is active and alert.

I filled my first appointment at Porter church on Sunday afternoon. A large crowd was present, and the people seemed to be interested. We are hoping for a good year here.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS

The following have asked us to change their address since last week:

Rev. E. A. Bingham to Saxapahaw, N. C.
Rev. J. M. Morgan to Triplet, Va.
Rev. O. L. Easter to Creswell, N. C.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

West End, Greensboro.—We are getting off to a fine start for the new year with our "new" pastor, Rev. N. G. Bethea, who was our leader through the year just passed. I'm sure I speak for all our members when I say we are glad to welcome him and Mrs. Bethea and pledge our utmost co-operation in all their plans.

A plan of personal evangelism has already been started and beneficial results are expected and hoped for throughout the coming year.

The first quarterly conference meets on Wednesday evening before Thanksgiving, and the importance of all officials, old and new, being present was stressed by the pastor.

A quartet known as "The Harmony Girls" gave us two special numbers in our morning service on November 17. Mrs. Holyfield was the accompanist and Misses Mozelle and Mayzelle Fields, Margaret Greeson, and Lucy Holyfield made up the singers. Their music was enjoyed.

The Senior C. E. Society has planned a penny social for Friday evening, November 29. It will be an interesting affair and all church members are urged to help them in this effort to raise funds to help buy new roofing for church. Plans were made on Sunday at their regular meeting to send a well-filled basket to some needy family in the community. A number will also go to the sunrise service at the Christian church on Thanksgiving morning.

Dr. Bethea has been giving us good, sound sermons as usual and church attendance is increasing at both of the Sunday services.

First Church, High Point.—The First Methodist Protestant church is very sorry to report that their minister is very ill at a local hospital where he underwent an operation last week. We hope friends of the church will join with us in praying for a speedy recovery.

Last Sunday Dr. R. M. Andrews preached for us in the absence of the pastor. At the morning service he spoke on "The Secrets of a Useful Life." The audience was delighted with a double quartet from the college which sang "Love Divine." At the evening service Mrs. J. H. Allred sang a solo.

On November 10, Dr. G. I. Humphreys preached to us and Mr. Wayne Hornaday sang a solo, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains." We are always glad to welcome visitors to our services. We hope they will come again.

Those of you who like to parade your discouragement listen to this: During the past year this church and all its organizations raised $12,031, against $9,957 raised during the preceding year, or an increase of $2,074 During the past year this church paid all of its current expenses and obligations. But it did more than that: it paid approximately $900 on obligations accumulated in former years. Nothing to be ashamed of, do you think?

Mr. J. H. Pritchard has resigned as chairman of the board of ushers, a position which Mr. S. P. Montgomery succeeds him.

Last Wednesday night the Woman's Auxiliary served its annual turkey dinner at the church to approximately 200 persons. Two High Point College girls rendered the music for the occasion.

On Sunday night, November 10, those of us who attended the service by the young people of the church were given a special treat. A pageant, "This War," was presented by the Young People's C. E. Society. Those taking part were: Bill Wall, Zeb Warner, Mildred Free, Joseph Edwards, Roger Lee, Burke Koontz, Dorothy Culler, Jack Lee, Myra Caudle, Eunice Boyd, Joe Wilson, Margaret Ellison, Edith Vance, Reginald Hinshaw, and Joe Gray. Miss Annabelle Thompson deserves a lot of praise for the work she is doing with these young people.

Not much is known to the public about the work of the Senior C. E. Society, but the few faithful ones should be recognized and praised for the work they have been doing. It is through the untiring effort of the president, Miss Tressie Caudle, that they have done such splendid work. Last Sunday we were pleased with a talk by Dr. Glenn Perry on the subject, "Investments in Health." The society is joining with the city union and sending baskets of food to the poor for Thanksgiving. There is to be a sunrise service at the church on Thanksgiving morning.

The Thanksgiving season is coming to challenge us to show our gratitude by "sharing our share" with those who need. Our goal, "Every one giving a day's wage to the Children's Home."

The Junior church held a Thanksgiving service last Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock to a large audience.

We are sorry to report that Mr. James Hinkle remains quite ill.

The recent announcement of the marriage of Miss Ernestine Vuncanon to Mr. Tommy Strickland came as a complete surprise to their many friends. We wish for them a happy and prosperous married life.

Bellemont, Mt. Hermon Charge.—On Sunday morning, November 24, at 11 o'clock, our pastor, Mr. Whitehead, brought to us his first message of the new conference year. His subject was, "Goals for the New Conference Year." In this he named and discussed several points of emphasis for the year, which was a challenge to us to do more for Christ and the church. We are more than glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead with us for another year. May we give them our most loyal support.

There will be a Thanksgiving service at our church on Thanksgiving morning at 9:30. This is for the entire charge; and at this time everyone is expected to bring their Harvest Home offering or some gift for the Children's Home.

The ladies of our church gave a chicken stew and oyster stew at the hut last Saturday night. The benefits were not as well as we had expected, but the crowd was small because of the disagreeable weather.

Mr. Paul Lowder, our new Sunday school superintendent, went into office the third Sunday. He is carrying on the work well; and plans are now being made for a Christmas tree and program, the time of which will be announced later.

Quite a number of improvements have been made at the parsonage recently, including electric lights which were installed a few weeks ago.

Mrs. W. A. J. Sharpe has been sick for the past two weeks, but is somewhat better now. Her many friends wish for her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Howard Pickett spent the week-end in High Point with Professor Snotherly, of the high school there, and attended the third annual home-coming banquet at the Sheraton hotel.

Mr. R. E. Lee Moser, who is a ministerial student at High Point College, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Moser.

Roberta.—We have not made a report since conference, although we have been very busy. It looks like the people of Roberta will have to get along with their same pastor for another year. Well, they are responsible for it. The new year has started off fine, all officials, both new and old, have taken on new courage, and we all feel like this will be the most successful year of all. New local projects are being planned by both the ladies and the men through their own organizations. Our first quarterly conference has not yet been held, although we are planning to accept all the A. C. B. items as they stand and as much as we can stand of the World Service.

At this time I am going to take a little time to talk some about our folks. I think they deserve to be talked about a little. I have not served as many charges as some of you ministers have, but I don't think you could be treated any better than these Roberta people have treated this preacher. With all the troubles, heartaches, disappointments. and failures that are naturally a part of the preacher's life, we have many encouragements that help overcome these worries and handicaps. Such people are a pleasure to serve. We have obligated ourselves the last two years and also this year with many local projects, unusual ones, and all take such interest in them that we soon find it done. Then the Herald subscriptions and subsidy. as well as the McCulloch Memorial Fund, were all met so easily, for the reason all were so ready to help. I am not saying all these things to make it hard on myself at next conference, but I am saying this because I feel that these people deserve the praise. Yes, we have some faults at Roberta, but I am telling them about those every Sunday.

We had splendid spiritual services, both morning and evening, last Sunday. The congregation was off some because of the sudden cold weather. Some are ill. The local quartet rendered some good music at the evening service. Our evening congregation was very much increased last evening, and we have a feeling that the evening congregation will continue to increase.

Mrs. Gussie Pennigar is ill at her home. and is improving some. She is confined to her bed. Her son, Jack, is in a local hospital recovering from several dangerous lacerations received more than a week ago from a mad, violent enemy who tried to take his life. He is improving. Bro. Gene Love, a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Love, and a brother of Rev. Fred Love, has gone to the Duke hospital for an operation this week. Mr. Z. D. Cochran has recently returned from the hospital in Charlotte where he received treatment. During the treatment he received about three blood transfusions. He is now enjoying good health. Mr. Robert Cochran enjoyed a surprise birthday dinner last Saturday, November 23. The occasion was to celebrate his 49th birthday. He received many gifts from friends and relatives. EARL A. COOK, Reporter.

Pleasant Grove.—The members of Pleasant Grove church are glad to have Rev. F. R. Love as their new pastor. Rev. Mr. Love has preached two fine sermons but hasn't been able to do much work in the church due to being delayed in getting moved. He hopes to get moved this week. It is hoped by all that a great work may be accomplished this year.

Rev. Mr. Powell and his family have been missed very much in the church. The members extend an invitation to them to visit the church at any time it is convenient.

Christian Endeavor work is improving. The meeting is held each Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. New officers were elected a few weeks ago and an impressive service was used to install these officers. Everybody is cordially invited to attend these meetings.

The Sunshine Auxiliary will meet Tuesday night, December 3, with Mrs. Fonzo Sink. All members are urged to be present. The Auxiliary and Young Ladies' classes are sponsoring an old-fashioned box supper to be given at Hasty high school Monday night, December 2.

Flat Rock, Flat Rock Charge. — On the fourth Sunday in October the new officers for our church were elected. Our pastor, Rev. C. B. Way, has completed two successful and very satisfactory years of work with us in our church and we welcome his return for a third year.

In beginning this year's work he emphasized in his inspiring sermon Sunday, November 24, the need of forgetting things behind and reaching forward to better and more worthwhile things in the future. He pledged his co-operation with the people and solicited our co-operation in making greater progress in the year ahead of us. Preaching from a portion of Phil. 3, he brought out the thought that the Christian is like a man who runs a race, spending his life in service of God and his fellow men in loyalty, friendliness, service, and devotion. He who endures and reaches the goal obtains the prize—eternal life.

An offering for Thanksgiving was taken for the Children's Home at High Point.

The next meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society will be with Mrs. Harvey Pegram December 7 when there will be a Christmas program and exchange of gifts following the regular business meeting. The November meeting at the home of Mrs. M. W. Thomas was well attended, as usual, and the splendid amount turned in toward the church debt spoke well for the work of the ways and means committee and for the co-operation of the members. Several plans for making money are in progress.

The outstanding number on the program was a duet, "Going Home," rendered by Miss Frances Thomas and Mrs. C. V. Ferguson. The hostess served delicious refreshments.

Donations of clothing and supplies were made at this meeting and have since been delivered to the Children's Home where they were gratefully received. We wish to thank all who participated. Enough coupons have just been mailed to Mrs. Dixon to secure the third stamp for our Baby Bond. May we please have yours for the fourth?

The Willing Workers' Society, under the joint leadership of Miss Ella Friddle and Miss Scott, is progressing nicely. At present the children are working up their own programs and enjoy doing it. Their November meeting was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Haynes. The next meeting will be December 14 with Miss Ella Friddle when a Christmas program will be rendered.

Much interest is shown in Sunday school, though the attendance is not what it should be.

First Church, Lexington.—We held our regular services on Sunday, Sunday school at the regular hour and preaching in the morning and evening, all services being well attended.

Rev. L. E. Mabry, our new pastor, moved here during the past week and is now located in his home on West Seventh avenue, and has begun his pastoral duties among us.

Rev. Mr. Mabry has made a fine impression on the people since coming here. We are hoping to have a great year together.

On Friday evening at 7 o'clock the board of stewards met at the church, Rev. Mr. Mabry being present. He made a fine talk which was appreciated by all of the stewards.

The Ladies' Auxiliary gave a supper Saturday, November 23. One thing we noticed, the co-operation of the people, and also the friends of the church. The public attended the supper in a splendid way. The net profit was about $25.

Chestnut Ridge, Orange Charge.—We are very grateful to the conference for returning Rev. B. M. Williams and family to us again. The people of this church greatly appreciate them and we predict for them a successful year's work.

Mr. Williams filled his first appointment the fourth Sunday at 3 p. m. He preached a splendid Thanksgiving sermon. An offering was taken for the Children's Home. Hope this will be the best year that Chestnut Ridge has ever had.

The first quarterly conference will meet with the Hebron church Saturday, November 30, 1935, at 2 p. m. Important business, planning for the new year. Hope to have full attendance, especially of the official members. Dr. Andrews will be with us.

After the service the pastor called a meeting and discussed plans for carrying on the work for the year. Through the winter months we planned to have preaching hour at 2 p. m. instead of 3 p. m.

Our Auxiliary held its monthly meeting in the church Sunday afternoon. Some from each circle were present and made favorable reports of work they had done and plans for the future. We were glad to have Mrs. B. M. Williams with us in our circle meeting Sunday. We wish that she would come more often.

If anyone wishes to renew or subscribe for the Methodist Protestant Herald, see the writer, who is acting as our agent.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

Pine Bluff, Midland Charge.—Our pastor, Brother Trolinger, preached a very interesting sermon Sunday on the "Four Hundredth Anniversary of the Translation of the Bible into the English Language." In this sermon he emphasized the importance of reading the Bible and living according to its teachings.

We had a splendid attendance in Sunday school on last Sunday, and much interest was shown in the study of the lesson.

On last Wednesday evening a group of folks from Pine Bluff, in order to in part show their appreciation to Brother Trolinger and wife for their good work among us, gave them a "pounding." This was immensely enjoyed by all who took part in it, and was appreciated by Mr. and Mrs. Trolinger. So we all got a blessing.

Brother Trolinger announced that the first quarterly conference will be held at Mill Grove church on Thursday evening, December 12, at 7 o'clock. We are hoping that there will be a good attendance at this conference in order that each one may give his best thought for the success of the work for the new year. Although we have had a good year at Pine Bluff, we are just hoping and praying that greater things may be done this year than were last.

First Church, Albemarle.—Everything is moving along nicely at Albemarle. We are looking forward to a prosperous year with our new pastor, Rev. C. G. Isley, and his mother, Mrs. Hattie Isley.

Everyone is pleased with Rev. Mr. Isley. This is shown by the large number that have been attending our services since his arrival. We want to thank Dr. Andrews for sending him to us. He knew exactly the man that was needed here. Also we want to thank our delegate, Mr. J. H. Harkey, for bringing him to us. Rev. Mr. Isley has preached four sermons here and the congregations were very highly pleased with his messages. At the 11 o'clock service Sunday we received five new members into the church. We feel that they are going to be a great help to the church. At the Sunday school hour the following were appointed to train the children for the Christmas program: Mrs. J. R. Johnson, Mrs. Boyd Gantt, and Mrs. D. J. Hatley.

Rev. D. R. Williams was our pastor last year. We have enjoyed having him and Mrs. Williams with us very much. We regret their leaving, as we esteemed them very highly and our best wishes go with them to Kannapolis.

Last Sunday evening we organized an Intermediate Christian Endeavor, with 33 present. Mrs. Hattie Isley is president of the Intermediate society and Mrs. C. S. Moton is president of the Juniors. We are sure this will be a great help for our young people, as we have many in our church.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will serve their annual turkey dinner Thursday, which the town always looks forward to. If any Methodist Protestants are passing through our town that day, we would be glad for them to stop and have dinner with us. The auxiliary is doing a great work in our church.

We believe that this is going to be one of the greatest years that we have ever had in the Albemarle church. We ask the prayers of all the readers.

Harmony Church, Yarborough Charge.—We are very glad to have our former pastor, Rev. K. G. Holt, back with us for another year, but so sorry his first appointment was such a sad one, for on fourth Sunday morning at 11 o'clock he helped conduct the funeral services for Mr. Henry Finley. We all extend our deepest sympathy to the family during this sad occasion. May God comfort and help them bear their burden.

At the evening service we all enjoyed a splendid sermon by Rev. Mr. Holt and he urged us to strive to accomplish more in the future than we have in the past. Let us hope for a successful year.

On Sunday afternoon, December 1, at 2:30, the first quarterly conference of the year was held.

Center, Alamance Charge. — Our Sunday school is progressing nicely under the leadership of Superintendent Mrs. C. C. Richardson.

We are indeed glad to have our pastor, Rev. H. L. Isley, and wife return to this work for another year. We are very thankful for the work Mr. Isley has done here, and pray that our church may have a most successful year.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock our pastor gave us an inspiring message, using as his text Matthew 17:8. His theme, "Upper Look."

Mrs. Leanna Braxton was elected president of the Woman's Auxiliary.

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge.—Everything seems to be moving along nicely at the beginning of our new conference year. We had a good attendance at Sunday school Sunday morning, considering the weather. We had several visitors to worship with us, which we were very glad to have. Mr. W. R. Bright, of Greer, S. C., taught the Girls' and Boys' Senior Class.

We were indeed glad to have Mr. Tom Nally from Fairview church of Easley, S. C., with us Sunday. Immediately after Sunday school Mr. Nally made a talk about the nice time he had while attending the conference and the hearty welcome he received.

We had a good attendance to greet our new pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery, who preached a fine sermon. He read the 6th chapter of Matthew. His text was taken from the 33rd verse, "But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.

We, the Liberty Hill folks, wish to extend a hearty welcome to Mr. Vickery and his family. And we sincerely hope with God's help we will be able to work together and make this a great year.

A Thanksgiving service will be held at this church Thursday night, November 28. Miss Hortense Foster will have charge of the program.

The Ladies' Class, under the sponsorship of Mrs. H. R. McClimon, will have charge of the opening service at Sunday school next Sunday morning. The White brothers have been invited to make special music.

The Ladies' Aid will hold their regular monthly meeting after Sunday school next Sunday morning, December 1.

The first quarterly conference will be held at this church on Saturday, December 7, beginning at 2:30 p. m.

Mt. Carmel, First Church Lexington Charge.—Rev. L. E. Mabry delivered an excellent sermon Sunday morning to a large congregation. He chose as his Scripture lesson part of the first chapter of Romans.

Perhaps Annual Conference brought more disappointment to Mt. Carmel church than any other church in conference by their former pastor, Rev. C. G. Isley, not being returned for his eighth year. We feel that our great loss is Albemarle's gain. We wish for Mr. Isley and mother even greater success in their new field of work than they had while laboring with us the past seven years. Our church and homes welcome them back at any time they see fit to return.

We are very glad to have Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Mabry and son with us for the coming year and hope this will be a successful year for both pastor and people.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met just after service yesterday for the purpose of electing a president. Mrs. L. E. Mabry was elected to take Mrs. Isley's place. The next meeting will be held Tuesday night, December 10, with Mrs. R. M. Fritts.

Greensville Charge.—We have been on the work since November 22, preached at all the churches, and our first quarterly conference will be held Tuesday night, December 3, at the parsonage at 7 o'clock.

The people have been very kind in receiving us back on this charge after having served them once before for four years, and reminding us of many things that happened while we were here.

A pounding? Yes, the people of Philadelphia church came to see us Wednesday night, November 27, and it looks like we will have enough eats to do us for months to come. They thought they would put one over on this preacher. Mr. Lewis Chambliss came over to test our radio battery about 7 o'clock. Of course nothing was wrong with it for we had been getting good reception over WBT early in the morning (and it's just like getting news from home). Mr. Chambliss brought his sister, Mrs. Carpenter and Mrs. Florence Bremer. Of course Mrs. Morgan was glad to see them. Then Miss Mildred Clark came, and in a few minutes Mr. Lee Chambliss, Mr. Sims and Meed Pearson came in. The first thing Meed said was, "Throw up your hands and give us the pantry key." What else could I do? Well, after the excitement was over I found myself standing in the yard looking in a truck well loaded with good things to eat, even chicken for the preacher. Who said I did not throw up my hands? I did, and would be glad to do it again.

Well, our crowd was not so large but they had canvassed the membership and got a good pounding for us. We are not naming the articles, but there were 55 packages ranging from 100 pounds of flour and three pounds of Irish potatoes to a cake of soap to keep clean. May the Lord bless these people and those who gave, and I trust that I may render service to show my appreciation of the good things received.

J. M. MORGAN, Pastor.

Union Grove Church, Mocksville Charge.—Union Grove church comes, giving a hearty welcome to our new pastor. We're surely glad to have Rev. R. L. Hethcox back on this work. He is to have an installation service here Sunday morning, December 8.

Our Sunday school is looking forward to a good Christmas program. Wish for us the best of luck.

The Christian Endeavor is giving a play, "The Christmas Truant," sometime during Christmas. The Christian Endeavor is the best it has been for some time. Help us to pray for it to grow better.

I think I would be right in saying that Union Grove church wishes for every Herald reader "A Merry Christmas."

North Davidson.—We arrived at the parsonage on Wednesday before Thanksgiving and began immediately to set up housekeeping. The parsonage is nearly new, and well arranged. In fact, it is all that we need desire. It is well lighted.

Bro. Carl Clodfelter and Bro. Bailey each provided us with dry wood.

On last Sunday I visited Canaan, Spring Hill, and West End, Thomasville, churches. I found well-kept churches, well heated, and large congregations. Looking from every angle, I am highly pleased with the charge and with the prospect for achievement.

Mt. Pleasant Church, Mt. Pleasant Circuit.—Our pastor, Rev. J. W. Braxton, gave us another very good sermon as a continuation of a series on the "Working Church." The Scripture lesson was found in John 10:1-18.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor Society shows a marked increase in members under the leadership of Mrs. J. W. Braxton. The monthly social seems to play a great part in the social life of these young people.

After 35 years of faithful service as secretary of the quarterly conference of the Mt. Pleasant charge, Mr. S. A. Alexander retired at the last meeting and Mr. E. H. Thompson was elected to fill the place. Mr. Alexander has rendered valuable service to the charge and to his church during these years. If I remember correctly, I heard him say he had missed only one meeting during these years.

Our church is putting on a campaign to raise the debt of nearly $700 on the Sunday school building by the first day of January.

. The Ladies' Auxiliary is planning to give a brunswick stew in the Sunday school assembly room just after the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Braxton, Miss Lillie Mae Braxton and Miss Ola Stafford attended the annual home-coming at High Point recently.

Our sunrise service on Thanksgiving morning was well attended. Mr. E. H. Thompson gave a splendid talk on "What I Am Thankful For and Why." Readings were given by Miss Katrine Murry and Mr. R. C. Causey. The quartet composed of Misses Billy Robison, Lucile Phillips, Ione Clapp, and Ruby Patrum sang for us.

We were glad to have Mrs. Leonidas Smith unite with our church. She came by letter from the Lutheran church.

MRS. W. A. STAFFORD, Reporter.

Henderson.—Having satisfied a long-felt desire to invite the Annual Conference to meet in Henderson, and having successfully entertained the more than 250 ministers, delegates and guests who came, the church leaders seem to be full of zest for activities in other fields and are planning special programs for the next few Sundays before Christmas. There have been many expressions of pleasure from the various hostesses who enjoyed having delightful guests in their homes during the conference.

By vote of the congregation it was decided to have the usual Thanksgiving service on Wednesday night. The congregation was not large, but the service was an unusually impressive one, consisting of hymns, readings and prayers stressing our gratitude for innumerable blessings, followed by a communion service. The offering for the Children's Home was $67.

The Woman's Auxiliary met on November 25 for its regular monthly meeting. The three adult circles reported nearly $150 profit from serving dinners to the conference. The Philathea Class also cleared about $25. A new committee for social service was appointed with Mrs. L. R. Gooch as chairman. Miss Elizabeth Fox reported plans for a thank-offering service to be held Sunday, December 8. All members of circles are asked to be present and sit together. The circle having the largest attendance will be awarded a cash prize.

The S. S. Council met Sunday afternoon, December 1, to discuss plans for a leadership training school to be conducted during the Sunday school hour. It is a splendid plan and it is hoped that Miss Maxine Taylor and Miss Elizabeth Fox will lend their valuable assistance. They were out of town for the Thanksgiving holidays, so nothing could be positively decided upon.

The Vance County C. E. Institute will be held December 8 at the church, with a program under the direction of the officers of the state union, Mrs. Ida Lambert, president. The program is as follows: 2 p. m.—Registration. Classes in C. E. Methods and Program Building, taught by Roy Barber and Miss Elizabeth McLellan. Picnic supper (state officers guests). Model C. E. program at 6:30. 7:30—Address and consecration service.

The stewards made their annual canvass of members for pledges on the budget for 1936 last Sunday. They tried a new plan for obtaining pledges, and seemed to be very much pleased with their success.

Mr. T. H. Hight is seriously ill at Duke hospital. He was carried to the hospital on Wednesday and was said to be slightly better following an operation Saturday.

A wedding of great interest to Methodist Protestants in the state was solemnized Wednesday afternoon, December 4, at 5 o'clock in the church when Miss Florence Falkner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Falkner, and Mr. Robert L. Oakley were united in marriage. The church was beautifully decorated with ferns, evergreens and white chrysanthemums. Mrs. J. B. Martin gave a lovely program of organ music before the hour for the ceremony, playing Nevin's "Venetian Love Song," Schubert's "Serenade," Liszt's "Liebestraum," and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." G. E. Daniel, of Oxford, sang "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning." While the ceremony was being performed by Rev. L. R. Medlin, the organist played "Love's Old Sweet Song." The bridal party entered to the strains of the bridal march from "Lohengrin." Ushers were Elvin Falkner, Robert Falkner, W. B. Hight, and Bailey Elliott, of Oxford.

Miss Alice Falkner, sister of the bride, the only attendant, wore sapphire blue velvet and carried an arm bouquet of Columbia roses. The bride, wearing a lovely gown of white velvet and a short veil, carrying a shower bouquet of roses and valley lilies, entered with her father, H. O. Falkner, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Henry Averette, of Raleigh. After their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Oakley will be at home in the Thorne apartments on North Garnett street.

The bride is the attractive and popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Falkner, of this city, and has always taken a prominent place in church activities, being a member of the Young People's Choir and superintendent of the Junior department of the Sunday school. She has been honoree at many social functions, among them being a handkerchief shower by Circle 4 of the auxiliary, a household shower by the Philathea Class, an elaborate dinner party by Mr. and Mrs. W. B Hight, and a bridge party by Mrs. H. A. Jordan. Mrs. C. D. Hamm entertained the bridal party and a number of guests Tuesday evening after the rehearsal, and the parents of the bride held an informal reception at their home immediately after the wedding.

Concord, Saxapahaw Charge.—This church is still moving on very nicely with its work, although not much has been heard from her through the reporter.

Our Sunday school is going very well now after getting the new officers elected. We were fortunate again to have Mr. L. E. Guthrie elected as superintendent for the new year. We appreciate very much the splendid service he gave us during the past year.

The following officers were elected last Sunday: Assistant superintendent, Mr. Neal Hargrove; secretary, Miss Lola Roberson; assistant secretary, Miss Adelle Moore; treasurer, Mr. Raymond Davis.

We were glad indeed to welcome our new pastor and family in our midst Sunday, Rev. E. A. Bingham. He brought to us a splendid message at the morning service from Matt. 16:13-20, using as his text the 18th verse. We hope with the co-operation of all the people to make this the greatest year in the history of Concord church, as we start out in a new year upon another century of this church as well as a new conference year.

We were glad to welcome a good number of visitors at church Sunday. Hope you will come again, as we always welcome you.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met last Sunday after Sunday school. We plan to bring our offering for the Children's Home Christmas, as we failed to get in a Thanksgiving offering.

The following committee has charge of getting up the Christmas program which we plan to have at Christmas: Mrs. L. E. Moore, Mrs. Neal Hargrove, Miss Margarette Guthrie and Miss Bessie Coble.

The board of stewards will meet this coming Tuesday evening with Mrs. Loy Roberson and get organized for their work for the new year.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

Stallings, Mecklenburg Charge.—We are all so glad to welcome Brother Short and family back to Mecklenburg charge. He preached us a wonderful, heartfelt sermon Sunday night. His subject was about Thanksgiving. There was a large crowd out to hear him.

We have the best Christian Endeavor we have ever had. We had a wonderfully good program Sunday night before preaching. The subject was "Count Your Many Blessings," and each one on the program did fine. We had 16 new members Sunday night. Our Christian Endeavor has been in a contest getting new members. Miss Buena Love's side won, and Miss Odee Drye's side gave the supper.

Our Sunday school is just fine. Everyone seems to take great interest, but we would be glad for others to join.

The Ladies' Auxiliary meets next Thursday with Mrs. Arch McLeod at 2 o'clock. We hope all the members will come and bring new members along. Our society gave the Children's Home at High Point two quilts for a Thanksgiving gift.

Christian friends, pray for us that this will be a good year on Mecklenburg charge. Let's each one stand by Brother Short and do our part, for we know that he will do his best.

MRS. M. L. STALLINGS, Reporter.

First Church, Danville, Va.—It gives us much encouragement to start our new year with six new members to help us carry on our work. Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Sides come to us from Dacotah Presbyterian church, Lexington, and Miss Electa Jarvis from First M. P. church, Lexington. They have been active church workers for some time and we feel very fortunate in having them join our church. We also have Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Grogan and daughter, Ailene, from Grace M. E. church, Danville. We wish to issue a glad welcome to them all and give our wholehearted support in all they may say and do in Christ's name.

We delight in reporting a Thanksgiving offering for the Children's Home of $25. It made our hearts glad to know that there were people thankful enough for their many blessings to not only offer words of thanks but show their thankfulness in making some sacrifice and helping someone who probably has not had as many blessings as we. Our food offering was unusually large and we are happy that we had something to share.

Our young people of the church are showing a great deal of interest in winning others to Christ, offering a special program at the Sunday school hour and also leading the Wednesday night prayer service. It was said to have been one of the most impressive and inspirational prayer meetings we have had, the subject for discussion being "The Great Commission," as given to us by Jesus before His crucifixion and ascension.

We enjoyed having Mr. Braxton, of Burlington, N. C., to worship with us in our morning service November 24. We are always pleased to have visitors and hope they will feel at home and come back to see us as often as possible.

We are devoting the Sunday services December 8 to the celebration of the 400th anniversary of the English-printed Bible. The pastor and leaders of the church, Sunday school, and Christian Endeavor have requested that each person bring with him a Bible or New Testament, whether it be a century or a day old, and are putting on display all odd and very old Bibles.

I wish to mention the excellent sermon delivered last Sunday night by our pastor, C. P. Morris, on "What Would Jesus Do?" We had one convert—Mr. Grant. We hope he will soon decide to unite with us and make our chain one link stronger for Christ.

Mt. Zion, Pinnacle-Mt. Zion Charge.—Since my last report there have been several to join our Sunday school. We are more than glad to have them and wish more would come.

The third Sunday is our regular preaching Sunday. We had a large number to attend and every one was more than glad to see Bro. J. D. Morris and wife back.

On November 27 the people of Mt. Zion gave Bro. J. D. Morris and his wife a pounding. They sure were surprised to see so many people coming in with baskets filled with so many good things to eat. Although they were surprised, I feel safe to say they certainly did enjoy it.

The Ladies' Aid gave a supper at the church on Saturday night, November 23. Although the weather was cold, we had a very large crowd to attend. The money was used to buy a Heatrola for the church.

Mr. M. D. Lane has been very sick but we are glad to say he is improving and hope he will soon be well and be with us at church again.

Mrs. E. S. Mickey, who is sick, is improving some. We hope she will soon be well and come back to church again.

Pinnacle-Mt. Zion.—We are indeed glad to be returned to our former pastorate. One reason is, we do not enjoy moving, since having moved only once, and it 130 miles. We find it requires a lot of energy to move. But the major reason for our joy for being returned is to be back among fine people we have learned to love; and no wonder, for they have a fine way in obligating the pastor which was demonstrated Wednesday night. After supper the pastor removed his shoes to enjoy a foot rest by the fire, and was reading Dr. Paul Garber's book, "The Fighting Spirit of Methodism," when the auto horns began to toot and scream and in they came with live chicken, sausage, ribs, canned goods, sugar and more sugar, potatoes, jelly, coffee oatmeal, corn flakes, beef, "pipe fuel," and many other good eats that just fit a preacher's pantry. It was the Mt. Zion folks who wisely decided that an itinerant Methodist Protestant preacher could enjoy good eats on Thanksgiving. And to cap it all, a superannuated Methodist Protestant minister led the way, to-wit: Rev. A. L. Hunter. We are indeed thankful for all those gifts in kind, and hope to be able in some way to render service that may be a blessing in their homes, the church and community. I have always had a warm place in my heart for our superannuated ministers, but brethren, it is getting warmer, and "there's a reason."

Friendship, Mt. Hermon Charge.—We consider ourselves very fortunate in having Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Whitehead back with us for another year. Mr. Whitehead is a good church worker as well as a preacher. Last year proved to be very successful, and we are looking forward for the coming year to be still better.

Last Sunday morning at 11 o'clock Mr. Whitehead filled his regular appointment. He used as his subject "The Everlasting Word of God." Scripture lesson was taken from Isa. 40:3-8.

Next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock we will have a thank-offering program. We are expecting Mrs. W. C. Hammer, president of the women's work of the Methodist Protestant church, to make a talk. Mrs. Hammer is an able speaker and we hope to have a large crowd present to hear her.

The third Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be a special Christmas service for the children.

The Woman's Auxiliary will meet with Mrs. H. A. Garrett on Saturday afternoon before the third Sunday in this month at 2:30 o'clock.

Plans are being made for a Christmas tree for our Sunday school.

On Friday night, the 22nd of last month, the Woman's Auxiliary served a chicken supper in the Sunday school auditorium, the proceeds being for the benefit of the Sunday school rooms. MADGE MURRAY, Reporter.

Asheville.—I was thinking of this report this morning while listening to "Cheerio," and wondering just what I would say, when "Cheerio" read the poem, "It's a Beautiful Day to Be Glad in!" and I wondered how many of us think of the days thus. How much happiness we might create for ourselves and others were we to start each day off with the thought, "It's a beautiful day to be glad in," and then proceed to be glad.

We in our church have many things to be glad for this week, chief of which is that our furnace is at last paid for in full. We are really happy over this, and now it should not be so difficult to keep our finances in A-1 shape. Let's all do our very best to keep things up each week, and there will be no grand scramble at the end of this year.

Our attendance is keeping up pretty well in spite of real winter weather. Plans are being formulated for a really joyous Christmas for everyone, culminating in a program to be held December 23 at the church, to which every member of the church and Sunday school is cordially invited.

We were pleased to have Miss Fannie Miller out on Sunday evening to sing for us. Mr. J. H. Bailey brought the message in song at the morning hour.

Our sincere sympathy is extended Mrs. H. L. Waddell in the loss of her father during the past week.

Circles of the auxiliary are meeting this week as follows: No. 1 with Mrs. Hale Thomas, Hillside street, Thursday, 3 p. m.; No. 2 with Mrs. C. B. Baker, 138½ Washington Road, Wednesday, 3 p. m. The women raised half of the money due on the furnace, so we feel very proud of ourselves, if that is permissible. M. L. B.

Bethany, Randolph.—We are very glad to have our pastor, Brother Reynolds, back with us for another year. We are having good attendance at Sunday school. We are looking forward to a good year's work.

Our pastor has some good plans for the work, and we feel sure the people here will co-operate with him. Our people are willing workers when there is work outlined for them to do.

The Ladies' Aid will meet at the church next Sunday just after Sunday school. New officers have been elected in church and society and are planning and organizing the work in a very enthusiastic manner.

Miss Lillie Mae Hinshaw and Mr. Lionel Jones were married November 7. Also Mr. Bohan Nelson and Miss Ethel Spivey were married November 16. We give them our hearty congratulations.

We extend our sympathy to Mrs. John Julian in the death of her mother, Mrs. M. F. Pugh. Sister Pugh was our lifelong neighbor and truly a good woman.

Orange Charge.—The first quarterly conference was held November 30, 1935. Was glad to have Dr. Andrews with us for this conference. He has a standing invitation to visit us any time it suits his convenience.

The work seems to be starting off nicely. Church business and stewards' meetings are being held preparatory to carrying out the conference program.

Several packages of fresh meat and sausage have been given to the parsonage family. For all of which we are thankful. Christmas services are being planned for each church. We are hoping and praying for a splendid year in the Master's service.

Corinth Church, Littleton Charge.—We are very much pleased with our new preacher conference sent us for another year. I hope the church as a whole will stand by him and make a greater success this year than the church has ever known. Our pastor, Dr. T. M. Johnson, preached his first sermon at this church Sunday morning, bringing to us a message that should be profitable to all present, emphasizing thankfulness. With our new pastor in charge we hope to work in unity and have a very successful year.

We were very sorry to lose our former pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery, and family, but we wish for them much success on their new charge. Rev. Mr. Vickery preached for us the third Sunday night in November. He delivered a fine sermon. Someone said it was the best one he preached while on this work.

At the services yesterday it was voted to discontinue the night services at this church for the next three months.

The first quarterly conference will be held at Littleton church on Saturday, December 14, at 2 p. m. All official members are requested to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Morris and son, Mr.

and Mrs. C. T. Hardy and family, of Richmond, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Barbee and family, of Farmville, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Morris.

MRS. B. F. MORRIS, Reporter.

Community Church, Thomasville.—We regretted very much to have to part with our many friends in Graham which we had made during five years' stay. Certainly this is one of the rewards for being a minister! While it is a "bitter" pill to give them up, yet we know there must be others who will be just as fine if somehow we can continue to be a friend. We shall never be the same any more because of many lovely personalities in and around Graham who influenced our lives. And we trust in return we were able to leave some footprints "on the sands of time" that will be worth following. While we are absent in body, yet our prayer and deepest concern will be with those whom we learned to love and their splendid pastor.

We have been in Thomasville just two weeks and the impressions of these weeks have been most encouraging. The people have been very cordial and everything looks good for a splendid year.

The first quarterly conference will convene on Thursday evening of this week.

J. CLYDE AUMAN.

State Street, Lexington.—State Street reelected the same reporter for another year. Reason given was that not enough letters were written last year, so they expected to see more news from State Street this year.

Our hearts have been saddened by the loss of Dr. Johnson, who has been with us for the past two years. He has been a blessing to us and we pray God's richest blessings on him in his new work. Wednesday evening, November 13, Dr. Johnson held his last service. The largest crowd we have ever had for a prayer service was present to hear his message and bid him Godspeed.

We welcome our new pastor, Rev. J. P. Pegg, and family to State Street, and we pray that this year under his leadership we may accomplish great things for our Master. We had a large attendance Sunday, November 17, to greet Rev. Mr. Pegg. We were glad to have several from Bethesda worship with us and enjoy the splendid sermon.

Church officials for the new year were elected and installed by Dr. Johnson in October. So we are ready for work. Ladies' Auxiliary is planning to have the first supper Saturday evening, December 7. Our Sunday school attendance has increased and we are praying for the best year we have ever had. Wednesday evening, November 20, stewards met at 6:30 to make plans for the coming year. At 7:30 our regular prayer service was held, led by pastor with a large number present. At the close of this service all were invited to church dining room. After singing several songs, short talks were made by Mr. J. B. Leonard and Dr. Brannock welcoming Rev. Mr. Pegg and family. A table was then placed in center of dining room. It was loaded with sandwiches, pickles, cakes, and hot coffee. A social half hour was then enjoyed.

Twelve cakes were baked on Saturday, November 23, and brought to Sunday school. These cakes were carried to Children's Home Sunday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. J. A Walser.

The three Philathea classes of State Street enjoyed a joint meeting of all classes of Lexington held at the First Baptist church November 22, with Mrs. Fussell, of Winston-Salem, state president, the guest speaker for the evening. After service in the auditorium all were invited to the dining room. Mrs Fussell, pastors' wives, teachers and president of each Philathea class were in the receiving line at the door. A delightful social hour was enjoyed. Sandwiches, pickles, cakes, and coffee were served by a representative from each class. Wednesday, November 27, another large crowd attended prayer meeting held at the parsonage. Dr. Brannock was the leader. After an interesting talk on Thanksgiving, Dr. Brannock called for personal testimony. A large number responded, telling of the many things they had to thank God for and asking for the prayers of Christians.

This Wednesday night we hope to have the largest crowd we have had in a long time. Each one that goes is to pound the preacher and his wife with anything they want to give them. We hope it will be a real good pounding.

MRS. ANNIE HARKEY, Reporter.

Lexington, First.—Since coming to this charge we have been very kindly received, both on the part of the church and also the community generally. We have been pleased to find a people here that were ready to welcome us into their midst. The homes have been thrown open to us and we have been received in a fine way. We are finding some good, loyal people here, both in the church here in town and also in the Mt. Carmel church.

Perhaps it is fitting just here that we say in these columns as we did to the people of the Creswell charge; we regret, even yet, that we could not see our way to return to those people and serve them for another year. We found good people there, and in a large measure they were ready and willing to co-operate in anything for the progress of their churches and the good of Christ's earthly kingdom. We wish for them and their new pastor a most successful year together. We hope to hear good things from them.

Upon our arrival here we found all the organizations of the two churches functioning in a normal way. Both churches have a splendid auxiliary and we trust that much good work can be done through these two splendid organizations. First church has an active C. E. and much praise is due the young people who are so faithful in their attendance at the regular meetings. Also we find here a good midweek prayer service. It is well attended and the people seem to really enjoy the meetings. All services have been well attended and a splendid interest has been manifested in every service. The interest and attention at the regular worship services has been of the best. It seems that the people here are ready and willing to do anything they can in the interest of the church and the upbuilding of the Master's Kingdom.

And, too, I suppose it is now in season for the pastors who have moved, and those who have not for that matter, to begin to make some of those glowing reports of the poundings they have received. I would not only like to make a report of such a thing done in a fine spirit, but if our editor could well handle it, I would make a lengthy report and not only express the great appreciation, both of my wife and myself, but add a long list of cheerful and grateful people. But as some other pastor and people will want some space too, I will just simply say that both of the churches on this charge have done a fine job of looking after every need of our pantry. It would appear to us that these fine people knew even better than we did just our particular needs. Every article was a good selection. May the dear Lord bless each of these dear people that participated in these two old-fashioned poundings; and if there perchance was one that would have liked to have been in the crowd but could not for any reason, may the Lord bless that one also.

From the spirit of the people at this time we feel sure that a good year is before us. And again, Mrs. Mabry and I wish to say to all the people who have remembered our needs in any way, thank you every one.

Shiloh, Shiloh Charge.—Our work at Shiloh seems to have started in a fine manner for the new conference year. We hope that a co-operative and Christian spirit will be evident among the people.

As is always our custom, the Sunday school officers will be elected the last of this month. Our Sunday school attendance Sunday was 251. The enrollment for this quarter has reached 300. We hope that the spiritual growth will be as evident as the increase in attendance. Last Sunday our pastor used as a subject "The Cure of Naaman," his text being II Kings 5 and the latter part of verse 1. His messages are vital and very helpful when applied to the individual.

The first quarterly conference for Shiloh charge will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Friendship church. It is hoped that every member will be present. Each church officer must realize his personal responsibility as a leader and duty as a Christian.

The fifth Sunday in December, a district rally will be held at Bethesda church, it was announced by Rev. C. E. Ridge, district chairman. There are several new pastors in our district to whom we give a hearty welcome, and hope that much successful work may be done toward the Master's service.

We wish for one and all a successful year in Christ's service, and ask an interest in your prayers for our success for Christ.

MABLE BERRIER, Reporter.

Denton Charge.—We are glad that we have been returned to the Denton work again. We have surely enjoyed the two years we have been here laboring among these good people and feel sure that this year is going to be even better than the two preceding ones. The people have received us very kindly and the year has started well with large congregations at each service we have held. We enjoy working with the people of this charge, for they are so interested in the work of the church and are so co-operative in everything for the good of His Kingdom. Thank-offerings from Denton and Canaan churches are being sent to the Children's Home.

Our first quarterly conference was held Monday evening, November 25. Most all official members were present and a fine spirit was manifested for the work for the coming year. That same evening, soon after the closing of the conference, Mrs. Bowman and I were pleasantly surprised by a number of the Denton people calling at the parsonage. They made their way to the dining room where they deposited numbers of packages containing valuable and much appreciated gifts—cereal, lard, meat, soap, jello, hen. potatoes, pumpkin, salt, sugar, karo, raisins corn meal, butter, milk, cranberries, etc. Some people who could not come sent packages. We deeply appreciate this expression of gratitude and thoughtfulness of friends. We pray that God may richly bless each one.

On last Sunday evening the 400th anniversary of the translation of the English Bible was celebrated. The theme for the evening worship was "The Bible."

J. T. BOWMAN, Pastor.

Spring Hill, North Davidson Charge.—Rev. W. H. Neese brought an interesting message to us Sunday afternoon on the subject of "Silver and Gold Have I None. But Such as I Have Give I Thee." His text was taken from the third chapter of Acts. His thoughts were based mainly on what we need most, not what we ask for.

The C. E. Society is doing very good work. The society will meet Sunday evening at 6 o'clock with Milford Byerly as leader.

One of our members, Mr. Clayton Cecil. was united in marriage to Miss Velda Cashatt at Danville, Va., Saturday afternoon. At the present they are making their home with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. A. Cecil.

MARGARET SWAIM, Reporter.

Mt. Pleasant Business Girls' Circle.—Mrs Carl Clapp and Mrs. Curtis Shoffner delightfully entertained the Business Girls' Circle at the home of Mrs. Clapp Saturday evening, November 24.

The Thanksgiving theme was carried out in group singing, a poem by Mrs. N. R. Suits, devotional by Mrs. Clapp, and a roll call of "Things I Am Thankful For."

During the business session a number of financing plans were discussed, including a brunswick stew, McCall's subscriptions, and Christmas card sales. It was reported that the members had made a total of 27 visits to the sick during the last month.

The circle voted to send a silver offering to the Children's Home Christmas and to have a Pollyanna Christmas tree at the next meeting, which will be held at the home of Miss Rebecca M. Causey with Mrs. S. R. Stafford as joint hostess.

Gideon's Grove, Flat Rock Charge.—We were very glad to have our pastor and family return to us and we are hopeful for another good year together. Rev. C. B. Way filled his first regular appointment at this church since conference Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The sermon was very forceful and appropriate, based upon a text taken from I Cor. 3:9, "For we are laborers together with God." The interest in the Sunday school continues good. Mr. G. A. Middleton has started upon his duties as superintendent for his 21st consecutive year. Mr. Middleton is a very able and efficient leader, and his loyalty and faithfulness bespeak for themselves when it is recalled that he has been providentially hindered the few times he has been absent during this long period of service. Plans are going forward for a Christmas program to be rendered. We are very glad to report that Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wilson and Mr. J. F. Lemons are improved after illness and we hope they will be able soon to attend services, as they are missed very much. The December monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held at the home of Mrs. S. G. Lemons. A Christmas program is planned. MRS. H. R. ANGEL, Reporter.

Guilford Charge.—Our first quarterly meeting will be held next Saturday, December 7, at 2:30 o'clock at Fairfield church. We hope a large crowd will be present. I have filled all the appointments since conference and the work has started off nicely. The members are so nice to us, always giving us things for the pantry. Mrs. G. H. Weant, of Fairfield, gave us a nice hen for Thanksgiving; Mrs. Fowler, of Mitchell Grove, a nice cake. The day was so bad we spent it at home.

On the third Sunday in November the Vickery members gave us a nice pounding. After service I went to my car to start home and found it heavily loaded with so many things that are always needed. We are so thankful to them. I won't mention the things given by name. Two of our members at Vickery are very sick. Mr. John Armfield has pneumonia. Mrs. R. R. Winslow has been in the Thomasville hospital for four weeks. She had a serious operation, but seems to be improving now. Brother Strickland, or "Grandpa," as he is better known, is very sick. He is a member of Hickory Grove church. Pray that these may soon be well again. T. A. WILLIAMS.

Kannapolis.—Our church work is progressing fine under the leadership of our new pastor, Rev. D. R. Williams, and the various new officers that were re elected, and by the help of the Holy Spirit. Rev. Mr. Williams and his dear companion, Mrs. Williams, come to us from Albemarle and we gladly welcome them to our church and community. Rev. Mr. Williams has brought some wonderful messages to the people since being with us and feel that by God's help and co-operation of each member that much good might be accomplished in the coming year.

On Sunday, December 1, at the 11 o'clock service, Mrs. W. T. Kiser and Miss Lucille Ruff sang a duet, "Happy Am I," accompanied at the piano by Miss Laura Braswell, which was greatly enjoyed. The various C. E. societies are going right along with their work. The Junior society had 25 present on Sunday, December 1.

No. 1 circle of the auxiliary met with Mrs. X. E. Grayson on Saturday evening, November 30, with 11 members, 1 visitor, 1 new member, and 1 Precious Jewel present. After the business hour a delightful social hour was enjoyed. Guess boxes were sold. This accumulated a lot of fun, after which delicious refreshments were served, consisting of a combination plate luncheon with hot chocolate and floating marshmallow. The meeting was adjourned to meet next with Mrs. J. V. Dwiggens on North Juniper street the second Saturday evening of January, 1936. Plans are under way at present for a good Christmas program. If you do not attend Sunday school during the period from the second Sunday of November until December 15, your name will not be on roll to receive a Christmas treat on December 22. If sickness prevents your coming to Sunday school during this period, please notify your teacher by someone else.

We noticed several faces at church Sunday that have been being missed and were glad to see them back. You think "no one cares about me whether I go to church or not." Well, you don't know. For God's eyes are on you everywhere. And, too, there is some individual piece of humanity here that have their eyes on you and follow in your footsteps. Are you leading them in the right direction?

Just before conference we had the pleasure of having Rev. C. P. Morris with us, as he and Rev. Aubert Smith (our pastor at that time) decided to exchange pulpits. Rev. Mr. Morris is dearly loved in our church and community. And we would not forget Rev. Aubert Smith and Rev. J. L. Love and his family and all others that have been with us. We truly wish for all these the very best in the future.

Congratulations are being extended to Mr. and Mrs. "Red" Steele on the birth of a daughter, Mary Esther. Mother and baby are getting along fine.

MRS. X. E. G., Reporter.

Winston, First Church.—Our reporter is so busy along about this time of year that I was a bit surprised to see a note from her in last week's Herald. I appreciate her words of welcome, and I only hope that she is expressing the feeling of the membership. From the attitude of the folks, I think she is.

It is evident from her note that she knew something I didn't know; namely, that the folks were going to pound us. She wrote that before they did, or while they were doing it. Anyway, they did it, most generously. A pounding isn't anything new in the experience of most preachers. But this one was, or is, one of the best we have ever had And appreciated almost as much as the articles that were brought is the fact that the folks who brought them stayed for a social visit. The ladies served refreshments and the folks chatted while they ate. And we were glad to have Bro. R. A. Hunter and his wife come along with them. (I haven't discovered whether they brought something or took something.) I've never had the chance to pound another preacher so I don't know just how he feels about it; but pretty good I imagine.

Well, from that to this: We held our first quarterly conference at the parsonage last Wednesday week. (The wife served refreshments, which is something new for a quarterly conference. I pass the suggestion on. Let your wife, or somebody else's wife, feed the men. Maybe you can get them to do something.) They tell me it was a good quarterly conference and that they left feeling more encouraged than they had in a long time. I think myself the outlook is more hopeful than it has been. And if the plans we are starting work out, we will have a much better report to make at the end of this year than we had last. But the success of the plans, of course, rests finally with the members of the church. If every man will stand in his place and do his part, it can and will be done.

C. W. BATES, Pastor.

THANKSGIVING ONCE MORE

Because it is not yet too late to make your Thanksgiving offering to your Children's Home, if you have not already made it, and because of our need here for the winter, and because the following letter, written on Thanksgiving Day and published in the High Point Enterprise the day after Thanksgiving expresses so well what we have been trying to get across to our people, I am asking the editor of the Herald to publish the letter.

URGES CITIZENS TO BE D-MEN TO ORPHANS

Editor of The Enterprise:

This Thanksgiving season is being featured by special offerings in churches and Sunday schools for the orphanages of our state. There can be no better way to show joyful gratitude to God for such blessings and mercies as we have known during the year than to make Thanksgiving radiant for and with Christ. Probably the happiest moments of our Savior when He lived among us as a man some 2,000 years ago was when He was with little children. He said, "Suffer them to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Several weeks ago I had the great pleasure of a visit to the large and well-conducted Presbyterian orphanage at Barium Springs. It seemed to me that this institution reflected in the sweet faces of the dear little children there the radiance of our dearly beloved and loving Christ. It seemed to me that the spirit of Christ was visible there, and particularly radiant and happy because He was amongst these sweet little ones. I am sure that whatever we can do for these parentless children is done also for Christ and with His blessing.

For the last several weeks the children of many Sunday schools have been giving pennies, nickels and dimes for Thanksgiving offerings for children without daddies or mothers. But let us adults do more in proportion to our resources. Let us talk to the darlings in dollars.

The children of today are making heroes of these splendid, brave G-Men. They have seen them in the movies making successful war on kidnapers and other enemies of society. But all of us adult men can find one certain way to become idealized and loved by the children.

Let us be D-Men, not only with our own children, but with parentless children. By D-men, I mean dollar men—those who will try to talk in dollars for child welfare. I mean also daddie men to help those without daddies. I mean also darling men as they surely will be to the children who may love even as they are loved.

HENRY D. BAKER.

Durham, N. C., Nov. 28, 1935.

Many dollars are coming in. If yours has come or is on the way, that is fine. But if for any reason you just haven't got to it yet, then send along the dollars and you will be happy and so will we.

Christmas Just Ahead

Having passed Thanksgiving, our little tots are already looking forward to and talking Christmas. One dear child said to me yesterday, "Daddy Dixon, my ladies have already written down here to know what I want for Christmas." And to my inquiry, "What did you write them?" she said, "I just told them. 'Anything you send will be all right.'" Blessed that child in this Home who can say, "My ladies." We are trying more and more to come to the point where our boys can say "My men." Some of them already can. May the number increase.

A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

BLANKET LIFE INSURANCE FOR MINISTERS AND LAYMEN

The blanket plan of life insurance for ministers of the conference was adopted at the Henderson conference last month.

A master policy will be issued to the conference when 50 applications have been received, and certificate policies will be issued to the individuals insured.

Any minister, in active service, 65 years of age or under, is eligible for the insurance Once the policy is issued, however, though he attains the age of 65, he cannot be dropped as long as the premiums are paid and the master policy is in force. No examination is required. The amount of the policy is $499. and the annual premium is $10, irrespective of age, payable annually or semi-annually.

Any layman or laywoman is eligible for this insurance under the same terms as the ministers, except the age limit for them is 60 instead of 65 years. Children 10 years of age and over may be insured under the same terms.

The first year of the life of the policy, however, the death benefit is $300, thereafter it is $499, as above stated, for all policyholders up to and including 60 years. Those from 61 to 65, inclusive, are covered the first policy year for $150, and thereafter for $300. When 200 policies have been sold, however, this group will be covered for $250 the first policy year and thereafter for $499.

Attached to each individual policy is a draft on the company for the amount of $100, which is cashable by the beneficiary for funeral expenses, if needed, immediately upon the death of the insured, and when countersigned by a party agreed upon by the conference committee and the company. That individual, most likely, will be the attending physician or the undertaker.

From each individual annual premium will be set aside a reserve of approximately $2. The aggregate of this reserve will be held by the conference committee as a benefit insurance for the uninsured ministers who have attained an age beyond 65 years. This will include the superannuates.

Dr. George R. Brown, Reidsville, N. C., is the treasurer of the conference committee. All premium remittances should be made to him and he will deliver all individual policies, as well as hold the reserve fund. All applications for insurance should be mde to N. M. Harrison, High Point College, High Point, N. C. Application blanks and information about the plan will be sent by him to all interested parties.

This is a real opportunity to buy insurance at a rate cheaper than it can be purchased individully. At the same time make it possible for a number of the ministers, particularly the older men, to secure insurance, who because of health could not individually secure it.

We have spent much time in conference for several years discussing brotherhood and insurance plans, but have not heretofore had such an insurance opportunity as this. Let's show that we meant business in those discussions, and file our application at once, so that the master policy can be put into effect immediately. The young men of the conference should show their interest in the older men by taking a policy in order to make the plan possible for the older ministers. At the same time they are getting value received for the outlay.

Every delegate to conference, every Sunday school superintendent, every teacher, every Methodist Protestant anywhere interested in his pastor, his former pastors, and future pastors, will do well by them, as well as his own estate, to buy this insurance. Help make possible this economical plan of insurance for these men of God! We are counting on you; we want 50 applications before Christmas.

N. M. HARRISON,
Member of Insurance Committee.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Resolutions of Respect

We, the members of Eden Church Auxiliary, wish to express our appreciation of the life of one of our beloved members and coworkers, Mrs. B. F. Willey, whom God saw fit to remove from her earthly dwelling to a home above.

Therefore, be it resolved that we record with deep sorrow, her going from our midst. We bow in humble submission to God's will and thank Him for the life of our departed friend. Tenderly we touch the heart strings of memory as we recall the faithfulness and loyalty of one so lovable. Friendly and true to all of her friends and loved ones, and we will cherish her memory.

Be it resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, one to the Methodist Protestant Herald, one to the Enfield Progress and a copy to be spread on the minutes of our Auxiliary.

"Into God's beautiful garden of life,
His messengers go each day.
To gather the choicest blossoms,
And bear them to him away.

Even death has a wonderful mission,
Though it robs us of those we love.
It lifts our hearts from earth's partings,
To long for the meeting above.

No matter how heavy the burden,
No matter how great the despair
Doesn't heaven seem nearer and dearer,
To know that our loved ones are there."

MRS. J. R. DICKENS,
MISS WINNIE BURT.

FROM REV. G. A. LAUGHLIN

Cedar Falls, N. C., Nov. 28, 1936.

On Thursday morning, November 28, Miss Lillie L. Brower, of Worthville, N. C., became the wife of Mr. R. C. Craven, of Cedar Falls, N. C. The marriage took place at my home. We wish for them a long and happy life.

I have passed the 80th mile post on the road and am still doing business at the same old stand. G. A. LAUGHLIN.

ALBEMARLE	40

HENDERSON	21

With what suddenness some things do happen! Like the lightning from a clear sky, or the rain without clouds! Albemarle comes from zero of last week into the very head of the column of honor this week. Well, that is going some. Pensacola and Henderson move up a little from last week.

Now for the receipts of this week. There is no doubt about who is at the head of the column. That young man Isley from Albemarle walks away with the show. Graham, the charge that nosed out Calvary on the last day of the last conference year and finished first in all the conference, comes to the front again this week. It is just hard to head them off. And Pinnacle-Mt. Zion charge is bestirring itself also this week. While Halifax does not stand at the top, she comes across with six dollars, although it was not all sent in by the same person. Mt. Pleasant, Pleasant Grove, Alamance, West End in Greensboro. Roberta, and Grace church all send in more than one subscription. Then we have a good long line of smaller amounts. We are thankful for all, whether large or small.

Our receipts amount to $77.35, all on subscriptions.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

MRS. J. E. PRITCHARD, Editor

Dear Chairmen of Districts 6, 11, 12, 16, 18:

I have mailed squares and letters to each of the other chairmen of districts. I will send you the squares as soon as I get them. In the meantime try to talk about the India quilt and interest your people. I do not know who has these squares. I am mailing them as fast as they come to me. According to my count, we need 63 more squares for these districts. If any who read have any, please send them to me so that everybody can be at work on this much needed project.

MRS. H. C. NICHOLSON,
Chairman of Districts, N. C. Branch.

The Plan of Church Union

In another part of this issue of the HERALD we are printing in full the plan for the proposed union of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant Church. This week, it is not our purpose to argue either for or against the proposed plan, but to try to interpret it for the benefit of those who do not have the time to study the rather lengthy document. This plan was sent out to all publications of the three denominations a few days ago with the information that it was for release December 12th.

Since we are publishing the plan in full there will be several sections of it which we need not discuss. There are a few things that we would like to comment on. The first of these is the General Conference. While there are several things that are left for the General Conference to determine, after unification takes place—if it takes place at all—there are some things that are definitely determined. The General Conference is to be made up of an equal number of ministers and laymen. We really had not expected it to be otherwise, as all three of the denominations use that system at the present time. The Episcopacy, which we know as the Bishops, is also to be retained in the united church, as is the presiding eldership. The General Conference is the supreme governing body of the church. While some things are delegated to the Jurisdictional Conferences, the more important legislation is to originate in the General Conference.

The proposed plan of union also calls for a certain number of Jurisdictional Conferences. The Jurisdictional Conference in which we are located consists of the following states: Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, Mississippi, and Cuba. The Jurisdictional Conferences will elect their own Bishops, but the Bishops may be transferred from one Jurisdiction to another under certain conditions. As we understand it, the Jurisdictional Conference is largely promotional and must meet within one year following the meeting of the General Conference. This Jurisdictional Conference is to be made up of an equal number of ministers and laymen, but the delegates to the General and Jurisdictional Conferences are to be elected by the Annual Conferences, the ministers voting for ministers and the laymen voting for laymen.

We come now to the basic organization of the church, which is the Annual Conference. This body is to be made up of an equal number of ministers and laymen, or approximately so, since every pastoral charge is entitled to a representative. The Annual Conference is given the right to vote on all constitutional amendments, on all representatives to the Jurisdictional and General Conferences and on all matters relating to character and conference relations of all ministers, one limitation being that only ministers can vote on questions specifically concerning ministers.

The last division for us to discuss is the Judiciary Council. The number of members of the Judicial Council and their election shall be determined by the General Conference. This organization shall pass upon the constitutionality of all acts of the General Conference and will pass upon any appeals from a Bishop's decision on the question of laws made in the Annual or District Conferences.

Having thought about this proposed basis of union for several days, we are now ready to give our impressions of it. And using a scriptural phrase, it has "the hands of Esau but the voice of Jacob." The larger part of it sounds very much like the constitution and Discipline of the Methodist Protestant Church, while other parts of it are distinctly Methodist Episcopal. If one could imagine a Methodist Protestant Church with bishops and presiding elders, then we have it here. In the legislative matters it is what the Methodist Protestant Church has always contended for. We do not profess to understand it all, but we will say that it seems to be as fair a compromise on the part of all sides as one could imagine. And in making this statement, we are not arguing for or against the matter. We are not saying whether we are for it or against it. From now until our General Conference meets in High Point next May it behooves the representatives from our church to study the plan very carefully and prayerfully, for this is what they will be called upon to vote on next May. Whether the Methodist Protestant Church wants to go into a merger and become a part of the Methodist Church or to continue on as it has done in the past is the question which our church will have to decide.

Before closing this article we will say that it is to be expected that there will be discussion in these columns on the question of church union. May we ask that it be conducted on a high plane, leaving out personalities. May there be no questioning of the motives of anyone. Let each one look at the question from the standpoint of what will bring the largest good to the world.

Rev. J. Elwood Carroll Elected President

Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, pastor of Grace church, Greensboro, has been elected president of the Greensboro Ministerial Association.

Rev. Clay Madison Out of Hospital

We have learned that Rev. Clay Madison, who has been seriously ill in a High Point hospital, was expecting to leave the hospital this week. We trust he may soon be well again.

Plan of Union

Of the Methodist Episcopal Church, The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and The Methodist Protestant Church

TRANSMITTAL

We, the Commissions on Interdenominational Relations and Church Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant Church, holding that these churches are essentially one in origin, in belief, in spirit, and in purpose, and desiring that this essential unity be made actual in organization and administration in the United States of America and throughout the world, do hereby propose and transmit to our respective General Conferences the following Plan of Union and recommend to the three churches its adoption by the processes which they respectively require.

DIVISION ONE

Article I—Declaration of Union

The Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant Church shall be united in one church.

Article II—Name

The name of the church shall be The Methodist Church.

Article III—Articles of Religion

The Articles of Religion shall be those historically held in common by the three uniting churches. (See Disciplines.)

DIVISION TWO—CONFERENCES

1. There shall be a General Conference for the entire church with such powers, duties, and privileges as are hereinafter set forth.

2. There shall be Jurisdictional Conferences for the church in the United States of America, with such powers, duties, and privileges as are hereinafter set forth.

3. There shall be Central Conferences for the church outside the United States of America, with such powers, duties, and privileges as are hereinafter set forth.

4. There shal be Annual Conferences as the fundamental bodies in the church, with such powers, duties and privileges as are hereinafter set forth.

Section I—General Conference

Article I.—The General Conference shall be composed of not less than 600 nor more than 800 delegates, one-half of whom shall be ministers and one-half lay members, to be elected by the Annual Conferences.

Article II.—The General Conference shall meet in the month of April or May once in four years, beginning with such year and at such place as shall be fixed by the Uniting Conference, and thereafter at such time and in such place as shall be determined by the General Conference or by its duly authorized committees.

Article III.—The General Conference shall fix the ratio of representation in the General, Jurisdictional, and Central Conferences from the Annual Conferences, with the total ministerial membership in the Annual Conferences as a basis, provided that each Annual Conference shall be entitled to at least one ministerial and one lay delegate in the General Conference and also in the Jurisidctional or Central Conference.

Article IV.—The General Conference shall have full legislative power over all matters distinctively connectional, and in the exercise of said power shall have authority as follows:

1. To define and fix the conditions, privileges, and duties of church membership.

2. To define and fix the qualifications and duties of Elders, Deacons, Supply Preachers, Local Preachers, Exhorters, and Deaconesses.

3. To define and fix the powers and duties of Annual Conferences, Mission Conferences, and Missions, and of District, Quarterly, and Church Conferences.

4. To provide for the organization, promotion, and administration of the work of the church outside the United States of America.

5. To define and fix the powers, duties, and privileges of the Episcopacy; to adopt a plan for the support of the Bishops, to provide a unform rule for their superannuation and to provide for the discontinuance of a Bishop because of inefficiency or unacceptability.

6. To provide and revise the Hymnal and Ritual of the church and to regulate all matters relating to the form and mode of worship, subject to the limitations of the First Restrictive Rule.

7. To provide a judicial system and a method of judicial procedure for the church, except as herein otherwise prescribed.

8. To initiate and to direct all connectional enterprises of the church, such as publishing, evangelistic, educational, missionary, and benevolent, and to provide boards for their promotion and administration.

9. To determine and provide for raising the funds necessary to carry on the connectional work of the church.

10. To fix a uniform basis upon which Bishops shall be elected by the Jurisdictional Conferences and to determine the number of Bishops that may be elected by Central Conferences.

11. To select its presiding officers from the Bishops, through a committee, provided that the Bishops shall select from their own number the president for the opening session.

12. To change the number and the boundaries of Jurisdictional Conferences upon the consent of a majority of the Annual Conferences in each Jurisdictional Conference involved.

13. To establish such commissions for the general work of the church as may be deemed advisable.

14. To enact such other legislation as may be necessary, subject to the limitations and restrictions of the Constitution of the church.

Section II—Restrictive Rules

1. The General Conference shall not revoke, alter, or change our Articles of Religion, or establish any new standards or rules of doctrine contrary to our present existing and established standards of doctrine.

2. The General Conference shall not change or alter any part or rule of our government so as to do away with Episcopacy, or destroy the plan of our itinerant General Superintendency.

3. The General Conference shall not do away the privileges of our Ministers or Preachers of trial by a committee and of an appeal; neither shall it do away the privileges of our members of trial before the church, or by a committee, and of an appeal.

4. The General Conference shall not revoke or change the General Rules of the United Societies.

5. The General Conference shall not appropriate the produce of the Publishing House, the Book Concern, or the Chartered Fund to any purpose other than for the benefit of the traveling, supernumerary, superannuated, and worn-out preachers, their wives, widows, and children.

Section III—Amendments

1. Amendments to the Constitution may originate in either the General Conference or an Annual Conference.

2. Amendments to the Constitution shall be made upon a two-thirds majority of the General Conference present and voting and a two-thirds majority of all the members of the several Annual Conferences present and voting, except in the case of the First Restrictive Rule, which shall require a three-fourths majority of all the members of the Annual Conferences present and voting. The vote, after being completed, shall be canvassed by the Council of Bishops and the amendment voted upon shall become effective upon their announcement of its having received the required majority.

3. A Jurisdictional Conference may by a majority vote propose changes in the Constitution of the church, and such proposed changes shall be submitted to the next General Conference. If the General Conference adopt the measure by a two-thirds vote, it shall be submitted to the Annual Conferences according to the provision for amendments.

Section IV—Jurisdictional Conferences

Article I.—The Jurisdictional Conferences shall be composed of as many representatives from the Annual Conferences as shall be determined by a uniform basis established by the General Conference.

Article II.—All Jurisdictional Conferences shall have the same status and the same privileges of action within the limits fixed by the Constitution. The ratio of representation of the Annual Conferences in the General Conference shall be the same for all Jurisdictional Conferences.

Article III.—The General Conference shall fix the basis of representation in the Jurisdictional Conferences, provided that the Jurisdictional Conferences shall be composed of an equal number of ministerial and lay delegates, the ministerial to be elected by the ministerial members of the Annual Conferences and the lay delegates by the lay members.

Article IV.—Each Jurisdictional Conference shall meet within the twelve months succeeding the meeting of the General Conference, at such time and place as shall have been determined by the preceding Jurisdictional Conference, or by its properly constituted committee. The first meeting of each Jurisdictional Conference after the General Conference shall be called by the Council of Bishops at a date fixed by them and at a place selected by a Committee on Entertainment appointed by them.

Article V.—The Jurisdictional Conferences shall have the following powers and duties and such others as may be conferred by the General Conference:

1. To promote the evangelistic, educational, missionary, and benevolent interests of the church, and to provide for interests and institutions within their boundaries.

2. To elect Bishops and to co-operate in carrying out such plans for their support as may be determined by the General Conference.

3. To establish and constitute Jurisdictional Conference Boards as auxiliary to the General Boards of the church as the need may appear, and to choose their representatives on the General Boards in such manner as the General Conference may determine.

4. To determine the boundaries of their Annual Conferences provided that there shall be no Annual Conference with a membership of less than fifty ministers in full connection, except by the consent of the General Conference.

5. To make rules and regulations for the administration of the work of the church within the Jurisdiction, subject to such powers as have been or shall be vested in the General Conference.

6. To appoint a Committee on Appeals to hear and determine the appeal of a traveling preacher of that Jurisdiction from the decision of a trial committee.

Section V—Central Conferences

Article I.—There shall be Central Conferences for the work of the church outside the United States of America with such duties, powers, and privileges as hereinafter set forth. The number and boundaries of the Central Conferences shall be determined by the Uniting Conference. Subsequently the General Conference shall have authority to change the number and boundaries of Central Conferences. The Central Conference shall have the duties, powers, and privileges hereinafter set forth.

Article II.—The Central Conferences shall be composed of as many delegates as shall be determined by a basis established by the General Conference. The delegates shall be ministerial and lay in equal numbers, the ministerial delegates to be elected by the ministerial members and the lay delegates by the lay members of the Annual Conferences.

Article III.—The Central Conferences shall meet within the year succeeding the meeting of the General Conference at such times and places as shall have been determined by the preceding respective Central Conferences or by commissions appointed by them, or by the General Conference. The date and place of the first meeting succeeding the first General Conference shall be fixed by the Bishops of the respective General Conferences, or in such manner as shall be determined by the General Conference.

Article IV.—The Central Conferences shall have the following powers and duties and such others as may be conferred by the General Conference:

1. To promote the evangelistic, educational, missionary, and benevolent interests and institutions of the church within their own boundaries.

2. To elect the Bishops for the respective Central Conferences in number as may be determined from time to time, upon a basis fixed by the General Conference, and to co-operate in carrying out such plans for the support of their Bishops as may be determined by the General Conference.

3. To establish and constitute such Central Conference Boards as may be required and to elect their administrative officers.

4. To determine the boundaries of the Annual Conferences within their respective areas.

5. To make such rules and regulations for the administration of the work within their boundaries as the conditions in the respective areas may require, subject to the powers that have been or shall be vested in the General Conference.

6. To appoint a Committee on Appeals to hear and determine the appeal of a traveling preacher of that Central Conference from the decision of a Committee of Trial.

Section VI—Episcopal Administration in Central Conferences

1. The Bishops of the Central Conferences shall be elected and inducted into office by their respective Central Conferences.

2. The Bishops of the Central Conferences shall have membership in the Council of Bishops with vote limited to matters relating to their respective Central Conferences.

3. The Bishops of the Central Conferences shall preside in the sessions of their respective Central Conferences.

4. The Bishops of each Central Conference shall arrange the plan of Episcopal visitation within their Central Conference.

5. The Council of Bishops may assign one of their number to visit any Central Conference. When so assigned the Bishop shall be recognized as an accredited representative of the general church; and when requested by a majority of the Bishops of a Central Conference may exercise therein the functions of the Episcopacy.

Section VII—Annual Conferences

Article I.—The Annual Conference shall be composed of all the Traveling Preachers in full connection with it, together with a lay member elected by each pastoral charge. The lay members shall be at least twenty-one (21) years of age and shall have been for the four years next preceding their election members of one of the constituent churches forming this union, or of the Methodist Church.

Article II.—The Annual Conference is the basic body in the church and as such shall have reserved to it the right to vote on all constitutional amendments, on the election of ministerial and lay delegates to the General and the Jurisdictional or Central Conferences, on all matters relating to the character and conference relations of its ministerial members, and on the ordination of ministers, and such other rights as have not been delegated to the General Conference under the Constitution, with the exception that the lay members may not vote on matters of ordination, character, and conference relations of ministers. It shall discharge such duties and exercise such powers as the General Conference under the Constitution may determine.

Article III.—The Annual Conference shall elect ministerial and lay delegates to the General Conference and to its Jurisdictional or Central Conference in the manner provided in this section, Articles IV and V, at the session preceding the General Conference. The persons first elected up to the number determined by the ratio for representation in the General Conference shall be representatives in that body. Additional delegates shall be elected to complete the number determined by the ratio for representation in the Jurisdictional or Central Conference, who, together with those first elected as above, shall be delegates in the Jurisdictional or Central Conference. The additional delegates to the Jurisdictional or Central Conference shall in the order of their election be the reserve delegates to the General Conference. The Annual Conference shall also elect reserve ministerial and lay delegates to the Jurisdictional or Central Conference as it may deem desirable.

Article IV.—The ministerial delegates to the General Conference and to the Jurisdictional or Central Conference shall be elected by the ministerial members of the Annual Conference, provided that such delegates shall have been traveling preachers in the constituent churches forming this union, or in the Methodist Church for at least four years next preceding their election and are in full connection with the Annual Conference electing them when elected and at the time of holding the General and Jurisdictional or Central Conferences.

Article V.—The lay delegates to the General Conference and to the Jurisdictional or Central Conference shall be elected by the lay members of the Annual Conference, provided that such delegates be at least twenty-five (25) years of age and shall have been members of the constituent churches forming this union, or of the Methodist Church, for at least four years next preceding their election, and are members thereof within the Annual Conference electing them at the time of holding the General and Jurisdictional or Central Conferences.

Section VIII—Boundaries

Article I.—The Methodist Church in the United States of America shall have Jurisdictional Conferences made up as follows:

Northeastern—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, West Virginia, Delaware, District of Columbia, Puerto Rico.

Southeastern—Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, Mississippi, Cuba.

Central—The Negro Annual Conferences, the Negro Mission Conferences and Missions in the United States of America.

South Central—Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico.

Western—Washington, Idaho, Oregon, California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Alaska, Hawaiian Islands.

Article II.—The work of the church outside the United States of America may be formed into Central Conferences, the number and boundaries of which shall be determined by the Uniting Conference, the General Conference having authority subsequently to make changes in the number and boundaries.

Article III.—Changes in the number, name, and the boundaries of the Jurisdictional Conferences may be effected by the General Conference upon the consent of a majority of the Annual Conferences of each of the Jurisdictional Conferences involved.

Article IV.—Changes in the number, name, and boundaries of the Annual Conferences may be effected by the Jurisdictional Conferences in the United States of America and by the Central Conferences outside the United States of America, according to the provisions under the respective powers of the Jurisdictional and the Central Conferences.

Section IX—District Conferences

Article I.—There may be organized in an Annual Conference District Conferences composed of such persons and invested with such powers as the General Conference may determine.

Section X—Quarterly Conferences

Article I.—There shall be organized in each pastoral charge a Quarterly Conference composed of such persons and invested with such powers as the General Conference shall provide.

Article II. Election of Church Officers.—Unless the General Conference shall order otherwise, the officers of the church or churches constituting a pastoral charge shall be elected by the Quarterly Conference or by the members of said church or churches at a meeting called for that purpose, as may be arranged by the Quarterly Conference unless the election is otherwise required by local church charters or state laws.

Section XI—Church Conferences

There may be a Church Conference in each church, having such powers and duties as the General Conference may prescribe.

DIVISION THREE—EPISCOPACY

Article I.—There shall be an Episcopacy in the Methodist Church of like plan, powers, privileges, and duties as now exist in the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Article II.—The Bishops shall be elected by the respective Jurisdictional and Central Conferences and ordained or consecrated in the historic manner of Episcopal Methodism at such time and place as may be fixed by the General Conference.

Article III.—There shall be a Council of Bishops composed of all the Bishops of all the Jurisdictional and Central Conferences. The Council shall meet at least once a year and plan for the general oversight and promotion of the temporal and spiritual interests of the entire church and for carrying into effect the rules, regulations, and responsibilities prescribed and enjoined by the General Conference, and in accord with the provisions set forth in this Plan of Union.

Article IV.—The Bishops of each Jurisdictional and Central Conference shall arrange the Plan of Episcopal Supervision of the Annual Conferences, Mission Conferences, and Missions within their respective territories.

Article V.—The Bishops shall have residential and presidential supervision in the Jurisdictional Conferences in which they are elected. A bishop may be transferred from one Jurisdiction to another Jurisdiction for presidential and residential supervision by the Council of Bishops when such transfer is requested by the Jurisdictional Conference to which such proposed transfer is to be made.

A Bishop may be assigned by the Council of Bishops for presidential service or other temporary service not to exceed a year, in another Jurisdiction than that which elected him, provided request is made by a majority of the Bishops in the Jurisdiction of the proposed service.

In the case of an emergency in any Jurisdiction through the death or disability of its Bishops the Council of Bishops may assign one or more Bishops from other Jurisdictions to the work of the said Jurisdiction with the consent of a majority of the Bishops of that Jurisdiction.

Article VI.—The Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church and of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at the time union is consummated, shall be Bishops of the Methodist Church.

The delegates from the Annual Conferences of the Methodist Protestant Church in the Uniting Conferences shall have the authority and power to elect to the office of Bishop two ministers of their church who upon ordination or consecration at the Uniting Conference by the Bishops of the other two churches, shall become effective Bishops of the Methodist Church.

The effective Bishops shall be assigned for service to the various Jurisdictional Conferences by the Uniting Conference.

Article VII.—A Bishop presiding over a District, Annual, or Jurisdictional Conference shall decide all questions of law coming before him in the regular business of a session, provided that such questions be presented in writing and that his decisions be recorded in the Journal of the Conference.

Such an Episcopal decision shall not be authoritative except for the pending case until it shall have been passed upon by the Judicial Council. Each Bishop shall report in writing annually all his decisions of law, with a syllabus of the same, to the Judicial Council, which shall affirm, modify, or reverse them.

Article VIII.—The Bishops of the several Jurisdictional Conferences shall preside in the sessions of their respective Jurisdictional Conferences.

DIVISION FOUR—THE JUDICIARY

Article I.—There shall be a Judicial Council. The General Conference shall determine the number and qualifications of its members, their terms of office, and the method of election and the filling of vacancies.

Article II.—The Judicial Council shall have authority:

1. To determine the constitutionality of any act of the General Conference upon an appeal of a majority of the Council of Bishops, or one-fifth of the members of the General Conference; and to determine the constitutionality of any act of a Jurisdictional or Central Conference upon an appeal of a majority of the Bishops of that Jurisdictional or Central Conference or upon the appeal of one-fifth of the members of that Jurisdictional or Central Conference.

2. To hear and determine any appeal from a Bishop's decision on a question of law made in the Annual or District Conference when said appeal has been made by one-fifth of that Conference present and voting.

3. To pass upon decisions of law made by Bishops in Annual or District Conferences.

4. To hear and determine the legality of any action taken therein by any General Conference board or Jurisdictional or Central Conference board or body, upon appeal by one-third of the members thereof or upon request of the Council of Bishops, or a majority of the Bishops of a Jurisdictional or a Central Conference.

5. To have such other duties and powers as may be conferred upon it by the General Conference.

6. To provide its own methods of organization and procedure.

Article III.—All decisions of the Judicial Council shall be final. However, when the Judicial Council shall declare any act of the General Conference unconstitutional that decision shall be reported back to that General Conference immediately.

PROCEDURE—UNITING CONFERENCE

Article I.—There shall be a Uniting Conference composed of 900 delegates, of whom 400 shall be from the Methodist Episcopal Church, 400 from the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and 100 from the Methodist Protestant Church, chosen in such manner as may be determined by the respective General Conferences, provided that the ministerial and lay members shall be in equal number.

Article II.—The Uniting Conference shall be held within twelve months after the final approval and adoption of this Plan of Union by the three churches, at the call of the Bishops of the two churches and the President of the General Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, and at a date fixed by them and at a place selected by a Joint Commission on Entertainment of five persons from each of the three churches, this commission to be appointed by the Bishops of the two churches and the President of the Methodist Protestant General Conference.

Article III.—The expenses of the Uniting Conference shall be borne by the three churches in proportion to their respective representation.

Article IV.—The duties and powers of the Uniting Conference, subject to the provisions of this Plan of Union, shall be:

1. To harmonize and combine the rules and regulations as found in the Disciplines of the three churches relating to membership, the conferences, the ministry, judicial administration, and temporal economy.

2. To harmonize and combine the Rituals of the three churches.

3. To provide for the unification, co-ordination, and correlation of the connectional missionary, educational, and benevolent boards and societies of the three churches.

4. To provide for the unification, co-ordination, and correlation of the publishing interests of the three churches.

5. To provide a plan for the control and safeguarding of all permanent funds and other property interests of the three churches and the interests of those persons and causes for which these funds were established.

Article V.—In order to facilitate the work of the Uniting Conference, the three General Conferences at the sessions wherein this Plan of Union is approved shall continue their Commissions on Union with such changes in personnel as they may desire, and authorize the Joint Commission thus formed to make special preparation for the Uniting Conference by the appointment of proper committees to deal with (a) membership, conferences, ministry, judicial administration, and temporal economy; (b) rituals; (c) connectional boards and societies; (d) publishing interests; (e) permanent and pension funds; and (f) such other matters as imperatively call for advance consideration.

Article VI.—All Annual Conferences of the three churches shall retain their existing status until by the action of the Uniting Conference it shall be determined otherwise.

Article VII.—The legislative power of the Uniting Conference shall be confined to harmonizing and combining provisions now existing in the Disciplines of the three churches, or one or more of these churches.

Article VIII.—The boundaries and composition of the Annual Conferences within the several Jurisdictional Conferences as made up in this Plan of Union shall be adjusted at the time of the meeting of the Uniting Conference by the delegates from the Annual Conferences within the respective Jurisdictions, sitting apart for that purpose during the period of the Uniting Conference, provided that in the case of those Annual Conferences that may be divided by the Jurisdictional Conference lines, their delegates shall allocate themselves to the respective Jurisdictional Conferences upon the basis of church membership of their Conferences in the respective Jurisdictions.

Article IX.—The Uniting Conference shall fix the basis of representation of the Annual Conferences in the first General Conference and in the Jurisdictional and Central Conferences.

Article X.—Pending the meeting of the Uniting Conference each of the three uniting churches shall be governed by the rules and regulations of its own Discipline.

Recommendations

I. The General Conference is authorized to extend to the autonomous Methodist churches outside the United States of America formerly connected with our bodies, an invitation to enter into conference with us with respect to such relationship with the Methodist Church as may seem mutually desirable.

II. The co-operative relationships which already exist between any of these three Methodist bodies and churches in foreign fields not covered by other provisions herein shall be continued as may seem mutually advantageous.

III. The world-wide character of Methodism shall be recognized by participation in the Ecumenical Methodist Conference and by the appointment of a commission to assist in bringing all Methodist bodies throughout the world into more intimate and effective relationship.

IV. We recommend that financial support of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church be continued by those jurisdictional divisions with which said church is historically related, and to such an extent as those Jurisdictions may deem wise.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM F. McDOWELL, Chairman,
HARRY E. WOOLEVER, Secretary,
Commission on Interdenominational Relations of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

EDWIN D. MOUZON, Chairman,
J. L. DECELL, Secretary,
Commission on Church Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

JOHN C. BROOMFIELD, Chairman,
LEONARD B. SMITH, Secretary,
Commission on Church Union of the Methodist Protestant Church.

WHEN WILL THE JOURNAL BE OUT?

The last proof was mailed back to Mr. Reiner yesterday afternoon. He tells me the Journal will go to press Friday, and will be mailed out Monday. That's almost a record. Just a little over a month since Conference adojurned, and the Journal ready for distribution!

I want to call attention to the action of Conference, namely, that any pastor who fails to remit for the Journals within sixty days shall have his character investigated by the Committee on Official Character. I shall do what I have been doing—when a remittance for Journals is received from a pastor, enter the amount and the date. The date will determine it.

Let me make a suggestion that will help you with the sale of these Journals. Ask some one in each of your churches to take charge of selling them, collect the money and turn it over to you. I did that in my church last year. In five minutes 15 copies were sold, and all but three paid for. (These three were paid for the following Sunday.)

C. W. BATES, Secretary.

Dr. Bethea's Sermon

For several weeks we have had the Ordination Sermon, preached by Dr. N. G. Bethea, set up, but it has been crowded out week by week. We meant to run it this week, but we knew the entire church wanted to know about the official plan for church union, hence we are running that. Next week we expect to run the sermon, whether we run anything else or not.

It Is Papa Paschall Again

Congratulations are in order again for Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Paschall, of Burlington, in that a son, Frederick William, has come to live in the home. Dr. Paschall is pastor of our First Church at Burlington, and is one of our best preachers. We trust the youngster may be as useful some day as is his father.

Frank Hutton Honored

Frank Hutton, son of Rev. J. R. Hutton, of Greensboro, and the late Mrs. Hutton, has been elected president of the Greensboro Real Estate Board.

McCULLOCH MEMORIAL FUND

Honor Roll

(Your church ought to be here. If not, why not?)

100 PER CENT

The Conference has engaged in a good many campaigns of one sort or another, most of them to raise money. In a very few instances, notably the College Campaign to raise $5,000 last year, we have succeeded. Sometimes we have fooled ourselves into borrowing the money in order to say we have raised a certain amount, notably the Centennial Gift on which we still owe $1,000 of borrowed money.

But never, so far as I know, have we been able to get 100 per cent response from all the churches. Some have overpaid to take care of those who underpaid or didn't pay at all. So far as the money was concerned the amount raised was the same. But it wasn't fair to those who raised it, and it was hurtful to those who didn't. (It works the same way in the local church, when a few of the members, who are anxious to see the church come out on its obligations, go down in their pockets and pay it out, while the others stand around and watch them do it.)

But I have an ambition—to see every church in the Conference meet its part of this McCulloch Fund allotment. We lack just $800 of having it. Forty-eight charges are still in the red as regards this fund. We are not going back and ask the churches that have paid to pay again. It will not be necessary—and it certainly isn't right—when the churches that haven't paid are as well able to pay as those who have met the obligation. If the pastors will present it from the pulpits, get a layman in each church to take charge of it, it can be raised with almost no effort. I suggest that you pass out slips and ask each person who will to indicate how much he will pay on it, and when he will pay—say, in 90 days. But, brethren, do it! And let's say for once: EVERY CHURCH IN THE CONFERENCE PAID 100 PER CENT. That will honor a great man's memory, and discharge an obligation we are in honor bound to meet.

C. W. BATES, Chairman.

Henderson Church Makes Progress

A note from Rev. L. R. Medlin, the pastor of the Henderson church, informs us that that church has paid Annual Conference Expense assessment in full, it has paid HERALD subsidy in full, and the pastor is paid to date. Let the good work go on.

Calvary Church to Observe Membership Day

On next Sunday, December 15, Calvary church in Greensboro will observe Membership Day, the object being to get just as many members of the church to attend the services of the day as is possible. This applies to all the services of the day. Members present will be recognized.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Albemarle Invites the Annual Conference

The pastor brought an invitation from this church last Monday. We remember with much pleasure our stay there in 1930. We were entertained as well as anyone could desire. The church building is well arranged to take good care of the conference. If other churches would like to have us, we will be glad to have their invitation in quite soon.

Pastors Who Took Thanksgiving Offering for the Home

The following pastors have reported to me: B. M. Williams, J. C. Madison, C. G. Cowan, J. D. Morris, D. R. Williams, Leo Pittard, J. W. Braxton, F. W. Paschall, and J. E. Pritchard.

Grace Church, Greensboro, Rev. J. E. Carroll, Pastor

We visited this church last Sunday. It is always a pleasure to go back to Grace. Of the twenty years I have spent as a pastor, ten of them were spent here—five years at a time. When I first became pastor here in 1902, the church was located on East Lee street, had about 120 members. Since that time three other churches have been organized in Greensboro. It was my pleasure to organize both St. Paul and West End churches; Calvary was organized later. All of them are now doing good work, and none has so few members as Grace had then. Returning as pastor in 1912, I had the good fortune to renew my pastoral youth there and to make friends with some who had joined during my absence, and to receive several into the church during this period. So now when I return I see many more familiar than unfamiliar faces in the congregation.

The church is growing under the present pastor. It has had a hard time in recent years to keep its head above the financial flood, but it now appears that it soon may get into quieter waters and enjoy more fully the splendid plant they have there. Doubtless the road to recovery is still steep and rugged, but not impossible to climb. We believe Grace church will make the grade all right. Our General church has lent it some financial assistance for the past two or three years, which is greatly appreciated.

Mt. Zion Charge, Rev. E. P. Hamilton, Supply Pastor

This charge consists of Mt. Pleasant, Mt. Zion, and Cid churches. These churches were once a part of the old Uwharrie circuit. They are not strong either numerically or financially, but are lowest in morale. Doubtless they are more able financially to carry on the work of the local church than some other rural churches I know. But their morale has run down considerably until they do not feel that they can do much.

The conference was held at Mt. Pleasant church. This is an active organization, from what I gathered, and will soon exhibit in active form the latent powers it has nursed into life, in the person of the young people in the church. I do not know so much about the possibilities of either Mt. Zion or Cid, but do not suppose either of them is ready to die. I believe that here is the nucleus of a good pastoral charge, and that with the present arrangement the churches will get on much better than they could have, attached to any other group of churches. This arrangement calls for the assumption of responsibilities which their former arrangement did not require. They have a new pastor in the sense that it is the first time he has served them, and also in the sense that it is the first pastoral charge he has served. We are expecting good things from this appointment. We believe the work will go forward under the present pastor.

No Herald Christmas Week

In conformity with a custom of many years and a contract with McCulloch & Swain, the printers of the HERALD, there will be no paper printed on December 26, this being Christmas week. Those who have announcements to make will please get them to us next week.

W. A. Glenn of Burlington in Hospital

Brother W. A. Glenn, of our First Church in Burlington, has been in St. Leo's Hospital in Greensboro, where he had a cataract removed from one eye last week. When we saw him Monday he was making satisfactory progress. He was expecting to return home the last of the week.

A Coincidence

Last Sunday evening the pastor at Mebane and the pastor at Calvary in Greensboro both preached on the Four Hundred Years of the printed English Bible, while three hymns, "Wonderful Words of Life," "I Love to Tell the Story," and "Break Thou the Bread of Life" were used in both services.

Captain Rankin Has Returned from Hospital

Information reaching us from High Point brings us the cheering news that Captain A. M. Rankin, who underwent an operation on his eye at the Presbyterian Hospital in New York City, has returned home and that his sight is being restored.

IS YOUR NAME ON THE OFFICIAL MAILING LIST?

We maintain in our office the mailing list of pastors, Sunday school superintendents, and Christian Endeavor leaders. The special day materials for the various departments and boards, American Bible Society, etc., are addressed from this list. Each year revision is necessary and new addressograph plates must be made, which involves much time and labor.

A recent effort has brought our files more up to date than they have been for years in order to get Young People's Day samples to all of our leaders. If you have not received your samples, it is an indication that your name and address is not on our files. Please drop us a card giving your name and address and we will see that materials reach you and that your name is placed on the mailing list.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

WISE MEN WORSHIP

Matt. 2:1-11

Christian Endeavor Topic for Sunday, December 22

By MRS. EUGENE A. LAMB

Make this meeting a Christmas candlelight service. Decorate your room in Christmas pictures and other Christmas decorations and light with candles. At the close have everyone light his candle from the big one which represents the birthday candle of Jesus. Plan a worship service. The following is suggested:

Prelude: Christmas hymn tunes.

Call to Worship:

"O come, let us worship and bow down; let us kneel before the Lord our Maker. For he is our God; and we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his land."

Hymn: "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear."

Silent meditation and directed prayer.

Thank God (1) for the lesson which the coming of the Wise Men teaches us; (2) for the privilege which is ours to worship the Christ; (3) for the joy of bringing our gifts to Him. Ask God (1) to help us to emulate the wisdom of these Wise Men; (2) to help us to consecrate all that we are and all that we have to Christ; (3) that our worship be acceptable in His sight.

Introduce the subject.

Hymn: "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing."

Scripture.

Christmas Poetry:

It is the calm and solemn night!
 A thousand bells ring out, and throw
Their joyous peals abroad, and smite
 The darkness—charmed and holy now!
The night that erst no name had worn,
 To it a happy name is given;
For in that stable lay, new born,
 The peaceful prince of earth and heaven.
  In the solemn midnight,
   Centuries ago!

Special Music: "Silent Night, Holy Night."

Short talks or one of the following stories: "The Other Wise Man," by Henry Van Dyke; "Why the Chimes Rang," Raymond M. Alden; "Abbess of the Glowing Light."

Offering.

Candlelight Service.

Suggestions to Leader and Speakers

We need more and better worship services in our church programs today. As we contrast our own worship of Christ with the worship accorded Him by the Wise Men, we cannot help but feel that the comparison is odious and disturbing to our self-complacency. But perhaps it will do our self-complacency good to be disturbed. Most of us are aware that our worship is far from perfect—that it has infinite possibilities for improvement. Let us, therefore, learn from the Wise Men and emulate their worship.

As they gave of their time, let us give of ours. As they manifested obedience in the steps necessary to come to Christ, let us also be obedient in all that is necessary in order to come to Christ. As the Wise Men brought gifts, so may we also bring all that we have, and all that we are, and all that we can hope to have and to be, and consecrate them all to His service. As the Wise Men worshiped Him eagerly and wholeheartedly, so may our worship manifest the marks of genuineness. May we put all sham and pretense away from us and worship Him in spirit and in truth. If all of this is done, we shall not be concerned about the reward, for the reward will be within itself, inseparably united with the work. We shall have intimate communion with Him; we shall derive strength and power from such worship; we shall be purified by such communion, and the world will be quick to recognize the fact that we have been with Jesus.

The Candlelight Service

Leader: The Christ who entered the world as a baby so long ago lives still in the heart of each one of us as we bid Him enter. Because He comes no more in person, we know Him as the way, the truth, and the life. We know Him as the light that cometh into the world to make light shine through darkness. He was a burning and a shining lamp who said, "I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life." "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly." He who walks in darkness knows not where he is going. As Jesus came that He might be a shining light for us in a black world, so let each of us bear a light for Him.

(Leader goes to front and lights his candle, each person present doing likewise, until all the congregation is standing in a semi-circle with lighted candles in right hands. Have soft music played during the lighting of the candles.)

Remember the words of Christ, "Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid. Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick, and it giveth light unto all that are in the house. Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven."

We have each lighted our candles from the birthday candle of Jesus. We are spreading His light. A candle loses none of its light by lighting another candle. Your light will shine the brighter if you share it with another.

A candle is a lovely thing;
 It makes no noise or stir at all,
But softly gives itself away,
 While, quite unselfish, it grows small.

So like the star in Bethlehem's skies,
 That showed the road the Wise Men trod,
The Christmas candle exemplifies
 The Christ, the Son of God.

As you go forth from this service, may the Christmas spirit glow in your hearts; and may that spirit bring light and love and life to others.

(Have a period of silent meditation while piano plays softly. Leader, give this thought for the silent meditation: the gifts which the Wise Men brought to Jesus reflected the life they expected Him to live. Do the Christmas gifts we give reflect our high hopes for our friends?)

Sing "I Would Be True" and leader close the meeting with the following reading:

"Let us be kind today, as He is kind,
Let us be thoughtful of the hurt and sad;
Let us live simple as He lived, and oh,
Let us walk humbly now, and let us be glad!

"For the sake of one small child, we must
  be strong
And brave to follow where His footsteps lead;
Across a darkened land, along strange roads,
Through briars and storms to meet a hurt world's need.

"These be the gifts to bring the gentle Christ;
This be the gold and incense we should take;
Our adoration, reverence, and love,
Our lives—and freely spend them for His sake. Amen."

FROM NORTH DAVIDSON TO DAVIDSON

When we arrived at the parsonage on Davidson circuit we were met most cordially. We left good people and found good ones here. The people have received us heartily. We have had very good congregations, very attentive and eager to hear the gospel preached. Surely we have some of the salt of the earth here. We are hoping we will have a good year. We are hoping for Brother Neese a good year on North Davidson this year.

We would like to mention some of the things these folks have been doing for us. Mr. Surratt and Mr. Lax moved us. Mr. Surratt and Mr. Frank gave us a nice bunch of wood. Mr. Hill hauled it, then Mr. Taylor, Mr. Hall, and Mr. Loflin sawed it up ready for the fireplace. Several have brought in gifts for the pantry too numerous to mention. We appreciate all this so much.

We feel that our year's work will be more pleasant because of the consecrated life Brother Bingham lived with his people. We are hoping for him a good year.

May this be a good year with all pastors.

C. L. GRANT.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Bethel, Mocksville Charge.—We are all so glad to welcome Brother Hethcox and family back to Mocksville charge. He has done a good work among us the past year. We are looking forward for this to be a still better year.

The third Sunday morning in November Brother Hethcox gave us a splendid sermon, as he always does. We were glad to have quite a number of visitors from Mocksville, High Point, and other places worship with us. The afternoon service was devoted to singing. There were several choirs from over the country present and sang. Union Ridge chorus, several quartets and duets from different places were there and all did fine singing which was enjoyed by a large and attentive congregation. Glad to say our Sunday school is progressing nicely. We are planning to have a Christmas program.

Our Ladies' Aid gave a bazaar and supper Saturday night from which we made $82.10 clear, which will be used for covering the church. Have also quilted two quilts for the Children's Home. MRS. J. W. CARTNER.

Kannapolis.—The first quarterly conference was held December 7 with the best attendance I have seen at a quarterly conference in quite a while, and the officials made good reports. All seemed to be hopeful, and I think there is a bright future for the Kannapolis church, for they have a mind to work. We are very much pleased with the way the work has started off. They fixed pastor's salary at a considerable raise, which will be published at the end of the year. At the close of the conference we were asked to wait for a few minutes, then we were asked to come into the building known as the parsonage, and there we found a real pounding of so many nice things we will not attempt to mention articles or names, but thank one and all who had a part in it. To those passing through Kannapolis who would like to see us, we are on the highway at midway Kannapolis in the apartment with Mrs. Wilma Moose. D. R. WILLIAMS.

Liberty.—Our hearts have been saddened by the loss of our beloved pastor and family, who have been with us three years, Rev. and Mrs. Fred R. Love. They were such devoted Christians and prayed with us in our homes. May God's richest blessings go with them in their new field of endeavor.

We welcome our new pastor, Rev. Aubert Smith. He is so talented and refined, so earnest and sincere. What a beautiful and useful life seems to lie before him. May God grant that it be so.

May every church member co-operate to make this a most successful year in the upbuilding of God's Kingdom and the winning of souls.

The quarterly conference convened Saturday night and made plans for the coming year.

Our pastor, Rev. Aubert Smith, brought a beautiful message at the morning worship hour. "Bibles" was his theme. It being Bible Day, he exhibited a number of old Bibles and special material and posters on the Bible.

Our Sunday school gave an offering to the home this morning of $20.64. The church gave something over $10, and the Christian Endeavor 65 cents. Mr. William Smith was leader this evening. Plans are under way for a Christmas cantata which will be given jointly by all the churches in town at our Methodist Protestant church.

Circle No. 1 met with Mrs. S. M. Smith for the November meeting. Mrs. Mamie Smith led the devotional. The hostess served delicious refreshments, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Gordon Causey. Circle No. 2 met with Mrs. John B. York at the same hour. Mrs. York led the devotional. The hostess served delicious refreshments, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. R. D. Patterson.

The Christian Endeavorers are giving a play the night before Christmas. A treat will be given to all the Sunday school. We will also have a Christmas tree.

Miss Elizabeth Pickett united with our church today. We welcome her.

Our Woman's Auxiliary is giving a quilting Tuesday afternoon for the Children's Home. BERTINE SHEPARD, Reporter.

Pine Hill Church, Davidson Charge.—Our Sunday school is progressing nicely under the leadership of Superintendent A. L. Lomax. We were glad to have our new pastor, Rev. C. L. Grant, with us the second Sunday evening. He brought us a fine Christmas message. His subject was "The End of the Golden Chain." Think everyone enjoyed the message. There was a large crowd out, with several visitors. We were glad to have them with us. We invite them as often as they can come. Christian friends, pray for us that this may be a year of success on Davidson charge. Let's everyone stand by Brother Grant and do our part.

We are sorry we have some sickness in our community. Baxter Smith is right sick at this time. We hope he will soon recover.

MRS. MEDA DAVIS, Reporter.

Mt. Pleasant, North Davidson.—It was our privilege this week to meet our new pastor, the Rev. W. H. Neese, and his wife and daughter. Although it is rather late to meet one's pastor for the first time, it was our first opportunity. He had filled an appointment at the other churches, but had not been with us before, due to a delay in getting moved. In his regular appointment Sunday morning he brought us an uplifting and encouraging message, with a promise. He spoke of the shallowness of our desires at times, and of our frequent discouragement, but reminding us that no matter how dark the horizon, w always have reason to rejoice when we turn our thoughts toward the genuine, ever present and real God, our Leader and our Comforter.

Our Christian Endeavor Society is working on a project to pay off the tapping fee for our parsonage lights. We met at the home of Mr. L. H. Hilton on Saturday evening and served a hot supper. We made a nice sum of money, which will be used on our present project.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of our church is doing a fine piece of work. The society met recently and made a quilt for their contribution to our Children's Home on Thanksgiving. They are also working on another rather large and certainly commendable project of buying new pews for our church. Our old ones are somewhat shabby and uncomfortable and our ladies have assumed the task of replacing them with new ones.

We are also making a drive to pay off the remainder of the parsonage debt within this year. We feel that it is time that it should be paid, so that we may work more successfully on current obligations. We shall feel much better when this load is off our shoulders. With a reasonable chance, we hope to accomplish much this year, not only financially, but certainly we shall strive to accomplish great things in the spiritual realm.

J. R. PAYNE, Reporter.

Gideon Grove Mission Band, Flat Rock Charge.—Our Mission Band held its regular monthly meeting Saturday, December 7, at the home of Doris Lemons. Twenty-two members answered to roll call. We were pleased to have two visitors present. A very interesting program was rendered by different members of the band, with Mildred and Louise Way acting as program leaders.

After the program the band went into business session. We decided to take $3 out of our treasury for the purpose of buying a heat register, which is to be installed at an early date.

At this meeting we were all greatly grieved to learn of the resignation of our leader Mrs. C. B. Way. While we all regret to lose her, we feel that the wonderful work she has done and the good that she has accomplished will ever go with us as we endeavor with God's help to continue the work of the band. Definite plans have not been made for the election of a new leader.

During the social hour the hostess served tempting refreshments. Several guessing contests were enjoyed. The meeting adjourned to meet with Doris Angel in December. ORELIA FRIDDLE, Reporter.

Greensville Charge.—We are on our second round on this charge. After our first quarterly conference the stewards are busy making their plans for the year. They are encouraged so much it looks like we will have a good year in many ways. And everywhere I go they continue to give us so many good things to eat. Mrs. Florence Brewer has given us several gallons of milk, several pounds of butter and a chicken; Mr. Sims Pearson, one bushel of corn; Mr. Meed Pearson, meats and oysters; Mr. A. F. Phillips, load of wood; Mr. J. S. Branscomb, wood; Mr. Percy Lynch, several cords of wood; Mr. W. A. Clary, several pounds of sausage; Mrs. Lee Chambliss, milk; Mrs. J. B. Edwards, milk and butter. All this came since our pounding last week. We said last week that we received three pounds of potatoes, and it should be three bushels of potatoes.

Another pounding. Last Sunday morning, December 8, we preached at Ebenezer church. After service we came out to leave for Mr. Bunyan Clements' for dinner, and the people looked like they had done something wrong, and I did not think my sermon had affected them that much. And when I got to my car what should I find but the rear seat loaded with good things to eat. Then it was my job to catch the intruder, but it did not take me long to find the guilty parties, for they all showed guilt, but I have not prosecuted anyone yet. So we have about six or seven bushels of potatoes, 45 pounds of sugar to keep sweet, and after counting the articles we found we had 24, all good for the pantry. So this preacher will not starve as long as this lasts. Many thanks to all who gave.

J. M. MORGAN, Pastor.

Whitakers Church.—Since my last report our Annual Conference has met and we have again to welcome our "new" old pastor and family. We have had our first quarterly conference and are starting out on the new year's work. We accepted our budget and with the goals our pastor suggested well carried out, feel we ought to do better things in Kingdom work. Our Sunday school is not as good as we wish it was, but we are holding our own. We still have sick ones among our number, do hope they may soon be better. Our auxiliary is doing better than it was once, I am very thankful to say. With best wishes to the editor and his force of workers and all interested readers of the Herald.

REPORTER.

Shady Grove Church, Connelly Springs Charge.—The Ladies' Aid Society met at Mrs. Robert Garmon's Friday, December 6, 1935. We had a very good meeting. The number present was 10 members and 1 visitor. After the meeting refreshments were served. We greatly miss Mrs. Love in our society. We want to thank her for organizing this little band, and we appreciate her help in the past two years. The people at Shelby will find she is a worker that you can't find just anywhere. We are wishing Brother Love and his good wife great success in their new field of service.

The people all seem to think well of our new pastor, Rev. Herman Yokeley. He delivered his second message for us December 1.

Our Sunday school is not so large at the present time. Bad weather and sickness have hindered quite a lot. The Sunday school usually gets larger at Christmas time. I suppose they all know that Santa Claus is not so rich this year.

We ask all praying people to pray for this work. RUTH AIKEN, Reporter.

Fairview Church, Glen Raven Circuit.—Early in the spring we added four new classrooms to the church and painted the auditorium. Also a lot of new shrubbery was added to the church grounds which helped the appearance of the church very much.

We have averaged around 100 members in Sunday school during the year, which we have all been very proud of.

We were very sorry to lose Mr. J. C. Cowan as superintendent, but we think we were very fortunate in getting Mr. Lester Stanley to fill his place, and we are all looking forward to a very prosperous year in 1936.

Although we were very sorry to lose Rev. J. P. Pegg, we are all very thankful and feel that we are very fortunate in getting Rev. R. S. Troxler, who to the older members of the church is considered one of their boys, as pastor for the coming year, and were very sorry he was ill and could not be with us to fill his first appointment. We were very glad indeed, however, to have Rev. Charlie Coble to preach for us in his stead. Rev. Mr. Coble preached a very interesting sermon on "The Living Dead" which was enjoyed very much by all those present. We hope Rev. Mr. Troxler will soon be able to be out again, as we are all looking forward to seeing him and working with him throughout the coming year, which we all feel sure will be a very prosperous one. ELSIE LEE, Reporter.

Pensacola.—Rev. J. O. Fry continues to preach good sermons. He certainly is a wide-awake pastor.

Our Christian Endeavor is getting along nicely. There have been four new members to join recently. They are Clara Atkins, Frances McMahan, Mary Lou Silver, and Billie Wood. We now have 25 members. We meet every Sunday night.

We are proud to say we now have electric lights in our church and parsonage. Rev. J. O. Fry deserves a great deal of credit for our having the electric lights.

MRS. W. G. BLANKENSHIP.

Concord.—The work here at Concord is starting off nicely for the new conference year. The reporter has already informed the readers of the Herald of the fine reception and pounding given us upon our return for the second year on this charge. But we feel that we ought to say a few words about the reception and pounding. On Wednesday night following the close of our Annual Conference we found at the regular prayer meeting service the church almost filled with people. The service was led by Mrs. E. F. Litaker. There were words of appreciation spoken by the various leaders of the church. Following the prayer service we were invited to go to the basement of the church where a social program had been arranged, and when we went into the basement of the church we were greatly surprised to find there a great big pounding for the pastor. We will not take the space in the Herald to name all the things we received in the pounding, but will say that we received 163 articles, ranging from canned milk to 50 pounds of sugar, 36 pounds of flour, and a luncheon set. For these gifts and words of appreciation we are indeed grateful. And we say thank you every one and pray God's blessings upon you.

The Ladies' Aid Society has bought a hall runner for the parsonage. The church has placed an order for 150 new Methodist hymnals. The use of these, we feel, will add much to our services.

Welch Memorial, High Point.—The Baraca home-coming day, Sunday, November 24, was a real success. This annual event is becoming better each year, but next home-coming day it is going to be quite a job to better this year's program. The program opened with prayer by the class teacher, J. E. Seagraves, followed with a song by the congregation. The address of welcome was to have been delivered by our pastor, Dr. J. D. Williams, but due to his attending a funeral he could not be present. His place was filled on the program by Edgar Hartley, secretary of the local Y. M. C. A. and a man we all love. Surely no program at Welch would be complete without the Chisholm sisters of Thomasville, and they rendered three very appropriate selections.

Welch was also represented in the musical part of the program. Instrumental music was rendered by Mrs. Earl Shoaf at the piano and Miss Ruth Wood playing violin. Also the girls' quartet sang two selections.

The call to colors was sounded by Charles Peck, of the local Legion drum and bugle corps, and was followed by the roll call of the honored dead by the secretary of the class. The memorial address was given by P. E. Lindley, dean of High Point College. Mr. Lindley used as the theme of his message "The Stream of Memory," a very fitting subject when honoring the dead. At the end of the memorial address "Taps" was sounded by Charles Peck.

The Javis quartet of Greensboro was also present and the two selections by this quartet were immensely enjoyed by everyone present.

The home-coming address was delivered by Congressman William B. Umstead, of Durham. Mr. Umstead delivered a message that was well worth hearing and everyone present went away feeling that it was time well spent in listening to him. The benediction was pronounced by W. W. Frye.

The other classes of the church have to hand it to the Baracas when it comes to putting on a big program, because this one certainly was a success.

Spring Hill, North Davidson Charge.—We enjoyed having Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Grant with us very much for the past two years. We esteemed them very highly and our best wishes go with them to their new work.

We are hoping to have a great year with Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Neese, as they have already made a fine impression on our people since coming here.

State Street, Lexington.—The churches on this charge are making preparation for the Christmas season. Programs will be presented by both State Street and Bethesda, and old and young alike are taking great interests in this work.

On Wednesday evening, December 4, the good people of State Street gave us a big surprise and a splenlid pounding. The gifts were numerous and useful. We are grateful indeed. On the following day we were at Bro. John Brinkley's at Bethesda for the meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, and again our car was loaded with gifts. We thank them heartily. And then, too, a Christmas present in the form of a large fruit cake from Miss Kate Bulla, one of our fine workers and a teacher in the Lexington schools.

Spring Valley, Vance Charge.—We are very thankful that the conference saw fit to send us our beloved pastor and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cranford and little son, for another year. We hope that everyone will give his or her support to make this the best year in the history of our church.

Our pastor has had very unfavorable conditions this conference year. The third Sunday it was so rainy that the crowds were very small. The fourth Sunday he was not with us but was at one of his other churches. Just at the end of the services at Gillburg the church caught on fire. The loss was not very great, we are glad to report. The first Sunday the weather changed and the crowds were very good at all the services.

We had a church meeting on the fourth Sunday night and we are planning to get 50 new M. P. hymnals in about 30 days. There is to be another meeting of the members of the church Wednesday night at the parsonage for the purpose of discussing ways of adding to our church.

The first quarterly conference of this year will meet at Harris Chapel on Tuesday night, December 10. Every officer is urged to be there.

The Missionary Society of our church is getting along splendidly. On November 5 we had an oyster supper and cleared $35.65. We think that was grand. We are planning another one after Christmas. We are going to use this money to put concrete steps and walks at the church. We held our monthly meeting November 20 with Mrs. C. M. Powell. We had an enjoyable time. We are planning to have a good Christmas program.

May God's blessings be upon us.

First Church, Charlotte.—The following new members were enrolled in the nursery department of the church school last Sunday: Frank Young Broome, three-year-old son of Rev. and Mrs. D. D. Broome; Barbara Louise Trexler, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Trexler; Billie Vona Tilley, Jr., young son of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Tilley; Margaret Kay Enloe, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Enloe; Vann Jackson Faulk, six-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Faulk; Jackie Dean Holden, young son of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Holden; Patricia Ann Poole, two-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil R. Poole; Mable Jacqueline Carroll, age two, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Carroll; Elmer Burkett Stone, Jr., three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Stone; Ralph Russell Scott, age three years, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Scott; Charles Boyce Carriker, one-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Carriker; Joseph Lee Carriker, age two and one-half years, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Carriker; Robert Eugene Little, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Brice Little; Dorothy Ann Godfrey, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Godfrey.

Mrs. A. F. Love is lady supervisor of the nursery department, which has a total of 54 on the roll. Twenty-four of these attend the nursery class in Sunday school.

Misses Dorothy Scarboro, Nell (Peggy) Richards, and Mrs. A. F. Love, director of young people's work, attended the Christian Youth Conference held in Winston-Salem, N. C., on November 29 and 30 and December 1

Sunday morning, December 15, we expect to have Rev. Monroe (Monk) Parker, of Bob Jones College, Cleveland, Tenn., as a visiting preacher. Rev. Mr. Parker has recently held evangelistic services in this community, and we are anxious for him to occupy our pulpit.

On Sunday afternoon, December 15, at 3 o'clock, there will be held in the tabernacle next to this church a meeting of representatives of the Young People's Fellowship Clubs of this section of North Carolina. We are expecting a large crowd of representatives at this meeting, and we sincerely hope that everyone who attends will receive blessings and will benefit in a great way from this meeting of separated young Christians. Every member of this club, the Y. P. F. C., lives up to the club creed.

Young People's Fellowship Club Creed: "I believe in the inspiration of the Bible, both the Old and New Testaments; the creation of man by the direct act of God; the Incarnation and Virgin Birth of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ; His identification as the Son of God; His vicarious atonement for the sins of mankind by the shedding of His blood on the Cross; the resurrection of His body from the tomb; His power to save men from sin; the new birth through the regeneration of the Holy Spirit; and the gift of eternal life by the grace of God."

Gibsonville.—We are very happy to have our pastor back with us for the new conference year. Mr. Stubbins is very popular and well liked and it is with pleasure that we welcome him again. We feel that much has been accomplished since he has been with us, and we are confident that with such support and co-operation we will do much more to help our church and its people.

The board of stewards met Wednesday night with W. J. Jennings as host. Plans for the new conference year were adopted. Mr. Stubbins led the devotionals. At the conclusion of all business matter, Mrs. Jennings served refreshments.

Much interest has been aroused by the Young Ladies' Class. This ambitious group of 40-odd members is paying $100 on the church debt. They divided their number in four parts, each group earning $25 in some way. Mrs. Clyde Adkins and Miss Nancy Rountree, leaders of their group, earned their amount first, with other groups a close second. D. M. Davidson is teacher of this class.

Mr. John Voorhees died at his home here after a very short illness. Funeral services were conducted at the M. P. church, Rev. R. C. Stubbins in charge.

Mebane.—We are pleased to have our pastor and wife returned to us for another year. The work is moving along in the usual way, nothing exciting, but we hope sure of our real attention to each item of the work as it is being presented. We are now trying to secure money to purchase 100 hymnals. We will of course do this. The Christmas programs are taking shape nicely under the direction of capable committees.

Our prayer services are being held two each month in the homes, the other two at church. This Wednesday night is being advertised by the pastor as "a big night." He is stressing the service choir rehearsal, Christmas plans, etc., and we are stressing it (under cover) as a "big night" to pound the new pastor. Of course both will be successful.

Mrs. C. C. Smith has been quite ill and was in Rainey hospital for more than a week. She is much improved and able to be brought to the home of her daughter. Mr. Smith is quite feeble, part of the time not able to get about. Both, however, are quite active for their age. We miss them in their accustomed place at church.

The Ladies' Aid met this month with Mrs. George McCauley. Final plans for the bazaar were made. We hope to realize a neat sum to be applied on our church carpet fund

The mission study day was a success. A goodly number of ladies met at the home of Mrs. H. C. Nicholson Thursday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock, each bringing sandwiches or something for the supper. Miss Lena Hunter, of High Point College, reviewed the foreign book, "Women Under the Southern Cross." The social hour followed, during which a buffet supper was served. Lots of good eats and a general good time. Miss Mary Young, also of High Point College, reviewed the home book, "Toward a Christian America." These were interesting and helpful. To those who expect to have these books, you will certainly be fortunate if you can secure these ladies.

The circles of the auxiliary will meet Monday night. We are having vesper services each Sunday at 5:30 o'clock for some time now. We find it works well and we have at least as many people present, perhaps more, but certainly more of the younger people.

A joyous Christmas season to the Herald and its readers.

Welch Memorial, High Point.—The first quarterly conference was held in the church auditorium Wednesday evening, December 4. O. F. Vuncannon, who has been acting secretary for the past four months, was elected regular secretary, after which all standing committees were elected.

The committee reports were given, some of which showed wonderful activity on the part of the committee represented. One of the most interesting was the report of the Christian Endeavor president. The Christian Endeavor reported 16 baskets, valued at $40, distributed to the needy on Thanksgiving morning. We feel that we have at Welch one of the most active societies in High Point if not in the state.

The quarterly conference voted to accept the North Carolina Conference expenses as levied, but accepted only one-third of the amount levied for World Service.

At last it seems that the church hut is to be realized. The hut committee met Friday evening, December 6, and after opening sealed bids from four contractors the contract was awarded to Delk and Younts, of High Point.

We are starting a subscription campaign for the Herald at Welch, and in the very near future every home represented on the church roll is to be contacted if possible.

Draper.—Since there has been no report from this church since conference, I will try to state a few things that have been accomplished here, but first of all the work started off well for the beginning of the new conference year. There has been an improvement in the attendance both in the church and Sunday school attendance since conference.

The ladies had full charge of the services last Sunday night and rendered a very fine service, subject "Missions." Mrs. Minie King was the leader. Those that took part in the program were Mrs. O. R. Boyles, who read the Scripture lesson and made a splendid talk on the lesson; Mrs. J. S. Riddle made a very fine talk on the need of mission work at home in the church and community; Miss Cathern Farris made a splendid talk on the general work of the missions in the church. Mrs. Annie Boyles made a very fine talk on how to save the youth for the church. Mrs. Boyles sounded the keynote of this wonderful subject, the church of tomorrow is depending on the youth of today; the youth must be saved or the church will suffer, and it behooves every Christian and every church member to work and pray that somehow the spirit of God will so move on the hearts of the youth that they may be saved to the church.

The church here two weeks ago launched a campaign to raise $300 by the 11th of this month. We are now within $100 of that goal and I think we will reach the goal. The people here have worked and sacrificed for the church and they are anxious to wipe off the debt on the church this year. Pray for us that these dreams might be realized.

West End, Greensboro.—We enjoyed the visit of a former pastor on Sunday in the absence of Dr. Bethea, who was preaching on the Halifax charge. Rev. N. M. Harrison, Jr., was with us for the morning and evening services. The subject at 11 a. m. was "Is the Young Man Absalom Safe?" taken from the 18th chapter of Samuel. He pointed out that high position does not guard against sin entering one's life. At 7 o'clock the subject was "How to Become Children of God," John 1:12. Both of these were forceful messages, and large congregations heard him.

On Sunday, December 1, we were pleased with a number of selections by the Angel quartet of Stokesdale.

An impressive installation service was held for the C. E. officers for the coming year. Miss Gladys Routh installed the following, as the members sat in a circle with only candles for illumination: Ray Routh, president; Clayton Stallings, vice president; Alice Hinton, secretary; Mildred Hartsoe, treasurer; Richard Holyfield, chairman prayer meeting committee; Nellie Routh, lookout; Marjorie Fields, social; and Verla Mae Leonard, missionary.

The auxiliary held its regular meeting on Monday evening, December 9. A beautiful Christmas devotional program was carried out and carols were sung. Routine business followed.

The Philathea Class will hold its annual Christmas party December 16 with Miss Katherine Fuller, Randolph avenue.

Creswell Charge.—Well, here we are on the very shores of the Atlantic ocean in our new field of service for the church. Two years ago it was my happy privilege to be working in a home mission field in the Cumberland mountains in Kentucky, and as I see more and more of the interesting country here in the eastern part of our state and meet these fine, hospitable folk, I say what a grand expression that is we hear sometimes, "From the mountains to the sea."

It grieved us deeply to leave our beloved work at Brown Summit, but it seemed expedient that we should enter our present field. We hope and pray that God's will has been done. I am sure that they will have a fine year with Brother Pittard, one of our fine young men who is a senior at High Point College. We expect to hear great things from them. We had a wonderful year with them and we have never had such expressions of loyalty and deep friendship before.

The work here at Creswell is moving along nicely. We were a bit late getting moved, as it was 250 miles, and we have not quite made the rounds of our five appointments. Our first service was at Mt. Hermon church at Cherry, N. C. We had a splendid congregation and a wonderful reception in every way. In the afternoon we held service at Woodley's Chapel, at which time we had a union service with the Mt. Tabor Baptist church. Rev. J. H. Abernathy was the speaker at this service. We were indeed surprised and pleased to meet Brother Abernathy here, for he is a member of Brown Summit church and was visiting this community for a week's revival at the Baptist church in the community in which he taught school when he was pastor of our charge here. Last Sunday we were at the historical Rehoboth church. It was in this church that Dr. S. W. Taylor discovered the pulpit desk that Wesley preached from when he was in America. Also there is the old slave gallery in the back of the auditorium. The membership is rather small at Rehoboth now, but we received a warm reception among them. We have yet to preach at Creswell church and at Mt. Elma.

We are being well taken care of here in every way. This entire community seems to have an unusual attitude of respect and appreciation for the ministers in their midst. We are hoping and praying that we can fully meet the situation here and cause this very important part of our church to continue to grow in the Master's great work.

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge.—There was a good number at church Sunday morning, considering the weather. Our pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery, brought us two soul-inspiring sermons. We were indeed glad to have his family worship with us and hope that it will be possible for them to accompany him on each of his visits.

We were also glad to have Rev. Mr. Vickery's brother and his family from Simpsonville, S. C., with us for the morning service. We extend a hearty welcome to them to come back and worship with us every time they can do so.

The first quarterly conference was held here last Saturday afternoon. Mr. N. G. McClimon was re-elected secretary of the quarterly conference. Mr. B. A. McClimon and Mr. Wyatt were re-elected advisers, and Mr. W. M. Compton, Mr. E. L. Davis, and Mr. Wilmer Smith trustees of the Greenville property. Our pastor has plans for a great year before us and we earnestly hope and pray we as a church will stand by him and make this a successful year.

We are planning on having a Christmas tree and program. Mrs. N. G. McClimon, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Harrison have charge of the training of the children. Mr. N. G. McClimon, Mr. N. N. Smith, and Miss Lucille Davis have charge of the songs and music. The young people will be in charge of Miss Lottie Harrison, president of the Christian Endeavor Society.

The Boys' Intermediate Class have named themselves "Builders," and with the help of their teacher, Mrs. W. R. Harrison, and assistant teacher, Mr. John McClimon, they are doing good work.

We are sorry to report one of the members of the Willing Workers' Class, Miss Merle Westmoreland, is seriously ill in the general hospital at Spartanburg, S. C.

We are glad to report Miss Marie McElrath, another of our Willing Workers' members, is improved from a critical atack of tonsilitis.

Our pastor has asked us to take a thank-offering for the Children's Home. Thanksgiving is past, but we should be thankful all the time. This offering will be taken fourth Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Vickery is trying so hard to fulfill his duty to the church paper. He appointed Misses Lula Pearson, Lucille Davis, and Lottie Harrison to help Mrs. Poole raise the Herald subscription quota by his next appointment here.

We were sorry to lose our former pastor, Rev. Robert Short, but we wish for him much success in his new field of labor and we are pleased with our new pastor and hope with his help and our help we can make this a record year of service for the Master.

Lebanon Church, High Point.—A large number of Christians were present last Sunday to participate in the celebration of the Lord's Supper. Prior to this service our pastor, Rev. J. R. Hutton, preached a great sermon, using for a text Matt. 22:42, "What think ye of Christ? Whose son is he?"

We have a progressive Sunday school with almost 100 per cent attendance.

Miss Jewell Welch, superintendent of the Junior C. E., is planning vesper services for Christmas. Our Christmas entertainment, to be held on Christmas night, is being prepared by the Senior C. E. with Mrs. Ida Lambert in charge.

Quarterly conference has been held. Business was transacted in fine spirit of co-operation, which causes the officials to feel encouraged over the good prospect for a successful year in the work of the Master's Kingdom here.

Mr. J. A. Jones entertained his S. S. class of young men with an oyster supper last Saturday night. They report a very enjoyable time.

Mrs. J. E. Hutchens has entered the Burrus Memorial Hospital for treatment. We pray for her early recovery.

Mecklenburg Charge.—We are situated in our new field of service again, among tried and trusted friends whom we know love us and understand us. We have been received in a manner surpassing expectations. "Time doesn't erase real friendship," is an adage gloriously justified in my experience with these people since my return. But as each rose has its thorn, so have our joys and delights been mingled with a measure of sadness also. Especially at the sudden passing of Bro. W. H. Shell since we arrived. It was almost like parting with an eye or an arm to me. His place of usefulness will be hard to fill in the community and church. We miss several other real standbys who have gone to their rewards. But it is gratifying to note that their children and friends are laying hold of the banners and receiving their mantles of devotion, and are taking up where they left off, and faithfully endeavoring to "finish their unfinished tasks."

Tokens of appreciation have been in abundance on every hand. But it surely reached its climax when almost the entire Stallings community stormed the parsonage in a reception, and a pounding too, that struck this pastor almost speechless with surprise and astonishment. Space will not permit names of those contributing, nor of the articles given. But if this was a sample of their store, I am sure we are in for many good feasts, and there is little danger of hunger in this community. God knows them all by name, and will certainly reward every one. I only pray that I may be blessed of God to prove worthy of such magnificent thoughtfulness, friendship, and benevolence. We believe the people "have a mind to work," and are full of hope and expectancy. We are therefore looking for a good year in Kingdom service. May God bless the pastors who have sowed good seed since our departure from here nine years ago, and left us the promising harvest and labor to gather up. May we have grace and strength for the task.

The young people are gathering in preparation for Christmas programs and Christmas trees. The C. E. Society has just closed a contest, and the losing side gave a sumptuous supper last Friday night. About 75 were feasted, and the young people certainly gave their elders a joyful time. Innocent fun, frolic, laughter, and song echoed and re-echoed in joyful fashion as those lusty, ambitious youths expressed their feeling to the delight of us all. We left a host of devoted friends at Liberty Hill and Fairview, which loss we feel very keenly. We shall never forget you, dear ones. I can never hope to have better loyalty at any time or place than I left down there. May the good Lord continue to smile upon you and fill you unutterably full of grace to help your present pastor as you did this unworthy one. Come on, reporters from Anderson charge, with reports. We are anxious to hear from the work.

ROBERT SHORT.

First Church, Burlington.—Our attendance is increasing and much interest is being manifested in church work here.

The women of district No. 4 met at our church on December 6. Mrs. W. J. Jennings presided over the meeting. The song service was led by Rev. H. F. Surratt, of Graham. The devotional was led by Mrs. R. S. Troxler. An interesting talk on organization was made by Mrs. Nicholson. Mrs. L. W. Gerringer talked about our missionary work. All churches of the district were represented except two. It was an inspirational meeting and we are inspired to work harder for our Master.

The annual Baraca banquet was held in the hut on December 3. The Philatheas were the invited guests of the class. Both classes were well represented. Everyone enjoyed the good food and social hour. At this meeting the Baracas elected the following officers to serve for the next six months: President, Dr. H. M. Patterson; vice president, Mr. H. W. Wade; second vice president, Mr. James Crutchfield; secretary, Mr. Pegg; first assistant secretary, Mr., A. M. Wagoner; second assistant secretary, Mr. U. S. McAdams; treasurer, Mr. J. Curry Iseley; press reporter, Mr. J. B. Coble; assistant press reporter, Mr. W. E. Crutchfield; teacher, Miss Mabel Thornburg; first assistant teacher, Mr. George C. Smith; second assistant teacher, Mr. E. C. Dixon.

A beautiful program was rendered at the Philathea Christmas meeting on December 10. Pollyanna gifts were exchanged and gifts were brought for the good cheer Christmas baskets.

All of the circles of the Woman's Auxiliary are going to help in bringing good cheer to needy people at the Christmas season.

Our pastor is wearing a great big smile. Do you wonder why? A little boy, Frederick William Paschall, Jr., was born November 26 at Dr. Spoon's hospital.

May the peace that the Babe of Bethlehem brought into the world find expression in our hearts and lives.

MABEL THORNBURG, Reporter.

Macedonia, Fallston Charge.—Our Sunday school attendance is very small but we are hoping it will soon increase.

We welcome our pastor back for another year. Rev. H. F. Fogleman could not be with us at his regular appointment the second Sunday evening. He had to conduct a funeral at Friendship, but Rev. D. T. Huss preached for us. All enjoyed hearing him.

The Ladies' Auxiliary meets with Mrs. Jerry Hoyle on Saturday before the third Sunday. We hope all the members will be present.

Wishing all the Herald readers a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

PAULINE BOYLES, Reporter.

Hebron, Orange Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. B. M. Williams, filled his second and regular appointment of the new conference year at Hebron Sunday afternoon. The messages brought to the people by Mr. Williams are very influential and helpful. It is hoped that more people in this community will be influenced and attend church either here or at some other church to learn more about the Word of God. The entire church and Sunday school at Hebron welcome the pastor back as he begins his eleventh year of work as pastor of this charge. May Hebron put forth more effort and determination to make this a very successful year. Great success will be accomplished by the full co-operation of each member. NANNIE McADAMS.

Asheville.—We had three good services on Sunday. I say three, because the program for the opening of Sunday school was splendid. The Baraca-Philathea Class had charge. Mr. Minnis, recently elected teacher, presided. The thought for discussion was, "Working together harmoniously in our church and in life generally." It was a very timely and appropriate subject for us all. Miss Melle Smith read the Scripture and two poems. Mrs. J. S. Williams' Intermediate boys will have charge next Sunday. Attendance was good, and more and more people are arriving on time. Let's all be on time next Sunday!

The thought which impressed me most from the sermon at the morning hour was, "You are the only Bible many people read!" We might be more careful what we say and what we do if we kept this thought uppermost in our minds at all times. "What is the gospel according to me?" is a pertinent question for each of us.

The Young People's Choir was well received at the evening hour. Mr. Bailey and Miss Clouse had drilled them well. This choir meets each Friday evening for rehearsal and for a social hour afterwards. This is a project worthy the hearty support of all members of the church.

We regret very much the accident which has befallen Mrs. J. A. Hornaday, but were pleased to hear from Mr. Hornaday on Sunday that she really is improving and appreciates the prayers and well-wishes of all of us. We do hope she will soon be able to return to her family.

Birthday wishes are in order for the following: Mrs. J. S. Williams and the Misses Lola Johnson and Virginia Taylor. We wish each of them many, many happy returns.

M. L. B.

Calvary, Greensboro.—Dr. Pritchard used for the subject of his fine sermon Sunday morning "Christ the Great Burden Bearer," a subject in keeping with communion service which we observed at the 11 o'clock hour. One question he left with us was, "If Christ suffered for us, are we willing to suffer for Him?"

It was decided by the church calendar committee, at a meeting held at the parsonage last week, to observe next Sunday as membership day in all our church services. It is hoped that each member will co-operate.

Floyd G. Reynolds, our associate Sunday school superintendent, urged last Sunday in his announcements that each member of the school put forth special effort to remain for church service next Sunday. He referred to our Sunday school lesson of last Sunday where Nehemiah was rebuilding the wall of Jerusalem. He said even though we are not trying to rebuild Calvary church we must continue to build, not only in attendance but in fellowship, and we can succeed in this building program by praying, working, witnessing, and worshiping together, and then when we accomplish our purpose we can all rejoice together.

The Senior Christian Endeavor Society is making splendid progress not only in attendance but some fine programs are being given by the different group leaders and their respective groups. The group leaders are Miss Margaret Curtis, Miss Polly Coble, and Miss Frances Blalock. This society prepared two nice Thanksgiving baskets that were given to two families less fortunate. They also attended the Thanksgiving sunrise service held by the city Christian Endeavor Union at the First Christian church. They are now planning to sing Christmas carols to shut-ins. They have an average attendance of 30 to 35 each meeting. Several committee meetings of the society have been called recently by the new president, Mrs. Floyd G. Reynolds.

The Friendly Sunday school class held its annual Christmas party and December business session at the home of Miss Pearl McCulloch Tuesday evening. Nineteen members were present to enjoy the singing of Christmas carols and exchange of gifts. Mrs. J. D. Heritage sang very beautifully "The Star of the East." Miss Mary Wills McCulloch read an impressive Christmas story, "The Beautiful Tree." Mrs. Harry Julian won the prize in the Christmas word contest. At the close of the meeting the hostess, assisted by her sisters, Misses Velna, Mary Wills, and Sarah, served a delicious dessert course. The next meeting will be with Mrs. H. W. Highfill, Benbow road, January 14. Mrs. R. S. Hemphill will have charge of the entertainment.

D. E. Curtis was host to one dozen members of the McCulloch Bible Class at his home on Douglas street last Friday evening. After the business session the men, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Howard R. Neece, enjoyed about an hour of hymn singing. As a result of this practice the men were able to render a special vocal number at the Sunday school hour last Sunday for which they received much favorable comment. The members were served delicious cake, ice cream, and grapes by Mrs. Curtis.

Calvary's Boy Scout troop recently received their new charter from the national council. On the new charter is listed the troop officials of troop No. 7, namely: Floyd G. Reynolds, Scoutmaster; W. Leroy Caudle, assistant Scoutmaster; J. Frank Coble, chairman of troop committeemen, which include Robah H. Fields, J. Fletcher Caudle, and H. W. Highfill. There have been six Scouts received into the troop since the beginning of the new charter year, and seven candidates are preparing to be tenderfoot Scouts. We are proud to know that our troop is being represented in the Scout Drum and Bugle Corps that is being sponsored by the Greensboro council. W. Leroy Caudle is instructor of the council corps.

Concord.—The first Sunday night in December our thank-offering secretary, Mrs. C. D. Sides, put on a real interesting program. The play was entitled "Girls at Their Best." Mrs Sides is also chairman of the Business Girls' Missionary Circle and the girls of the circle were the characters in the play. Our offering was not as much as we had hoped for, yet we think it was right good after the offering at Sunday school was for the Children's Home and it being so near the Christmas season. The girls of the Business Girls' Circle are playing mystery daughters with the shut-in members of our church. Each one drew a name and I am sure that the shut-in folks appreciate the cheer these girls bring to them. They send or carry something to the folks for three months and then they all go together and visit each one of the shut in members and Mrs. Sides then introduces the mystery daughter and they hold a little service with them. We are really proud of our Business Girls' Circle and also our Youth Movement. Sunday night the young folks held a very impressive meeting. Mrs. Litaker had a Christmas program planned for the meeting. The young folks are planning to give Christmas cheer to some unfortunate folks instead of exchanging gifts with each other. They are also planning to sing carols Christmas morning. The Women's Sunday school class is planning to give Christmas cheer to some unfortunate family. We are so glad that our folks have started the year thinking of other folks and wanting to do something for someone else. Our Ladies' Aid Society met on Monday night with Mrs. Esther Litaker. This being our last meeting in the old year, the Christmas program was used. We also had a happy surprise at this meeting. Several of the women made arrangements to have Mrs. S. H. Teeter with us. Mrs. Teeter is our sister that fell about 15 months ago and broke her hip. We were so glad to have her with us again and hope she will soon be able to come back to church. She can get around right good now with a crutch. Mrs. Teeter was always so faithful we miss her since she has been shut in so long.

Mr. Wade Little is getting along very well. We hope he will soon be able to be back at church.

Mrs. Ephraim Little and Mrs. Pearly Harget are home from the hospital and we hope they will soon be able to come back to church.

Mrs. T. F. Newton and Mrs. Ed Beaver have been sick but are both some better at this time.

Grandma Thomas does not improve much, but she is so sweet and patient. Our pastor and his wife are right with us in all of our work, ready to help and advise. We hope and pray that Rev. Mr. Garner may see many souls born into the Kingdom this year by his work here.

Reidsville.—We are delighted to have our beloved pastor and wife, Dr. and Mrs. George R. Brown, returned to us. They have endeared themselves to us and it is with pleasure that we greet them again.

We have started the new year off very nicely, with good attendance at both Sunday school and church services. All organizations of the church seem to be making progress.

Dr. Brown preached an excellent sermon yesterday on "The Bible."

Last night the Senior C. E. Society was well attended, Mrs. W. B. Cobb being the leader. The Junior C. E. Society was reorganized.

Our members are indeed proud of the fact that we have a nice new parsonage and that it was completed so our pastor and wife could move into it immediately upon their return. We feel very grateful to Mrs. S. J. Kernodle, who made it possible for us to have this parsonage.

We are hoping and praying that this may be the best year that we have ever had in our church.

Several of our people are sick at this time, Mrs. J. D. McCollum, Mrs. G. M. Thompson, Mrs. T. S. Wray, and Mrs. C. L. Griffith, the latter two being in the hospital.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers for the new conference year

A MEMBER.

Bethesda, State Street.—Our church work has been going on just fine. We have started on our new conference year. We were sorry to give up our former pastor, Dr. Johnson, who has been with us for the past two years, but we know the good Christian spirit which he lived day by day will go with us and help us in years to come. We wish for him much happiness in his new work. We feel fortunate in getting Rev. J. P. Pegg for our pastor for the new year. We give him and family a hearty welcome. Although they have been with us only twice, still we all love them He has brought us some very helpful and inspiring sermons, and we believe by the help of God great things can be accomplished this year toward the upbuilding of His Kingdom.

Our Sunday school attendance has been fine

"EZRA TEACHING THE LAW OF GOD"

The International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, December 15, 1935

By REV. J. ELWOOD CARROLL

Scripture Lesson: Ezra 7:10; Nehemiah 8:1-12.

Golden Text: "Thy word have I laid up in my heart." Psalm 119:11.

Every great moral and social stride in progress has been based on a revival of interest and study of the Bible. When we let our minds run through history we realize the truth of this sweeping statement. The Israelites were not ready for the Promised Land until they had the Ten Commandments and the Mosaic Law. The reform under Josiah was not possible until the Scripture was found and read to the people. Ezra and Nehemiah could not complete their work of rehabilitation until Scribe Ezra stood up to read the Word of God to his fellow Jews.

What is true about the absolute necessity of the Bible being the foundation of reform before Ezra's day holds true since his day. No Christian era even under the powerful preaching of a zealous Paul came until the devout Jews began to search their Scriptures for the truths which Paul was preaching. A pagan Rome did not yield to Christianity until the ancient Church Fathers taught to the masses the eternal truths of the New Testament. No Protestant Reformaion really broke forth until Luther gave his people the German Bible which has ever remained a classic and the standard translation of the German Scripture. About the time of Luther's German Bible, Miles Coverdale gave to us who speak English the first complete printed edition of the English Bible. This year, therefore, we celebrate the four hundredth anniversary of the printing of the English Bible. We celebrate it because the appearance of the Coverdale Bible marks a new era in moral, social, and religious progress.

Due to the illiteracy of the Jews during Ezra's era, many of them could not read. The best way to inform them was for someone who had an education to read to them. This Ezra did. Nehemiah was still governor and Ezra was the chief scribe. The governor called the assembly and Ezra proceeded to educate them on the truths of the Scripture. A new era opens with the actual living of the Biblical truths.

Instead of discussing further the incident recorded in our lesson, let us turn aside to consider some practical ways of studying the Scripture. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick suggests four ways of studying the Bible: 1. Know its beauty spots; 2. Know its individual books; 3. Know its characters; and 4. Trace through the whole Scripture the development of the structural ideas. The latter method is recommended as the only way of truly knowing the entire Bible.

The National Commemoration Committee, Four Hundred Years of the Printed English Bible, has issued a little folder, "Worthwhile Ways of Reading the Bible," in which are suggested the following: 1. "Take one book or one group of chapters and read and re-read it scores of times"; 2. Read definite passages for light on personal problems; 3. Read it to find the person who is most like you, then study his experience with God and life as a method of understanding and helping yourself; 4. Read the Gospels and Acts and imagine where you would have been had you been in each of those incidents; 5. Read to understand thoroughly a single character; 6. Take a great word like "faith," "patience," or "grace" and trace its meaning through the Bible; 7. Read the Bible for light on some of the social problems which face us today; and 8. Read the Bible all the way through for the purpose of what it will do for you.

Questions for Discussion

1. Do you believe Bible reading less popular than a generation ago? Why? Why not?

2. Do you know of a more sane way of reviving interest in true religion than Bible reading?

3. How much Bible study does your average church member get in the program of your church, excluding home Bible reading?

4. Does the mere knowledge of the Bible guarantee right living?

5. Do you merely read or do you actually study your Bible?

FROM PASTORS AND PEOPLE

for some time. Everyone seems in fine spirit, especially now as Christmas is drawing near. We are planning to have an old-time Christmas, a tree with a present for each member of the Sunday school, also treat. The young people are planning a very interesting program to be given Christmas eve.

Our C. E. Society meets twice a month with very interesting programs. They received $20 for their cotton they planted, tended, and picked on parsonage lot.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. John Brinkley for their December meeting, also to quilt a quilt which was started some time ago. Our program was rather short for lack of time. We were glad to have our pastor with us and make a short talk. After the quilting and program were over, the hostess served delicious refreshments. The next meeting will be with Mrs. C. M. Yokley. FILLING THE BLANK SPACES

Those who are not familiar with the problems of making up a newspaper cannot realize the difficulties involved. For instance, when the forms were about made up this space was vacant. We had a good deal of material set up, but not an article would go in this space. We regretted very much to leave the other articles out, but there was nothing we could do about it.

By looking at the head of this column in last week's paper you will see that there are no changes since that time. Those sending in money this week did not send it in in large enough quantities to nose out anybody. So we will let the percentages rest right there.

Now for the payments this week. Charlotte and Welch Memorial tie for first place, while Anderson and Lincolnton are on their heels. But if Alamance had put all of its gold in one bag and one person had sent it all in, then it would have headed the list. We are afraid that our guessing has not been accurate this week, as we had to guess what charge three payments belonged to. Where people do not say what charge they belong to and we do not know them personally or there is not some other way by which we know how to credit the payment, we credit it to the charge we think it should belong to. Sometimes our guess is correct and at other times somebody writes in and claims it for their charge. People can help us by stating the name of their charge.

The first Christmas gift subscription is listed this week, Mrs. B. W. Little, of Charlotte, having made a gift. Who else will follow suit?

There is somewhat of a slump in receipts this week as we have received only $52.22, all on subscriptions. As soon as Christmas is over we hope things will pick up.

Sections of the mailing list have been mailed out to pastors or agents, in some cases the former and others the latter. So get busy and let us have the subscriptions.

Christmas

The whole Christian world is approaching that time in the church calendar that is known as Christmas. So much has been written about it and so much said about it that it is difficult to say anything new. But some of the sweetest things of life are not the absolutely new things. In fact, a great many of those things that we think of as new are cold, heartless, mechanical things, while the sweetest things are those which we have heard all of our lifetime.

Doubtless a great many people are approaching the Christmas season with a feeling that they would like for Christmas to mean the same to them it did when they were children. They remember the thrill, the joy, the happiness that came to them as children when they approached the Christmas time. To children it is a time of Santa Claus, of hanging up the stockings, of receiving gifts and having good things to eat. In fact, too many grown up people still think of Christmas in the same way that children do. The child wants a sled and the grown person wants an automobile. The child wants a toy, the grown person wants the genuine article.

But the person who thinks of Christmas only in terms of what he is going to receive has missed the mark. Christmas is a time of giving. For it was at this time that God gave the greatest gift ever given to the world, the gift of His Son. And to celebrate this gift unusual things took place. There was a beautiful star in the sky pointing wise men to him. There was one of the best choirs that this world has ever listened to, singing the most beautiful music that mankind ever heard. The theme was the most exalted that could be thought of; namely, "Glory to God in the highest, on earth peace, good will to men." This first Christmas celebration sets the pace for all other celebrations and gives us some idea of what God thought about the event. In this first Christmas observance there were no great stocks of merchandise to be offered for sale. There were no full page advertisements in the daily papers directing you to a certain place to get Christmas presents. There was nothing commercial about it. Some wise men from the East simply came and presented their gifts to the Christ child and went home, and yet that first Christmas meant a great deal to the world. And its meaning was not in the gifts that men presented to Him, but in what He was to the world.

Now, after more than nineteen hundred years of His reign on earth, how should we think of Christmas? In the first place, we should think of it as a time of joy. There seems to be no hymn quite so appropriate to sing at this season as "Joy to the world, the Lord is come." For, indeed He did come. He came down and dwelt among men. And since His coming means so much to us, we ought to think of it as the greatest event that ever took place. Our joy ought to be full and complete.

But there are right ways and wrong ways of expressing joy. The joy of Christmas ought to take the form of worship and adoration. It is not a time to make unnecessary noise, neither is it a time to give free reins to the flesh, but it is a time for quiet meditation and thanksgiving to God for His unspeakable Gift. It is true that we ought to give, but we ought not to give expecting something in return. We ought to give to Christ and we can best do that by giving to the helpless and the needy and to causes that promote the Kingdom that He came to establish on the earth. And when here on the earth Jesus said, "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these, ye did it unto me." So, may we have the spirit of praise and adoration, and may we so give this Christmas season that our Lord may be pleased with the gift, and may His name be glorified and His Kingdom advanced.

Calvary Church Gives Reception

On Thursday evening, December 12, at the home of Rev. T. F. McCulloch, Calvary church gave a reception in honor of the 23rd wedding anniversary of the pastor and his wife—the pastor being the editor of the HERALD. In addition to the fine music and the usual formalities of such occasions, Rev. J. Elwood Carroll used a ceremony that was not any more binding than the first one. The Woman's Auxiliary had forty quarter dollars tied to a small Christmas tree. It was an enjoyable occasion and we are sorry that we do not have the space to tell more about it. Anyway, it was greatly appreciated.

Our Correspondents Will Please Be Patient

We have received some rather pointed letters about articles that have not been printed, especially obituaries. Well, we are doing the best we can, and the only thing we can do is to ask our correspondents to be patient with us. Some articles must be run immediately because they carry announcements that would soon be out of date, while others are of such a nature that they can wait.

No Paper Next Week

In accordance with a custom of many years and in conformity with a contract with the printers of the HERALD, we will not print any paper next week. Our next issue will be on January 2, 1936. Those who get the paper this week for the first time will bear this in mind, especially.

QUESTIONS FACING THE MINISTRY TODAY

Dr. Bethea's Sermon

(The following sermon was preached by Rev. N. G. Bethea, D.D., pastor of West End church, Greensboro, N. C., to the North Carolina Annual Conference, in session at Henderson, on Sunday morning, November 10, 1935, and it was known as the Ordination Sermon. It is published by request of the Conference.—Editor's Note.)

Text—Son of man, can these bones live? And I answered, O Lord God, thou knowest.—Ezekiel 37:3.

This familiar story of Ezekiel's vision of the dry bones gives to us a vivid picture of the condition of the world today. In fact, there are many prophecies that come so close to us that we are made to wonder if they are not more up-to-date than many of our modern scholars are willing to admit. This to my mind proves the fact that God's Word is a book for all time, and does not need its meaning changed to suit our whims, neither is there any part not to be found useful in making this a better world today, if we are willing to pay the price of obedience.

The thought that I would like to bring to your minds today is that part of the truth that the minister of the gospel of Jesus Christ needs to make his life's work a success so far as winning men is concerned. The minister is a teacher, to be sure, but when he drifts into the practice of teaching only, he is missing the mark of his high calling as a prophet of God. And if he be called an ambassador of Christ, and no one should desire to enter this high and responsible calling unless he is called of God, his first and great work is that of preaching the gospel. You may say that you cannot separate the teaching factor and the preaching. I agree that this is true, but the fact that there are many things that come into consideration here, should guard us against this idea that it is easier to teach than to preach.

While the preacher must be able to instruct, he should not be afraid to warn of the dangers that beset those who fail to take the instructions given for the way of right living.

If there is one thing that has caused us to lose out in much of our work today—I mean in making it effective—it is the fact that we emphasized the priestly side of our work and have, shall I say, been afraid of the prohpetic. We are priests, to be sure, but none the less prophets.

To play the role of the prophet is not easy. It means that you cannot always have the people, the majority, with you. In fact, you cannot have, or do not have the majority with you in whatever thing you undertake for the Kingdom anyway; we are all aware of that. But to be on the side of right, and to be outspoken for the right, there are hardships ahead.

If today you are thinking about the ministry as an easy place, and do not expect to take up the hardships that are incumbent upon you as such, my advice would be to seek some other calling before you go further. Dr. Talmadge once said that God called many men out of the ministry because of unfaithfulness. He said, of course some of them had become so heedless of God's demands that they were not aware of the fact that they had been called out, were going right on, but they were fruitless in so far as soul-winning was concerned. And when I speak of soul-winning, I do not mean only the so-called revival season, for the care of souls should be the chief concern of every minister. Have a goal in soul-winning.

Will you pardon me if I tell you I set my goal too low when I entered the ministry? I asked God to give me at least one hundred souls per year. It has gone nearly double that in the thirty-eight years that I have been preaching. I should have made it more. But perhaps if the good Lord spares me to preach awhile longer, though I may be singing my "swan song" today, the drop will be such that it may come down to my goal on the average. For let me say this to you: it is getting to be increasingly harder to win men today. There are two reasons that I might mention: First, there are so many things to attract people away from the church, and then the discount that is being put upon evangelistic effort by the so-called strong minds, that some of our ministers are not even asking men to accept Christ in the old-fashioned way. These and some other things we will notice further on in this discussion.

Having said this much by way of introduction, there are a few points that I would like to give you today, coming from a life with many failures, yet with some experiences and observations I would like for you to take, and study in such a way as to arrive at the best conclusions for your usefulness and happiness as well. For I say unto you that he who would be happy in the ministry must be an obedient servant of Jesus Christ, rather than follow, or try to be like some man. "One is your Master, even Christ."

Every Truly God-Called Man is God-Proven

If there is no faith in the power of God's Spirit to work through His divinely inspired Word, there is no faith in God. And when there is no faith in God, there is no faith in His Word, He is not pleased; and when He is not pleased, how can his approval be given, and when His approval is not given how can prosperity come to the work undertaken?

So this scripture applies here: "He that cometh unto God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of all them that diligently seek him." The reward of the minister is the prosperity of the work of the Kingdom in his hands. God's work must be entered into with expectation.

Therefore, if man would make his efforts effective in God's way he must, like Ezekiel, believe that God knows how, if this dead mass of humanity is to be raised to life. "O Lord God, thou knowest." So it is not our plans but His that must be acknowledged.

We are not to preach as if it was something that we have read only, the school boy can do that; our faith in the word we preach must be something more than a mental assent. This brings us to see then that the preacher has something to do with bringing life to those dead in trespasses and sin—much to do with it.

What Then Must the Preacher Do to Bring Life?

Jesus said, "He that believeth on me, as the scripture saith, out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water." Out of his innermost being. Goes below the collar. Religion that does not get down into our innermost being has not gone far enough. Mental anguish alone may drive us crazy, but when there is that which goes down into our being in such a way that there are sighs, pain, suffering, travail, then there is something there that will bring about a result. A faith that moves gets deep down into one's being. Do not be afraid to let your love and your faith get down where you can really sympathize with lost humanity. We need the middle-of-the-road kind to be successful men-winners. The Good Samaritan kind. The formal did not touch the wounded man. That was the priest. The law did not help the poor helpless man. That was the Levite. But thank God, the one who represents Jesus did take him up and expended not only his time and energy, but his means that he might help him. A religion that gets down in the dust to any that may be in need of help, and all humanity needs help without Jesus, and it is our beast that must take him to the place of safety, and that safe place is at the Cross.

So we have a real Personage to present. The Divine Son of God. One who can make good every claim, One who is able to do "exceeding abundantly." So it is not His teaching alone that we are to present, but Jesus himself. It is not a theoretical gospel that we are to preach, but one with the living presence of the Son of God. Make much of that doctrine, not in an argumentative way, but as a living truth.

Jesus has never applied the MUST only where it was necessary, and we have the word of requirement, and there is to be no hedging with the truth if we would fulfill our mission as Christ's ambassadors. We must acknowledge that God knows, for he never asks us any foolish or impossible questions. To apply the truth to our own hearts, that we may meet men with a superior life by grace, will be a power that will convince them that what we have in Him may be supplied to them from Him and we are only His representatives.

The Experience of Salvation, the Call Proven, the Mental Equipment, the Minister is Ready to Prophesy

In our plans for bringing truth that will quicken those who are dead to the best because of sin, we must first let God speak to us through His Word. See what it says, not what others say about it. It is time enough to look up meanings after you have run all the references. See what God knows or reveals to you. Let the Book be its own interpreter as far as possible. Hard work sometimes, but if you are not willing to do that you better get out today and go no further in this.

You will find many that will tell you that there are certain things that can be left off. Not from God's Word, NEVER!

This story goes the rounds: In a certain church they were so unfortunate as to get a pastor on their hands that did not think that God knew. He often in quoting scripture made this statement: "This is only figurative, need not take this literally,—just cut it out so far as its being of any use." One good old brother took him at his word and would go home and cut out the passage referred to until he had a Bible that was much mutilated. As you kno wa man of that type does not have religion enough to deal with the real thing. So he made this statement many times, "Cut it out!" So one day this admiring member came to the study and said, "Parson, I want to give you a Bible." "All right," said this time-server, "I shall be glad to accept a Bible from you." Whereupon the old man gave him the book that he had been carving under the preacher's instructions. "My man," said the preacher, "I cannot use this; why, it is cut all to pieces." "Neither can I," said the other, "but it is cut according to your instructions, and I thought you could use it."

There are so-called scholars today that impress me in this way: "Lord, you made a mistake in writing your book before I got here. You should have waited on me, I could have shown you how to fix this thing up so we would have no difficulty in living as we please. We then would have had no trouble with our consciences. We would have had no cranks about holy living. I could have made it all clear."

So do not make the mistake, because some man happens to have some skeletons hanging onto his name, occupies a chair somewhere, looks wise when asked questions that he knows nothing about, and pretends that he knows it all. Let us follow the folks that know experimentally and experiencially the love and knowledge of our Lord and Master.

Methodism gained its place in the sun as a preaching and singing religion, and the reason we have lost much of our power is that we have tried to ape others in their rituals and formality—losing the thing that made us what we are, not being able to do the other because we did not know how to make it effective, we have almost lost our power and identity.

When our service is formality only we have lost that which raises the dead bones to life and gives us that which means, "Like a mighty army." Acknowledging God will, with this new life in those around us, bring about a shaking of the dry bones of humanity that will bring regeneration to the outermost reaches of the world.

Do We Really Have Enemies to Meet?

Satan is still standing at the right hand of every leader to resist him. There is still a great conflict. The devil knows that the only power to drive him back is the power of the gospel of Christ.

We find people who will tell you there is no devil: that it is only our evil natures. Who is it who says that? Polite society, they say. Well, we might look into that from a scriptural standpoint and see what we think of such statements before we go further. Just a few sentences and then see if we believe the Word of God.

Who tempted Christ? His evil nature? Did he have that? Did the swine get man's evil nature when the devils went into them? Who is the prince of devils? The man who has the worst nature? How are you going to select him? Who is the sinner from the beginning? Who fell from heaven? Who entered into the serpent? Who entered into Judas? Can you enter unless you are out? Who said, "I know thee, who thou art"? Made a better confession than some who are in the lead in some places today. Who entered into Ananias?

Who appears as an angel of light? Who works lying wonders? Who is the father of lies? Who is the prince of the powers of the air?

Who shall give power over this enemy? Thank God, we represent One who is able to conquer him. He did drive him back and the devil has never mistaken his voice since.

The wrecks of humanity are seen every day. There are hungry lives, so much need. I am in hearty accord with building a new world. I like these youth movements. I have always been and always will be in hearty accord with any movement that means the uplift of my fellow man, and when youth undertakes in the spirit of the Christ, it means that something will be done worth-while. There are demonstrations for peace today. This is as it should be. I was in the meeting at Guilford College the other day as a representative of our church when the Council of Churches in North Carolina voted to make much of Armistice Day for peace. Let us pray today that this may mean more than it has ever meant before; and let us not forget that Jesus as the Prince of Peace must be held up. Emphasize this great truth, that if we would be in a condition to bring about peace in the true sense of the word, His peace must be within. That comes by being a new creature in Christ Jesus!

We have tried in some instances to hold Jesus up as a good man, an example; all right so far as it goes, but we must hold Him up as a Savior first, and an example to follow. He is the foundation, and we must preach Him! We must have Him to give power to the teachings.

Social justice is needed, but it must be recognized at its source. When men accept the regenerating power of Jesus Christ and live it, then it will be an easier matter to put it into every-day living.

Church people are robbing God of what should be returned in addition to their lives, and thus lowering their spiritual temperature, but back of that in most instances there is a lack of a regenerated heart. This giving question must not be neglected in our preaching if as we lead people to be liberal with their means, they recognize the God of all in their hearts,—it will become a grace out of which they will find greater blessings, for if we are to abound in faith, knowledge, love, and abound in this also, we are reaching up towards that trait of giving our best that makes us akin to God.

The calls are numerous, and we must teach our people by precept and example. It is hard sometimes to get them to see the necessity of giving to certain objects because some of it has been used in the wrong way. But that is no reason why we should not show the blessings of giving in our teaching and the dangers by our preaching of the results of robbing God.

There are some things that we should not be afraid to speak out against. One thing that has hurt us today in our work, is the fact that we have pressed our people in some instances to build institutions that have in some respects catered to the world, and instead of being Christian they are becoming pagan in their practices and teachings. If our churches build colleges, then if they are to be church colleges they should be conducted so as to represent the church. Because an institution claims a certain church to be its support and that it represents that denomination, does not always follow that its teachers are Christian, or what is taught there for the best interests of the Kingdom of God.

Sometimes we are called upon to enter the high places and condemn that which does not coincide with the Word of God. It takes something like what I read some time ago for a preacher to do his best. Here it is—was pasted on a door of a London church: "The strength of an ox; tenacity of a bulldog; daring of a lion; patience of a donkey; industry of a beaver; meekness of a lamb; hide of a rhinoceros; disposition of an angel; loyalty of an apostle; faithfulness of a prophet; fervency of an evangelist; devotion of a mother." Some requirements, and yet you will find some good common sense in all of these that may be and will be of use in the good work to which you are called.

Jesus preached with such fervency that the good rejoiced in it. The common people heard him gladly. The hypocritical were enraged and would have destroyed him a number of times before his time came. When he told them what was necessary to be his in deed and in truth, we are told that many of them went back and walked no more with him. You need not be surprised if you lose some of your popularity for preaching the truth. But be sure it does come from preaching the truth—not from being irritable, not from exposing someone because you may have a personal grudge. They will accuse you of that anyway. But be sure you are after the man's soul instead of his hide. There is a difference, all right.

Paul either had a riot or a revival. Yet there are those today who have been placed in the lead that would do away with the revival, and they do not have the courage to have a riot. So they are failing from both sides of the question in being like Paul. He persuaded men because of the terror of the Lord. He knew that there was punishment for sin, and he was willing to be accursed that he might save men. Leave out nothing that will help men. If you see men need to be told of heaven, preach it with all the glory that the Bible tells about. There is such a place as well as such a state. If men need to be warned of hell, preach it with all the horrors that God's Word describes. Don't stop to argue whether there is a hell or not. Might as well stop to deny there is a heaven. The fact that there are such contrasts described is enough to warn men of the horrors of the second death, and that there is a place of rest and peace to glorify if possible the teachings of a heaven of rest and joy and peace.

Preach the truth therefore in such a way that the good may say, if not audibly, in their hearts, "Amen" or "Hallelujah," because of touching that divine cord that has been attuned to heaven by the birth that originates there. People who are anxious to live for Christ will respond to the truth. There is something there that will stand by you in giving God's message as He would have you give it.

Preach the truth in such a way as to make men either say that is right or call you a liar. Do not expect to be on the side of men and God at the same time if men are unregenerate, because His truth plainly teaches that there is no concord between good and evil.

We have catered to the whims of the doubtful in order to win men till they have made a joke of us in many instances. I had rather men would make a joke of me for doing my duty towards them and discharge my obligation to God than to give them over to doubts and leave them without anything to lean upon when they do come to their senses.

Therefore, young men, never preach anything that will leave a question in the minds of your hearers as to whether you believe God's truth or not. Men may call such things scholarly. But remember that to be scholarly does not always mean to be in accord with the message that God has sent you to deliver.

The word which you preach is that which will stand when heaven and earth shall pass away. If you are an ambassador for Christ, let him be your example. You will therefore never have to change your base. You may make a man your ideal preacher, and he may not always please you; but if you make Jesus your ideal, then you will always try to please Him, and that is the thing that you are sent to do. And that is the thing that will make you fruitful in every good work. From that you are to receive your approval that will stand. From Him you are to receive the reward that will count here and hereafter.

A Prophesy That Must Be Fulfilled

"And knowledge shall be increased." What kind? That which maketh wise unto salvation. How we would enjoy a manifestation of that today! Like old Simeon, many of us would say, "Lettest now thy servant depart in peace, for mine eyes have seen thy salvation."

Thank God, there are always men of this type that are waiting. Four hundred dark gloomy years, the voice of the prophets had been stilled. Yet there were those who were waiting. They are waiting today, bless God! Those who will stand by you as you stand as a watchman to warn and to cry out the hours of the night. "For the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sand of the sea." This is coming! Shall we have a part? Every plant which my heavenly Father hath not planted shall be rooted up." Be sure of your planting!

What is the knowledge of the glory of God? Is there anything any more convincing than the glory that must be recognized in a redeemed soul? The soul that has not had its powers stunted by unsound preaching or teaching, to see it come out from under the power of sin by a regenerated life, as you see this you begin to see something of what the men of old had in mind when they talked of the glory of God. Redeemed lives brought into action for God!

This thing of glory in life we are afraid of sometimes. It makes us do things that are unusual. We like to do the unusual in worldly things, but when it comes to religion, it will never do to show any enthusiasm, we might be called weak-minded. Because there is good money, it is counterfeitted. The false along this line is scarce. Do not be afraid of being called a crank if you are sure of your ground as a child of God, a divinely sent one from God. Be yourself under the mighty hand of God, and when the day of reckoning comes you will be there with your souls, sheaves, and it matters not what else you may bring, it will all pale before Him who has sent you to win men. Rejoice, therefore, when you gain a victory. Not counted weakness to be enthusiastic about winning in worldly things. Do not be afraid to be joyful over every victory gained for your Lord and Master.

There is a change coming! Help to bring it about by living and preaching the truth. Live so that you can condemn evil with a clear conscience! Then show the way to better things. Be a prophet unashamed and unafraid! Let your concern be that when this mighty turning to God shall come, you will be in the forefront. It is not a question of whether there shall be victory, but will I be on the victorious side?

Men of training, to be sure, we need, but better to come from the sticks with a message from God, as Amos of old, than to be a time-serving, compromising coward like the priests that tried to stop him because they did not want the king disturbed.

Dean Inge said some time ago in a sermon delivered in London:

"A few more John the Baptists are wanted, men who cannot be bought or silenced except by murder, men who would be the voice of the conscience of the community.

"People should have the courage of their convictions, and the test should be, Are we prepared to take the risk of unpopularity in exposing scandals and other wrong things?

"There is much handshaking in the streets, and yet the man who is making his money in the most discreditable manner is not put under suspicion until he is publicly exposed.

"Take the terrible sin of adultery, which is so much committed among the richer class. Is it right that this rich class should be socially forgiven? The surface of society is decent and comely, but how much wickedness and corruption is hidden under the surface! When the secrets of all hearts are disclosed there will be some strange surprises.

"A good many astute persons who have got credit for great reforms will be shown to have merely floated with the tide—a feat that any dead dog can perform.

"The real work will be found to have been done by obscure honest men who have gone through life with a too stiff back for their own interests, and who have always thrown their full weight into the right scale."

Sacrifice anything, therefore, that is necessary to bring men to a saving knowledge of the truth as it is in Christ Jesus, and when the Chief Shepherd shall appear, may you have that crown that is promised to every one who is true to his calling, and may you live so close to Him day by day that men shall take knowledge of you that you have been with Jesus.

The Kingdom is coming, oh, tell ye the story,
God's banner exalted shall be!
The earth shall be full of His knowledge and glory,
As waters that cover the sea!

The second week in January we are to get out our annual Young People's number.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

These additional reports have been sent in by pastors whose church took the special offering for the Children's Home: L. R. Medlin, H. F. Surratt, J. D. Cranford, R. A. Hunter, C. P. Morris, J. R. Anderson, C. E. Ridge, J. T. Bowman, E. O. Peeler, H. L. Isley.

The Annual Conference Expenses

Has anyone asked what is done with the money raised for this claim? You have a perfect right to ask and to know where the money goes when you pay it into the church treasury. Well, if you are interested, the money raised for Annual Conference Expenses is applied as follows:

Two hundred dollars for the HERALD; about two hundred and fifty dollars to help pay for the Conference Journals (Were this not paid the Journal would cost you about 45 cents instead of 25 cents.); one hundred dollars to the Annual Conference Secretary; one hundred dollars to the Annual Conference Treasurer; twenty-five dollars to the Annual Conference Statistician; twenty-five dollars to the Annual Conference Reporter, and twenty-seven hundred and fifty dollars to the Annual Conference President (It took a little more than six hundred dollars of this to pay the expenses of the office and for traveling the district last year). So the term, Annual Conference Expenses, is the right name. All the money raised in this bracket goes for that purpose.

At the last session of the Annual Conference it was decided that the apportionments laid upon the pastoral charges for this claim be raised during January and February. Already Mt. Pleasant church, Mt. Pleasant charge, has paid its apportionment in full, likewise the Henderson church. If others have paid this, please let me know, as I want to keep these churches in my letter from week to week for awhile.

Siler City Charge, Rev. J. A. Burgess, Pastor

This quarterly conference was held last Wednesday night in the Siler City church. There was splendid attendance; one of the largest I have seen at a quarterly conference in quite a while. All churches were well represented, and a splendid feeling or attitude was in evidence. This is really one of the best pastoral charges in the entire conference. It is not strong numerically nor financially, but there is a fine spirit of co-operation here. The amount for World Service for next year was left up to two of the churches to accept at the regular meeting, but the Siler City church increased the apportionment for themselves several dollars, and the conference accepted the entire apportionment for the Annual Conference budget. This is Pastor Burgess' second year, and he is quite well liked by the people. The outlook for this charge for the year is quite good.

Littleton Charge, Rev. T. M. Johnson, Pastor

The first quarterly conference of this charge was held in the Littleton church Saturday afternoon. The attendance was not large, but the pastor's recommendations were accepted without a dissenting vote, and we believe the people on this charge will enter heartily into the work of the churches with their new leader. Already Dr. Johnson had found some who were willing to act as HERALD agents, and he expects the circulation to be much larger this year. Two other recommendations deserve wider practice than will be found here; one to have a special committee other than the board of stewards of the charge, one person from each church, to study with the pastor the financial problems of the charge; the other is to have a committee of the same number to plan for increasing the evangelistic spirit and work of the charge. The weather was most unfavorable, which doubtless accounted to some degree for the small attendance at the meeting; but the real reason most likely was the lack of a vital interest in the work of the church. However, Littleton is improving, a new interest is being born, and we believe, under the wise, energetic leadership of Dr. Johnson, it will be nurtured into a vigorous life.

Whitakers Church, Rev. E. O. Peeler, Pastor

I visited this church and preached at the morning appointment. It was not according to announced plans, but the condition of the Harmony church was such, I was told, that services would not be held in it. So I had the pleasure of making a visit to this loyal group of church workers. The congregation was quite good considering the weather, and the fact that there was sickness in the membership. We were delighted to see Mrs. J. M. Cutchin so much improved and greatly distressed to find Mrs. Mamie Braswell so ill. Here are two excellent women, and their labors in the church here have been many. It seems like I am living again in the first years of my ministry to visit this church and go into the homes of these very splendid people.

Eden Church, Halifax Charge

I visited this church in the afternoon. Although the roads were miserably bad, skies concealed by murky clouds, and a drizzly rain was falling, we had a very good congregation for such a day here, and we enjoyed speaking to them. We hope to have a pastor for this people at an early day. Brother Peeler will preach at Hollister next Sunday at 11:15, and Brother C. L. Spencer will preach at Eden at 11 a.m. and at Union in the afternoon, the first Sunday in January. We shall announce preachers for other Sundays later.

Plan of Appointments

December 22—Draper, 11 a.m.

January 5—Albemarle, 11 a.m., Porter in afternoon.

R. M. ANDREWS.

A Happy Christmas to All

The editor and all of those who are associated with him in getting out the HERALD are wishing for all of our readers a very happy Christmas and a successful New Year. May the One who came to earth as a little child dwell richly in each heart during this Christmas season.

METHODIST UNION

The plan of union, published in last week's Herald, doubtless will prove to be a topic of absorbing interest to us during the next five months. At some future time I may write an article, or a series of articles, dealing with the merits of some of the features of the plan. At present, I shall content myself with a few observations.

The plan, as presented, does not represent an overture from either, or both, of the other denominations involved, to our church for union. It is the work of the three commissions, in joint session, and we were represented fully. We had fifteen members of our commission, but we might have had twenty-five, had we chosen to elect them. I might add that the attitude of the members of the commissions representing the two larger bodies was all that we could have asked,—such was the impression I received while attending the meetings. I think it important, therefore, to bear in mind that the paper presented represents the offering of our representatives to the church, just as truly as it does that of any others to the larger denominations.

I do not take the reference of my esteemed friend, the editor of the Herald, to the episode in which the tricky Jacob was involved, to mean that this plan involves any element of deceit, for he says later, "It seems to be as fair a compromise on the part of all sides as one could imagine." From the outset, it seems to me, there has been frankness in all the negotiations. We met as brethren, seeking earnestly the welfare of the Kingdom of God; not as diplomats, each playing for advantage.

It will be noted that the plan contains no provision for the union of two of the churches, should the third reject it. It does not even provide that the two Episcopal Methodisms may unite on the basis proposed, should we reject it. The proposal for union, therefore, stands or falls as a whole.

It is worth while to consider the wonderful progress made toward union since 1908. At our General Conference in Pittsburgh, Bishop Warren, Dr. Goucher, and Senator Dolliver appeared, and discussed the subject of union. Following the adjournment of our General Conference was the epochmaking address of Dr. Lewis to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, followed, two years later, by an address, just as notable, to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Then followed negotiations between the two larger Methodisms, in which we were not involved. It seems to me that we have come a long way since 1908. May we not believe God has led us?

One test, and one only, should be applied to this movement for union: will it make for the progress of the Kingdom of God? Will it be pleasing to the great Head of the Church? Not whether it will be for the temporary advantage or disadvantage of any individual. As we remember the prayer of our Lord for the unity of His followers, I wonder if any can justify a refusal to bring about a union of these three Methodist bodies.

The alternative,—that our church "continue as it has done in the past." In my opinion, that would be impossible. I have been a member of the Methodist Protestant Church since I was a boy of eleven. I have been active in her service for forty-six years. It is my sober conviction that a rejection of this plan and a refusal to enter into a union of Methodism would have an effect upon our younger people, especially, which would be disastrous; it would destroy hope, and tend to disintegration. We should face squarely the question,—"if not union, what?" J. Norman Wills.

GET UNDER THE BLANKET

Now is the time for the members and friends of the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina to get under the blanket insurance plan outlined by Rev. N. M. Harrison in the Herald. Brother Harrison has devoted a great deal of time and study to this question, and, so far, the plan proposed is the best for our purpose that has been found. For a nominal fee all the members and friends of the Conference under sixty years of age will be taken care of. The plan also provides a fund to be used in insuring superannuates who have passed the age of sixty. The amount each will receive will not be large, it it true, however, it will be several times larger than is being paid now.

Only one thing is lacking to put the insurance into effect immediately, namely, applications. Until fifty persons have applied and paid for a policy the plan cannot become effective.

Send your application immediately to Rev. N. M. Harrison, High Point College, High Point, N. C., inclosing $10.00, the premium for one year. In the event the required number of applications is not received by him, your money will be refunded. Geo. R. Brown.

CONFERENCE GROUP INSURANCE

The Conference Group Insurance as has been worked out for the conference is a fine thing for those who are at all interested in insurance.

The simplicity of the policy, the low premium rate, and the fact that any member of the family or church can have the same rate makes it attractive.

You are trusted to make your own physical examination and fill out your own application blank. The aim of the committee is to get the required number for this master policy before the first of the year. Write to N. M. Harrison, High Point, N. C., if you do not have blanks.

R. C. Stubbins,
Member of Conference Insurance Committee.

Rev. E. G. Cowan Slightly Injured

A note from Rev. E. G. Cowan, the pastor of Seagrove-Love Joy charge, brought the first information that we had had that Brother Cowan and his wife were slightly injured while on their way home from the recent session of the Annual Conference at Henderson when the car skidded off the wet pavement and turned over, Mrs. Cowan being bruised somewhat and Brother Cowan receiving cuts and bruises. The car was badly damaged.

Annual Conference Finances

We have been asked to say something this week about the Annual Conference finances, but we are so overrun with material that there is simply no place for anything more.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DAY

Samples of the Young People's Day materials have been mailed to all pastors, Christian Endeavor secretaries, Sunday school superintendents, and a number of other church leaders. Please examine these materials carefully. Those who have the materials should meet with the pastor and decide on the type of program they want to have for Young People's Day. Select those who will have charge of the program. Order your materials at the first chance. Send orders to Rev. F. L. Gibbs, 3267 W. Liberty Ave., Room 208, Pittsburgh (16), Pa., or send request to the writer.

T. J. WHITEHEAD, President.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DAY ORDERS BEING FILLED RAPIDLY

Even before all of our samples reached the field, Young People's Day orders began to come in. They will be filled as soon as possible. If you have not placed your order, please do so at your early convenience.

F. L. GIBBS,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

MY HOPES FOR THE NEW YEAR

Christian Endeavor Topic for Sunday, December 29, 1935

By MRS. EUGENE A. LAMB

Let's make this our Consecration Service to begin our New Year with. I'd like to paraphrase the subject and say "Stars to Follow Through the Year." The following program is suggested:

Prelude: "I Would Be True."

Call to Worship:

What shall I ask for the coming year,
What shall my watchword be?
What wouldst Thou do for me, dear Lord?
What can I do for Thee?

Hymn: "Father in Heaven, Who Lovest All."

Leader: Abraham Lincoln said, "I don't think much of a man not wiser today than he was yesterday." Are we wiser, at the end of this year, than we were at its beginning? Can we make a more successful journey through the new year than we made through the year now almost ended? We have been remembering how the Wise Men of long ago were led to Jesus by a star. Let us consider some of the stars we may follow as we walk with Jesus in the year before us. First, there is the star of Health and Purity.

Talk on this star of Health and Purity:

(1) The body, Lord, is ours to keep
In glowing health and strength for Thee,
That through its life Thy life may live,
Thy will move strong and swift and free;
My body, Lord, is thine to keep,
Strong and swift and free.

(2) Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.

(3) The Master's plan is to serve humanity by living His life over again in each of us This can only be accomplished by an open life of purity.—Harrison.

(4) It takes purity in your own heart to see it in others.

(5) Impure speech never comes from a pure heart.

(6) No decent man can enjoy indecency.

(7) Purity and power are inseparable.

Hymn:

Leader: Second, there is the star of Work. (Talk on this star of Work).

(1) God never calls a lazy, disgruntled man to a job which requires the finer qualities of a real manhood. Every worker may make the commonest job an immortal task.

(2) Work should never be a drudgery. Learn to look upon any task that is yours to do as an opportunity for service; learn to love it as a privilege.

(3) The shining pillars of the stateliest mansion have to be drilled and cut out of a noisy, dingy quarry. In the drudgery of daily life God shapes His saints for the heavenly temple.

(4) Employment, sir, and hardships prevent melancholy.—Samuel Johnson.

(5) The idle Christian is the raw material of the backslider.

Hymn: "O Master Workman of the Race" (Tune: Materna).

Leader: Third, the star of Prayer:

More things are wrought by prayer
Than this world dreams of, wherefore, let Thy voice
Rise like a fountain for me night and day.
For what are men better than sheep and goats
That nourish a blind life within the brain,
If, knowing God, they lift not hands of prayer
Both for themselves and those who call them friend?
For so the whole round earth is every way
Bound by gold chains about the feet of God.
—Tennyson.

Talk on this star of Prayer. (Below are some suggestions for the speaker.)

(1) I have been driven many times to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go. My own wisdom and that of all about me seemed insufficient for that day.—A. Lincoln.

(2) Prayer is more than meditation, it is communion. It is a dialogue, not a monologue. It is not enough that man speak to God; he must believe that God can hear, and, in some way, speak to him again. And one of the most welcome and surprising features of the Bible is that it is even more full of God's speech to men than of man's to God.

(3) Prayer commands the Spirit. It makes hearing devout, and leads to obeying. It makes preaching fervent and spiritual. It multiplies and sanctifies giving. It prompts to service, and then it makes all work itself a prayer. It anoints witness with unction, and makes the life radiant with a heavenly light. When there is right praying, all else comes right.—A. T. Pierson.

(4) If ye abide in me and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you.—Jesus in John 15:7. If you don't get your prayers through, it is because you are not abiding.

(5) All seeking is not in vain because it does not achieve its purpose as quickly as our impatience for God demands.—P. Maury.

(6) When thou prayest, rather let thy heart be without words than thy words without heart.—Bunyan.

(7) Spread out your petition before God, and then say, "Thy will, not mine, be done." The sweetest lesson I have learned in God's school is to let the Lord choose for me.—D. L. Moody.

(8) When we find it easy to neglect communion with God, it is a sign of approaching lukewarmness.

(9) Who goes to bed and doth not pray
Maketh two nights of every day!

Prayer by the leader or some other, closing with the prayer Jesus gave to us.

Hymn (very softly): "In the Hour of Trial."

Leader: Fourth, there is the star of Friendship. (Talk on this star of Friendship.)

(1) Can we test our friendship by a worthwhile standard? David said of a friend, "We took sweet counsel together and went into the house of the Lord in company." Can you enjoy a discussion of serious things with your friends? Can you share your ideals? And can you find joy in going together into your church, perhaps in working together for the church?

(2) Everyone needs a friend; be sure to be one to somebody, and remember always that God sent Christ into the world to be the friend of every man.

(3) Choosing bad friends is a foundation-mistake in life. That is why it often wrecks a boy's or a girl's chances completely.

(4) Sometimes there's no tellin' in this world what's a blessin', an' what ain't,
There's one thing, anyhow, that's for sartin a blessin' . . . an' that's good friends.

Hymn.

Leader: Fifth, there is the star of Service. Perhaps before you see it shine very clearly you must follow the elusive little star of Study—you must be prepared to serve well. Yet you can remember the story of the man who hid his one talent and resolve to use every little chance which comes to you to help others.

Talk on this star of Service:

(1) Half the world is on the wrong scent after happiness. They think that it consists in having and getting, and in being served by others. It consists in giving and in serving others.

(2) We lose religion if we do not use it just as we lose friendships when our interests and those of our friends no longer continue to cross and recross each other. I know of no way in which faith may be kept in storage.

(3) Charles Kingsley made it a rule of his life never to lie down at night without being able to say: "I have made one human being at least a little wiser, a little happier, or a little better this day."

Hymn: "I Would Be True."

Mizpah.

Mrs. Carl Haynes, Flat Rock on Flat Rock, 1 suit for boys with an extra pair of pants.

We are thankful to all of you who helped to make this good report.

Enfield, Fountain Place, and Liberty take the lead in T. O. offerings this week, with Kernersville and Whitaker's following closely. And Hickory Ridge, Forsyth, leads all the country churches this time. Kannapolis comes with two additional offerings, bringing the total of their T. O. to $23.00.

There are some more harvest home offerings on the way, and there are already a number of Christmas boxes here unopened, and so not yet listed. We appreciate every gift that comes to brighten the lives of our children at this season.

Masefield has said:

"He who gives a child a treat
Makes joy bells ring in Heaven's street.
And he who gives a child a home
Builds palaces in Kingdom Come."

We thank you and wish for every one of you a happy Christmas in your cheerful homes.

Yours in His blessed service,

A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

SPECIAL TO OUR FRIENDS

As has been our custom since our first Christmas at the Home, we are not sending Christmas greeting cards again this year. But we do wish in this way to express our greetings and Christian love to our hundreds of friends throughout the church. We thank you for the cards that have already come and that will come. We thank you for the letters from the one that came from a joint quarterly conference of the Enfield and Whitaker's charges to the precious ones which came in the mail this morning. Almost every offering these days is accompanied by beautiful expressions of love and appreciation. These messages cheer our hearts, and yet they make us feel so unworthy. God bless you every one. All we can do is to offer back to you hearts full of love and appreciation for all your kindness and thoughtfulness for us and the children. We cannot send the cards because all we would have to spend that way must go into the service here. We wish for all of you a very happy Christmas and a glad New Year filled with service for Him.

Yours in His blessed service,

MR. AND MRS. A. G. DIXON.

FOUR PAGES OF REPORTS LEFT OVER

As the forms are closing we regret to say that we have four pages of church reports set to type for which there is no room. We will run these in our next issue.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

MRS. J. E. PRITCHARD, Editor

TO PRESIDENTS, PASTORS AND PEOPLE

The December pay roll of the Board of Missions is always very large. All who have World Service funds, please send them in at once. The fiscal year of the Board of Missions is half gone. The askings of all of our churches, church organizations and individuals are much less than half paid to date.

Next May will end this quadrennium. Let us all do our very best to meet obligations to World Service, paid in full 100 per cent, and close the General Conference period out of the red. The church can do this if she will—may she do it. How happy all would be. Will everyone do his best to raise the full assessment. Please do not fail us.

Think what a full paid assessment would mean to our crippled missionary work in homeland and also in the foreign field, and what a burden would be lifted from the shoulders of all of our missionary workers, including Board of Missions and especially its secretaries. G. W. HADDAWAY,

Executive Secretary, Board of Missions.

ELEVENTH DISTRICT RALLY

Bethesda Methodist Protestant Church

Sunday, December 29, 1935

1:30 P.M.—Devotional service in charge of Rev. C. E. Ridge.

1:45—"Supporting the M. P. Herald," Rev. L. E. Mabry.

2:00—"Getting Behind the Church and Conference Program," Rev. R. L. Moser.

2:15—Special music.

2:20—"Some of the Needs of Our Mission Work," Mrs. L. B. Koonts.

2:35—"An Active Auxiliary and How to Have One," Mrs. Ray Leatherman.

2:50—Special music.

2:55—"The Three Major Problems on My Charge and How to Solve Them," Rev. R. L. Hethcox.

3:15—"The Prevailing Church," Rev. J. Paul Pegg.

3:30—Announcements. Benediction.

Above is an outline of the program to be given at this rally, and we urge all our laymen in this district to attend. The charges in this district are: Lexington First, State Street, Shiloh, Mocksville, Spencer-China Grove. C. E. RIDGE, Chairman.

SEND COUPONS EARLY

This is our last call for coupons during 1935. Please send every one you can on or before December 31, while they have double value. We will be busy here during the last hours of December getting them ready to mail to the Colgate headquarters.

Keep saving them in 1936 and help us to get a million coupons by June 1, 1936. A million coupons by that time will mean $4,000 to us plus a bonus of $400. Hurry them along.

Note: 1,540 coupons came the other day in a paper bag, no name with them. We do not know where they came from. Are they yours? Please let me know, so proper credit may be given. Thank you.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Pleasant Hill, Why Not Charge.—We are really glad to welcome our beloved pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Hill, back with us for another year, and we trust that all may co-operate and work with our pastor to make this one of the best years in the history of our church.

Rev. Mr. Hill preached a wonderful sermon last Sunday morning on the subject of "Where Was God When His Son Was Dying?"

All officers have been elected and installed for the new year. Our Sunday school is doing nicely, and our attendance each Sunday is very good.

Mr. John Ferree was elected as our superintendent. Mr. Ferree is very interested and much awake to his work and we are sure of fine co-operation throughout the entire Sunday school. JEWEL BEANE, Reporter.

(This report came too late for last week.)

Grace Church.—On Sunday, December 8, Dr. R. M. Andrews, president of the conference, preached for us. Having been pastor at Grace for two terms of five years each, making half of Dr. Andrews' active ministry spent among us, he knows well our people, our faults, our virtues. Your reporter regretted being ill on that day, so did not hear him.

This Sabbath Mr. Carroll gave us a splendid sermon, "Making Goodness Attractive," from Titus 2:10. He said: "Nothing so helps us to live the good life as one who has the good life and presents it in a good manner. We will not win converts by arguing with one. Certainly we are what we are because somebody made their religion attractive to us. The same message comes to us, as did in that early church; if we are to be victorious in spreading the gospel, we must adorn our goodness. There has been a slump in morality in the last ten to twenty years. Not much time spent in learning the Ten Commandments because not popular with the crowd."

Four members were received in our church Sunday: Mrs. Nell Barnard, Mr. Paul M. Murphy, Mr. P. H. Moody, and Mr. W. B. Carroll.

Mr. Wayne A. Hornaday, Jr., is at home from High Point College, very ill.

Grace church lost a good member in the death of a young man, Mr. Herbert Haltom, last week. Obituary will be written by pastor.

MRS. J. M. STONE.

First Church, Charlotte.—We were very glad to have Mr. Monroe Parker, of Bob Jones College, Cleveland, Tenn., with us last Sunday morning. Mr. Parker gave a very interesting sermon on "God, the Same Yesterday, Today, and Forever." There was an unusually large attendance at this meeting and all who were present enjoyed the sermon so very much. Mr. Parker was with us once before, and we certainly were glad indeed to have him visit us once again. We hope that he will make plans to be with us whenever he is in our locality.

There was a special meeting last Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the tabernacle of this church for the Young People's Fellowship Clubs of this area. Representatives from most all of the Young People's Fellowship Clubs of this area were present, and we were delighted to have so many club members in our midst. Mr. Jimmie Johnson, of Bob Jones College, Cleveland, Tenn., was in charge of this meeting and he gave a very interesting talk to the young people present. His subject was "The Sign of the Cross, the Plus Sign." Wilbur Lyons, also of Bob Jones College, gave a short talk on personal work. Before the meeting got well under way we had a good song service, followed by a testimonial service which lasted for about a half hour. This meeting was the first of such meetings held in this part of the Carolinas, but we intend to start holding these meetings regularly.

On Friday, December 20, we expect to welcome back into our midst the boys and girls who left this city to attend Bob Jones College. We are anxious to have them return to Charlotte, for we have missed them so much.

Next Sunday we are to begin a revival meeting which will last throughout the Christmas holidays, and possibly longer. We are asking that all Christians pray earnestly for this meeting, for we feel that we can serve our Savior in no better way than by trying to win souls to Jesus. Please be in prayer for our coming meetings.

ARNOLD P. ALLEN, Reporter.

Piney Grove, Siler City Charge.—We had our pastor, Rev. J. A. Burgess, with us again the second Sunday afternoon. He brought us a wonderful message at this time. We are very glad to have Mr. Burgess back with us for another year.

We are planning now for our Christmas tree. The children are showing much interest and the program seems to be the best we have had in several years. Those from Piney Grove who attended the first quarterly conference at Siler City church last Wednesday night enjoyed Dr. Andrews' talk very much and hope that he will be with us again soon.

Our Sunday school is going fine despite the rainy weather and there is no sickness in our community at present.

Well, as this will be the last report before the new year I will leave wishing everyone a merry Christmas and a happy, prosperous New Year.

LELA McPHERSON, Reporter.

Thomasville, First.—Our church attendance continues to be very good, with our pastor, Rev. O. C. Loy, preaching exceedingly fine sermons. Last Sunday evening, December 1, we had a number of visitors at the evening service whom we were very glad to have. Visitors are always welcome at our church.

The Sunday school attendance is still increasing.

We are planning to have an old-fashioned Christmas at our church this year—with a tree, a program by the children, and a treat for everyone.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Woman's Bible Class are planning to have a Christmas party on December 20, 1935. Names have been drawn and a program is being prepared. We hope every member of the two organizations will be present for the occasion.

On Tuesday evening, December 10, the Woman's Bible Class gave a play sponsored by the Men's Bible Class. The play was "Sewing for the Heathen." An admission of 15 cents was charged to help defray the expense of the Christmas treat.

Our community was shocked by the serious accidental shooting of Mr. Carl Lloyd on Thanksgiving Day which resulted in the loss of his left arm. We sympathize very deeply with him and the family because of this great trial, but we are glad to know that he is improving and we hope that he will soon be with us again.

Thanks are due Mr. T. E. Jennings, a local business man, for the gift of a very nice stove that he donated to the church.

Our Christian Endeavor attendance was off some Sunday night, due possibly to the inclement weather.

Our first quarterly conference was held Wednesday night, December 4.

The attendance at midweek prayer meeting is very small. Our people are urged to take advantage of the wonderful privilege of worshiping together at this time which is every Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock.

MRS. W. A. LEONARD, Reporter.

(This report came too late for last week.)

Gibsonville.—The year's work has started off smoothly and satisfactorily. The organizations are already in action and the leaders are proving themselves efficient.

There has been quite a bit of repair work done to the church and hut to make them more comfortable. The Young Ladies' class is raising quite a sum of money for the church and the ever alert Woman's Auxiliary is busy with its program.

Thanks to Mr. J. T. Rountree for the new chimney being built to the pastor's home. That means extra comfort to the pastor's family and value to the house. We also appreciate the heater for the pastor's study given by Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Owen.

The stewards have had two meetings this year and report finances in extra good shape for this season of the year. Mr. D. M. Davidson is chairman and Mr. Kenneth Williams is treasurer.

The first quarterly conference was held Monday night, December 9. Mr. W. J. Jennings was re-elected secretary. Some good reports were made. One was the increase of $600 in pastor's salary for this year.

Church calendars have been made and are being distributed in the homes of our church members and others of the community.

Wishing all a happy Christmas.

R. C. STUBBINS.

Kannapolis.—As some say, we are still working and praying for the advancement of God's bidding and trying to win souls for His Kingdom. Our church doors are always open that whosoever will might come to worship with us and be welcome.

Our blessings have been many in the past and we covet the prayers of all Christians for the future that our faith and ability might increase, that we might do more for our Master.

I am happy to note our pastor, Rev. D. R. Williams, is bringing us some wonderful messages. Sunday school attendance is good and is increasing rapidly, but come on, there is room for you.

On Sunday, December 15, communion was observed, the pastor giving an invitation to any visitors who would commune with us, after which we had the pleasure of welcoming Mr. and Mrs. Walton Talbort as members of the church, they coming to us by letter from Concord M. P. church. May they prove a blessing to us and we to them.

On Sunday, December 22, at 7 o'clock, a play, "Christmas Eve and All Is Well," will be presented by members of the church.

Then on Tuesday, December 24, at 6:30 o'clock, a play will be given by the children, "The Strike in Santa Claus Land." These plays are being directed by Mrs. W. T. Kiser. The public is cordially invited to these programs and anyone wishing to hang presents on the tree are invited to do so.

The C. E. Society gives an interesting program by the help of their president, Miss Ollie Sloop, each third Sunday at 3 o'clock at the prison camp.

The colored quartet of the prison camp sang three beautiful selections to the C. E. group. There were five cars full of young people who went from the church to the camp for this service. I wish to urge all young people to come to our meetings each Sunday night at 6 o'clock. We want all our young people working for God's Kingdom rather than for the earthly kingdom. The president is Ollie Sloop.

Rev. and Mrs. Williams are expecting to spend the Christmas holidays in Burlington, N. C., visiting their daughter and son, but wherever they are we wish them as well as everybody the same old wish of the season, a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

MRS. X. E. G., Reporter.

Asheboro.—It is a great pleasure to this pastor and his family to be back in Asheboro for another year. The work has started well, and all signs point to progress. Mr. Earl Henley is the new chairman of our board of stewards. He succeeds Mr. John R. Brown, who served so efficiently last year. Mr. D. D. Almond succeeds Miss Ethel Lovett as church treasurer. Miss Lovett has been the treasurer for the past two years and has rendered most efficient and satisfactory service. Our first quarterly conference was held December 5, and the year officially begun by the transaction of such business as usually belongs to this conference.

Our Thanksgiving services were duly held and the usual cash Thanksgiving offering sent to the Children's Home. In addition to this, an offering in kind was made by certain organizations of the Sunday school. Our secretary of the Home, Mrs. E. F. Bulla, is active in promoting this department of our work. Two outstanding events characterized our programs last Sunday, December 15. The first was the pledging to the church budget. The day was designated "Church Loyalty Day." From 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon the members went to the church to pledge their support to the budget. The report made by the stewards at the night service showed that 160 persons pledged, and that the total amount pledged was $2,307.20. This is about $500 more than was pledged last year in an every-member canvass. The other event of note was the Christmas program of music rendered by the choir at the night service. Twenty-two voices made up the choir. The music consisted of solos, duets, quartets, and anthems. A large congregation was present to worship in this service and to enjoy this splendid program. Other Christmas programs will follow with the services next Sunday and by various classes and church organizations.

An event of a very personal nature would have no place in this report but for the fact that the secret got out. Mrs. Taylor and I had a wedding anniversary recently—the twenty-fifth. We were gladly and quietly taking note of the fact, but did not know that anybody else was. To our surprise the auxiliary of the church presented to us, through Mrs. J. T. Pugh, the president, a waiter on which were 25 big, bright silver dollars. We felt very grateful to them for taking notice of an event that was very important to us, and of course the joy of our very modest celebration was greatly enhanced. They have been notified that they are to be our honored guests when we celebrate our golden wedding.

Since the year began we have been the recipients of many other expressions of kindness. A table loaded with delicious eats awaited us on our return from conference. Fresh meats in generous portions have been coming in at varying intervals, and dry blocks to start our fires, and a ton of coal dumped into our basement by a good friend, though not a member of our church here, have kept us warm. Grateful? Of course we are! And may God richly bless those who have blessed us by their kind words and their kind deeds.

And here are our hearty congratulations to the editor and his bride.

Tabernacle-Spring Church.—Good-bye, Tabernacle; good morning, Spring church. In the main our stay at Tabernacle was one of the greatest pleasures of our lives. We have never lived where we enjoyed life more. Tabernacle has seen the day when it sat on top of the world so far as our conference is concerned. It is not quite what it once was, but it is one of our very best country churches with untold possibilities. The writer can think of few things that might have meant more real joy to him than to have seen this grand old church come to her possibilities under his leadership. In the care of the fine young couple, Rev. and Mrs. Lamb, we feel sure the work is in good hands. We are expecting great things of them. We trust something has been accomplished during the last pastorate that will make it just a bit easier for the present pastorate and will help these young workers with their fine ideas to reach achievements which are possible in this great field of wonderful opportunity. May God bless this young pastor and his wife and the good people of Tabernacle. All the while we were there many favors and kindnesses came from them to us. Just before we left, some were very kind and thoughtful. The ladies of Julian in a very special way remembered the lady of the parsonage with a very fine shower of nice things. A set of dishes was given by the auxiliary, and then every member of the auxiliary gave an individual gift. They did not forget the pastor, but gave him a nice gift. And as individuals, two Julian men, Bro. W. T. Hanner and Bro. Vance Garrett, gave the preacher $5.00 each. Circle No. 3 of the Tabernacle auxiliary, with whom the wife worked during the entire pastorate, presented her with a beautiful bedspread. The auxiliary presented her with a purse of $5.85, while Mrs. C. R. Fields and her daughter, Miss Nora, gave her a beautiful water set. We shall not forget our very near neighbors who among others were so nice to us during our entire stay. Bros. Jones and Trogdon were our nearest and they were so very fine in rendering so many favors. To these mentioned and all others we extend our most sincere thanks. Good-bye, Tabernacle.

Good morning, Spring church. We are here and from indications there will be lots of nice things to be said and we will be saying them all along, but a few things must be said just now.

First of all I want to extend highest regards and most sincere appreciations to Bro. and Mrs. Neese, whom we follow. We have always had high regards for these good people, but our appreciation of them since we have followed them has greatly increased. They did a fine work on Spring Church charge. The people all speak well of them and we greatly appreciate it.

When we arrived after night from our long journey of about 175 miles, tired and sleepy, Bro. J. J. Massey was on hand with a hearty invitation to go to his home and spend the night. My, the rest was so fine and the hospitality was great. The next day (Thanksgiving) we were hardly at the parsonage until we were invited out for the meals of the day. Dinner at Bro. Eugene Vasser's and supper at Mrs. Crew's. How we did enjoy our Thanksgiving eats. The nice things have been coming in since in the way of fresh meats, pecans, wood, turnips, and a load of hay. The donors are as follows: Barnes, Grant, Garner, Hart, Massey, Vasser. One-half of the moving expense has been paid by the people of the different churches and a donation was made on expense of a trip made to the charge by the pastor and family before we got moved.

The people have shown themselves as being interested in their churches and are willing workers. They enter into the services with good hearty congregational singing of the good old standard church hymns. It is soul-stirring to note the fine response to the services. At every church prayer meetings are conducted by the people on every day when there is no preaching service. A fine Christian Endeavor is conducted at Pleasant Hill which meets every Friday night. It is certainly encouraging to see these young people entering into this work and doing it so well. A most encouraging Thanksgiving service was conducted on Thanksgiving night at Pleasant Hill. It was a union service of all the churches. A nice program was rendered and then a large number responded with testimonies and talks which were indeed very interesting. It has never been the privilege of the writer to attend a Thanksgiving service which was quite so interesting.

The first quarterly conference was conducted in Pleasant Hill church last Friday night. President Andrews was expected but for some reason unknown to the writer he did not arrive. We, of course, were disappointed, but Dr. T. M. Johnson was visiting with us and he consented to preside, which he did with much dignity and grace. He helped us to have a very fine conference. Thank you, Dr. Johnson. At this conference a number of things of interest were discussed and steps were taken which it is believed will mean good things for the future.

The churches are all planning to have Christmas services. It is to be appreciated that no two of these services are to take place at the same time. The people plan this among themselves. They believe in working together in harmony.

Mrs. Crew is among our sick and we trust she will soon recover.

Oh, I was about to forget. We have for some weeks had our invitation for Christmas dinner and our Thanksgiving dinner for next year. GEO. L. CURRY, Former Pastor Tabernacle, Present Pastor Spring Church.

Laurel Hill, Fallston Charge.—We are delighted to have our pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. H. F. Fogleman, returned to us. They have endeared themselves to us and it is with pleasure that we greet them again.

Rev. Mr. Fogleman filled his regular appointment at this church Sunday morning, December 8, at 11 o'clock. The sermon was very forceful and appropriate, based upon a text taken from Ephesians. The interest in the Sunday school continues good.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met Monday, December 9, at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Enloe Young at West Hickory. Mrs. E. I. Saine, president, had charge. Prayer was offered by Mr. Fogleman, Scripture by Mrs. Fogleman. Miss Laurene Lackey and Mrs. Vangie Young sang several Christmas carols. Two very interesting readings were read by Mrs. W. P. Miller and Mrs. E. I. Saine.

Refreshments were served in the dining room by the hostess, Mrs. Spurgeon Young, which everyone enjoyed.

Some few weeks ago a Heatrola was bought for the church. Our cry now is, "Coal to burn." We are hoping to have some more work done on our church soon.

The first quarterly conference will be held at Laurel Hill on Saturday before the second Sunday in January, which will be January 11. We hope the ladies won't forget to bring out their well-filled baskets.

Wishing all the Herald readers a merry Christmas and a prosperous new year.

Flat Rock Church, Flat Rock Charge.—On Sunday, December 8, at 3 p. m., we listened to a timely discussion based on a portion of I Cor. 15:58, "Be ye steadfast." Our pastor, Rev. C. B. Way, placed before us the thought that as we travel life's great highway we should be loyal and true to vows made in Christian life. Steadfast in service, faith and love, in love to God, to Jesus Christ, to His church and to our fellowmen.

Work is in progress on a Christmas program to be presented at the church on Monday evening, December 23, by the Sunday school.

At the December meeting of the Ladies' Aid we enjoyed the gracious hospitality of Mrs. Tom Friddle. On the dining room table a beautifully decorated Christmas tree formed the centerpiece around which were placed the gifts to be exchanged by the members as an enjoyable feature of the program. At this meeting we decided to sponsor a baby popularity contest in which any child under six years of age may be entered for a fee of 25 cents, which gives the child 25 votes. All votes one cent each. The child receiving the largest number of votes will be given a picture. The contest closes January 11, which will be the next regular meeting of our society. Enter your baby now.

Yours for a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.
MRS. ADDIE P. JOHNSON, Reporter.

Kistlers-Union, Cleveland Charge.—We are very much alive yet, although there has not been any report from this church in quite a while. The reason for this is our reporter is working away from home.

Since our last report our Annual Conference has met and saw fit to send us a new preacher, Rev. T. G. Madison. Although we were very sorry to lose Rev. R. S. Troxler, we are very thankful and feel that we are very fortunate in getting Rev. Mr. Madison, and we extend to him and his family a warm welcome.

The first quarterly conference met at this church Saturday, December 7, with a very good attendance.

Rev. Mr. Madison has preached for us twice. Last Sunday being the last appointment before Christmas, his subject was "No Room at the Inn," which was very much in keeping with the Yuletide season. Everyone enjoys his sermons very much.

Our Sunday school is wide awake and moving along nicely with a good attendance, considering the cold weather.

The Ladies' Auxiliary held its monthly meeting December 8 after Sunday school. A Thanksgiving program was given, which was very interesting. The auxiliaries are a great work and much good is being accomplished by the different societies.

Best wishes for Christmas and for the new conference year. MRS. ALVIN IVESTER.

First Church, Danville, Va.—Welcome to our band, ye new members! Our number has increased three more since our last report. Mr. Henry Grant joined us on December 8 and Mrs. Jennie Boaze and Linwood Hubbard the following Sunday. It is with great pleasure that we accept these in our small group of Christian workers.

The first quarterly conference of the church was held December 6 in the church building, at which time reports were heard and accepted by members of the official board. Our pastor, Mr. C. P. Morris, gave a good sketch of his plan of work for the coming year and a motion was made and seconded that Mr. A. E. Rice be added to the board of stewards (since he handles most of the church finances). This motion was voted on Sunday and Mr. Rice was elected to this office.

With Christmas so near and the Christmas spirit in our bones, we can hardly be still long enough and think clearly enough to send in a report of what has been going on in our church. The children are expecting to have a treat with old Santa, next Monday night, around the Christmas tree. It is difficult to say which is the hardest to keep still around this season of year, the children or our superintendent, Mr. J. W. Lamb. He just goes around with the biggest of smiles and the best of humor, looking forward to his big stick of candy from Santa.

We are making a special effort to bring all we can for the Children's Home on this happiest of all happy days—Christmas. We hope that each and every child in this Home will be blessed with health, happiness, and the love of Jesus, as most of us have been blessed.

Our Christian Endeavor is again offering the opportunity for those who are more fortunate to help the needy in the community by bringing articles of food to fill a Christmas basket.

We each wish to all of our friends in Christ the greatest of joy, contentment, and peace at this glad season.
ELEANOR TANNER, Reporter.

First Church, Albemarle.—Our Sunday school is progressing nicely under the leadership of our superintendent, Mr. J. E. Gantt. We are glad to report that at our 11 o'clock service Sunday, December 15, Rev. C. G. Isley preached to a well-filled house, using as his subject "Personal Work." The sermon was very interesting and was enjoyed by everyone present. We have been having several visitors from First church, Lexington. We enjoy having them worship with us, for visitors are always welcome at our church. Again at the evening service we had a large number to worship with us. The pastor used as his text Revelation 3:22.

Since my last report we have received four new members in our church, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harkey coming to us from Friendship M. P. church and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Turner coming from Lutheran church, China Grove. This makes a total of nine new members since conference. We feel that they are going to be a great help to the church.

Our first quarterly conference met at the church December 4. All of the reports were good. Our pastor reported that he had been in almost every home on the charge. Our financial condition looks very good. We raised our pastor's salary $100, and we are glad to report that the pastor is paid up to date. In the last four weeks we have raised $500. This is the best that we have done in several years. We have great hopes for the coming year and we believe that our hopes will be fulfilled.

Our Ladies' Auxiliary is still on the job. They are planning to sell homemade cakes next Saturday. We are sure they will take in a large sum of money. They are always planning some way to make money for the church, and we are proud of them.

Wishing for all the readers of the Herald a very merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Shiloh Charge.—We have been very kindly received by the people of this charge for the third year, and the work seems to be moving on in a normal way. Our first quarterly conference was held at Friendship church on December 7 at 2 p. m. with a good attendance. Resolutions and recommendations adopted, which if carried out will assure for us another successful year. It is a pleasure to work with a people who are behind the church and conference program, and helping the pastor in all progressive movements. Friendship has lost two of her most faithful members in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jordan, age 75 and 76, respectively. Their deaths came just nine days apart. Mr. Jordan was buried at Friendship on November 19, and Mrs. Jordan was buried by his side on November 28. They will be greatly missed in the church and community.

Since conference much work is being done on Shiloh church and parsonage grounds. Wednesday of this week is the date to meet again and finish filling in about the parsonage and beautify the church grounds. All three churches are giving a Christmas program and treat to the Sunday schools, and they also sent a thank-offering to the Children's Home. I think it might be justly said also that the spiritual life of this charge is normal, and this is a most hopeful sign for a good year. We have not been severely pounded like some of our pastors, but we have been the recipients of fresh meats and other useful articles for the pantry, all of which we are very grateful and thank every one who had a part in the giving. And now may I wish for our good editor and all the Herald readers a most cordial Christmas greeting.

C. E. RIDGE, Pastor.

Lexington, Mt. Carmel.—Rev. Mr. Mabry filled his regular appointment Sunday afternoon. He delivered a good sermon to a large congregation, considering the unfavorable weather. We were favored with a solo at this service by Mrs. Clifton Waitman, of Richmond, Va., and a duet by two of the children, Willie Veigh and Hilda Fritts.

The Christmas program will be given Monday evening, December 23. A full night's entertainment will be given. I am sorry I can not state the kind of program that is being given.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met Tuesday night, December 10, with Mrs. R. M. Fritts. Mrs. L. E. Mabry was elected the previous week to succeed Mrs. Hattie Isley, our former president. Mrs. Mabry had charge of the program. Rev. Mr. Mabry conducted the devotionals. A very interesting program was carried out. Plans were discussed and the church trustees were appointed to get figures on flues and stoves for the Sunday school rooms.

Mrs. Fritts and Zula Fritts served refreshments.

We are sorry to report the following on the sick list: Mrs. Jason Rowe is seriously ill at the home of her son, Mr. R. M. Rowe, and Mrs. John Rowe has been very sick but is improving.

ZULA FRITTS, Reporter.

Palestine, Flat Rock Circuit.—As this reporter has been indisposed since Thanksgiving with an attack of bronchitis, am proud to say I am improving now. Therefore this late report. Let's thank conference for returning our old pastor to be our new one. (As Dr. Andrews says, no pastor can do his best work on any charge in one or two years. At least let him stay long enough to get acquainted with all his members.) Now we have the old pastor for our new one, I am sure if each and every member of our church will try to pull forward and push forward with all our might, work, pray, and co-operate with our pastor, Brother Way will do everything possible to help us by God's help to make this 1936 the best year for both pastor and people. A minister is God's messenger to his people, and without their help he can accomplish very little on any charge. Let's try to help him.

Our first quarterly conference has been announced for Saturday before the fourth Sunday, December 21, 1935, at Gideon's Grove church. Hope all our official members can attend. There is no other sickness among our members except Uncle Calvin Tucker, who does not improve any. If so, it has not been reported to me.

May I wish the editor and all the readers a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

GRACE R. TUCKER, Reporter.

Union Grove, Orange Charge.—We are all glad to welcome Brother Williams and family back to Orange charge for another year. He has done a good work among us the past 11 years. We are looking forward for this to be a still better one.

Brother Williams has filled three regular appointments at Union Grove since our Annual Conference and brought to us very helpful messages as he usually does. Our Sunday school is not as good as we wish it was but we are holding our own. We hope it will be better later when the weather is not so bad.

We have made some plans to improve our church and church grounds the following year. Hope we can carry these through as it is in need of some improvements.

We are sorry to have some sickness in our community. We hope they will soon be out again.

FLORA RILEY, Reporter.

Orange Chapel, Saxapahaw Charge.—Having been elected reporter from our church for this conference year, I will endeavor to do my best. Our pastor, Rev. E. A. Bingham, filled his appointment at 11 o'clock Sunday and preached an inspiring sermon to an average sized congregation for this time of the year. We are proud of our new pastor and hope that he and his family will find it pleasant to be among us. We are sorry that Mrs. Bingham is in a High Point hospital, having undergone an operation, which we hope is successful. Our prayers are that she will soon be restored to health. We wish for our former pastor, Rev. W. M. Loy, much success in his new field of labor.

The officers for the ensuing year were elected Sunday. The stewards are having a business meeting at Clem Crawford's Wednesday night of this week. It is announced that we will have our Christmas tree and program on Christmas eve at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Our plan is to keep our Sunday school going through the winter months. Mrs. Clem Crawford was re-elected Sunday school superintendent and she is a very efficient leader. We are proud of her. We are hopeful for the best year yet at our church in the Master's service. We will appreciate the prayers of the Christian folks.

We extend the season's greetings to the editor of the Herald, his wife, and all the readers of the Herald.

MRS. J. L. MAYNARD.

Anderson Charge.—This is my first report since we came to this work, but we have been busy. We moved November 20 and are now settled so that we can begin our work on the field.

We have been kindly received and we are happy to be here. I regretted to leave our good people at Littleton, but we feel like it was the Master's will and all we want is to know His will and do it. I believe we are going to have a good year here with these good people. I have never met with more faithful and loyal people. They are willing to do all they can to make this a good year. We have secured more subscriptions to the Herald than we ever did during the year. We have reached our quota at Fairview and I believe we will at Liberty Hill within the next 30 days.

We held our first quarterly conference at Liberty Hill Saturday, December 7, and were well pleased. We found the work in good condition and going well. Plans have been made to try to raise the salary $150, which makes it $850. If the plans work, and I believe they will, then we are going to move out in the country early in January and then we will be in still better condition, for we will have all the wood we need and the members have given us several hens and a pig, also we will be able to keep a cow and then we have 12 acres of good land for us to plant and give the boys something to do.

Well, if we are able to meet the requirements here so that the people will be pleased to keep us, we think we are here for some time, I hope several years.

We ask each reader of the Herald to pray that we will be able to do all that the Master would have us do.

R. L. VICKERY.

Weaverville Charge.—We have been received very cordially by the good people on the Weaverville charge for the second year. There seems to be a fine spirit of co-operation among all the churches. Our first quarterly conference has been held and all the Annual Conference budget accepted, and expect to raise it in full. The Woman's Auxiliary of the Weaverville church had the December meeting with Mrs. J. D. Hampton with a very interesting Christmas program, after which a social hour was enjoyed by all. The Ladies' Aid at Clark's Chapel and Mt. Zion are wide-awake and doing a wonderful work which will be reported later. The Junior Auxiliary also of the Weaverville church will meet at the parsonage December 19 with Margaret and Juanita Harkey.

The pastor and family were very much surprised on the day before Thanksgiving when a large group of the good people at Clark's Chapel visited the parsonage and filled the dining table with good things to eat too numerous to mention, which we are still enjoying. Many thanks to the dear people of Clark's Chapel. We have a program for every church this year which we hope to carry out by the help of the Lord.

W. L. HARKEY, Pastor.

A SUPERANNUATE POUNDED

On the night of November 30 a large number of the good people of Mt. Zion church on this charge gave us a good surprise in the way of a generous pounding, bringing a variety of the much needed things of life, such as sugar, coffee, pork, beef, honey molasses, butter, Irish and sweet potatoes, pumpkins, soap, cereals, canned goods, some cash, and other things, all together amounting to a great deal in value. We very greatly appreciate it for this and even more for the spirit that prompted them to do it. It all makes us feel that we are among real friends. Bro. Morris is greatly appreciated by all the people here, both in the pulpit and the homes, and is doing a good work.

Wishing all a merry Christmas and happy New Year.

"THE CHRISTMAS LESSON"

The International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, December 22, 1935

By REV. J. ELWOOD CARROLL

Scripture Lesson: Matthew 2:1-12.

Golden Text: "Thou shalt call his name Jesus; for it is he that shall save his people from their sins."—Matthew 1:21.

The beautiful story recorded in Matthew is our Christmas lesson. For today we leave behind our historical friends, the prophets and leaders of later Judah, in order to study about the coming of Him for whom all Judah prayer and waited. We travel to Bethlehem in Judea to worship the Savior. He is not a king sitting upon a throne wearing a crown on his head and holding a scepter in his hand, but rather a lowly babe "lying in a manger." Great, indeed, is the mystery of godliness. Here we have the very Son of God appearing in human flesh under the most trying circumstances.

All the world nowadays observes the birth of Christ in what is known as Christmas. All people the world round, it is true, do not keep the observation in the same manner. Neither do all the people even in "Christian" America keep it in the same spirit. Some of us consider Christmas merely a prolonged holiday in which we do all the things we don't have time, or are afraid to do, during our business occupation. To those whom the holidays bear a religious significance, they turn instinctively to worship both in private and in public. Christmas is a time of giving rather than getting, a time for reconsecration of the self to Christ, and a time for the enjoyment of the stories told in prose, poetry and music, of the coming of Jesus.

The stories about the coming of Jesus are too numerous to study during a single lesson so we limit ourselves to the one in which the Wise Men visit the Babe in Bethlehem. This story is found in Matthew and Luke, but not in Mark, the earliest of the gospels, neither in John, the latest.

I. The Magi. The Wise Men, so Matthew tells us, were Gentiles from the East. They were wise men, versed in the knowledge of the Jewish expectation of a coming Messiah and also a knowledge of the heavenly bodies. By their much knowledge of the Jewish expectation we naturally would judge them to be Jews had Matthew not informed us otherwise. The conclusion is, therefore, that they had known well the exile Jews about whom we have been studying during this quarter.

After their visit, including the dedication of their gifts to the Babe, they quietly slip away. No definite facts of them are known to us. But the imagination of the poets and saints has made them live. If we turn to the poets we read such beautiful stories as "Ben Hur" and "The Other Wise Man." If we turn to the saints we read after the venerable Bede that they were three kings of Arabia, named Caspar, Melchior, and Balthasar.

Be the precise facts as they may, we shall hardly ever known them with certainty. This we do: They beheld the sign of God in the sky and followed it to the Savior of Men! No doubt thousands of others saw the same star in the heavens as these men saw it, but only these three saw it to the degree that they left all and went even unto Bethlehem to present gifts to the new King. The shepherds came but brought no gifts. The Magi came and gave!

How true is this of life. Constantly God sets this world ablaze with His presence, but so few of us really see Him. We apply the cold facts of science to His revelations, then quibble over the things learned. We take the blessings from God's hand as a matter-of-fact proposition. But thanks be to God, there are those who yet can stand in the face of God's revelation and remove their shoes in awe.

II. The Murderer. How like life, again, to behold in the story of such devotion the character of a murderer. The whole round of the earth seems to be made that way. At the very moment some men are rising to their mountain peaks of joy, others are slipping to the very bottom of disgrace. In the visit of the Magi the jealousy of King Herod is revealed. Little men are always nervous over their position. Truly great men never fear their position. Herod was a little man at heart and he was afraid of a rival king. Not only would he be a murderer in order to destroy his rival, but would lie to perform his plan.

But God thwarted his crafty intentions. The same God which had revealed the fact of the birth of the Savior to the Magi could also reveal His plan to them to save His Son. This He did. The Magi were instructed through divine revelation to return to their homes by a different route than the one used in getting to Bethlehem.

Herod's tribe is not dead today. There are those who tremble at the power of Christ's spirit. They conspire to crush the Christ through all manner of shrewd advertising, planning, and bribing. They oppose by ridicule and hatred the work of the church. They discount every good movement. They discredit every noble motive. By their constant shrewdness they maintain their kingship of ill-gotten wealth and power. The plan of a decent social order, motivated by the power of God's spirit, is surely to come to fruition in the round of daily living. God's spirit of life will triumph over that of the would-be murderer.

III. The Mother. In the background of the story for today stands Mary, the mother of Jesus. Little is said of her; but certainly to her the world owes a huge debt for nursing, training, teaching, and rearing this tiny Babe to manhood. Our degree of appreciation of her is most like our lack of appreciation of the noble women of today. If our daughters or sisters become great movie actresses we behold their pictures in the daily papers, on billboards, and on the screen. They themselves roll in wealth. We acclaim them our heroines. But what of the woman who subdues her body, develops her personality, retains her chastity, is given in marriage, then takes up the sacrificial work of making a home and bearing children? Poor, forgotten creature, so far as most of us are concerned. One sure road out of our present chaos would be the development of a nobler appreciation of the simple virtues of decent womanhood.

One sure road to personal happiness for you and me would be to take upon ourselves the same love that a mother has in brooding over a helpless babe. Her heart swells with joy because she gives herself to another. If Christmas means anything to you and me, at least in the original spirit of the Magi, it will be that of giving ourselves to some needy human brother.

Questions for Discussion

1. Do you think the Magi justified in their journey?
2. Which do you think has been most harmful to the worshipful spirit of Christmas: Pagan customs? Fireworks? Commercialization? Parties? Dinners?
3. What would you suggest as a means of getting back to the true spirit of Christmas, namely, that of worship and helpful service?
4. Why has the church lost much of its grip upon music programs for the Christmas season?

25-YEAR HISTORY

Mrs. W. C. Hammer and I are collecting material for a history of our first 25 years' service of the M. P. Children's Home which we hope to have ready for publication at the close of August 23, 1936. Will you help us?

We want small pictures and letters from each of the six women who founded the Home through the W. H. M. S.

We want the same from each matron that has come and gone, stating under whom you served.

We want pictures of each boy and girl who has gone out, also their families and a short letter telling who they married, about their children, business, how long they were at the Home, under what superintendent did you leave, etc.

We propose to have five chapters—Denton, Garrett, Lowdermilk, Allman, Dixon.

We regret we do not have Mr. Garrett and Rev. Mr. Lowdermilk to help us in this work, but we feel sure their wives will take their places.

We want pictures of the superintendents and wives also. We cannot put all these pictures in our history, but we want to make a family album to be kept at the Home.

We would like to include in this all the college students who have stayed in the Home.

You can see this is no small undertaking and if this is to be completed by August, 1936, we must keep busy.

If you are a boy or girl of the Home, please answer this is early as possible. If you know of a boy or girl who does not take this paper, tell them.

Pastors, you may have some of our children in your flock. Look out for them.

Any person who has anything of interest for this book, please send it in.

We may not be able to put in all but we will have someone or more to help us decide. Dr. Dixon's closing chapter will be of great interest, we are sure, as he is on the field and his report cannot be completed until the last day. But the rest of you please report as rapidly as you can. We do not want a single person left out. Each one has helped make history for the Home and M. P. denomination. This is the first Children's Home for our M. P. church in the world and the only one now, so far as I know.

Please send all reports to me.

MABEL WILLIAMS RUSSELL,
Trinity, N. C.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Pugh

Mrs. Letta Jane Allred Pugh was born September 19, 1853, and died at her home near Gray's Chapel November 13, 1935, at the age of 82 years, 1 month, and 24 days.

On November 3, 1873, she was married to Mr. Fillmore Pugh, and to this union 11 children were born, nine surviving, as follows: G. D. Pugh, E. L. Pugh, Mrs. R. P. Foust, Mrs. G. H. Hardin, Mrs. A. T. Nixon, M. A. Pugh, Mrs. R. H. Hackett, Mrs. I. E. Routh, and Mrs. J. G. Julian. She is also survived by 39 grandchildren and 31 great-grandchildren. In addition to these, her long life and gentle disposition have made for her many friends and neighbors who also mourn her passing.

More than 55 years ago she made a profession of religion and joined Gray's Chapel M. P. church. During these years she reared a large family of children, all of whom have made good citizens and substantial members of the church.

In the presence of a large congregation, her pastor conducted the funeral and her body was placed beside her husband in the beautiful cemetery at Gray's Chapel.

May the children and all who mourn be comforted with the thought that their loved one is not dead, but has just changed her place of abode. While the parting is sad, the reunion will be sweet. G. L. REYNOLDS

Thompson

Mrs. W. F. Thompson, age 75 years, passed to her reward Saturday, November 30. She had been an invalid for more than 10 years. She was patient in her affliction. In her passing Chestnut Ridge church loses another of its faithful members.

Near relatives remaining are her companion, Bro. W. F. Thompson; nine daughters, one son, 17 grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren. May His blessings be upon them all.

A large congregation assembled for the funeral services at Chestnut Ridge church December 2. These services were conducted by Rev. S. F. Nicks and the writer.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

Modlin

Mrs. Martha L. Modlin departed this life November 18, 1935, at the age of 75. She was a member of Fairfield Methodist Protestant church. She professed and joined the church in early childhood, always attending services when she could until her health gave way several years ago. Mrs. Modlin was a devoted mother and will be missed in the home.

She is survived by four daughters, Misses Kate and Agnes Modlin, Mrs. Ethel Wooten, of High Point, Route 3, and Mrs. Elna Mc Dowell, High Point; one brother, Mr. Will Coe, High Point, Route 3; two sisters, Mrs W. T. Dorsett, Greensboro, and Mrs. Kate Folwell, High Point; and several grandchildren. Her husband and only son preceded her three years ago. The funeral service was held at Fairfield November 20 at 2:30 o'clock by her pastor, the writer, assisted by Dr. J D. Williams, pastor of Welch Memorial M. P. church, High Point; Rev. E. W. Jones and Rev. C. K. Gentry, Wesleyan Methodist pastors of High Point.

The large crowd that attended the funeral gave evidence of the loss the community felt in her going. There was a beautiful offering of flowers. May the great Father in heaven care for and keep those who are so grieved. T. A. WILLIAMS.

Sykes

Miss Mary Sykes, daughter of the late John William and Ellen Sykes, passed to her reward November 18, 1935. Miss Sykes lived to be more than 68 years of age. She was a member of Chestnut Ridge church since early childhood. She was a faithful member and regular attendant as long as her health would permit.

Funeral services were conducted from the Chestnut Ridge church November 19 by her pastor, Rev. B. M. Williams, in the presence of a large group of sympathetic friends and sorrowing relatives. Later she was laid to rest in the church cemetery. Miss Sykes' six brothers acted as her pallbearers and eight of her nieces as floral bearers.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Charlie Allen, of Mebane, and six brothers, Ed, of Efland; J. F., of Oxford; S. B., of Hillsboro; A. W., of Mebane; D. M., of Mebane, Route 4, and L. C., of Mebane, Route 4, at whose home she died. MR. AND MRS. ED SYKES.

Eller

Lucius Fulton Eller was born June 29, 1861, and departed this life November 22, 1935 age 74 years. He was a native of Madison county and in early life moved to Buncombe county, where he spent the remainder of his life. There were five brothers and three sisters, all of whom have preceded him in death He was married May 1, 1904, to Miss Rebecca Brank, who preceded him in death two years ago.

He was the last member of his immediate family and is survived by a number of nieces and nephews. Brother Eller joined the Methodist Protestant church 26 years ago and was a loyal member until death. Uncle Lucius, as he was known, will be greatly missed in his home, church, and community, but our loss is his gain.

The funeral services were conducted at Clark's Chapel church Sunday morning, November 24, at 11 o'clock. The pastor, W. L Harkey, Rev. Homer Casto, and the Rev. J S. Williams, of Asheville, had charge of the funeral. W. L. HARKEY.

Williams

Thomas Edward Williams, 66, prominent resident of Chatham county, died October 26 at Watts hospital, Durham, after five weeks' illness. He was born and reared in Orange county, son of the late Winfield and Melissa Morris Williams. He was a member of Orange Chapel Methodist Protestant church.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Miss Manie Ferguson, and eight children, as well as a host of relatives and friends. Mr. Williams will be greatly missed in the church and community. To the family and loved ones we extend our deepest sympathy, and for them we offer our most sincere prayers.

Funeral services were conducted in the Orange Chapel M. P. church by Rev. T. J. Whitehead, assisted by Rev. J. D. Williams, of High Point, and Rev. George Perry, of Rocky Mount M. E. church. Interment followed in the church cemetery beneath a beautiful mound of flowers.

"Let all who are sad take heart again;
We are not alone in our hours of pain;
Our Father stoops from His throne above
To soothe and quiet us with His love;
He leaves us not when the storm is high,
And we have safety, for He is nigh.
Can there be trouble which He doth not share?
O, rest in peace, for the Lord will care."

A FRIEND.

Cates

Ednora Routh Cates, daughter of William and Martha Routh, and wife of W. M. Cates, deceased, was born September 14, 1872, and died at her home near Gray's Chapel church November 12, 1935. Her age therefore was 63 years, 1 month, and 28 days. Her husband died about 24 years ago.

We do not have the date of her marriage to Mr. Cates, but four children honored this union. Two sons, W. M. Cates, Jr., of the home place, and Wayne Cates, of Greensboro, survive. Lacy B. and Letta Gladys, the other two children, preceded her to the grave. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. A. M. Underwood, of Gray's Chapel, and one brother, C. F. Routh, of Troy, Montgomery county, North Carolina.

In early life she professed religion and joined the M. P. church at Gray's Chapel. Of this church, we are told, she lived a faithful member for more than 50 years.

To the children and all sorrowing relatives we extend the hand of sympathy. May the Lord not only comfort all who mourn, but may he keep us all by His grace, so that when our summons comes may we be able to go "not as the quarry slave lashed to his dungeon at night, but as one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams." G. L. REYNOLDS.

MARRIED

Furr-Starnes

Miss Ola Starnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Starnes, of Roberta, Concord, N. C., and Mr. J. C. Furr, also of Roberta, were quietly married at the Methodist parsonage in the presence of a few close friends, Friday evening, November 15, at 7 o'clock. The officiating minister was their pastor, Rev. Earl A. Cook. The groom is the son of Mrs. Pinkie Furr, of Roberta.

Immediately after the ceremony those present followed the bride and groom to the home of the bride's parents where a beautiful wedding supper was spread before a large number of choice friends.

After a motor wedding trip in the western part of the state they will be at their home in Roberta. Mr. and Mrs. Furr are promising young people and mean very much to their community and church. They are both members of Roberta Methodist Protestant church, and both hold very important offices in the church. The church as well as the community wishes for them a long and happy life.

DANVILLE	45
REIDSVILLE	42
ALBEMARLE	40

How the sands are shifting in this column! Last week Albemarle nosed out everybody else and took first place. This week Albemarle has to take third place, while Danville, the very newest church in the conference, steps up to the top of the ladder. But Reidsville is on the heels of Danville and so there is no place that can be certain of holding to top position.

Now let us look at the receipts column for this week. There is no doubt about who is in first place. Rev. J. M. Morgan and the Greensville people have a regular corner on first place. A few days ago Brother Morgan sent in 12 names to receive the paper for six months. They already had a few people taking it. So now there are more papers going to the Greensville work than at any other time since we have had anything to do with things in these parts. Well, congratulations, Greensville. Then, that young man, Dr. George R. Brown, at Reidsville, comes along with a great big check and takes second place. Next in line is T. S. Coble, of the Haw River church on the Glen Raven charge. His 10-year-old daughter composed the letter and wrote it and it is splendid. After this we have two five-dollar contributions, one by Rev. J. D. Cranford, of Vance, and the other by Miss Gertha Trogdon, of Henderson, which also happens to be in Vance county. Then Danville and Davidson bring up the next before we come to the one-year subscriptions. We are glad for every amount, whether large or small. BUT WAIT A MINUTE. Did you see that subsidy? Rev. B. M. Williams, the young pastor on Orange—he has been there only 12 years—sends us $11. Well, that is great. Our receipts this week amount to $81.96, $70.96 being on subscriptions and $11 being on subsidy.

Just this word of warning. Money is not coming in as rapidly as it was at this time last year. We must build up a reserve fund to tide us over the lean summer months. There will not be any paper printed next week but let agents and pastors keep right on working and let them have a long list for two weeks from now.
